Growing Children Need-- Butter

Growing Children need the food elements which good, gold Klemme Creamery Butter contains. Butter builds sturdy young bodies.

The Medical Research Council of Great Britain has published the results of a feeding experiment with two groups of boys under controlled diet. One group received butter, another group was given vegetable fats instead.

The butter group gained twenty-one per cent more in weight and twenty per cent more in height than the group receiving vegetable fats.

Do your children use plenty of wholesome Klemme Creamery Butter every day?

Klemme Co-Operative Creamery Co.

Henry Meyer, of Britt, County Attorney and a candidate for re-election to the office, was in Klemme on business this morning and also visiting with the voters.

Mushroom's Real Value

Mushrooms are a good source of vitamine B. Aside from the vitamine content, the nutritive value of mushrooms is small.

Failing of Genius

Do not be too much awed by genius. A good deal of it is a bore; some of it is not sense.—Howe's Monthly.

Speaking of Breaches

Florida's Big Lake

Lake Okeechobee, in Florida, is said to be the second largest lake within the United States.

Poets are champions of the truth—at least they frequently strike the lyre.

It is still undecided whether fishing for suckers is an obtuse or acute angle.

Quantities of Amber Found in Baltic Basin

Amber has been mined for hundreds of years in the so-called blue earth of the Baltic basin. It is classified as a fossil resin and geologists believe that several species of pines have had a part in the formation of the amber of the Baltic basin.

Pieces of amber are torn from the sea floor and cast up by the waves. They are collected at ebb tide by searchers who sometimes wade into the sea and with nets attached to long poles drag to the beach the seaweed containing entangled masses of amber. Dredges have also been used.

Lithuanian raw amber is the property of the government. Each finder has to deliver the pieces to administrators of the state's central depots of amber. Failure to do so leads to a charge of embezzlement.

Amber has found its greatest use in the fashioning of ornaments. Artisans who makes necklaces, bracelets and brooches turn the amber on a lathe and polish it with whitening and water, or with stone and oil, the final luster being imparted by friction with flannel.—New York Times.

When Armies Meet in Battle on Chessboard

The principles of chess are based on the struggle of every-day life. It is a battle between two armies of equal strength, fought on a field of 64 squares. Victory usually perches on the more proficient of the two generals in command. In a technical sense, the capture of the opposing king is not permitted, yet when the capture is inevitable, the game is ended. This fact seems to escape the recognition of many players, who direct their entire energies to the capture of pieces or pawns, when consistent play would indicate an easy road to victory through the medium of a checkmate. The temptation to proceed with the attack before all the pawns are in the field is a great one, but such premature attacks are usually abortive and frequently result in disaster. Chess literature abounds in examples of games in which disaster and defeat were a direct consequence of the failure to develop properly one or another of the pieces.—Exchange.

Blowing Hot and Cold

Doctor Slosson says that heat is measured as time is measured, only by its loss. When you blow through nearly closed lips the breath is expelled so rapidly that passing over the hand it cools it by evaporating the perspiration from the skin, whereas when you breathe upon it more gently from the open mouth the hand is surrounded by the warm air, and hence feels hot. If a thermometer were used instead of the hand, you would find that the effect in the two cases is the same, or often the reverse, because the thermometer has no moist skin and registers the actual temperature instead of merely changes of temperature.

Original Olympic Games

The most famous of the four great national festivals of the Greeks was the Olympic games. They were celebrated in the sanctuary of Zeus at Olympia every four years, but, owing to the fluctuations of the Greek lunar calendar, the time varied from the beginning of August to the middle of September. Olympia was situated in the Pisatis, the southeast district of Elis at the junction of the Cladeus with the Alpheus. It was never a town but only a sanctuary with the buildings connected with the worship and the games.

Perfect Will

The will of Chief Justice White has been considered a perfect example. It contains but 51 words. It reads: "This is my last will. I give, bequeath, and devise to my wife, Leita M. White, in complete and perfect ownership, all my rights and property of every kind and nature, whether real, personal or mixed, wherever situated, appointing her executrix of my estate, without bond and giving her seisin therof." A will should be properly signed and witnessed.

Full-Dress Rehearsal

An old actor-manager died, or at least his relatives thought he had died, and arrangements were made for the funeral.

On the appointed day one of his old colleagues arrived to pay his last respects, but, to his astonishment, the would-be mourner was informed that the "deceased" had come to life after a period of coma.

"Just like Bill," said the visitor, "he was always a terror for rehearsals."—London Tit-Bits.

The Advisory Brigade

Did you ever notice that it is the men and the women who have not made monumental successes—in fact, those who have been practical failures—that are always the freest in telling business people just how they should run their businesses? Most people who succeed have to stick to and look after their own businesses very closely, hence have no time to spare to attend to the affairs of other people.—New Albany Tribune.

KLEMME SCOUTS ATTENDED AREA WIDE COURT OF HONOR

Troop 56 First Aid Team Lost By Small Margin For Second Place

Nearly all or the Scouts and several Scouters of Troop 56, Klemme attended the Area Wide Court of Honor held at the Armory at Mason City last Friday evening, for Scouts of nine North Iowa counties.

First Aid Team Did Well

Although Klemme's First Aid team failed to win the championship cup for First Aid work, they put up a good exhibition and lost by only a fraction of taking second place in the contest. Troop 36 of Hampton won the contest, with Troop 12 of Mason City for second place.

The Klemme team was composed of Byrnes Missman, Paul Sampson, Asa Gibbs, Harold Jost, Dorance Day and Kenneth Kluckhohn. The latter two Scouts alternated on the team for afternoon and evening. The boys are to be complimented for their work and put n many hard, long hours at the work, as also did the other competing teams.

Wilbur Arnold and Paul Sampson were awarded their First Class Badges at this Court of Honor. Several other Scouts will be First Class for the summer camp. The whole Troop expect to make their heaviest advancements during camp this year.

Several new members have been added to the Troop recently, and there is still room for more boys of twelve years of ag or over to join. Any boys interested see one of the Scouts or any adult member of the Troop.

GIMER TOOK BAND BOYS TO WATERLOO SATURDAY

A. D. Gimer drove to Waterloo Saturday morning and took with him the following boys, members of the Klemme school band: Dorance Day, Paul Hughes, Kenneth Patet, Franklin Kluckhohn and Thomas Gimer. The boys were to join the Mason City school band there, under the direction of Mr. Storer, who also instructs the Klemme band. Each year Mr. Storer's band goes to Waterloo for a day of fun.

When the Klemme boys arrived in Waterloo they tok in the sights at the Electric Park and had a big time. After dinner they joined Mr. Storer's band and all played in front of the Paramount Theatre, and then were guests of the theatre and enjoyed a good show.

After the show teh band boys all went to the Electric Park and had a glorious time.

The Klemme band boys say they sure had a fine time.

RAISE PIGS WITHOUT YEAST

In no cornbelt experiment station trial has yeast treatment of feed proved profitable in the raising of pigs, when compared with a good untreated ration. Yeast may or may not have some slight value as a digestive ad, but the cost of yeast and the labor and equipment cost incurred in feeding the yeast has made the cost of yeast treatment of feed for pigs much greater than any advantage gained.

The short week or ten day comparisons sponsored by salesmen and others of yeast treated oats with other good rations rely on the "fill" secured by feeding warm wet feeds for this short period for the favorable results shown in the yeast lot. In no case has a thirty day or longer feeding trial shown results favorable to the yeast.

The extravagant claims of salesmen that yeast converts oats hulls into proteins or takes nitrogen from the air and turns it into proteins have of course no foundation in facts.

CORNER STONE FOR NEW M. E. CHURCH LAID SUNDAY

Supt. Lease, Of Algona, Delivered Address At Services

Despite the threatening weather, and dampness and cold Sunday a large crowd turned out to attend the special services for the laying of the corner stone for the new Methodist Church. There were a number of visitors from nearby towns who also came. The services were held at the site of the new building and began at 3:00 o'clock. A male quartett composed of M. F. Penrod, Emil Patet, A. Wellemeyer and Ralph Ludeke furnished some fine music. Rev. Van Metre, pastor of the Methodist Church at Garner gave a prayer and was followed by a Scripture reading by Dr. Lease. Rev. Van Metre also extended words of greetings from the Garner congregation. Rev. C. H. Moore, of Wesley, and Rev. J. C. Snyder, of Belmond were present and brought best wishes from their congregations.

Dr. Lease, Dist. Supt. gave a very fine address, which was followed by the laying of the corner stone by our local pastor, Rev. H. E. Whyte. Various articles of interest and church records had previously been inserted in a special compartment of the stone and sealed in.

The services were brought to a close by a song by the quartett and the benediction by Rev. Moore.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new church and the building is gradually taking shape.

IDEAL SPRING FOR TESTING OF TREATED CORN

Cold, Rainy Weather Will Show If Corn Is Protected In Plots

It seems to me that if the dust treatment of corn ever was tested out it should be tested ths spring. With this cold weather if treating for diseases is what it should be next fall will tell the story. With the two corn tests plots, one at S. A. Barber's and the other at Oscar Gorman's where seven varieties of treated and untreated corn were planted we will have some rather definite data on varieties, fertilizers and dust treatment. The Gorman test plot was planted only last week which gives another check on time of planting as the Barber test plot was planted on the 3rd of May.

Barker Is A Good Farmer

For good methods we must take off our hat to A. L. Barker who certainly has a real cropping system which has increased his soil fertility His small grain and corn is certainly coming fine. He also has plenty of hay the year round with the 16 acres of alfalfa. He has 18 acres of beets which in spite of the weather is nearly weedless.

Farmers Will Fight Thistles

The following farmers are going to fight their Canadian Thistles and Quack Grass with the Sodium Chlorate spray Howard Barger, V. A. Cook, Fred Arnold, Chas. Grau, Albert Abele and W. L. Lawhorn, Jr None of the farmers have many thistles or a great deal of quack but what they have are due for a killing. There are others who will be using Sodium Chlorate and for their benefit we wish to state that the Farmers Elevator in Garner will have a limited supply. The Wilson Pharmacy in Klemme as well as the druggists in Garner and the Botsford Drug Store in Britt will handle the chlorate. These business men have secured their stock from a carload shipment which means cheaper chlorate for those of you who place your orders from any of the above named merchants.

Chris Back Has Speedy Mules

Chris Back has been hitting the corn planting at top speed with his fast walking span of 1500 pound mules. Vic Meyers certainly has a nice shelterbelt started on his new farm which he will move on next year. If he farms as efficiently on his own as he has his rented farm success is assured.

Boys Are A Real Help Here

Herman Ahlstrum, east of Goodell, doesn't find work piling up on him although he has a large farm. With four husky boys capable of doing any kind of farm work they certainly get crops in in a hurry. Chas. Nedved is another party that has been more than successful with his farming occupation. He, too, must give his children a lot of credit as hs boys are a large factor on the 370 acre farm. He plans on ueng Sodium Chlorate on a few patches of thistles that have appeared this spring.

Here's A Hint To Dairymen

Dean Gilbert who is herdsman for the Hastings-Quintus Dairy herd is following a wise practice. After cleaning the barn, he sprnikles lime over the floor and gutters which removes all the odor from the premises.

A Well Equipped Dairy Barn

Any of you wishing to visit a well equipped and convenient dairy farm certainly cannot go wrong in visiting the farm of Hatten and Holm northwest of Britt. Otto Nelson, herdsman, has his hands full caring for the 32 cows that are now milking, along with 28 head of calves and two-year olds. They plan to keep each stanchion filled with cows that are milking which calls for 40 cows as the dairy barn has two rows of 20 stanchions each. The cows do not want for feed as they receive a balanced ration made up of alfalfa hay, ground oats and corn and silage. Next year they will have soybean hay in addition to the above. When you know that 46 acres of alfalfa are found on the farm you do not wonder that they never run out of hay.

Don't Forget Weed Meeting!

In closing, we again want to mention the weed meeting at the Court House in Garner at 8:00 p. m. May 28th, and the wool pool shipment on June 11th. Don't fail to attend the weed meeting and to list your wool with the township director of the wool board or the Farm Bureau Office.

GOV. KENDALL ENDORSES TURNER FOR GOVERNOR

Des Moines, SPECIAL:

Governor N. E. Kendall, taking the political platform for the first time in recent years, over WHO last week, delivered a vigorous indictment of the "special interests" which are opposing the candidacy of Dan Turner for the governorship, and branded Ed M. Smith as the "off again, gone again, Finnegan" of tax reform in Iowa.

"Not every man who opposes Turner is subservient to the influence of corporate wealth; but every man who is so subservient is against Turner. Not every man who is against Turner is a fetch and carry for crooked business; but every man who is a fetch and carry for crooked business is against Turner. As Dolliver said of Theodore Roosevelt on a memorable occasion:

"'We love him for the enemies he has made'.

"No lobbyist for venal legislation, no 'bird dog' for any special interest seeking to exploit the people, no agent for any combine avid to enrich itself at the expense of the taxpayers, need apply. These gentry understand the situation, and their absence from the Capitol will be conspicuous while Turner is Governor. When he is denounced as dangerous by groups who scheme to prostitute the law to their own profit, I do not deny the indictment. Of course he is dangerous—to every form of wrong, to every type of scoundrelism, to every species of rascality. He will administer the office, not from the headquarters of any utilities company, but from the state house in Des Moines, where his doors will be wide open to welcome the counsel of the people of Iowa, whose servant he will be.

"The same men and combinations who opposed so bitterly the federal income tax are striving desperately for Turner's defeat at the Primary. Let there be no mistake about that. Who are these men and combinations? The answer is obvious. They are the men and combinations of vast wealth, who, under the present system are enjoying the blessings of government but who are escaping their legitimate share in the burdens of government.

NATHAN E. KENDALL

One of Turner's opponents, in announcing his own candidacy for the Governorship, said:

"'In principle an income tax is fair and just, in that it imposes on the individual his share in the cost of government in proportion to his ability to pay. We should raise a part of our state and local revenue from an income tax."

"Excellent, indeed, if the candidate had adhered to it. Did he change his base after a conscientious re-examination of the question, or was he constrained by notice that the large interests which are supporting him frown upon an income tax? In any event, within less than a month, he somersaulted, and in a speech at DeWitt—

"'Mr. Smith told his listeners that he has been called a foe to the proposed income tax. He admitted the charge.'

"One of Smith's last utterances on the subject of taxation is even more astonishing than anything that has gone before. He has discovered at the eleventh hour that with the present machinery of assessment, levy and collection, three times the sum total of the taxes now gathered by the treasury may be realized; and he broadly hints that the existing law has not been intelligently and fearlessly enforced. This is an impeachment of every taxing authority in the state, himself as a member of the Executive Council included. I wonder who imposed a fairy story of that transparency on the candidate. Such a bonanza, even if it could be secured (and every man beyond the Kindergarden knows it is impossible) would only stall-feed the tax eater while further exhausting the taxpayer. What we are suffering from is not that we collect too little, but that the amount we do collect is not equitably distributed over those against whom it ought to be levied. And this is a reform to which Turner is pledged in no uncertain phrase to establish.

"Turner always says what he means and means what he says, and nobody is ever in any doubt as to his attitude. He knows that real estate in town and country is excessively burdened, and that incomes and intangible wealth are not responding with their just proportion toward the expenses of government. He is therefore demanding a complete revision of the present antiquated tax system.

"He will enter upon his duties unembarrassed by the vicious knowledge that any corporation, foreign or domestic, has contributed a penny to the expenses of his campaign. He will be exactly the same man in the Executive office that he was before the state convention years ago, when he said in a notable address:

"'I voice the sentiment of the private citizen. I plead for the man who toils—the farmer, the laborer, the mechanic, the tradesman; the men in every walk of life who, without display or pretension, are effectively doing the world's work.'

"In that brief epitome he summarized his own creed, and that of the great party to which he is so devotedly attached. Able, honest, sincere, courageous, faithful—is Dan Turner. That is the reason I am for him for Governor of Iowa."

Impossible

A certain celebrated actor was stopped as he left the theater one evening and a pretty girl pinned a crimson carnation in his buttonhole.

The actor was very pleased with himself and thought no more about it. On the following morning he received a note from the girl asking him to send her a couple of seats.

With a grim smile the actor wrote to the pretty girl:

"I should be delighted," he said, "but on personal investigation I find all the seats screwed down."

Where There's Smoke

Junior was out walking with his mother one of the first cold mornings of the winter. He looked in amazement at what appeared to him to be smoke coming from his mother's mouth when she spoke.

"Look at the smoke coming out of your mouth," exclaimed the little two-year-old. "You must have swallowed a little piece of fire."

Untimely End to Lives of Brave Adventurers

It is remarkable how few of the eminent men of the discoverers and conquerors of America died in peace. Columbus died broken-hearted, Roldin and Bobadilla were drowned, Ovando was harshly superseded, Les Casas sought refuge in a cowl, Ojeda died in extreme poverty, Encisco was deposed by his own men, Nicuessa perished miserably by the cruelty of his party, Vasco Nunez de Balboa was disgracefully beheaded, Narvaez was imprisoned in a tropical dungeon, and afterward died of hardship, Cortes was dishonored, Alvarado was destroyed in ambush, Almagro was garroted, Pizarro was murdered, and his four brothers cut off, and there was no end to the assassinations and executions of the secondary chiefs among the energetic and daring adventurers.

OPEN SEASON SUNDAY

The Bayside Amusement Park at Clear Lake will be opened next Sunday, May 25th, for the 1930 season, according to J. J. Shea, the new manager. For several weeks a crew of men has been working in the Park to get things in readiness for the opening date. Buildings have been repaired, remodeled, painted and decorated, and many changes and improvements have been made since last season. Several thousand dollars have been spent to put the Park in a finer condition than ever before.

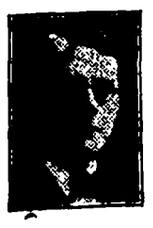
Next Sunday the entertainment concessions, including the merry-go-round, roller coaster, little train, fun house and aeroplane swing, will amuse the visitors for the first time this season. A number of new entertainment concessions have been added to the Park since the 1929 season.

The skating rink, which was opened two weeks ago, will no doubt draw many enthusiasts all day of the opening. The rink has recently been improved and good music is provided for those who enjoy the sport. It is open every afternoon and evening.

The picnic grounds, tables and children's playgrounds, which are free to everybody, have been fixed up recently and are now ready for the opening day at Bayside Sunday.

There will be no charge for entering Bayside Park on the opening date, Manager Shea has announced.

Gilchrist's Agricultural Record



STATE SENATOR FRED C. GILCHRIST, of LAURENS is a candidate, in the Republican primaries, for the office of Representative in Congress from the tenth district. His record as a state legislator in farm matters is summarized in the following excerpt from the editorial columns of the Algona Advance:

"In these late years when Iowa has needed courageous and able leadership in the legislature he has been on the job. There is a record behind him which assures that if he is sent to congress he will stand effectively for what we want.

"In the legislature some of the laws written by Senator Gilchrist ware:

"The Farm warehouse act for the storage of grain on the farm in licensed warehouses, whereby money can be loaned on farm warehouse certificates.

"The Butter bill prohibiting the use of oleomargarine in all state institutions and requiring the state of Iowa to patronize its own dairy interests.

"The Gilchrist amendment to the state constitution providing that no single county can have more than one state senator, thereby preserving representation in the senate to the raral districts.

"The Crop Pest act to prevent the introduction into and dissemination within the state of the corn borer and other crop pests.

"Senator Gilchrist also actively supported many other measures which he did not himself write or introduce, such as the act creating the state department of agriculture; the law denouncing the sale or the keeping for sale of adulterated dairy products; appropriations in support of various farm activities such as the extension work of Ames college, including 4-H club work and the like, and appropriations for research work in poultry disease control whereby Iowa will be able to combat threatening menaces to the poultry industry.

"In the last legislature the Senator helped draft a House resolution providing for the appointment of a special legislative tax committee; and he prepared and introduced in the Senate the substitute for this resolution, under which that committee is now functioning and collecting information.

"This represents far from all the Senator's legislative activities, but the record is sufficient to recommend him to the people. Of the three candidates the Senator is the only one with such a record behind him. Since he has been a leader in the legislature and has stood for the people's interests, it would seem wise to trust him with the congressional seat rather than choose a man without a record and whose stand on the issues of the day is unknown."

As the Election draws near, it is time to explain in part my intentions if elected Sheriff.

In the first place I am in favor of the 18th Amendment of the Constitution of the United States and its enforcement.

I am opposed to minors being allowed in pool halls and gambling houses, and to anything that would lead young people into crime of any kind in this county.

DANNY JOHNSON'S BARN BURNED TO THE GROUND

The barn on the place farmed by Danny Johnson, on the Ventura gravel road north east of Klemme was destroyed by fire Sunday morning.

Mr. Johnson had been in the barn at about 9:30 o'clock that morning when he went into the house . At about 10:00 o'clock he saw the barn a mass of flames and was unable to save anything. A horse that was in the barn was killed. Other contents of the barn were all destroyed. A corn planter about ten feet from the barn was so hot it could not even be dragged to safety.

Help was called and a large number of people soon gathered to help protect the other buildings.

Mr. Johnson does not know what caused the fire, and he did not notice any smoke about the farm when he left the barn that morning.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING WHILE PLANTING CORN

While planting corn on his farm last Thursday, Carl Pearson was evidently struck by lightning, or at least received a part of the bolt.

Mr Pearson was planting corn when a thunder shower came up. The next thing he knew he was ying on the ground, alongside the planter and his team was also down. He was quite dazed, but able to sit up after a few minutes. He thought the horses were dead, but they came too when he slapped them with his hand. He was able to drive them to his home when he went to bed and a doctor was called. There were marks on Mr. Pearson's arm and shoulder that would indicate he had received a severe electric shock. The lightning may have struck and followd the planter wire, or might have struck nearer in such a way as to knock out Mr. Pearson and his horses. At least he livse to tell the story.

A couple of weeks ago the little boy suffered a severe attack of the measles from which he did not fully recover and which left him in a weak condition and other complications set in and appendicitis developed and it was necessary to perform an operation at the Mercy hospital at Mason City.

Why Not Use Process Of Elimination

With six men in the field for the Office of Sheriff; and six men in the race to fill two offices as supervisors, it looks like a lot of votes are going to be wasted on the nine men in these groups who are going to be left behind, at the best, and possibly all twelve will be the losers, if someone does not get the required 35 per cent of the votes cast for the nomination.

A good way to help nominate the men would be for every voter to sit down and figure the thing out. Take a pencil, a piece of paper and a list of candidates. Start on say the list for Sheriff. Strike out the name you think has no show; go to the next and so on until you have eliminated all save one of two. Then vote for one of those left. Go to the next list, say the supervisors. Eliminate all until you have about three left, then vote for two of the three.

This scheme might work out if used. Consider of course the men who are best fitted, the chances they have of carrying your own community, the townships where the votes will be considerably split. This process might work to avoid the convention settling the matter. We voters should do the nominating if possible and not leave it to a few to settle it at the convention.

Pick your candidate and go to the polls and support your men Monday. Get out every vote in your own home.

Don't forget there will also be a ballot to vote on the bond question to complete the paving across the County. If you are for good roads vote for it. If you want to ride over bumpy gravel roads for a few more years here's your chance to say so. At any rate VOTE one way or the other.

Marie will be a Freshman in high school next year and will try to go through the high school with a perfect attendance record.

School Picnic Held Friday

A large number of people attended the annual school picnic which was held in the park this year.

There was plenty of food for everyone and all had a fine time. A ball game in the afternoon between the high school and town pick-ups furnished entertainment. The pick-ups beat the high school 6 to 5 in a seven inning game.

RECORD ATTENDANCE AT THE REFORMED BIBLE SCHOOL

The attendance on the opening day of the Reformed Vacation Bible School was 102, the largest enrollment the School has ever had. Rev. Grosshuesch states that he expects this number to increase as some did not begin on the opening day.

The Bible School is held each morning from 8:00 a. m. until noon with a morning recess. The school will be held for five weeks this year.

The teachers assisting Rev. Grosshuesch with the work are, Norma Stromer, Ethel Barz, and Lucille Kraus.

BAND PLAYERS NOTICE

All old band members are asked to play with the school band on decoration day.

Bring your instruments to the Park.

OTHER KLEMME SCHOOL NOTES

(By Supt. M. F. Penrod)

The school year of 1929-30 at Klemme is now history. A class of ten from our own eighth grade will enter high school next September and as many or more will, no doubt enter from outside our school district, making a Freshmen class of twenty or more. Last year was the largest school Klemme has ever had from standpoint of enrollment. 92 were enrolled in our grades and 80 in our high school, making 172 in all.

Of those enrolled in high school 41, or more than half, were from outside Klemme district. Receipts from outside our school district this year will exceed $4,000.00 in tuition.

If school continues to increase in numbers at the present rate, our high school accomodations will soon be inadequate. Our assembly room will soon be too small and another teacher will need be employed to grant students the choice of electives we have hitherto been able to offer.

Seniors Were Good Students

As was announced at the Commencement program, Clarice Wellemeyer was honor student. She graduated with more than the usual number of semester credits, 34 or 35, and still maintained a higher average than any other of her class. Her size, her fine appearance, attractive personality, and intelligent ability should spell for her marked success at whatever she undertakes. Clarice is to be congratulated on her fine high school record.

We have been reminded that some are interested in who the second place winner was in the Senior Class. That honor goes to Jane Dutheridge, another girl of the class. Jane is a country student of fine manners, good appearance, and pleasing personality. Senior instructors of last year tell us tho class was on the whole above average. Altho two girls of the class led in scholarship, yet everyone of the four boys displayed good ability and it reflects to Otho Kraus' credit that he was voted sometime ago by the whole high school the most representativ high school boy. Raymond Barz has been one of our outstanding orators, whil Wayne Pavey when a Freshman, excelled the whole school in a reading contest. Allan Klotzbach has made a wonderful improvement these past two years in both scholarship and school attitude, besides being one of our high ranking athletes. Reva Elder and Carri Swalve, we learn, ranked well in scholarship. Both Carrie Swalve and Lela Bachman are to be commended for the brave spirit in which they both carried on after being grief stricken through the loss of a parent. Valeria Koerner was awarded this year one of the Gold Medals for good work in public speaking. Edna Nelson, Elsina Albers, Lois Church, Gertie Trampel and Helen Lemke, very dependable country girls will not be forgotten for they all have ability. Best of luck to the Class of 1930!

THE JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

(Too Late For Last Week)

The Junior-Senior Banquet was held on Friday night, May 16th at the school house and was served by the Royal Neighbors. The high school girls with the help of Miss McGinnis did the decorating which was very attractive and pretty. The centerpieces on each of the three long tables represented a body of pal blue water, on which were small boats, with trees along the edges. At each end of the tables were Kewpies and candle sticks and table bouquets of tulips, and with the hangings above made a very beautiful scene.

Thirty two partook of the banquet and ten were served cake and ice cream who belonged to the Hamilton Orchstra of Mason City, who provided the music.

The R. N. A. received a lot of praise for the fine meal they served.

AN ANSWER TO MR. WILLIAMS' CRITICISMS

In the issue of April 2nd of the Garner Leader Editor Williams says "it is a case of farmers farming the tax payers to the benefit of their own pocketbooks and to the expense of the rest of the county."

I would say I dont know what Mr. Williams means by it as I have the first time to take a dollar that don't belong to me.

Mr. Williams further criticises the Board for holding adjourned sessions. In answer to this I wish to state that there are only five regular meetings stipulated by law to be held during the year and the Board finds it absolutely impossible to carry on all the business in these five meetings.

Mr. Williams' criticism of the pay the Board receives is not made with full knowledge of the facts. I believe were Mr. Williams on the Board he would expect a reasonable compensation. The reason my compensation was large was because last year the grading machinery was in my territory most of the time and it required my personal supervision.

Mr. Williams grows curious as to why the Board requires bonds be furnished by local men. In explaining this I would say that never but once was a clause inserted in a notice for letting requiring contractors to get bonds from local men, and then unbeknown to the Board.

In answering Mr. Williams' attack on the Board in reference to the decorating of the court room will say that Mr. Andrews had twice before decorated the room and his work was so satisfactory we employed him again. The work not only included the painting decorations but it required a good deal of repair work as the walls were water soaked because of a leaky roof and some of the walls and ceiling had to be relathed and replastered before this work could be done.

Williams asks "how did the Board of Supervisors happen to pay George Little $3258.00 for road work done on the Kanawha-Corwith road without having some o. k. by the Highway Commission?"

I would answer that by saying that the first contract that was let after I got on the Board, on the road between Crystal Lake and Britt, which is only nine miles in length, cost the county $54,000.00 to grade and gravel, which is $6,000.00 per mile. The second contract was let between Hutchins and Corwith. That was let at 20c per yard and cost the county approximately $900.00 per mile.

The Board was not satisfied with this because of the cost, because the tax payers of the county were continually asking that more roads be built. For that reason the Board hired Mr. George Little and his excavator and tractor by the hour, to cast in the road from Corwith towards Kanawha, which in our judgment is not violating the law. And this road was built for approximately $400.00 per mile with a better grade than the road that was built at $900.00 per mile at 20c per yard. The Highway Commission sent their district engineer to approve of this grade. He approved every foot of it and gave the Board of Supervisors a "feather in their hat."

Calls Board Gunshy

In a later issue Williams called the Board of Supervisors gunshy because they did not call a special election on the road bonding. Mr. Williams perhaps did not know that this election was set for Primary Election day. By waiting until the primary election the Board has saved the expense of a special election and will get a much larger vote out than would be possible in an election held for this sole purpose.

Who Played The Joke?

"Now that the conglomerate Board of Supervisors has spent a large amount of money for expensive machinery to care for the roads formerly under the control of Township Trustees, the people of the county are commencing to realize what a joke the Board of Supervisors have played on them."

The above is a quotation from the Garner Leader of May 21st. In answer to this we would ask Mr. Williams who made the law and imposed this additional road work upon the Supervisors?

Mr. Williams also stated that the present Board of Supervisors bought three machines to care for the Township roads. In answer to this I will say the Board has nine machines to care for these roads besides a number of farmers who are employed to drag different parts of the roads in the county. The Board may not be taking care of the roads just as Mr. Williams would like to have them but we hope to have an organization soon that will.

Mr. Williams says that "in many ways our present Board of Supervisors lack the sagacity of a ten year old youngster." In answer to this it is not for Mr. Williams to judge but I will leave it to the voters of Hancock County.

An Explanation

I am now going to tell why Mr. Williams does not like the present Board of Supervisors.

Mr. Williams bought the Garner Leader about five years ago and about a year later purchased the Garner Signal. Then on the following January filed application to have his two papers named as official county newspapers. But the Board of Supervisors found that he had identically the same subscribers on both lists, and would not reach any more subscribers by designating both of his papers than by designating one. In this case the Board of Supervisors designated the Garner Leader and the Britt News-Tribune as county official newspapers. By so doing we reach approximately 1500 more subscribers than by designating the two Garner papers. Shortly after he filed suit in contest but later came in and paid the costs and dismissed the case before it was called up for trial.

A little later the Board found that Mr. Williams was overcharging for county printing. The Board then appointed Mr. John Ford and County Attorney V. S. White to go into the records and take out all the printing bills for the past five years and have them audited. After these bills were audited the Board found that Mr. Williams had overcharged $201.73, which is on record that Mr. Williams paid back to the County Treasurer.

Last winter Mr. Williams made a trip over east taking a man with him, who was taken sick. Mr. Williams had to hire a special heated car with a driver and attendant to bring the sick man back to Garner. This cost Mr. Williams between sixty and seventy dollars and he filed a bill with the county for reimbursement. The Board laid this bill over for investgation since they had an understanding that the sick man was in Mr. Williams' employment.

The Board also had a bill at their April meeting from Mr. Williams which was overcharged $9.00 and this was deducted from the bill before allowed.

You can readily see why the relationship between the Board and Mr. Williams is not the best.

Yours truly,
A. O. CHRISTENSON, Supervisor.

An Open Letter to the Voters

Britt, Iowa, May 28, 1930

My Dear Voters:-

I find it will be impossible for me to meet you in person and I presume you are aware that I am a Candidate for Supervisor of Hancock County and I ernestly solicit your support and if nominated and elected I shall at all times work for the interest of the tax payers as I am a meavy tax payer myself.. I am in four drainage districts with my lnd, I have some feeling what paying taxes means.

I am Treasurer of the Farmers Industrial Union of Britt; Director of Britt Co-Opeative Ceamery and have been President of Britt Township School Board. In each case I have served for a good many years. Have been a member of the Farm Bureau since its beginning.

I have a family of seven children, all grown up, four of them married and farming for themselves.

Am contemplating quitting farming, feeling that I should be of some service to the county, I am asking the voters for their support at the June 2nd Primary that I may serve through the Supervisorship.

I am living north of Eagle Lake and have been living there for the last thirty-four years and in Hancock County for forty-eight years, and have never asked the voters for an office.

Therefore I again respectfully ask the voters for their support. Ithank you,

Yours very truly,

WM. JAKOUBEK
FOR SUPERVISOR

To the Republican Voters of Hancock County

We, the Farmers of Garfield Township—Frinds and acquaintances of Will Jakoubek, Candidate for the office of Supervisor of Hancock County, hereby wish to impress on the voters the importance of their selection of the right men for the office of Supervisors.

We do not doubt the intelligence and the ability of the people of this County to use their best judgment in heir choice of the best men among the six candidates—providing they personally knew all of them.. But we do know that there is a large number of voters in the County who do not personally know all of them, and perhaps many others who do not know any one of them. And to those we say, take the advice of those who know Will Jakoubek and cast your vote. vote for him next Monday. Will Jakoubek who is comparitively young, a man in the prime of life, has lived and farmed in this county all hs life.. He has been successful above the average in the pursuit of farming. Whatever he undertakes in the management of his farm, he did it with zeal and intelligence which assured success.. As we understand he is about to retire from farming and as we know him he will by no means remain inactive.. Whether elected Supervisor or not his energies will be put to use in someway—why not then entrust him with the office of Supervisor and the important affairs of he county which would be to the best interests of all farmers and townsmen as well.

Mr. Jakoubek did not seek the office himself, but was persuaded by his many friends to become a candidate. And not until recently has he become active in the campaign. He did not meet many of the voters as h was very busy with his work on the farm.. Therefore to all those who do not know him personally we wish to say this: He is honest and courteous in every way, and well qualified for the office of Supervisor. (This article inserted by his friends wthout his knowledge.)

PROTEST AGAINST MORE NEW TAXES

Opposition to Proposed Income Tax, Which Would Create Hundreds of New Jobs for Political Workers

Widespread protest against the addition of any more new taxes to Iowa's heavy burden of taxation is coming to light in the governorship campaign now in progress. That opposition will be crystallized in the vote on primary election day, Monday, June 2.

The two leading candidates for governor, Ed. M. Smith, present secretary of state, and Dan W. Turner, are as far apart as the poles on this question. Mr Turner is going about the state urging the adoption of an income tax. Mr. Smith is opposed to such a tax or any other new tax, for he believes it would merely add to our tax burdens.

"The trouble with Iowa," says Mr. Smith, "is that one-half of the wealth of the state is carrying the entire tax load. Farms and small home properties are bearing a tremendous burden which must be reduced. What sense is there in seeking to impose another tax on the people—a tax cleverly disguised as a replacement tax, but which would merely act as a further drain upon the pocketbooks of the people?"

The "Replacement" Fallacy

Ever since the campaign opened Mr. Turner has been trying to make the farmer believe that an income tax would "replace" some of the tax on his farm. Yet he has failed to point out a single state in which this has happened. Mr Turner gets his taxation theories from Wisconsin, yet the farmers of that state have found out to their sorrow that in spite of an income tax their property taxes have grown by leaps and bounds The Wisconsin farmer is paying more taxes today than ever before in his history. The income tax has not "replaced" a cent of the property tax in that or any other state. It would not do so in Iowa. There is every reason to believe that the farmers of Iowa, who are naturally interested in a question which directly affects their income and living expenses, have come to the same conclusion held by Ed. M. Smith—that Mr. Turner's income tax would simply be an additional tax, a means of raising a few more million dollars for the legislature to spend.

What is Back of It, Anyway?

Just what is the motive behind this clamor for a new tax? Is it the prospect of creating a huge new department of government, with hundreds of jobs as rewards for political friends? The state of Wisconsin pays out every year the sum of $470,000 to administer its income tax. That, mind you, is what goes to the employes on the permanent pay roll. It is not known how much more goes to temporary help and per diem employes. It would take literally hundreds of workers to administer an income tax in Iowa, and they would have to be paid out of the public treasury by the taxpayers of the state.

The statement was made not long ago that one out of every eleven people in the United States is supported by the taxes of the other ten. Are we in Iowa going to create another new tax-eating bureau in order to create jobs for a small army of political hangers-on? Does the road to economy lead that way? How much longer can Iowa go on, creating new commissions and boards and departments and adding to an already top-heavy tax burden, before something gives way? What sense is there in berating the legislature for extravagance so long as the people keep on voting more money for it to spend? Every new tax is just another tax, that's all. It means more expense, more salaries, more expense accounts, more inspection, more red tape.

Few Will Escape Tax

Mr. Turner is trying to make the farmer believe that if an income tax is adopted, the farmer will not have to pay it—that it will be paid by the people who live in the towns and cities. Iowa is an agricultural state, with comparatively few factories and industries. If the income tax is going to be made to yield any considerable sum of money, that money will have to come out of the pockets of the people of small means. A man or woman with an income of $500, $1,000 or $1,500 per year will have to contribute. It may even take the form of a head tax—so much per capita per year.

An Army of Inspectors

Do not confuse a state income tax with the federal income tax. They are two different things entirely. Federal income exemptions are very high. State income exemptions would have to be very low in order to raise the amount of money desired. The state would reach into the pocketbooks of the farmer, the working man, and all other classes of moderate means—or else it wouldn't secure enough money to pay the cost of administering the law. This would mean another flying squadron of inspectors traveling over the state, visiting the farms and homes and checking up on individual incomes. The farmer couldn't sell a hen or a hog, a pound of butter or a dozen eggs, without keeping track of it and counting it as income. At the end of the year he would have to make out an intricate report, and if it did not prove to be correct to a cent some inspector would come out of Des Moines and go over his books with a fine-tooth comb. It would prove to be the biggest nuisance on the place.

Ed. M. Smith says there is no necessity whatever for more new taxes in Iowa. There is plenty of money in the state, he insists, for all the needs of government, without looking for new sources of revenue. His remedy is sensible, simple and practical and ought to appeal to every man and woman who believes in economy in public affairs.

Mr. Smith says that first of all we should equalize the property assessments in Iowa. Everybody knows how unequal and unjust these assessments are. It is not strange, either. There are nearly 2,500 assessors in Iowa, faithful, honest men who use the best judgment they have. But they do not all have the same opinion of the value of property and their estimates naturally vary. A standardization of assessments would remove much of this inequality and enable every taxpayer to stand upon an equal footing with his neighbor.

WHAT IOWA EDITORS SAY

Mr. Turner is not saying one thing today and the contrary tomorrow. In the Corning candidate there is stability. If he is made governor he will stick to what he said as a candidate. —Algona Advance.

The growth of sentiment for Dan Turner for governor is the most significant fact in connection with the approaching primary. In this locality at least it appears that he will simply sweep the election. Dan is a man who has the confidence of the average man on the street and on the farm. He is not a professional office-seeker and he is not running for personal gain. He has fought in the open for a square deal for the farmer and taxpayer in years gone by and he has a constructive program to offer in his present campaign. It looks now as though he will likely be the next governor of Iowa.—Times-Republican.

A "Turnor for Governor" club is being proposed in this county. Other counties are organizing. The sentiment seems to be strong in most every part of the state. Here in this county the sentiment seems very strong. The county is practically united for the Corning man. Men who have differed on other things are now working together in an effort to elect Dan Turner. The people of Iowa have an opportunity to elect a man who is honest, able and fearless. His election simply means a business administration instead of a political one. Dan Turner has been called the farmer-merchant candidate. The reason for this is that he is interested in both.—Star-Enterprise, Afton.

From our various exchanges we gather that Dan W. Turner is having no trouble whatever in convincing the people of Iowa that he is the logical candidate this year for the nomination for governor on the republican ticket. His stand on the income tax as a replacement tax and his strong statements regarding the needed retrenchments in the wholesale spending of tax money is so absolutely sound that he will appeal to the big property tax paying population as the logical man to represent them on the head of the republican ticket this coming fall. We predict that Dan W Turner will win the nomination by an overwhelming majority in the June primary.—Vindicator, Casey.

Mennonite Colony in America in Year 1662

Mennonites first appeared in America about 1662, when a band of 24, led by Pieter Cornelius Plockhoy, organized a settlement, but it was not until a century later that the cult became firmly established.

The settlement, which was one of the early plans for the occupation of the Delaware by any of the European sectarians, did not last. Plockhoy, with his 24 followers, made a contract with the Burgomeisters and Regents of Amsterdam, for the founding of a colony "in any part of the district of this Colonie wherever it may please to lie, as they shall be willing to cultivate and pasture."

After adopting various rules and regulations, the colony was broken up by the English under Sir Robert Carr in 1664, and nothing whatever is known of the fate of members of the colony. It is stated that Plockhoy, the leader, and his wife, arrived at Germantown in 1694, after having wandered in the wilderness for 30 years, and were given a home by the Mennonites at that place.

THE HUMAN SIDE OF ED. M. SMITH

Product of Iowa Prairies, His Life Story Pulses With Heart Throbs.

Every man and woman in Iowa should know the interesting home-life story of Ed. M. Smith, republican candidate for governor. Iowa-born, the pioneer son of an immigrant father, his whole life is full of the color of early Iowa and the success which comes to a man when character and opportunity meet. The little Irish lad who had to quit school when he was twelve, who raked grain by hand because his folks were too poor to buy a rapper, who never had a store overcoat till he was almost grown, certainly did not foresee the day when he would be able and enthusiastic about putting four daughters through college. In the days when other people were doing a lot of fancy talking about the rights of women, Ed M. Smith was digging down into his pocketbook. Money was not any too plentiful when he sent his first two daughters to school. It is quite a job to send even one child, but he took on the task of sending two at the same time. His faith in his women folk has been rewarded, for one of his girls, Mrs. Gorman of Winterset, Iowa, has complete charge of her father's paper. This is no light trust, for the Madisonian is one of the most substantial newspaper properties in the state. Smith enjoys her success. Every week during his term as secretary of state he runs down to see her. "At first there'd be a basket of letters, heaped up and running over", he said, "but now there is hardly ever anything. She takes care of it all."

ED. M. SMITH

"But weren't you afraid?" he was asked, "to turn over so valuable a business to a young woman?" Smith twinkled. "Did you ever see a mother pigeon crowd her babies off a ridge pole? That's the way they learn to fly. The little pigeons cling as tight as they can, they dig in their claws, but they have to give way". Evidently the woman angle to the question did not occur to Smith at all. He talked of his daughter just the same as though she were a promising son.

The Smiths have a great respect for the courage of their women folk. One of Smith's favorite stories is about his three aunts. They came over from Ireland, one at a time, and by engaging in domestic service, each in turn saved enough to bring over the next younger. Ed. M. Smith's father was the youngest in the family, and all three girls pitched in to bring him to this country. These are the beginnings which put power in a man's arm. A sturdy strain, this family loyalty. And Smith's father was worthy of his sisters' sacrifice. He learned to read and write in night school. He broke the virgin prairie that roads and schools might blossom. He helped Ed to learn his A, B, C's, from the old Maquoketa Excelsior. Ed. still remembers the Nasby letters that his father liked and saved from the old Toledo Blade.

The germs of public life were planted very early in Ed. M. Smith, entirely unbeknownst to him. And back of it, the three old aunts, those gallant Irish girls.

And besides respect for the courage of women, Ed. M. Smith learned tenderness, too. His mother was a semi-invalid following his birth. Thus it was that he made the breakfast, he kneaded the bread, he brought in strings of sunfish, because it was his mother's favorite, and he washed the dishes. It was all right about everything but the dishwashing. There were three brothers, all older, and this ancient and honorable task was passed from one boy to the next. Ed, being the youngest, and there being no sister in the family, simply had to bathe the crocks and that's all there was to it.

But he was happy. All pioneer boys did these things. He saved string like the other lads and made his own baseball. He engaged in cob fights and became expert in that game where you sneak up on a swarm of bees and swat one before the bee gets the idea. He wore leather boots with red tops and copper toes, and froze his toes regularly. Overalls were not common. The boys shoved their shirts down inside their home made trousers and the dream of their lives was to own a pair of felt boots, for felt boots were warm.

"We didn't feel abused or unhappy" said Mr. Smith. "We all lived the same. We had lots of good food and lots of fun. But to spend money for playthings or for pleasure in any form was just unthinkable. We didn't have any money. What a boy carelessly spends in a month now would keep a pioneer family a whole year. I think we were happier because we did have to make our own fun. We had to use our wits."

And then indeed, a big smile spread over Ed. Smith's happy face. He was recalling the time, forty years ago or so, when he and his three brothers started the empty threshing machine on Sunday to the great horror and indignation of his Presbyterian papa Separators, the old style horse power type, were noisy in those days, and the good man's shame could be all over the township.

But the ordinary joys of pioneer boyhood were not enough. Inspired by his girl cousin who was teaching school, and his older brother, we find him returning to the school room at the lanky, unsatisfied age of seventeen. School in those days was divided in two terms, winter and summer. Ed never attended a summer term again after he was twelve. Not even in later years when he was teaching. He taught the winter terms when the pay was bigger, the classes bigger and the pupils older and more ornery. Schools were not graded, pupils studied what interested them, and due to the system of boys helping with the farm work during the summer term, they were often twenty-seven years old before they finally quit struggling with the three R's. But Smith was equal to the job.

The family by this time had acquired the luxury of a riding plow, and he mastered the art of staying on and studying his ancient history at the same time. Short periods at Dexter Normal School and a fall term at Drake University brought him a little closer to his goal. He still remembers the teacher's examination at the old state capitol, writing two full days on eighteen subjects. He has always been a man driven by an inner urge. Perhaps it is ambition. Perhaps it is a feeling that there is something new and beautiful over the next hill. Perhaps it is the thrill of achievement. He wasn't content to be a country school teacher. So he hitched up the old horse and buggy and waded through the plowed field and asked the farmers to elect him county superintendent. He was twenty-two when he started teaching, and twenty-eight when he became head of the school system in Madison County.

Meanwhile, he had started sending in news items to the Winterset Madisonian. They were pretty good news items. Homer Thompson, then editor and owner, liked them and he liked Ed. M. Smith, too. He invited the young man to enter a partnership. A lot of things happen all at once. Here are a few short years when life is almost a little too crowded. He has married charming Evelyn Crossley, his fellow teacher, and had his first two daughters. He becomes sole publisher of the Winterset Madisonian. He struggles through lean years of family illness, great competition (four papers in one county seat) and the lack of money. But he keeps hanging on, just like he used to hang on the plow when digging into his books, and it all comes out all right. He isn't ever quite satisfied, he is always reading more books and talking to more people and going to more places. Roosevelt appoints him postmaster, the rival newspapers drop out, he becomes president of the Iowa Press Association, he goes to the state senate for five successive terms, fights for code revision, and has a wonderful time.

Ed. M. Smith has the same feeling for the state of Iowa that a man has for his family. He has helped shape its destinies, both physical and mental, since the early days when he grubbed out land on his father's farm to the later days when he fought for his principles in the senate. A youngster who was brought up in those pioneer times when twisted paper tapers took the place of matches and when boys saved string for long months in order to have a baseball, has a different feeling toward money than the present generation. To this day Ed. M. Smith has a vivid memory of his father digging down, very deep, once a year, to pay the ten per cent. interest required on a few simple articles of absolutely necessary farm machinery. He made his big fight for the budget bill. And there you are. He is thrifty, likes to get the full value of his money, and gives full value too. All pioneer training.

"If I am elected governor, my wife and daughters and my grandchildren will get more kick out of it than I shall. When the night of June second comes I shall sleep as peacefully as I ever did in my whole life." But don't believe it. A man like Ed. M. Smith gets a lot of kick out of everything he does. That's why, at the age of fifty-nine, he is still tramping, fishing and hunting. He carries a couple of crooked baseball fingers as evidence of his love for the great American sport. He has grown with his times. He is just as modern as the youngest executive in the state and with it all he has the soundness of experience and the dignity of complete honesty. He could go anywhere and Iowa would always be happy and proud to call him her own.

Mr. Smith is proud of his entire family, and is never as happy as when they are all together. In speaking before a group of Polk county women, two weeks ago, he stated that his family consisted of three grandsons, four daughters, three sons-in-law, and one wife.

The two elder daughters, Marion and Ruth, were graduated from the state university of Iowa in 1921. The former was married to John Gorman of Ruthven and they have one son John Edward, and is called Edward after his illustrious granddad. They reside at Winterset. Ruth married Dr. Paulus K. Graening of Waverly, and they reside in Oklahoma City, and have a year and a half old son David.

A younger daughter Frances after receiving her degree in 1925 was married to Wesley Fry of Hartley, and they, too, reside in Oklahoma City, where Mr. Fry practices law, and is keeping up with his football training, by coaching in a high school. Their year and a half old son is called Jimmie Wes.

The youngest Smith daughter, Dorothy, is completing her Freshman's year work at Grinnell college. The three sons-in-law also attended Iowa University, Mr. Fry receiving a degree in law, and Dr. Graening in medicine. Mr. Gorman has a general insurance agency in Winterset.

During these years that Mr. and Mrs. Smith have been educating their children, they made their home hospitable, and various groups gathered there, during vacation time. Mrs. Smith, like all mothers, and like her husband, is never as happy as when the children and their friends, and now their families, come home.

The children are planning one of these joyous occasions on June 1st, which is their parents' 32nd wedding anniversary.

The event will be celebrated in the Smith family home at Winterset. It is believed by the whole family, and all their Winterset friends, a most happy augury of success for the following day, which is election day.

To the votersof Hancock County

In the spirit of justice and fairness this advertisement is prepared and paid for by friends of Bruce Orr, candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of Sheriff.

When Mr. Orr accepted the Deputyship under former Sheriff E. H. Wahlert, he did so with the understanding that he would be retained in that position for the customary two erms or four years ordinarily accorded a county official.

Mr. Wahlert's untimely death caused a vacancy in the office of Sheriff of Hancock County.

It would have been but common courtesy for the board of supervisors, whose duty it was to select a successor to Mr. Wahlert, to name Mr. Orr as Sheriff. However, the board saw fit to do otherwise.

Not one word of criticism is heard of the manner in which Mr. Orr has performed the duties of his office as deputy sheriff, and his ability as a law enforcement officer has been ably demonstrated.

Mr. Orr is now a candidate for the republican nomination to this office. He is entitled to your support, and we, his friends, urge that you place a cross in the square opposite his name when you cast your ballot at the primary election, Monday, June 2, 1930.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

CHEMICALS WILL BE USED TO KILL NOXIOUS WEEDS

Sodium Chlorate Can Be Purchased At Several Places In County

5,500 pounds of Sodium Chlorate have been purchased for weed killing by farmers in Hancock County. This amount and probably more if it can be secured is to come off the carload shipped into Mason City to be used by farmers in Cerro Gordo, Hancock, Winnebago, Butler and Floyd Counties. The following dealers are handling it in Hancock county: Wilson Pharmacy, Klemme; Farmers Elevator, Garner; the Botsford Drug Store, Britt; and the Johnson Drug of Kanawha. Johnson of Kanawha received a ton from the carload and is going to try to get one or two more tons. The present supply is practically gone but those wishing it can get it from the above dealers or Farm Bureau Office. However, the price will be higher than that obtained from the carload.

Looking Ahead A Year

Albert Kudje is already preparing for another year as he is testing soil now for his legume crops next year If he needs lime he is going to apply it early this fall. Some farmers are going to apply limestone on corn ground now that it is to be used for legume crops next spring. Putting the limestone on before the corn is too tall to drive thru is a satisfactory practice.

John Lauen of near Goodell has purchased two drums of Sodium Chlorate, one to be used by himself and the other by his father. Ge. Campbell is using the same practice on a few small patches of thistle on his farm.

Is Raising Beets This Year

George Gray is going to be kept busy this year with 15 acres of beets, 65 acres of corn and the rest of the 195 acres in small grain, hay and pasture. He states he is going to do most of the weeding and thinning of the beets himself, which certainly will keep him busy.

Pheasants Damage The Corn

Many farmers are having trouble getting a good stand of corn and some have had to replant due to the pheasants. The writer has witnessed farms on which the pheasants certainly have played havoc with the young corn. Other farmers are replanting because of a maggot that is boring into and killing the seed. The office has sent to Dr. C. J. Drake, of Ames, a few kernels of corn that have the maggot in them to have it identified so that if possible control measures can be taken in another year. Between the pheasants and the worms the corn crop is certainly a worry. Many farmers are trapping the pheasants which, when sent to the Fish and Game Department at Des Moines will net one dollar per bird. Before shipping the birds one should get in touch with the office and we will have special built crates to be used in shipping the birds sent direct to you. The special crate is padded so that the pheasants will not knock their heads off in transit.

Better And Better For Avery

The Avery Township monthly meetings get better and better as the months roll by. At their last meeting nearly 150 persons gathered at the home of Harry Ostendorf where an educational, social and recreational program was conducted.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE HERE ATTENDED BY LARGE CROWD

Chaplain Of 108 Infantry Delivered Wonderful Address

The Memorial Day Services were held in Klemme at the Park Friday afternoon beginning at 2:00 o'clock. The program which appeared in the Times last week was carried out in detail.

A few minutes before the program began at the Park the parade formed at the Northern Lumber Co. and marched to the Park.

Rev. Grosshuesch gave the invocational prayer, which was followed by the singing of "America," by the audience and led by Mrs., P. W. Johnson.

The Klemme School Band, reinforced with a few "old timers" gave a patriotic number.

Mrs. A. R. White read "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address," in a forceful manner and bringing in the history of this famous manuscript.

The Camp Fire Girls, under the direction of Miss Blank sang two numbers, which were greatly enjoyed by all.

Post Commander, Dwight Osborne introduced the speaker, the Rev. De Loss Markan. Chaplain of the 168th Infantry and pastor of the Collegiate church at Des Moines. Rev. Markan gave a fine address in which he stressed that preparedness was the surest way of enjoying peace

The services at the Park were concluded with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," by the audience.

Veterans Were Present

Seats of honor were reserved in the speakers stand for Veterans of the several wars, and their wives. Klemme was honored this year by having Lew Lewis and wife and Sam Eckman. These fine old gentlemen are veterans of the Civil War. Mrs Schaefer, of Forest City, a Civil War Veteran's wife, and Mr. A. B. Kelley, Cival War Veteran were also present on the speakers stand. Mrs. Ed. Schaefer, a Gold Star Mother and her husband were present. Mr. Henry Jost, Spanish War Veteran, and wife were present, as well as another gentlemen whom we did not know. Others on the program were likewise on the stand.

Following the services at the city Park the parade formed and marched to the Cemetery where graves were decorated under the direction of the Auxiliary, and services were conducted by the Legion. A Salute in honor of the soldier dead was fired by the Firing Squad, after which Scout Kenneth Kluckhohn sounded "Taps" on the bugle, and Scout Kenneth Patet returned the call on his bugle as an echo. This concluded the services.

There was a large crowd present and many visitors from surrounding towns. The parade aws well represented by the several organizations who appeared in uniforms. There were the Legion and Auxiliary, Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls in uniform.

The Scouts had charge of the Flags for the day.

DICKINSON WINS OVER HAMMILL

FRED GILCHRIST TO TAKE L. J. DICKINSON'S PLACE

Hanson, Klipping, Thompson Win . County Sheriff—Supervisors

Monday's Primary election is now history, and what a relief it is to be able to sit back and quit wondering who will be nominated.

Dan Turner of Corning put it all over Ed. Smith of Winterset for Governor of Iowa, winning by approximately 3 to 1.

Dickinson Is Nominated

Congressman L. J. Dickinson, of Algona went away ahead of Governor Hammill in the race for U. S. Senator. Iowa farmers can feel pretty good about having "Dick" at Washington again. And with Gilchrist as Congressman in Dick's place we should feel quite safe, as Gilchrist is for the farmer!

Gilchrist Wins 10th District

Fred Gilchrist, of Laurens nosed out by a good majority, Larrabee of Fort Dodge and Goldthwaite of Boone for Congressman frm the 10th District. Gilchrist is a Farm Bureau mau and strnog for co-operative movements. He should be a good man to step into Dick's shoes and keep up the good work Dicinson is doing for the midwest.

County Election Exciting

Outside of the U. S. Senate race, the Governorship and Congressman battle, the primary held little of interest to the voters of the county. The big question heard every day was, "Who will be nominated Sheriff?" Can anyone get thirty-five per cent with six in the race? Or, Who will be nominated supervisor? This was something no one could decide before the election, and it loked like the County Convention would have work to do.

Hanson Wins For Sheriff

Peck Hanson, Garner, demonstrated a real come-back in his race for Sheriff with five others in the field, and winning the nomination by an overwhelming majority with 1807 votes as compared with the next highest of 967.

Thompson And Klipping In

There was a real race among the supervisors, with six men running for the two offices. Klipping of Madison was the high man, with Thompson of Kanawha nert in line. The others were all quite close.

For County Attorney Henry C. Meyer defeated L. C. Beaumont.

For Representative S. B. Durant of Madison defeated Chris Nelson of Garner. The other county offices were unopposed.

Read The Complete Returns

The Times eleswhere publishes the complete returns of Hancock County. The returns are tabulated and all votes for every candidate are clearly shown. This return is semi-official and is subject to correction. However it is quite accurrate, having been received from the County Auditor.

FOLLOW UP MEETING FOR SOUTH ELL WAS HELD

The follow up meeting for the south half of Ell Township was held at the home of Mrs. Carl Wille on Thursday, May 29.

The leaders gave a very interesting demonstration on how to serve a formal, a semi-formal and an informal luncheon.

As this was the last meeting on "Second Year Nutrition," delightful refreshments were served.

Hancock County will take up the "Third Year Nutrition" course next year.

Achievement Day will be held at Britt in June.

ATTENDED COMMENCEMENT AT MORNINGSIDE COLLEGE

Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Whyte left Monday afternoon for Manson for a short visit with friends and from there they drove to Sioux City to be present at the Commencement of Morningside College. They were back in Klemme again to continue the Bible School this morning.

Rev. Whyte said this was the first commencement he had attended at Morningside since he himself was a graduate, and he enjoyed it very much.

While in Sioux City he also attended a meeting of the Northwest Iowa Conference.

WEED ERADICATION MEETING

R. H. Porter, plant pathologist, from Iowa State College was in the county on the evening of May 28 to conduct a weed eradication meeting. Sixty trustees and weed commissioners were present and left the meeting with a much better understanding of our weed problem and the methods of eradication. Mr. Porter outlined and discussed our four classes of weeds, namely: annuals, winter annuals, biennials and perennials. He stressed the fact that the weed eradication program cannot be put over in a day or a week but requires the cooperation of each landowner, tennant and property owner in town. A weed demonstration is planned for each township in the county, using various methods of control such as fallowing, summer fallowing between crops and using Sodium Chlorate.

Keep The Cream In A Cool Place

Milk and Cream are regular meeting places of odors—just like the old fashioned store used to be for villiage loafers. They gather, the good and the bad, and the only way to keep milk and cream free for odors is to keep them away from it.

Milk and cream should not be stored in musty cellars or in cellars where the odor of vegetables are strong as they absorb odors like a sponge absorbs water, and for this reason it should not be stored in the kitchen.

Make of your milk house a shrine for the milk and cream alone and don't permit the men to store their boots, overalls and harness in the milk house and then expect to market a quality product—"It can't be did."

When the saying was coined, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness," the fellow who sprung it must have been thinking about milk and cream.

Help make the butter manufactured at this creamery stand for the very highest quality.—Thanks!

A picnic lunch will be enjoyed by all at noon.

The purpose of the Home Project work this year has been:

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

RAINFALL OF PAST WEEK HAS MADE FIELDS WEEDY

Many Acres Of Corn In County Had To Be Replanted This Year

The past week has added not only rainfall but weeds and more weeds. The corn crop over Hancock County is looking good only the weeds are getting a good start and the worms, pheasants and maggots have done their share to cut down the stands. As all over the State Hancock county farmers have had to replant many acres of corn due to the maggot. Word from Dr. C. J. Drake of Ames states that the maggot lives for two weeks and the only solution is replanting He states that so far no preventative measures as to treatment are known The maggot is much more prevalent in old seed corn.

Howard Has Foxy Horses

Howard Spitler, as well as others, have found that his horses are feeling a little too good, resulting in a badly twisted and broken cultivator due to a run-away.

Has Fine Stand Of Alfalfa

Clyde Marshall is not going to be without plenty of hay as he certainly has a real stand of new alfalfa coming on. More and more farmers are beginning to realize the advantage of a few acres of alfalfa which is shown by the increase in alfalfa acreage all over the county. We are glad to welcome Robert Marshall in the Sow and Litter Club and Billie Utterback in the Dairy Heifer club.

First Cross Is Pork Producer

R. R. Lemke states that he finds the first cross produces him more pork per sow but would not advocate a second or third cross.

Mrs. J. N. Steil finds that the home grown feeds and skim milk make a very good ration for chick production.

Too Much Rain Picnic Day

Thursday of last week would certainly have been appreciated a great deal more if the weather man had done his part instead of trying to drown the 2,500 men, women and children gathered at Eagle Lake State Park for the annual Farm Bureau Picnic. I, for one, wouldn't care about going back there when it rains, not even if the road leading to it were paved.

LAST CALL FOR POULTRY CULLING AND DIPPING!

It is to be expected that 30.000 birds will be culled and dipped in Hancock County this season.

The culler, Mr. Gorling, will start work the last of this week or first of next. Many have already listed their flocks for the culling and dipping but I am sure that there are others who have intended having the work done but have, to date, neglected to list their names at the Farm Bureau Office at Britt. Remember that your flock, as most do, need the dipping, and culling, to weed out the non-layers. The charge is two and one-half cents for Farm Bureau members and three cents for non-members.

Don't put it off. List your flock today for this work at the Farm Bureau Office.—County Agent.

KLEMME LOCALS

Miss Glenna Gruetzmacher, who is a student at Drake University at Des Moines, came home to spend the week end. She returned to Des Moines Monday evening to take up studies in the summer school. She will teach in the high school next fall at Dows and will have charge of English Classes, Music and Glee Club work.

The Times Office is now all dolled up. We recently had George Lawhorn put on some fancy paint which is all daubed up like a wild dream. Then A. Wellemeyer came along and put up new window shades of a light color, spit on the floor and said we needed new linoleum. He swiped our type measure and calculated what was needed for an artistic job. The linoleum has arrived and is now reposing on our office floor. It is real stuff and laid right. Mr. Wellemeyer knows his onions on laying inlaid linoleum. First he cleaned up the floor good (it needed it), then cemented down a layer of linoleum felt and then cemented the linoleum to he felt, making a thick one piece floor which is both nice to gaze upon and walk upon. It is a good cure for sore feet or corns. Now if we had sent to Shears Sawbuck for it we would have been laying linoleum yet. No need to go to the city to have this class of work done. Mr. Wellemeyer has demonstrated that he knows how. Come in and look it over if you want to see what a good job he did.

Miss Mabel Schaefer will teach at Meservey next year; Ethel Wellemeyer at Titonka; Elvira Stille at Floyd, and Adolph Lauritsen will be the superintendent at Ledyard. He expects to attend summer school at Colorado.

STRAWBERRIES WEIGH FULL 20 OUNCES TO QT.

A quart of strawberries should consist of 20 ounces net, or about 21½ ounces with the box, according to a report of a state inspector to officials of the Retail Merchants association. Boxes of strawberries have been sold in Mason City in the past week which had only 16 ounces of fruit, it has been learned. Consumers are urged to check on the weight of the berries when they are purchased. A slightly lower price will mean nothing, it is pointed out, if the weight is considerably less than it should be.—Globe-Gazette.

THIRTY 4-H CLUB GIRLS AT AMES CONVENTION

Hancock And Black Hawk Two Counties 100 Percent

The Hancock County delegation of thirty who attended the State 4-H Girls Convention at Ames last week returned Friday. An abundance of 4-H spirit must have been collected, for as tbe hus drove thru the Garner business district, the strains of the "Iowa Corn Song" were heard.

Sixteen hundred and thirty-five 4-H girls and leaders met at Ames Monday for the 3rd annual State Convention. A very interesting and educational program was arranged and among the speakers were Dr. Daniel G. Glomset, Des Moines, who has charge of the Health Contest conducted at the State Fair; Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Miss Nellie LerHolt in charge of the department of psychology at Stephens College, Colombia, Miss Elaine Massey, State 4-H Leader from Mississippi, and Mrs. Pauline Devitt, member of the State Board of Education.

Penn College Glee Club and orchestra of Oskaloosa presented the opera, "Martha." This opera has been studied by 4-H girls in the state in connection with their regular projects. As the saying goes, "Seeing is Believing," so the year's study of music ended at a great climax.

Hancock and Black Hawk counties received the honor of being the two counties in the state to be 100 percent standard.

IOWA- BOUNTIFUL LAND

By George Gallarno

"IOWA is our home state Let's boost it," is a slogan conspicuously placed at the entrance to the rooms of the East Des Moines. It is a slogan that should be posted in every public building, in every factory, in every business house, in every home in the state and in the hearts of all the citizens of the state.

IOWA has what the nation needs If it is corn, she raises more than any other state. If it is meat she supplies one-fifth of the market of the entire country. If it is butter and the products of the dary, she is second only to Minnesota If it is coal she mines it. If it is eggs, she can serve two on toast to the rest of the country almost any day. That which want, ask of Iowa, and ye shall receive.

IOWA produces one-fourth of the bacon that graces the breakfast tables of the whole United States.

IOWA has an annual corn crop that in value exceeds that of any other state in the union by more than $100,000,000.

IOWA has, at Cedar Rapids, the largest cereal manufacturing plant in the world, a plant that makes a home market for more than one-third of the grain crop of the state

IOWA has, at Cedar Rapids, industrial plants that consume one and one-half million tons of raw material annually.

IOWA has, at Cedar Rapids, the great Masonic library of the world with a total of 35,000 printed volumes and manuscripts.

IOWA manufactures over $5,000,000 worth of agricultural implements annually

IOWA railroad shops, manufacturing and repairing engines and cars, employ steadily more than 1,000 persons.

IOWA foundry and machine shops manufactured $20,000,000 worth of products last year.

IOWA bituminous coal produces more pounds of steam per dollar of cost than any other fuel for the purpose. Authority, the Iowa Stationary Engineers' association.

NEW PUMP JACK BEING INSTALLED AT WATER PLANT

The council recently purchased a pump jack to replace the worn out affair at tho water plant which has given long and faithful service but is on the verge of giving much trouble. The new jack arrived a few days ago and is being installed by workmen now. The job is expected to be completed by Friday.

The new jack is double acting, and should prove quite satisfactory on our type of well.

The council saved considerable money by looking around, as the jack they purchased had been in use but a short time on a city well and was later replaced by a faster rotary outfit. The jack is practically like new.

EARLY CULLING PROFITABLE

Gets Rid of Loafers, Saves Feed and Makes Room for Pullets

Early and severe culling of the laying flock this summer is recommended by W. R. Whitfeild, poultry specialist in the Extension Service, Iowa State College.

Large numbers of early chicks, which make good fall and early winter layers, an increased output by hatcheries of 20 percent the past spring and the usual number of birds in the laying flock point to a possiblo over-production of eggs next fall, says Mr. Whitfeild.

By culling early the owner will get rid of the non-producers, save feed for which low priced, eggs will not pay, and will have the old, unprofitable birds out of the way of the pullets. The flock should be culled about 50 percent during the summer if production is low, says Mr. Whitfeild. These birds should not be dumped on the market all at once, but should be sold gradually.

COUNTY AGENT ADVISES ORCHARD COVER SPRAY

Rcen cool weather has retarded codling moth development so that the first worms will be entering the fruit about June 15th. To control this first brood, apply a spray during the week of June 16th.

If scab is showing on the leaves, spray all trees, whether they have any apples on them or not. If no scab is on the leaves, spray only the fruit. Be sure it is well covered.

Use 1 to 1½ pounds of lead arsenate plus 3 pounds of dry lime sulphur (or 4 quarts of the liquid form) to 50 gallons of mixture. You may reduce the lime sulphur 50 per cent if you add 5 pounds of hydrated lime.

If the apple maggot gave you trouble last year, the only safe way of control is to spray about every two weeks from now until August 15th.

The Klemme Dairy Dollar

Each year the creamery of Klemme pays Thousands of Dollars or more to the dairy farmers for Cream. Payment is made semi-monthly, or oftener, if desired.

These dollars do not stay long with the farmer. He puts them into circulation at once, paying his bill with the grocer, the physician, the hardware dealer — n fact the Dairy Dollar finds its way into every channel of local trade and helps maintain all forms of business and industry in Klemme.

Prices which the Creamery pays for cream are not governed by the Creamery itself. They are based on the market price for butter, and any increase is passed at once to the daiy farmer.

In Iowa, during the last twenty years, those communities which have dairy farming and dairy manufacturing for a back-ground have suffered lest from business depression.

For some years it has been the custom o the many members of the Hancock County Far mBureau to hold a picnic at Eagle Lake State Park, an event which is enjoyed by them.

SECOND ANNUAL YAHNKE REUNION HELD IN MINNESOTA

Klemme People Reported Fine Time At Picnic At Elmore, Minn.

The second annual Yahuke Reunion was held at Woods Lake, near Elmore, Minnesota Tuesday, June 19th, and in spite of the threatening weather 107 relatives from Iowa and Minnesota gathered for the big day. There were present 18 visitors.

After the usual greetings the big dinner was served Next came the big annual ball game between Minnesota and Iowa players. Last year the Iowa corn huskers won but this year the Northerners carried off the honors. However Iowa came back strong in the pulling contest as they had the champion "Draft Team."

There were all kinds of races also for ladies, men, children and grandpas. H. P. Yahnke won in this last division.

The Clan Is Growing!

Five new members were added to the Yahnke Group; one by marriage, Bernice Palmby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Palmby, who was married to Mr. Chase of Garden City, Minn. Four births were recorded. They are Clarence Junior Larsen, Klemme; Ronald Royce Yahnke, Buffalo Center; Mary Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Yahnke of Good Thunder, Minn.. This gave H. P. Yahnke the title of "grandpa;" and a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schaeper of Rake, Iowa. There were no deaths during the past year.

Nick Ell Still Progressive

There was one outstanding improvement noted in the appearance of one member of the 'tribe." E. G. Ell's mustache attracted comment, favorable and otherwise.

Officers Are Named For Year

Mrs. H. P. Yahnke is President and Mrs. E. G. Ell, Secretary and Treasurer for the coming year.

Ice cream and cake was served later in the afternoon after which the gathering ended to meet again next year.

When painting woodwork or furniture, coat with vaseline the knobs, locks, and any other surface you do not want painted. The paint can be easily wiped off if it splashes on these surfaces. A little soap underneath the finger nails, too, will keep the paint from lodging there.

Phosphates often help to get a stand of alfalfa or other legumes.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

NOW IS THE TIME TO KILL THE WEEDS IN OUR COUNTY

Weed Killing Demonstrations Held The Past Week In County

The past week has been devoted entirely to demonstrations for the eradication of Canadian Thistle and Quack Grass. It is really surprising and not at all encouraging to drive about the county and find so many Canadian Thistle. I hope, but I doubt very much, if there are any farms in Hancock County that are entirely free from the Thistle. The writer drove by one farm that had nearly 80 acres of Thistle. Some of the 80 was in oats, some in corn and some not farmed at all. Now is the time to combine our efforts and eradicate as many as possible.

Cut Thistle Now To Prevent Going To Seed

If you will cut your thistle or spray them with sodium chlorate right now, you are sure of one thing and that is that they will not go to seed However, just cutting them does no destroy the root system which can and will shoot up new plants. The demonstrations that are being put on is with sodium chlorate. The chlorate is mixed at the rate of one to one and one-half pounds to the gallon of water. A pressure sprayer, such as a fruit tree sprayer, is used in applying the solution. The finer the mist the better, of course, the thistle and quack plants should be entirely covered with the solution.

Sodium Rots Weed Roots

The theory with the sodium chlorate is that it is fed through the leaves and is taken by the plant down into the roots where the most important action takes place, that of rotting the roots and the food hat is stored in them.

Acts Quickly On Thistles

Within one hour after spraying thistles one can notice the tops beginning to wilt and turn brown, however, with quack, it takes nearly two days before results are noticeable.

Spraying Weeds Should Be Done At The Proper Time For Results

The ideal time for spraying is just before the thistles bloom and when the quack is heading out. At this time you have the greatest leaf urface and the more leaf surface the more solution to be carried to the roots.

A second spraying is also essental to be applied when the new shoots are from four to eight inches tall The reason for second spraying is that perhaps when one applied the first spray some young plants had just started and regardless of how careful you were you will not get enough on every plant in the patch.

Demonstrations the past week were held in Garfield, Madison, Concord, Orthel, Boone, Ell and Avery ownships.

The North Iowa Area Council is one of the few Boy Scout Councils in the country to be given permission to organize the Cub Scout program. COURT FEATHERED FRIENDS

Because They Help Farmer, They Deserve His Cooperation

Many of the common birds in Iowa are the best friends the farmers have, believes J. E. Guthrie, professor of zoology at Iowa State College.

Birds are active creatures, their digestion is rapid and they require large amounts of food. The food habits of most of the common birds is the thing that makes them valuagle to the farmer. They destroy many destructive insects and rodents and devour much weed seed. They may be divided into three classes, according to their food habits; the seed eaters; the insect eaters; and the rodent destroyers;

Among the common-seed eaters are the mouring dove, the cowbird, meadowlark, the field and song shown that these birds consume great quantities of weed seed. One dove stomach alone contained 6,400 foxtail seed upon examination, and another 9,200 seeds of various kinds.

The more common insect eaters include the bluebird, the robin, the blackbird the yellow warbler and the nuthatch. These birds consume great quantities of injurious insects during the summer, and, while some of them also destroy fruit and grain, their diet is principally made up of insects.

The rodent destroyers in Iowa include the great horned owl, which eats many mice, rabbits, gophers, ground squirrels and even skunks; the screech owl; and the various hawks.

249 year-old pipe still in use

IN 1680 Louis XIV of France built the famous fountain of Apollo. Today, water flows to it through the same iron pipes which were installed 249 years ago.

Just as this iron water pipe has served through the centuries, so the purified metal of the Buckstaff Burial Vault will continue to protect even beyond its 99-year guarantee.

The Buckstaff Vault is constructed entirely of purified Keystone Copper Steel. It is non-porous and water-tight.

Because of this positive protection, we recommend the Buckstaff Burial Vault. It is in keeping with our policy of providing the best in equipment and service.

NEW USES FOR STRAWBERRIES

Good in Salads or Drinks; Use Sponge Cake in Short Cake

Strawberries may be used in a variety of ways besides in short cakes or with sugar nd cream, according to Miss Ruth Cessna specialist in foods and nutrition in the Extension Service, Iowa State College.

Strawberries, which will be plentiful in many Iowa gardens now are rich in vitamin C and iron and may be used during the season to help balance the diet

The old fashioned strawberry short cake is now more frequently served with sponge cake than with the biscuit mixture, according to Miss Cessna. Sponge cake baked in muffiin pans may be split and served with fresh strawberries and whipped cream. This form of serving strawberries makes better dessert for the children.

Strawberries may be used in salads with other fruits, and in fruit drinks they give a good color and flavor.

Canned strawberries add materially to the food value of winter meals. A successful method of canning them so they will be plump and will not float in they jars folows: To each quart of strawberries, add one cup of sugar and two tablespons of water. Boil slowly for 15 minutes. Let stand over night in the kettle Re-heat to boiling, fill containers with hot berries, seal adn process in boiling water for five minutes

Special meeting of the Town Council held at the Mayor's office.

All members of the Council were present.

Meeting called to order by Mayor Grange for the purpose of making some arrangements whereby residents in the following blocks might settle their alley question. After much discussion the following resolution was put before the Council:

The vote on this motion was as follows: Missman, Quandt and Jost, Aye. Larsen and Wellemeyer, Naye.

TELLS HOW TO USE FERTILIZER PROPERLY FOR POTATOES

Potatoes Should Not Be Planted On Land Following Clover Crop

Fifteen years ago the Vegetable Crops Section of Iowa State College found nitrate was not beneficial to potatoes. Several years ago the soils department announced its approval for most Iowa soils on most crops, the use of superphosphate.

In our demonstrations, our co-operators have found that clover immediately preceding potatoes reduces yields, probably both by drying out sub-soils and by delaying the set, and similarly that nitrates alone or in complete fertilizers on reasonably good upland soils delay set and reduce yields, while potash does neither good nor any harm except the cost. On very thin soils each element helps but such soils are not good for potatoes, unless irrigated. On the slopes or tops of hills, phosphate may not help.

Apparently, superphosphate alone on upland soils is the fertilizer for potatoes. On peats and muck, potash also is needed

When nitrate is used at planting time, the vines look wonderful but damage—not good—is done to the yield. We have some shreds of evidence that nitrate used after the potatoes are set while the leaves are still green, may increase the yields.

The first ten agents, leaders or cooperators who tell me by letter that they will try this out and will pay the express will receive from me at once each enough nitrate for 1-100 acre, 145 feet of one row, without charge.—C. L. Fitch.

SUPPORT NEW WOOL POOL

96 Counties Line Up With Federal Farm Board Plan

Iowa counties have lined up nearly 100 percent strong to support the new federal farm board woll marketing program, according to C. W. McDonald, animal husbandry specialist in the Extension Service at Iowa State College who with other specialists has been explaining the new wool pool to county groups.

Ninety-six counties have in their intention of selling thru the official sales agency of the National Wool Marketing Corporation, agency set up by the farm board to supervise the national wool pool The Iowa wool will be pooled in Des Moines, graded and shipped to Boston

As soon as it is shiped an advance will be made to the producer based on the market value of the wool at the time it is sold. The balance, after expenses are paid, will be forwarded to the producer after the wool is sold. The cash advances in June were amounting to about 20 cents on bright staple wool, according t Mr. McDnald.

Iowa annually markets about 8 million pounds of wool and about one-fourth of this amount is expected to be marketed thru the new pool

Early in June 96 counties, in many of which new county Sheep and Wool Growers' Associations were formed, had allready approved the plan, and three more counties which had not been rebecause of lack of time are expected to join, acording to Mr. McDonalod.

Keep mash before the laying hens all summer. It will mean a more eggs this cummer and more next fall when prices are highest.

Six more county soil reports will be issued at Iowa State College soon.

Ford Coupe Fell Off Of Trailer On Truck Load Going North

Something new in the way of a car wreck happened early Thursday morning, which resulted in a brand new Ford Coupe being somewhat damaged.

As is often the case now several cars are brought out of Des Moines at one time, loaded on a long trailer which holds four or five cars and hauled behind a truck Such a load of new Fords was being towed north Thursday morning when the rear wheels of the trailer struck some loose gravel near Emil Lau's farm, pulling the back end of the trailer into the ditch and tilting the rear to such an extent that the last car fell off ino the ditch.

Small grains are looking fine and appear heavy. Binders will be at work before many days in several fields.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

ANOTHER WEEK SPENT FIGHTING WEEDS IN COUNTY

Weed Eradication Demonstrations Held In Six More Townships

This week, as well as last, was devoted to spraying thistles and quack with Sodium Chlorate. Demonstrations this past week were put on in Liberty, Amsterdam. Twin Lakes, Ellington, Crystal and Bingham townships.

Spraying Shows Results

The demonstrations that I have revisited following the spraying all show favorable results, however, there is this to remember, that on quack it may take from two to four days before any change is noticed Also, if the quack is irregular in size as that found along fences, the chances for a 100 er cent kill with one spraying is very, very small as the small shoots are affected but very little. Then, too, if it were real hot when the solution was applied some of the sodium chlorate will crystallize on the plants before it has had time to w rk. When such is the case the percentage of kill is much smaller. Rush Gabrielson of Crystal Lake reports very good kills on quack.

Liming Soil Sure Pays

Any persons believing that limeing the soil does not pay should visit the Will Rockow farm and ask him to show you the results of applying limestone to part of his farm One year ago this spring, Will knew he was going to seed alfalfa this spring so he limed about seven acres of ground on which to put this year's alfalfa seeding.

Last year on the limed ground he had corn which yielded 15 bushels more per acre than did the unlimed ground adjoining it. The quality of the corn from the limed ground was much superior also. Will also states that the corn on the limed ground was two feet taller than the corn not limed.

Crops Better Where Limed

The past week I visited this same piece of ground which is in oats and alfalfa There is a distinct line showing just where the lime was applied. The oats on the limed ground is fully three inches taller. The alfalfa certainly looks fine and a good growth and stand are to be found on the unlimed as well as the limed ground.

The results so far would show that the ground was sweet enough to grow alfalfa but just see what liming did for his corn and oats crops. In my mind there is no question but what the alfalfa that is on the limed ground will do much better than that on unlimed ground however, it is too early for such results to be noticeable. I am sure Mr. Rockow is following a very good practice and the results are warranting the extra expense and

More Join Colt Club

The Colt Club enrollment has grown more the past week with the receipt of enrollment cards from Louis Anderson, Louis Weiland, Art Weiland and Arline and Ardis Durnin. What's more they all certainly have real colts. Herman Ahlstrum must be classed second to none when it comes to raising corn. With the help of his boys there isn't a weed to be found in any of his fields. W. M. Allsbers has killed the quack about his place with sodium chlorate.

T. R. Burgess won't be found shoveling his grain into a bin from the thrashing machine he has rebuilt his corn crib and granary and has had a real elevator installed.

Burr Church Is Good Farmer

Burr Church is certainly to be congratulated on his farming ability and management. Alone he is farming 200 acres and his corn is good with no weeds to be found. I must add, too, no tractor is found on the place Good horses and mules furnish the power.

SIX PERSONS SEVERELY HURT IN CAR ACCIDENT HERE

Four Ladies And Two Boys Figure In Bad Wreck Near Wenz Farm

Six persons were severely injured when the Buick car in which they were riding struck a rough place in the road near the Wm. Wenz farm late Tuesday afternoon, causing the driver, a lady, to lose control of the machine and sending it over an embankment, through a fence and into a pasture, where the car turned over tearing the body completely off.

The occupants of the car, which bore a Michigan license plate No. 855-840, 1930, were Mrs. Baker and her son from Franklin, Michigan, who had been at Des Moines for a visit with relatives, and were on their way to Clear Lake, for another visit with relatives. With Mrs. Baker was her mother of near Des Moines and two neices and a small boy, all of Des Moines.

The grandmother was severely injured and suffered a fractured rib and internal injuries. Mrs. Baker received a severe scalp wound, as did also one of the other young ladies. Jack Baker, the nine year old son received a broken thigh and cut the caps of both knees. The other boy was not hurt. Another lady had her collarbone broken.

A Clear Lake ambulance was called into which was placed Mrs. Baker and her son, and her mother. The others of the party were taken to the Mason City hospital by a Mason City man who happened to come along. Chris Gram and Dr Zinn, accompanied the accident victims to Mason City.

Harry Buss brought the car to his garage. The car is completely a wreck from the running gears up, the entire body being torn off clean. The chassis apparently is not injured.

A. R. White, better known as AAllie, began work July 1st as manager of the Farmers Elevator. Allie is a genuine Klemme product. He was born on the White farm south of Klemme, farmed the place for 23 years until last year when he quit and "rested" while he and his family took a much needed vacation and visited in Colorado during the winter, returning to Klemme again this spring. Allie said it wasn't much of a rest—rather that he spent all the money he made in 23 years farming. But, we don't believe all of it. At any rate Allie is a fine fellow. He will make a fin emanager, has always been a real booster, and despite his false teeth is the best baritone player in North Iowa, and if there is anything he likes better than playing in the band, it probably is running the elevator. Mr. L. G. Gimer has been an efficient man as manager and the compayn has done well under his guidance. Lew has several good positions in view, but as yet has not signed up with any concern. Whatever he does we wish him success.

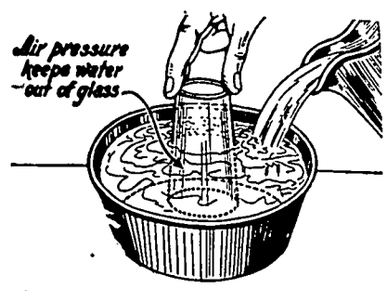
Suggest Using Mattress Slips

Fitted covers of unbleached muslin will protect mattresses from and make them last longer. These slips can be snapped on the sides or ends so that they can be easily taken off for laundering. In one of the home management houses at Iowa State College, they have been found especially valuable for use on the sleeping porch, but will be equally helpful in the house.



Why the air-sealed vault protects

TRY THIS TEST

HOLD an ordinary drinking glass upside down in an empty pan. Then fill the pan with water.

Notice that, no matter how wet the outside of the glass becomes, the inside remains dry. This demonstrates an inflexible principle of physics, that water cannot enter unless the air is first displaced.

The Buckstaff Burial Vault works on the same principle. It is a large metal bell. It keeps out ground waters by air pressure, just as does the glass. Each vault is tested by submerging it in water under 5000 pounds pressure.

The cost of the Buckstaff Burial Vault is very moderate. Many families consider it as necessary as the casket.

Plowing Deeply Makes Crib Room

Cultivating corn deeply enough and closely enough to prune the roots reduces the corn yield considerably, tests at the Illinois Experiment Station have shown, says E. S. Dyas, crops specialist in the Extension Service, IowaState College. Pruning the roots in the top four inches of the soil six inches from the hill reduced the yield 17 bushels per acre—from 80.7 bushels to 63.8 bushels—as a four year average. In one year of the four when the weather was unusually dry, the yield was reduced 26 bushels

Storage Butter Markedly Reduced

Improvement in the cold storage butter situation is reflected in the reduction of stocks on June 1. They were a little less than twice the quantity in storage on the same date a year age, the United States Department of Agriculture reports

Whereas butter stocks have been from two to three times as great in recent months as on corresponding dates a year ago the storage supply on June 1 is reported at about 50 million pounds as compared with around 28 million pounds on June 1, last year

May Still Seed Sudan Grass

Farmers who will be short on late summer pasture still have time to seed sudan grass for late July and August pasture, says E. S. Dyas of Iowa State College. Sudan grass will reach the size suitable for pasture in about 30 days.

CLAIMS ICE PACK CURES BLOAT

Dairyman Says Plan Has Never Failed in Numerous Trials

A Buena Vista County dairyman believes he has found a simple cure for bloat, a common problem among dairymen at this season of the year according to Arvid Miller, cow tester, in a report to the Dairy Extension Service, Iowa State College.

This dairy farmer partially fills a gunny sack or a grain sack with finely chopped ice and places it over the cows back so that the ice rests on the most prominent part of the bloated area. In a few minutes the gas passes off, the dairyman says. Other claims for the ice pack are it does not affect the cow in a harmful way, as do some other cures for bloat. It acts quickly and leaves the cow a good appetite.

The association member has tried this cure a number of times and as yet has never failed to get favorable results, he says.

KEEP PLANTING

GARDEN CROPS

When One Is Finished, Put Another in Its Place

Keep all of the garden producing all season, if possible, suggests A. T Erwin, chief in vegetable crops investigations at Iowa State College In other words, Mr. Erwin suggest following one crop with another.

When the peas have finished bearing, which will be soon in most gardens, pull up the vines and put in their place any of the following short season crops: bush beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, corn, celery, kale, lettuce, late potatoes, radishes, spinach, or turnips.

Mr. Erwin says that it ordinarily is not safe to plant these crops after the middle of July because of the usual light ratinfall and continuous hot weather at this season, which makes a poor stand likely. But again in late August or early September it is possible to make plantings of such crops as will mature in not more than six weeks or so. These crops include radishes, lettuce, beets, carrots, turnips, and such crops.

IOWA sent to New York City, during January, February and Marc of the present year a total of 5,409. 757 pounds of dressed poultry, which was 15 per cent of all the poultry received in the city during those months.

Clarence Wiles' July 4th celebration ran into more money than usual this year. C. W. lost his pocket book in a crowd at Clear Lake. He missed his bill fold when he went to purchase some watermelon for the family. Clarence suspects that it was picked from his pocket as he had it only a few minutes before he discovered the loss. The driver of the Ford coupe claimed that Brinkman's car lights blinded him.

Both of the cars were badly damaged in the tangle and each came out with broken wheels and bent bodies and fenders. No one was injured.

TELLS ABOUT THE SCHOOL FOR DEAF

GALLAUDET IS ONLY COLLEGE IN WORLD OF ITS KIND

One Hundred And Twenty Five Enrolled There This Year

(By Leonard Lau)

Two score and seven years, after the Reverend Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet founded the first American school for the education of the Deaf at Hartford, Connecticut in 1817, his son Edward Miner Gallaudet established Galludet College in Washington, D. C., for the higher education of the Deaf. Our Congress passed an act authorizing the Board of Directors of the College to grant and confer such degrees in liberal arts and sciences as are usually granted and conferred by colleges. President Abraham Lincoln was the first Patron of the College. As tradition, President Herbert Hoover is the Patron. Our Congress supports and maintains the College, much like that it supports the Army Academy of West Point and the Naval Academy of Annapolis.

Began With Seven Students

Gallaudet College was opened in September, 1864 with only seven students, all men, and one professor besides Dr. Thomas Gallaudet. Thirteen years later it was opened to young women in reply to their wish of securing an equal share with men in the advantages of higher education. Later a normal department was added for the training of hearing teachers for the purpose of upraising the standard of teachers in the state schools for the Deaf, and of affording the undergraduates the increased opportunities for practice in speech and speech reading. At present its enrollment is 125 students, 75 men and 50 women, coming from all parts of this country and seeking for higher education. One student coming from Cuba, two from Ireland, three from England, over twenty from Canada, attended Gallaudet College. Recently a young hearing man from India received Bachelor of Arts from the normal department in which he studied the methods of teaching the deaf, and then he will superintend a school for the Deaf in Calcutta, India.

Will Erect New Building

Gallaudet College is particularly limited to the number of students just graduating from the state schools, because of its size and also because it is the only college for the Deaf in the world. Since its inauguration, it has registered 1,690 students but this is only one-hundredth of the entire group of deaf pupils who have completed or graduated at the schools all over this country. Now the alumni of Gallaudet College are nearing the goal of $50,000 and then will ask Congress to add $50,000 more in order to erect a new building in memory of Dr. Edward Gallaudet, the founder and first president of the College.

Has Beautiful Location

Gaalaudet College is beautifully situated on a campus which is ranked one of the most beautiful spots in the city of Washington. Congressional Library is only fifteen blocks from the College; the students are often requested to go to the Library for reference works. Many other places of historical and governmental interests are of great value to the students.

Students Enjoy Athletics Also

Match games of football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, and tennis with parties outside of the College are provided to the students. Literary Society, Jollity Club, and Saturday Night's Dramatic Club are the dramatic organizations. The men have a fraternity, and the women have a sorority, both of which are always a great part of the college life.

Many Professions Taught

A large majority of the graduates of the College become teachers in the educational and industrial departments of the state schools. They are a great credit to the deaf world. About twenty are ordained ministers. Several are successful chemists; some are architects; some are draftsmen; some are government surveyors; some are editors of the town papers; some are accountants. Many are making good farmers. Many other branches of the business world open to the deaf students to qualify and fit in.

Gallaudet College is the beautiful tale of this higher Education of the Deaf in this country and still stands in its pride as the only college for the Deaf in the world.

Editor's Note—We are indebted to Leonard Lau for this fine article on one of America's most interesting educational institutions. Mr. Lau graduated from Gallaudet in June as a Draftsman. He is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. T. Blank, of Klemme. We invite him to further contributions of articles if he so wishes.

ELEVEN 4-H BOYS TOOK IN THE SHORT COURSE AT AMES

Had Earned This Trip Because Of Fine Club Work

The eleven boys and their leader, Jay Vendelboe, from Hancock county left Garner on Sunday, June 15th for the Short Course which they had earned by reason of their achievements in 4-H Club Work and their judging ability at the Achievement Show last fall.

A complete program was followed throughout and the boy's time was well taken care of every part of the day. To give a full account of all the meetings would require too much space, so briefly, six boys were entered in competitive Livestock and Grain Judging, namely: Arnold Hampel, Bernard Byers, Kenneth Grieman, Dale Brede, Robert Lawhorn and Curtiss Greiman. To Kenneth Greiman goes the honor of being fourth highest of twenty boys selected because of high individual placings in both livestock and Grain judging. For his merits he received a 4-H club recognition pin.

Others Who Won The Trip

The other boys winning trips to the college were Victor Greiman, Alfred Goll, Virgil Prilip, Lee Williams and Nail Taylor.

The Boys Annual Banquet was held on Tuesday evening with an attendance of approximately 475 boys. The principal speaker on the program was Joe Lilly, the African Wild Game Hunter. The program was completed Wednesday afternoon with the awarding of medals and honors to the individual boys and county teams. Every boy in 4-H Club Work should make a real effort to get this trip because it is of value to any 4-H club member.

NEED NOT ROAST OVER STOVE

Good Meals Do Not Require It, Miss Cessna Asserts

Simple, easily served meals which avoid the necessity of serving the usual menus prepared over a hot stove may be secured without sacrificing good food balance, says Miss Ruth Cessna, foods specialist in the Extension Service, Iowa State College.

The main part of the meal may be served on a platter or large chop plate. Raw vegetables with one or two hot foods may be served, either for luncheon or supper. A glass of milk, bread and butter, fresh fruit and plain wafers or iced cantaloupe or watermelon will complete a well balanced meal.

Attractive color and flavor combinations may be worked out by the housewife, depending on which of a variety of foods she is using says Miss Cessna.

And Above All, Plenty of BUTTER

"Sometimes the foods we like best are really best for us," says the doctor* "Take BUTTER, for example.

"Everyone loves its rich, creamy flavor, of course. Yet we should use plenty of Butter not alone because it is so good to eat, but also because it contains vital elements so essential to health.

"For children, butter is one of the chief sources of Vitamin "A," which builds growing bodies and guards against disease.

"It's a good plan to use plenty of butter in cooking, and to encourage your family in using it freely at the table. In health value and food value its one of the most economical foods you can buy."

Floral Barometers

The sturdy marigolds which enliven our gardens are splendid weather prophets. If the flower is tightly closed in the morning, you may rest assured that there is rain to come, but with true intuition they seem overbold just now in spreading their petals. The scarlet pimpernel is also sensitive to rain, and even an approaching shower will send its petals curling in. From this peculiarity the pimpernel takes its name of the "poor man's barometer." Contrary to these flowers, when the dandelion closes up its petals in the morning, a fine day lies ahead, because it does not like too much sun.

Cause of Hailstorms

The stones which fall during ordinary hailstorms measure from one-eighth to one-half inch in diameter, their size depending upon the violence of the upward columns of air that produce them. Hail, like rain, is caused by the vertical circulation of the air. Rain is formed by the condensation of drops of moisture in cooling air which grow larger as the air rises until they are heavy enough to fall. Each of the drops rises and falls at least once. Hail, which is frozen rain, is caused by the drops being tossed higher.

Electrons in Atom

Physicists of today state that there is evidence that all atoms known have in them a certain definite number of negative electrons and exactly the same number of positive electrons. For instance, the lead atom consists of a positive nucleus charge of 82 units about which 82 electrons revolve; zinc, a nucleus charge of 30 units with 30 revolving electrons; helium, a nucleus charge of 2 units with 2 revolving electrons; sulphur, a nucleus charge of 16 units with 16 revolving electrons; platinum, 78; gold, 79; radium, 88, etc.

Magnetic Poles

The geographical poles are the points at the imaginary ends of the earth's axis of rotation, lying 90 degrees north and south latitude. The magnetic poles are the points on the earth's surface where the lines of magnetic forces are vertical. They are the ends of the axis of the earth's magnetic polarity. First Milk Bottle

The earliest milk bottle known was the hide of a goat, with the openings tied up to prevent the escape of the fluid. It is said that butter was first made accidentally when milk in a goatskin bottle slung across a camel's back was bumped and sloshed during the weary miles across the desert wastes. It is a long process of evolution from this crude churn to the modern motor-driven churns in our up-to-date creameries.—Burdette Service.

Room for Improvement

WORK BEGINS ON HIGHWAY NO. 15

SURVEYORS AT WORK AND DETOUR SIGNS ARE UP

Work On Paving Highway 15 Expected To Begin Next Week

An engineering crew of about ten men have been busy the past week surveying and laying out lines for the new paving on Highway No. 15 which will begin at a point just south of the Wm. Wenz farm, south of Klemme and extend nearly ten miles due north to connect with the paving on Highway 18 near Garner.

Blue prints for the work are furnished by the state highway commission who have opened up an office in the northwest corner room of the basement of the Court House.

The paving contract was let to Kenzie & Kileen at a letting held at Ames. Sub-contracts for the new grading north of the Elltown Reformed Church was let to G H. Lowe Co. of Cedar Rapids, who we understand are already on the job.

Contracts were also let for two new bridges to be built on the new grade One job will be an I-beam bridge 32x24 ft. a quarter mile to the north of the Church while the other bridge 40x24 will be about a quarter mile further north.

Work will begin at the south end of the paving project, and we understand all material for the job will be handled in Klemme. This amounts to about twenty car loads of material a day, on track. It is expected that water will be pumped from the Iowa river and pipe lines laid along the route.

Detour signs were erected Tuesday and highway traffic is being diroted along the road which skirts Klemme on the east.

According to reports, actual work on paving will begin the last of the week or the first of next week.

EAGLE LAKE ROAD GRADING IS COMPLETED

The Fox Construction crew completed the grading of the Eagle Lake road last Monday. This will make an excellent highway when the grade is thoroughly settled. It will likely be graveled next season. The hills adjacent to Eagle Lake park have been cut down and the valleys so that the road is comparatively level.

The road in Eagle Lake park is being extended south from the picnic grounds with a turn around near the top of the hill. This, we understand will be completed this week.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

ONE FARMER WORKED HORSES ONLY MORNING AND EVENING

Hot Weather The Past Week Was Hard On Horses In The Fields

I cannot help but feel that W. J. Rasmussen has followed a very good practice the past week and one which many farmers of the county wish they had followed During those hot days Will got into his corn field at five o'clock in the morning plowing until about nine-thirty, then his horses were idle until in the evening when he would go out and plow again. This practice may or may not have saved the life of one or two of his horses but as he says he couldn't afford to take the chance.

John Limberg is going to be ready for the thrashing season. He has spent his spare time remodeling his hay racks so that when the season arrives, which will be soon, he is ready to go.

Conrad Limberg is going to try to market his crop of real pigs before the big ruch as he is crowding them with slop, lots of corn and oats.

Expects To Rid Farm Of Weeds

Roy Halfpop states that if sodium chlorate will kill Canadian thistles his farm is going to be thistle free in another year. I want to remind all those using chlorate that a second spraying will probably be necessary. The best time to apply the second spraying is when the new shoots are up four to eight inches. Remember, too, that the best time to spray is either early in the morning or in the evening as during the heat of the day when the sun is shining bright and hot the chlorate fill crystallize on the leaves resulting in a poorer kill.

Where The Tall Corn Grows

C. H. Howlett has reason to be proud of his corn this year. More than a week ago he had corn that was tasseling. Will Chandler finds his volunteer crop of sweet clover some what of a nuisance and states that he is going back to red clover for his hay and pasture crop.

I happened in at Clarence Smith's farm just as he was busily engaged in seting a telephone pole that had been broken. The reason Clarence i such a good hog raiser might be answered when we know that he follows the practice of sowing rape in ows the practice of sowing rape in his corn fields just before laying the corn by.

Clubs Get Feeding Tips

Ernest Wright was in the county one day last week visiting the dairy calf club members, giving them feeding and management suggestions. A final check-up shows that twenty-seven calves are being fed and cared for in prepartion for the Achievment Day show August 19 and 20. The next edition of the exchange will carry the names of all boys and girls that are planning on showing their dairy calves, beef calves, sow and litters, ewe and lambs, market pigs, mare and colts and mules at this Show.

Farm Bureau Meetings Held

Garfield township is cetainly running true to form with full houses at their Farm Bureau meetings. The meeting last Wednesday was put on by the boys and girls in club work.

Saturday evening the boys of Garfield held a meeting over the Bank at Garner. The following officers were elected: Bernard Byers, president; John Abele, vice presidnt; Kenneth Byers, secretary; Loren Abele, treasurer. Following their organization a round table discussion was held on feed for their club dairy, beef calves and pigs. Their next meeting is to be devoted to fitting their stock for showing.

On Wednesday of last week the club members of Bingham and Crystal townships met with C. B. Reed, club leader. They were given instructions on the care, feeding and management of their livestock. After the meeting a boat ride was enjoyed by all in attendance.

The club girls of Orthel township were responsible for a very interesting township meeting held at the the schoolhouse in Hutchins on last Thursday evening.

Amsterdam Comes To Front

I am sure we are all more than proud of the showing made by Amsterdam township. The real leadership of the township has been shown by the township meetings they have held this year. In March they met at the John Cosgriff home with a full house. Since then they have drawn up their yearbook and have held five meetings. Their last meeting was held at the Elmer Engstrom home last Friday evening with nearly 300 in attendance. In the group were three car loads from Clarion. Keep it up, Amsterdam as the whole county is for you!

KIDDIES WILL GET FREE RIDES AT BAYSIDE NEXT SUNDAY

Every boy and girl, 12 years old or under, will be admitted free to the park and each will be given a free ride on the merry-go-round. Manager Shea hopes that more than a thousand children will be on hand Sunday as he wants to help entertain them.

The attractions on the outdoor stage will include the Mississippi Six band and the Mitchell Troupe which will entertain park visitors with a rolling globe comedy act, afternoon and evening.

Dances are now being held at Bayside every Wednesday and Friday night. Rex Lien s dance band is supplying the music.

Manager Shea states that an excursion to Bayside Park will be held on the Milwaukee railroad Sunday, July 27th. The excursion train will start at McGregor and will bring a concert band and two fast northeastern Iowa ball teams and a ball game will be played on the Bayside diamond during the afternoon. The excursion visitors will arrive at the park at 11:00 a. m. and will spend the balance of the day at Bayside.

FARM BUREAU LADIES TO MEET

On Tuesday, July 29th, there will be a county committee meeting of the Farm Bureau Home Project at Garner, in honor of Mrs. Heiko Rust, our district committee woman. Every township leader and publicity chairman is requested to attend and all women in the county who are interested in Farm Bureau activities are invited to be present.

This will be an all-day meeting and a picnic lunch will be participated in at noon.

Watch The Times for further plans and as to where the meeting will be held at Garner.

EMERY WHEEL SETS FIRE

With his legs enveloped in flames from fuel soaked shoes and trousers, Fred Kron of Hampton was a near fire victim Monday afternoon at the Joe Sikkema repair shop and narrowly escaped serious burning when Mr. Sikkema pushed him into a tank of water Mr. Kron was standing near an emery wheel which Mr. Sikkema was using. His trousers and shoes were wet with a liquid weed eradicator which he did not know wasinflamable. Sparks from the emery wheel ignited the liquid and started Mr. Kron's clothing burning. He started for the door, not hearing Mr. Sikkema's advice about the tank of water. The latter then substituted actions for words and pushed Mr. Kron into the water tank. Mr. Kron's shoes were burned nearly off and his trousers badly scorched. His feet were blistered but he was not otherwise severely burned. Burns or no burn Mr. Kron resumed his task of spraying weeds with the same eradicator cholorate of soda the next morning.

FINDS STATE BANKS WELL SUPERVISED

Bankers Body Sees Less Politics in Banking Departments With Better Facilities in the Hands of the Responsible Officials.

A survey of state banking departments by the State Bank Division, American Bankers Association, discloses a distinct tendency the past five years to take bank supervision out of politics, to increase the discretionary powers of bank commissioners, to lengthen their terms of office, to supply then with adequate forces of qualified examiners and to relieve banking departments of duties foreign to banking, says a recent statement issued by the association.

"We have consistently urged that the office of bank commissioner be a free from partisan politics as the judiciary itself and that it be divorced from all other functions of state government," the statement says. "Further, that his term of office be made more secure and lasting, with sufficient salary and power granted to attract and retain the services of men of outstanding executive ability, courage, resourcefulness and successful banking experience.

"Five years ago the first survey of state banking departments by the division demonstrated the need for improvements. On the basis of data now in hand it is evident that, through the revision of statutes in many states, rapid steps are being taken in the right direction. One by one the states are coming to recognize the primary importance of strong, competent banking departments. The demand for increasing the effectiveness of banking departments is beginning to be met."

How Bank Commissioners Are Chosen

The office of bank commissioner is now operated as an independent department of state government in thirty-four states, the bankers find. In two states the bank commissioner is elected at general elections; in one he is appointed from eligible lists of the civil service and in another he is selected by the banks. In one state the bankers' association elects a list of five names from which the governor appoints one as superintendent of banks; in another he is appointed by the State Corporation Commission and in another by the State Banking Board.

"Terms of office of bank commissioners have been lengthened in several states during the last five years," the report says. "In 28 states the term is four years, in one, five years, and in three it is six years and in some the term is indefinite. A short term is condemned on the grounds that the commissioner has insufficient time to become thoroughly conversant with his field work. A longer term permits his rendering useful service through capitalizing his experience Five years ago the average length of service was less than three years, while now it has risen to five years.

Higher Standards Required

"Signs of an awakening to the necessity of making successful banking experience a qualification for bank commissioner are evident. While eleven states report no banking experience necessary, the majority require experience of this sort, ranging from two to five years. Twelve states now have banking boards, with powers ranging from acting in an advisory capacity to full power over all state banks to issue and reject charters.

"A healthy sign is the number of reports which disclose that the commissioners have full power to appoint bank examiners or that these appointments are made from civil service lists. This power is now granted to the commissioner by twenty seven states. Three require that selection be from civil service lists. Complaints are still made in a few states of political pressure in the appointment of examiners, but the contrary seems to be true in a growing number of states. The most capable commissioner cannot successfully perform his duties unless he is able to command the services of efficient, honest examiners. The safety of depositors is dependent on their work, and their appointment, fitness and compensation are highly important. The number of examiners has increased 25 per cent in the last five years."

BANKERS TO HOLD GREAT CONVENTION

Cleveland, Ohio, has been designated for the 1930 annual convention of the American Bankers Association. This organization, which numbers about 20,000 banks with $65,000,000,000 in assets, is annually the nation's most important financial event. The attendance ranges between five and ten thousand.

Cleveland is especially significant in the history of the Association's educational traditions since it was in this city, when the organization last met there in the year 1899, that the original resolution was presented looking to the formation of an educational section. This subsequently resulted in the American Institute of Banking in which are now enrolled 35,000 bank men and women engaged in the study of the technical and scientific phases of the business.

Wise Old M. P.

Among conservation measures of the World war there was a gasless Sunday, when citizens exhibited their patriotism by leaving their automobiles in the garage. In one southern camp orders were issued that gasoline-driven vehicles would not be allowed inside the gates.

A couple of women drove up in an electric auto, and were promptly and importantly stopped by an M. P., who told them it was gasless Sunday.

"But," the lady driver remonstrated, "this car doesn't use gas—it's an electric."

"Aw, you can't fool me, lady," retorted the M. P. with gusto. "Where's your trolley?"—Pacific Power and Light Bulletin.

Moonlight at the Poles

The Naval observatory says that at either pole the moon is above the horizon continuously for about two weeks, and then below the horizon continuously for about two weeks. At the Arctic and Antarctic circles there are some years when for a few days in each month the moon does not set, and a few days when it does not rise; otherwise at these circles it rises and sets daily. In the polar regions, during the winter months, the moon is generally above the horizon when it is full and below the horizon when it is new, and the reverse is the case during the summer months.

Fuel for Smoking Meat

The Department of Agriculture says that the best fuel for smoking meat is green hickory or maple wood smothered with sawdust of the same material. Hard wood of any kind is preferable to soft wood. Resinous woods should not be used, as they may give a bad flavor to the meat. Corncobs are a good substitute for hard wood. Juniper berries or fragrant woods may be added to the fire to flavor the meat. The fire should be kept burning slowly, keeping the temperature between 70 and 90 degrees.

AGED PLASTERER INJURED AT M. E. CHURCH TUESDAY

Fell From Scaffold Injuring Back; Taken Home In Ambulance

Mr. Porter, 69 year old plasterer from Clarion, who was working at the new Methodist Church building fell from a scaffold while at work, causing injuries to his neck and back. The accident happened about 5:00 p. m. when Mr. Porter stepped on a loose plank on a scaffold and fell twelve feet to the floor, falling on his shoulders and back. He was taken to Dr. Zinn for attention. It could not be determined just what extent he might be injured, but it was thought his shoulder bones and some ribs were broken. An ambulance was called and he was removed to his home at Clarion, at which place X-Ray pictures would be used to determine the extent of his injuries.

Whale Pulled Boat

A ride on a whale was taken by two brothers. While they were fishing from a flat-bottomed boat off the Donegal (Irelnnd) coast their craft began to move swiftly along. After going fifty yards the boat's headlong career was checked and soon it lay rocking gently on the calm water The brothers declare that when they looked over the side they saw the bulk of a huge whale vanishing into the depths, directly underneath their tiny vessel.

Nature's Wise Provision

It is claimed that a cod weighing 21 pounds will produce 2,700,000 eggs in one spawning period; these are so small that it takes 337,000 to fill a quart pail. As for the reason why most fish produce eggs rather than living young, it may be suggested that this is a wise provision of nature in view of the great loss involved. For each egg destined to become a mature fish there must be thousands sacrificed to be food for other marine life

NEW FARM ENGINE HAS A "BUILT-IN" HEATER FOR WATER

Running of Engine Furnishes Water for Washing Milking Utensils.

A gasoline engine with a "built-in" heater that heats water for washing the milker while it runs the milking machine or performs other tasks, is a new development in dairy farming.

The engine differs from the usual type of farm engine in that it is patterned after the modern automobile engine, according to the De Laval Bureau of Dairying. Extremely simple in construction, the engine is about as fool-proof as a piece of mechanism can be, and capable of being run by anyone without the slightest mechanical knowledge. An efficient magneto delivers a hot flaming spark at all speeds. a carburetor of novel design makes for starting ease in any weather, and an automatic governor control makes attention or manipulation on the part of the operator almost unnecessary.

Water Heater Is Built In.

But the unique feature of this engine, and one sure to be appreciated by the man who uses the milking machine, is the water heater built right into the engine. This consists of a four and a half-gallon tank which is connected to the cylinder water jacket of the engine. When the engine is being run, the water used to cool the engine circulates through and around the water jacket and heater tank and becomes heated to a temperature high enough for use in washing the milker or other dairy utensils. This takes place without mechanical assistance, and the result of thermo-syphonic action—warmest water rising to the top—the very same principle used in auto radiators. A convenient drain cock at the bottom of the water heater enables the water to be easily drawn into a pail.

The economy and convenience of this water heater will appeal greatly to every dairy farmer, according to the De Laval Bureau. It makes for cleaner milk because it makes easy the cleaning of the milking equipment after each milking. The fact that there is a sufficient supply of hot water on hand for use immediately after milking also saves labor by reducing the time required to thoroughly wash the milker. The bother and expense of heating water on the kitchen stove or some other place is eliminated, and the water has no chance to cool off because it does not have to be carried far, the engine necessarily being located close to where the milking is done. And all this—and this is probably the best feature of the heater—is accomplished without any added expense because the water is automatically heated during the period in which the engine runs the milking machine.

Has Other Uses, Too.

After it has been used for milking, the engine can be run to operate the cream separator, the churn, the farm lighting plant or any other equipment coming within power range. Tests have shown that the operation of the engine is so smooth and its governor control so definite that when used to drive a lighting plant not the slightest flicker is noticeable.

TRACE BIG CREAM LOSS TO SEPARATOR

Practically any farmer can have his separator tested by merely saving the skimmilk, adding the bowl flushings to it, and having the can of skimmilk re-skimmed with a new, high-class separator of known dependability. In order to emphasize the universal necessity of "checking up" on every kind of separator, over 1,000 public demonstrations were made during the past three years by De Laval-trained dairymen. Before audiences totaling 100,000 farmers, the skimmilk from some cream separator in use in the community was re-skimmed with a new, dependable machine. The cream recovered in this manner was weighed and tested and a check obtained for the amount of butterfat recovered from the skimmilk Last year, in 523 tests, an average of 9.2 gallons of skim milk was re-skimmed at each test. An average of 3.6 pounds of cream was recovered, worth 21.8 cents at prevailing prices. This means an average loss of over $79.00 per year for all the separators from which skim milk was obtained.

Silver Hoard Put Away by Romans Unearthed

At Caerleon in Monmouthshire, where, a Roman legionary fortress stood to keep the Welsh marches for the Caesars in the Third century, excavators digging there unearthed some interesting secrets.

The one that is the oddest is that of the three centurions of the Second Augustan legion whose names, Quintinus Aquila, Vibius Procuius, and Vibius Severus, have been newly found. One of them must have been a hard-faced man who had done very well out of the war (like some men of a later day).

Whether it was hidden by Quintinius Aquila or by one of the two named Vibius we may never know; but beneath the floor of the quarters of one of these three centurions was a hoard of 280 silver coins. They may have been wrung from the neighboring Britons. Perhaps they were part of the military chest of the soldiers.

Some of the companies of the legion about that time appear to have been given marching orders for the north, where they were to take part in the work on Hadrian's wall.

Many Republics Before That of United States

Probably the first government which can be considered republican in form was the ancient Israelitish commonwealth or republic, which lasted from about 1491 B. C. to 1095 B C. About three centuries after this the Greek states, of which Athens was chief, set up what gradually came to be democratic republics. Ancient Carthage and Rome were for a short period republics. During the Middle ages many of the free cities of Italy and Germany set up republics. San Marino in Italy is now the oldest existing republic, while Switzerland has existed as a republic since 1291. According to an article in the American Cyclopedia, the degree of popular sovereignty in republics has varied very widely in the past, most of the so-called republics having been ruled by an aristocracy which jealously guarded its own rights but treated the multitude as little better than slaves. "Real republican government may be said to date from the American Declaration of Independence, and even in the United States the government was largely one of class until about the second quarter of the Nineteenth century, when suffrage barriers began to break down."

PROPER RATIONS MEAN BETTER EGGS

Culling Broody Hens and Selling Males also Necessary, says Termohlen

Keeping the mash hopper supplied with good mash available to the laying flock at all times is the first step in securing good egg production during the summer, according to W. M. Vernon, extension specialist in poultry husbandry at Iowa State College.

From the feed in the hopper, the hens will balance the feed they pick up over the farm which will help maintain production as well as quality. Hens when fed well, produce eggs with a firm body which are better able to withstand the rigors of the marketing processes. Culling of the non-producers and persistently broody hens is another practice which will cut production cost and increase quality because the egg is not kept continually warm.

The removal of male birds and production of infertile eg most effective way of keepi quality because fertile e germ development and ar to deteriorate much more in quality than infertile eg The production and mai of quality in summer and is one of the biggest prob the Iowa Poultry producer, ing to W. D. Termohlen, in poultry and egg ma Consequently, the first step provment suggested by Mr. are to be followed by freq thering two or three times keeping in a cool dry place, off before placing in the and marketing at least two week and selling on a grade

FOUR MORE KLEMME SCOUTS IN CAMP THIS WEEK

Eight Klemme Boys To Go To The "Cub Camp" Next Week

Seven Klemme Boy Scouts came home Tuesday morning from Camp Roosevelt, and four others began a week's camping the same morning. There are in Camp Roosevelt this period one hundred and four Scouts and sixteen adult leaders.

Klemme Scouts Made Good

The seven Klemme Scouts, Paul Sampson, Wayne Pavey, Harold Jost, Paul Hughes, Thomas Gimer, Roy Arnold and Kenneth Griffen, displayed good Scouting and made advancements in their camp "R." Wayne Pavey, Paul Sampson and Harold Jost were in the Teepee Camp, which was for Scouts ranking first class or higher. There were thirty-two Scouts in this division. Wayne Pavey headed the Sanitation Department during the camp period.

Tuesday morning Dorance Day, Wilbur Arnold, Byrnes Missman and Asa Gibbs entered camp for a week of Scouting. Byrnes, Dorance and Wilbur, who are first class Scouts will undoubtedly be found in the Teepee Camp. Asa is a Second class Scout and well along toward his first class goal.

"Cubs" Go To Camp Tuesday

Eight Klemme boys between the ages of nine to eleven, inclusive, have registered for the "Cub" camp and will enter Camp Roosevelt on Tuesday morning at 10:00 a. m. for four days ending Saturday a. m. at the same hour. The eight boys who have registered to date are: Buster Jorgenson, Richard Hughes, Max Barz, Melvin Barz, Everett Barz, Ruben Grosshuesch and Alvin Bachman.

The same staff of adult leaders who conduct the Scout Camp will be in charge of the Cubs, and parents need not fear but that their boys will be well taken care of and watched over.

There is still time to register for the Cub Camp if this is done at once as places are filling rapidly.

NORTHEAST IOWA STILL LEADS IN BUTTER PRICES

The northeast Iowa creameries have been able to retain their lead in the price that they have been able to pay producers for butterfat during the past year, according to figures that have been tabulated by the Dairy and Food Division of the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

For comparison purposes the state has been divided into three sections the 25northeast Counties, the 24 northwest countes and the 50 southern counties. During the past year the average price paid producers for butterfat was 48.57 cents in northeast Iowa, 46.23 in northwest Iowa, and 43.63 cents in southern Iowa.

The average price during 1929 was approximately two and three-quarters cents per pound less than in 1928 In the northeast Iowa counties, the difference was 2.67 cents lower, the northwest Iowa counties 2.75 cents lower and the southern counties 3.02 cents lower. This shows that the territories where the quality was highest suffered least from the depressed prices of last fall.

Sioux county in northeast Iowa continues to lead all counties in the form cream produced within the county. Their total was 6,476,544 pounds as c mpared to 5,664,488 pounds manufactured in Clayton county and 4,905,787 pounds in Fayette count. Bremer county continued to lead all other counties in the average price paid for butterfat with an average price of50.5 cents for the year.

A Scotchman gave a penny to a blind man. He needed the pencil.

This country used to be referred to as the land flowing with milk and honey. A pretty allegory if we keep the mind off clabber and the sticky qualities of honey, but no longer applicable. What the land flows with now is "applesauce."

BUTTER CONSUMPTION INCREASES IN IOWA

An analysis of the reports of Iowa creameries which has been made by the Dairy and Food Division of the Iowa Department of Agriculture shows that Iowa people conusmed more butter in 1929 than in previous years. The publicity of the Eat More Butter campaigns and the lower prices of butter are undoubtedly responsible for this increase.

In 1929, there were 38,863,393 pounds of creamery butter sold in the State. Of these sales, 8,837,252 pounds were sold by the creameries to theiir patrons. If 80 per cent of the farm made butter was consumed in Iowa, we would have a total consumption of 57,263,400 pounds of butter, or 23 1 pounds per capita. This is six pounds greater than the average for the United States

Washington Stirred Up Over Van Buren's Coach

Van Buren arrived in Washington toward the end of the second week of the session, it being traditional for the Vice President to absent himself until the senate committees had been appointed. On taking the chair on Monday, December 16, he made his first public utterance as the second officer of the land. It was short and one such as others before and after him have made; totally devoid of significance. It provoked no comment; but the coach he had brought over from England did. The adverse journals described it as an English coach of state—"a very splendid carriage, drawn by two beautiful blooded horses, their heads and tails full of a great deal more of intellect, passion, feeling and sublimity than their owner. . . . It is of a dark-olive hue, with ornaments elegantly disposed, shining as bright as burnished gold" and "far more superb than the equipages of royalty."—From "An Epoch and a Man" by Dennis Tilden Lynch.

Wide Use of Amulets

Amulets, writes Frank H. Vizetelly, editor of the New Standard dictionary, were used once not only for the protection of men and women, but also of cattle. The so-called Antonius medallions were very much in demand for this purpose, and were hung upon horses, asses, and oxen, for Antony of Padua had been the patron of the horse and the ass in his day. Cowbells, like bells hung upon infants, were intended originally to frighten away evil spirits, and their use in later times to help the herdsmen to trace the cattle or identify their beasts is a much later idea. Charms against charms also were worn.

tish Abbey Holds Relics of Robert Bruce

Subject to the fulfillment of certain conditions, the trustees of Professor Noel Paton handed over the following articles to the kirk-session of Dunfermline abbey: 1. A portion of the skeleton of King Robert the Bruce, namely, the metatarsal or bone of the great toe. 2. A small portion of the outer leaden shroud of King Robert the Bruce. 3. A small portion of the toile d'or in which the body of King Robert the Bruce was wrapped. 4. The remains of one of the iron nails which were found among the remains of the coffin in which the body reposed. 5. The remains of one of the six iron rings, or rather handles, which had been filled in with lead into the largest of two stones protecting the vault of the Bruce when first discovered on February 17, 1818. 6. Twelve fragments—white marble and calm stone—believed to be portions of the magnificent monument of King Robert the Bruce at Dunfermline destroyed by the Lords of the Congregation." The relics are preserved in an oak glass-fronted cabinet placed alongside of the abbey pulpit erected immediately above the vault of the Bruce.—London Mail.

Nothing New

The young son of an Indianapolis physician is intensely interested in moths. He reads evertyhing that comes to hand concerning them. One day, when his father saw him poring over a big volume in the library, he said:

"What are you reading, son?"

The son replied: "Oh, about moths, but they don't tell me anything I don't already know about them."

The interested parent asked: "Well, what is the name of your book," when son answered:

"What All Moth-ers Should Know."

And now that dog days are heer, wouldn't it feel comfortable to be bitten by one of those January cold snaps?

Piko Grow 2 Inches In 40 Days

Average growth of two inches has been recorded for the 1,250,000 young pike placed in the nursery pond two miles north of Clear Lake These fish were placed in the pond just 40 days ago and at that time were scarcely visible to the naked eye. They now range from one and three-fourths to two and a fourth inches in length. The Clear Lake nursery pond which was started early this spring as an experiment n isolated raising of fish, covers26 acres Water is brought through through a 36 inch tile from a creek a quarter of amile north, accross which has been placed a dam with a gate to regulate the flow. At the south end of the pond is an outlet connecting with a nearby drainage ditch. By opening this outlet in fall the pond will be drained and the ipke taken out and put into the lake At that time they will be about five inches long and are known as fingerling. During the winter no water remains in the reservoir and all vegetation is killed by frost. This the pond bed. Since this is the first year the nursery has been used and is somewhat of an experiment. only 1,250,000 wer placed n it although t he capacity is 6,000 000.

Not Through

Billy, age five, was invited as a guest with his mother and father to take dinner at a hotel. He was greatly impressed with the service and was especially appreciative of the finger bowl. He had paused in the process of washing his fingers, and the alert waitress started to remove the bowl. This time, however, her attempt was halted, for Billy remonstrated in an unmistakable tone of command: "Don't take the washpan! I want to wash some more dirt off of my hands."

Apparently a Highway Victim

Bobbie, aged four, had accompanied his mother on a visit to the home of an over-nice maiden great-aunt. Cautioned for days and days beforehand, he was careful about everything he said and did—until dinner time came. Then he became eager, for he was told that chicken was on the menu.

When this delectable fowl was served, and Bobbie observed that there were no "drum-sticks," but instead were shredded patties, he exclaimed:

"This chicken must have been run over!"

WASTE LAND IN IOWA

Within the deeded area of Iowa farm there is only nintey-five hundredths of one per cent of the area that can really be decribed as waste land not utilzed for any agricultural purpose, according to figures just tabulated by the Weather and Crop Bureau of the Iowa Department of Agmade by assesors since January 1.

Probably no other State can show such a small per cent of waste land This is not saying that there is not waste land in Iowa outside of the deeded area of farms. This enumeration accounts for 34,118,695 acres of farms, while the total area of the State is 35,783,663. The difference, 1, 664,968 acres is mostly accounted for in the towns, railway right-of-way, mines, quarries, lakes rivers, parks, etc, so the amount of really waste land outside the deeded areaof farms is small and is mostly along the large boundary rivers.

THE FLAG.

The flag represents the living country and is considered as a living thing. The flag will not be dipped by way of salute or compliment to anyone No lettering of any kind will be placed on the flag, nor will any flag or pennant be flown above the national flag.

The flag should be hung flat. It is not to be fastened over doorways or arches, tied in a bow knot, nor fashioned in a resette. When used on a rostrum it should be displayed above and behind the speaker's desk. It should never be used to cover the speaker's desk, nor draped over the front of platform. For this latter purpose, as well as for decorations in general, bunting of the national colors should be used, and since the union (blue) always has the place of honor, the colors should be arranged with the blue above, the white in the middle and the red below.

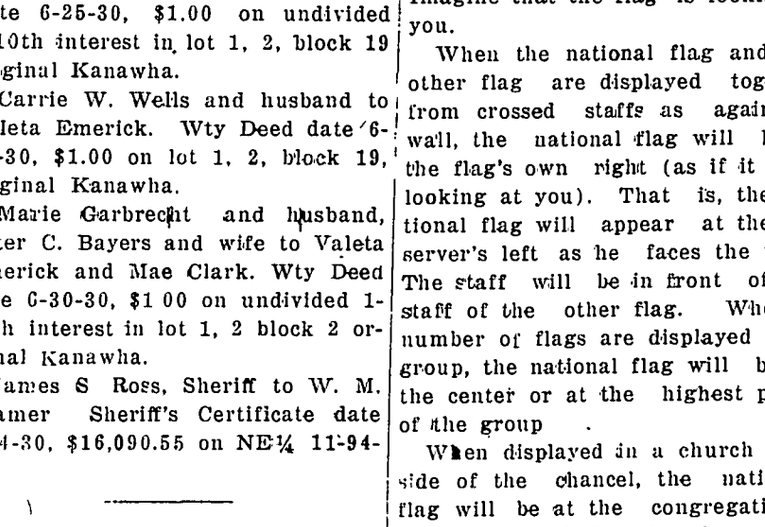
When the national flag is hung vertically or horozontally against a wall the union (blue) will be uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, the blue should be to the observer's left as he faces the wall. Imagine that the flag is looking at you.

When the national flag and one other flag are displayed together from crossed staffs as against a wall, the national flag will be to the flag's own right (as if it were looking at you). That is, the national flag will appear at the observer's left as he faces the wall. The staff will be in front of the staff of the other flag. When a number of flags are displayed in a group, the national flag will be in the center or at the highest point of the group

When displayed in a church outside of the chancel, the national flag will be at the congregation's right When inside the chancel, it will be at the minister's right as he faces the congregation. Flags of other nations, if displayed, will be o the opposite wall of the church the opposite side, across the aisle or or chapel.

To be cultured a woman must have something besides a dislike for onions.

READY FOR VACATION SEEKERS



Des Moines, Special:
More than $50,000 has been spent during the past three months in preparing the state fairgrounds at Des Moines for the big 1930 exposition which is expected to attract upwards of one-half million people from August 20 to 29. The above picture shows a partial view of the 300-acre tract which will be the Mecca for vacation-seekers from Iowa and forty other states. Fair officials say that the exposition this year will be by far the largest ever presented in the state's history.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

EXPERT SHOWS BOYS HOW TO CARE FOR SHOW COLTS

Showmanship And Braiding Taught Boys In Colt Club Work

Harry Linn of the Iowa Horse & Mule Breeders Association spent 2 days in Hancock County working with the 4-H Club members. The first day was spent visiting the boys and girls colts while the seocnd day a group meeting was held at the H. A. Greiman farm. There the members were taught braiding and show manship.

I shall give you an example of what head work meant to one of the Colt Club members. The morning after the group meeting at the Greiman farm, Bud Brouwer was unable to braid a tail or mane. But while he was hauling manure that day he continually thought how it was done the day before. That night on trying, he was able to braid perfectly except for tightness, which will come in with more practice.

Spray Weeds In Morning

A good practice when spraying thistles this season of the year was followed by C. H. Groesbeck. Last Saturday at 5:00 a. m. he was found spraying the thistle in his pasture. Had he waited until the heat of the day the sodium chlorate would have cystalized on the leaves resulting in a poorer kill.

Banker Conwell Goes After Thistles On His Farm

Owen Conwell states that no thistles are going to seed on his farm this year. He has hired a man to hoe the few found in the corn fields. Later on sodium chlorate will be used as an exterminator Mr. Conwell has found outt hat certain side hills on his farm need lime Realizing the value of lime, he is going to apply it this fall.

Kahler Plows His Thistles

Emmet Kahler of near Forest City is plowing the few patches of thistle found on his farm. His system is to plow shallow the first time and then just as the thistles start through he is going o plow again just enough deeper so the plow will scour. He will repeat this practice until freezing time.

Sherwood Has 9 Acres Alfalfa

W. L. Sherwood, realizing that to grow alfalfa one must have good ground, is applying manure and a superphosphate fertilizer to his 9 acre field. That manure certainly pays and is needed, could be easily seen in his filed as he had hauled one load of chicken manure on the alfalfa. One could follow the manure spreader down through the field.

C. K. Pals would like very much to see it rain but his crops certainly look like they weren't suffering. The bundle haulers want to be ready or heavy oats during the threshing.

Wm. Prelipp must be the busiest man in Avery township. When he isn't working on his own machinery tractor, or cars, he is tuning up some one eleses.

Don't Let Stubble Catch Afire

In closing this article, I should like to sound a warning to threshing rings in the dry sections of our county. Remember that the stubble is very dry and once ignited burns very rapidly. The backfire from the engine might do the igniting or a match or a lighted cigaret may burn the entire field. Keep the stubble wet under the tractor, the stamer or what have you and urge the bundle haulers and all to be extra careful.

Achievement Show Aug. 19-20

Don't forget the big 4-H Achievement Show at Garner on August 19 and 20. There will be a good exhibit of livestock and the girls will have demonstrations and exhibits on the Bread Projeot.

Spend your money with home folks.

INTENSE HEAT CAUSES PAVING TO EXPLODE

Several places on the paved high way have exploded because of the intense heat. One place between Britt and Hutchins raised the pavement entirely across to a height of between three and four feet, tieing up traffic effectually for a couple of hours. Another place east of Britt and one east of Garner have exploded. Farmers who have heard the explosions say it makes a noise like that of a cannon. Wheels and tires have been damaged on the rough edge that is left protruding above the level. One large car attempted to pass over one of the high places and was left straddling the hump for a time until help extricated it.—Britt News—Tribune

STRANGE ACCIDENT WITH WEED KILLING CHEMICAL

C. P. Luick of Belmond had been killing Canada thistle and other weeds on his farm with some kind of chemical the last week. Monday when he came home at noon and was walking from his garage to his house, one of his shoes, which had become saturated with the chemical exploded and was on fire instantly. He took the shoe off as quickly as possible but his foot was badly burned and his hand also was burned in removing the shoe. He thinks it must have been the friction caused by walking that made the chemical explode.

Des Moines has part of its program completed, with its City Hall, its Municipal Court Building, its Federal Post Office, its Federal Court Building, its public library, and its coliseum, on its river front, between Grand Avenue and Court Avenue. The completion of the picture is to include a fine arts building an da new and more extensive Federal Post Office building. Cedar Rapids is also progressing with its civic center, on an island in the Cedar River, where have been constructed its court house and memorial city hall and other buildings.

IOWA is proud of its seventy building and loan and savings and loan associations, which have been the great factor in giving the state such a large proportion of homes owned bytheir occupants.

IOWA can boast of the fact that the state has not had a failure of a building and loan or savings and loan association during the past 34 years, and no investor has lost a dollar entrusted to any of the associations in the state.

KLEMME LOCALS

The "Loyal Workers" class of the Methodist Sunday school and their families enjoyed a fine picnic dinner at the Klemme Park Sunday noon. There was a large crowd present to attend this event which has become an annual affair. As in the past, fried spring chicken had the leading place on the menu. All report an excellent dinner and a fine time.

H. F. Jost of the North Iowa Grain Co. was almost a prospect for a new "Chivvy" the other day when his car was discovered on fire. He had the car parked near his office and in some manned the front cushions caught fire. A small fire extinguisher was grabbed from the office and the fire easily put out. But new cushions are needed for the car both for looks and comfort.

The City Dads had the cop flush the hydrants along the business section of main street Tuesday and thus at the same time settle the dust. It would be fine if this could be done several times a week, and while they were at it to use a longer hose and settle the dust at the ends of the street where there are business places, and also on the side streets.

In giving the list of Klemme boys last week who attended the Boy Scout Camp, we neglected to state that Sammy Howard was also present. Sam transferred from Troop 47, Des Moines, to the Klemme troop. This was Sammy's first experience in Camp but he made good. Sammy won his red "R," which is considered good for a first year camper.

It was so hot around Klemme the last of the week that the farmers report that their hens made nests in the tree tops where slight breezes would keep the eggs cool. One farmer says one of his hens leaned over too far and the egg droped on the ground. He was surprised that it did not break, but upon examination found that it was hard-boiled from falling thru the hot air. Another farmer who is raising pop corn had to put straw hats on the corn to keep it from popping!

"Carillons" and "Chimes"

Nic Lude says: "The carillon consists of 28 or more bells of varying weight and size Each bell has at least five tones—strike tone nominal (an octave above,) hum tone (octave below), minor third, perfect fifth. These must be in perfect tune with each other before tuning with other bells. The range of these bells is four or more octaves of a chromatic scale. A chime has a few bells tuned to the diatonic scale, usually within the compass of one octave."

Growth of Sand Dunes

The sand dunes along the shores of lakes are formed by the wind. A stiff breeze blowing along the beach carries some sand with it. It meets some obstacle, a piece of driftwood or perhaps merely a tuft of grass. Some of the sand is deposited and a tiny dune is formed. More and more sand is added until a large mound is formed, sometimes rising to a height of 300 feet. The wind not only builds up dunes but tears them down, so that the sand dunes are constantly changing in form and position.

Remark That Silenced Silly Women at Opera

Who says that American men are lacking in cultural instincts and confine their conversation to the three prosaics—business, sports and prohibition? During intermission at a Philadelphia orchestra concert the other night this reporter, seeking enlightenment, joined a group of veteran music-lovers.

He heard this:

". . . So I turned to those two chattering women behind me and said, 'Ladies, you are barbarians.' And they didn't talk again that night while the program was on."

"Well, you made out better than I did once at the Metropolitan. I guess I was too polite. I said: 'Pardon me, ladies, but the music has begun.' They talked more and faster than ever."

"Aw, you don't know how. I certainly squelched two girls sitting beside me at a German opera one night. I said: 'Excuse me, girls, but Wagner didn't write any parts in this opera for female voices in the gallery.'"

"Gee, you know how to do it, all right."—Philadelphia Record.

Awful Threat Brought "Half-Croon" in Hurry

Grim was the reply of the Scottish gravedigger when a certain niggardly farmer was haggling about the charge for his wife's interment. I well remember the gravedigger recounting the incident. I had asked him if he ever had had any difficulty in getting payment for his rather trying work.

"Only yince," he said. "It was when Ewan Swan buried his wife. Ye mind her with the guid gaun tongue. Efter I had raised my kep, as a signal to the mourners to gang, Ewan stayed ahint. Says he to me, 'What will I be aw'n ye, John?' 'Seeven and six,' says I. 'It's ower much,' says he, 'in licht sandy soil like that,' and he hands me a croon. 'Sandy soil or hard clay, it's seeven and six,' says I, 'and doon with another half-croon or up she comes!' And I nivver seen a half-croon come sae smert oot o' a fermer's pooch."—Scots Observer.

What a Penny Can Do

I heard a wise man say: "Give crown and pounds and guineas, but not your heart away. . . ." Young men, however, are apt to be careless of their hearts, mindful of their pounds and guineas, but rarely, very rarely, mindful of their pennies. A penny, they know, will tell them their weight, will purchase exactly one stick of chewing gum. Some may even know that a penny will light a 40-watt bulb for three and a half hours. But pennies are generally a nuisance. You get them when you buy a newspaper. You can never tip with them.

But this a penny can do, so scorn it less: one penny can move a ton of coal one mile, almost, by rail. By sea one penny can move a ton of coal fifteen miles, which, incidentally, is 79,200 feet.—Fortune, the Business Magazine.

The Last Scrivener

"I am the last public scrivener in Paris. . . ." A serious little man was speaking to a representative of the Paris Soir. "Things have changed," he continued, "and when the buildings about here are torn down I shall have to move. There are not so many letters to write now, for even the little maids have learned to pencil their own love missives. I still have, however, enough clients to earn my living." Over his modest office is the sign: "Public Scrivener" The profession was legalized in France by Charles V during the latter part of the Fourteenth century.—Exchange.

Ceylon Great Trading Port

Spices, plumbago, pearls and rare woods, the export commodities which brought fame to Ceylon, have been superseded by tea, rubber and coconut products as the island's leading exports. More than one-fourth of the world's commercial crop of tea is produced there. In the two chief coconut products, copra and coconut oil, Ceylon's contribution forms a tenth of the aggregate world exports. One-tenth of the total rubber supply is produced there.

Radium Disintegration

Atoms of radium are distinguished from atoms of non-radio-active substances by the property of spontaneous disintegration, which, in the case of radium, consists in the ejection of an alpha-particle, which is a small piece of the central core or nucleus of the radium atom. This process transforms the radium atom into another chemical element. During disintegration atoms of radium also emit a radiation similar to X-rays.

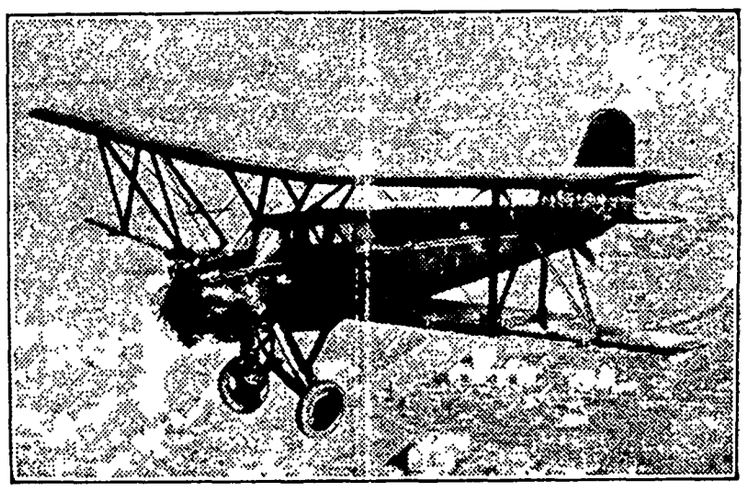
$100,000.00 PRIZE PLANE



Des Moines, Iowa, Special:

Above is the famous $100,000 prize-winning safety plane, the Curtiss Tanager, which will be one of the many famous ships to be exhibited and flown at the National Air Show at the coming Iowa State Fair, August 20 to 29. This is probably the most famous ship in the world today, having won the $100,000 Guggenheim prize a few months ago. It definitely eliminates the tailspin, will right itself automatically when buffeted by the wind, and takes off and lands in an almost unbelievably small space.

STATE FAIR TO BREAK RECORD

Des Moines, Special:

In the wake of the record-breaking Diamond Jubilee State Fair of last year in which over 435,000 visitors thronged the huge exposition grounds at Des Moines for eight days and nights, officials of the 1930 State Fair this week predicted that even last year's high mark would be shattered this season as a result of the unusual array of attractions to be assembled here for the $5,000,000 exposition from August 20 to 29.

Here are some of the highlights scheduled for the 76th annual Iowa State Fair as announced by officials today.

National Livestock Show—6,000 head of America's finest horses, cattle, swine and sheep.

Boys and Girls' Club Congress—Over 2,000 junior farmers, in 8 days of exhibits, demonstrations and judging.

Horse Races—5 days of the fastest racing in the midwest for over $20,000 in purses.

Auto Races—2 days, August 22 and 29; world famous champions competing for big purses.

"The Awakening"—Mammoth $50,000.00 open air spectacle of the progress of man through the ages; gorgeous settings, beautiful ballets, brilliant fireworks. Every night.

Hippodrome—15 of the greatest circus attractions of America and Europe, afternoon and evening.

7 great Bands and Orchestras, including Bohumir Kryl and his Band.

National Air Show and Air Races; day and night, gliders and planes of every type.

Free Camp—100 acre camp ground, with every convenience, open to visitors free.

In addition to these chief features, the fair will also embrace the Statewide Horseshoe Pitching Tournament, Team Pulling Contest, Old Fiddlers' Contest, Baby Health Contest, State Checker Tournament, Sheep Shearing Contest, four nights of Society Horse Shows, a big Farm Bureau Day program on Monday, August 25, a midway of 40 carloads of shows and riding devices and scores of other attractions which will appeal to both old and young.

Entries in the fair this year are larger than ever before. Paved and graveled roads reaching out from Des Moines in all directions are expected to add materially to the increase in attendance over former years.

"We believe we have prepared this season the most ideal outing we have ever offered to the people of the midwest," Secretary Corey said this week. "The exhibits are filled with practical, educational features of value to the farmers and business men of the midwest, and the entertainment program both day and night is the most interesting, elaborate and costly that we have ever presented. We are confidently expecting a half-million people to take their outings at the far this year."

$20,000 FAIR RACES

Des Moines, Special:

Some of the fastest horse racing that has ever been witnessed in the midwest is promised here this summer when the $20,000 harness and running race classics scheduled for the 1930 Iowa State Fair are opened on the famous Des Moines track.

More than 300 harness and running horses will take part in these events. The horse racing program will open on Saturday, August 23, continuing for five days through Thursday, August 28. In addition, two days of national championship automobile racing are scheduled at this year's fair for Friday, August 22, and Friday, August 29.

CIRCUS STARS COMING

Des Moines, Special:

One of the greatest hippodrome shows ever assembled in this country will augment the daily entertainment program at the 1930 Iowa State Fair here this summer, according to contracts with eastern producers closed this week by officials of the Fair board.

Headlining the show each afternoon and evening in front of the grandstand will be such attractions as the internationally famous Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet, the Marcelle-Williams team of adagio dancers from the big motion picture spectacle "The Show of Shows", the Chew Hing Troupe of orientals, Billy Lorette, widely known circus clown, the Seven Nelsons, famous aerialists direct from European hippodromes, and a score of other noted attractions from the "big tops". The hippodrome show will be in addition to the daily racing, aviation, musical and fireworks features in front of the grandstand at the fair.

PLAN 5,000 VOICE CHOIR

Des Moines, Special.

One of the largest and most unique choirs ever assembled in America—a chorus of 5,000 boys and girls' voices representing the rural schools of sixty different counties in the state—will be presented as one of the features of the musical program at the coming Iowa State Fair here.

The choir will make two appearances in front of the grandstand on Sunday, August 24. The children who will participate have been undergoing special training for the last ten months by means of identical phonograph records which have been sent to each county. Educators and music leaders from all parts of the country are watching the results of this unusual Iowa experiment which is expected to be one of the outstanding features at the coming fair.

KLEMME KITTEN BALL TEAM NOSING TO THE TOP

In Seven Games Have Won Four, Tied One And Lost Two

The Klemme Kitten Ball Team has been showing marked improvement in their last few games, by beating teams that they were boaten by early in the season. In the past seven games Klemme has won four, tied one, and lost two.

The local team beat Garner decisively in a game here, and also one at Garner. They then lost to Goodell by a score of 2 to 1 Last week a team from Belmond came here fully expecting to beat our boys but they were trimmed by a score of 10 to 7. Sunday the local team went to Ventura to take part in the tournament where they beat Britt 8 to 4, only to lose to Ventura 9 to 6. They did very well in the tournament as they were forced to play one game immediately after the other because the Garner team failed to appear

Played Tie Game With Goodell

Tuesday night the Goodell team came to Klemme and the score was tied 5-5. The tie was not played off because of darkness.

Many Klemme people have been attending these games and the boys wish to thank them for their support and at the same time invite them to attend all future games.

Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Whyte had company last week; some relatives, but we are unable to state clearly the exact relationship, and Rev. and Mrs. Whyte are also puzzled and will welcome any suggestions from their friends.

To begin with we will state that Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Whyte, daughter Roma, and son Verle of Cushing, Iowa, were the guests.

W. B. Whyte is an uncle of Rev. Whyte. Mrs W. B Whyte is Mrs. Whyte's sister.

Now this makes W. B. Rev H. E. Whyte's brother-in-law, and Mrs. W. B. is his aunt as well as his sister-in-law, and vice versa. And as long as they are the uncle and aunt of both Mr. and Mrs. Whyte, the children can claim Rev. and Mrs. Whyte as uncle and aunt or cousins as they happen to be in the mood.

Any other suggestions will be welcome.

Farm wages were two per cent lower, on the average July 1 this year than they were on April 1. This decline from April to July is in sharp contrast to the normal increase of 6 per cent during this period. It is believed that the decline in industrial activity is chiefly responsible for the lowering of farm wages.,

If, as an optometrist estimates, 72 per cent of the American people are suffering from eye strain, it is probably due to looking for a place to park—Macon (Ga.) Telegraph

TRUCK DRIVERS ON STRIKE MONDAY

AGREEMENT REACHED AND ALL BACK ON JOB TODAY

Boom On Clam Shell Breaks Causing Further Tie Up On Paving

Klemme experienced something new and which never before has given the town concern, that of a genuine strike which began early Monday morning, when truck drivers hauling sand and cement for the paving crew refused to move a wheel until satisfactory terms had been reached between the men and Mr Herrick, who contracts this part of the work for Kenzie & Killeen, paving contractors.

There seemed to be some misunderstanding regarding the haul and the amount paid, and the truck drivers struck to gain what they thought should be coming to them. They hired Attorney F. E. Blackstone of Garner to council for them and draw up satisfactory hauling contracts. An agreement was finally reached and the men were about to resume work when another turn of fate prevented them.

Breakdown of equipment delayed operations until this morning.

Monday morning a cable snapped on the caterpillar outfit operating the clam shell used in unloading sand and gravel. When the cable broke the boom fell across a gravel car, bending, twisting and breaking the mass of steel. The boom had to be taken down and hauled over to Mason City for repairs. Another accident on the way back again delayed operations. The truck which was bringing the boom to Klemme slid off the grade south of Ventura and a caterpillar had to be sent out to get the outfit back on the road. The boom was finally brought in and the clam shell put into operation late Tuesday afternoon. All is well as we go to press and paving is again in full swing.

The rain Monday night delayed the grading gang who also laid off Tuesday.

As a side light on the truck drivers' strike we might add that no real strike would be complete without a fight. Two of the drivers got into a good old fashioned knock em down and drag em out affair about five o'clock Monday morning. One fellow was pretty badly beaten up when the deputy sheriff arrived in town to referee the war and call off any future inclinations of combat.

COBUSTION CAUSES BIG FIRE LOSS

Fire, believed o have oribinated from combustion of newly made hay destroyed a large barn, a machine shed containing a large amount of machinery and an automobile 800 bushels of corn, three calves and some new hay, on the Vic Scatlander farm five miles southeast of Goodell on the afternoon of July 23.

When the blaze was discovered by members of the family, a call was put into the fire department in Belmond. The firemen succeeded in saxving the remainder of the buildings on the farm but were unable to cope with the furnace-like barn or machine shed.—Mason City Globe-Gazette.

KLEMME "CUBS" MADE GOOD AT CAMP ROOSEVELT

Younger Boys Spent Four Days At Area Scout Camp

Nine Klemme boys, ranging between the ages of nine and eleven, inclusive, returned home Saturday morning from four big days spent at Camp Roosevelt, and all of them won camp honors.

They entered the Camp classed as "Braves." Nine earned the title and given the felt insigia of "Warrior." One boy won his "Chieftain" badge, the highest rank.

The following boys won the rank of warrior: Ruben Grosshuesch, Max Barz, Everett Barz, Milvern Barz, Buster Jorgenson, Alvin Bachman, Raymond Keeper and Norman Sampson. Richard Hughes was oue of the five boys in camp to be awarded the Chieftain Badge, highest camp honor.

The boys were in direct charge of "Medicine Men," who were picked as being outstanding Scouts during the summre camping season. These picked Scouts, there were nine of them (one for each lodge), demonstrated fine leadership and it was through them that the younger boy period was so successful. Those older Scouts were honored by being presented with a Chieftain badge, as were also the adult Scouters who served on the staff.

Wilbur Arnold was the "Medicine Man" who had charge of the lodge in which resided the Klemme boys. Wilbur is to be congratulated for the manner in which he led his "Braves" to higher honors, all winning the Warrior badge, and one the Chieftain.

Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch served on the staff during the younger boy period and had supervision over one of the Tribes. Rev Zike of Ventura and Mr. Boyd of Clarksville were also volunteer leaders, in addition to the regular camp staff.

Every Klemme boy passed the 30 foot swimming test while in camp, and one Klemme boy made the remarknble record of learning to swim nd then pass 30 feet and then went right out and swam fifty yards.

It is planned to organize the Cub movement in the area at an early date. We already know of at least nine Klemme boys who are eagerly awaiting the time when they can officially become Cubs.

GOOD RAIN HERE EARLY TUESDAY BENEFITS CORN

Heat Wave Of Past Week Broken After Record Mercury Soar

Sunday was the hottest day Iowa has had for many years when the thermometers in this vicinity registered 107 degrees in the shade, Des Moines sweltered under 110 degrees, while Sac City reported the highest in the state, that of 113 degrees. During the night flashes of lightning and thunder clouds failed ed bring needed rains.

However, Tuesday morning beginning at 12:15 o'clock a heavy rain fell over this part of the state. A good rain fell here at that hour and continued until about 5:00 a. m.

Corn and other crops in this part of the state were greatly benefited and farmers say the rain came in th nick of time.

With the rain also came a relief from old Sol's sweltering weather.

Airplane's "Flying" and "Cruising" Speed Differ

Cruising speed of an airplane is the speed at which it runs to best advantage considering oil and fuel consumption rate, vibration, laboring of and strain on motor. In other words, the speed one would care to run the motor (or airplane) on a long trip so that one would not burn up too much gas per hour at, perhaps, a slightly lower motor speed at, perhaps, no decrease in airplane speed; so that the motor would not waste oil; so that the motor would vibrate least; so that the motor would take it most easily. Comparable to an automobile there is top speed—say 65 miles per hour—and cruising speed (speed at which a car runs most smoothly with not too much care in steering, say at 30 miles per hour). In a plane, top speed might be 105 miles per hour; cruising speed, 90 miles per hour. Speed necessary to keep the plane in air is called flying speed. Minimum flying speed is called stalling speed. Landing speed is usually about two miles per hour greater than stalling speed.

Harvest Home Festival Great Scottish Event

The annual "Kirn" or Harvest Home, is a settled institution on Scottish farms. These events are usually held in the granary of the farm, which is suitably decked for the occasion. The floor is none too smooth; but the tackety boots of the dancers are quite able to contend with it. The band consists of a fiddle and melodeon, and the dances bear such weird titles as "Petronella," "Rifleman" and "Drops of Brandy." The most amusing part of the proceedings comes when the steward returns thanks to the farmer for giving the "kirn." It is the one speech he makes in the year, so it is a great event for him. He usually begins in high-flown English, to the admiration of the company, but invariably fails to keep it up, and ends in braid Scots.

Hint for the Home

Women may lead in literature, divorce, glass blowing, fat girls, etc., but there is still one province where man reigns supreme.

When I got home last night Mrs. B was listing about 30 degrees to the starboard and complaining of severe pains in her left side.

After much coaxing I got her to tell me what the trouble was. She said she had carried in a bucket of coal.

I lit into her good. I was furious. I told her never to let me hear of her carrying in another single bucket of coal as long as she lived.

Her lips quivered and I thought that perhaps I had gone too far.

Then I told her that if she wanted to carry in the coal it was all right with me, but I wanted her to carry two buckets at a time in the future. I don't want no lopsided wife.—Spokane Spokesman Review.

Force in Expression

The expression, "An unlicked cub," is a strong, homely reference to a person who is crude, unpolished and undeveloped, who must literally be licked into shape by the attrition of lifes' experiences.

The metaphor is one we have borrowed from the world of zoology. It is an allusion to the practice of the mother bear, who actually seems to be constantly licking her cubs.

While, of course, the cub is not in reality licked into shape, still, an unlicked cub is such a bedraggled looking spectacle as compared with one who is, that the unlicked cub has come to take on the significance it has today, of something unfinished and uncouth.—Kansas City Star.

One's "Birthday"

The word birthday designates primarily the day of one's birth. Colloquially, the term is used to designate subsequent anniversaries of that day. Dictionaries emphasize this use defining the day as, "the day of one's birth or its anniversary." An anniversary is defined as, "a commemorative observance or celebration of an event separated by one year, or by an exact number of years from some past event." On one's first anniversary, one is one year old but celebrates what is colloquially accepted as one's second birthday, but one's first birthday anniversary.—Literary Digest.

Caesar's Profound Rebuke

The following quotation is from "Plutarch's Lives"; "Caesar once, seeing some wealthy strangers at Rome carrying up and down with them in their arms and bosoms young puppy dogs and monkeys, embracing and making much of them, took occasion, not unnaturally, to ask whether the women in their country were not used to bear children; by that prince-like reprimand gravely reflecting upon persons who spend and lavish upon brute beasts that affection and kindness which nature has implanted in us to be bestowed on those of our own kind."

Early Arctic Voyages

The Arctic regions were explored as early as 1588 by John Davis, who in that year reached latitude 72 degrees 12 minutes north. He was followed by William Barents in 1596, Henry Hudson in 1607 and William Baffin in 1616. The North pole was reached by Peary on April 6, 1909. The south polar regions were explored by Capt. James Cook in 1774. The South pole was discovered by Roald Amundsen on December 14, 1911.

NO MORE GOLF WIDOWS

In the far west a new sport has taken possesion of the people and the present fad is minature golf. How fast the game is spreading in the east and middle west the writer does not know but its promoters are coining money rapidly.

It is a "putting game" mostly; there are no long drives from tees, and the ball simply rolls around short distances between "greens" or stations. A peice of ground as large as an eighth block will accommodate the game which costs around $5.000 to install.

A newspaper reporter who is an ardent devotee of the baby golf game writes of it as follows:

"Whoever invented minature golf will need no monument. At one stroke of his sporting genius he has solved the problem of cleaning up and beautifying the waste spaces of the city.

"Not since the dancing mania of the Middle Ages has there been anything to compare with the sudden and widspread fascination for golf in its new form. Everybody is playing it and everybody enjoying it. Gone is the golf widow. In fact she has gone golfing with her husband and they have taken the family along.

It appears like a childish diversion but seems to b strictly in vogue wherever it has been introduced. It may go like the former box b sport which ran a few years a but some predict its lasting succe which will be to the detriment country clubs and regular g courses.—Northwood Anchor

Rugs Woven by Berbers Before Roman Conquest

Rug making is a most ancient art in Africa, and has its origin in the days before the Roman occupation, when the Berbers, inspired by Asiatic art, made carpets in designs and colorings similar to those woven at the present time by the native tribes. Rug making at first was a home industry, and the art of weaving was handed down from one generation to another. In a great number of tribes a head craftsman set up the loom, after which the women, under his direction, wove the rug according to his design. Since the French conquest of Algeria, the rug making industry has developed rapidly, owing to active propaganda on the part of the natives as well as to the creation of numerous industrial schools. Each region in Algeria has its own methods of working and produces a characteristic type of rug. Berber rugs are woven of a faded wool and look almost like tapestry. The Arab weave, on the other hand, has a thick, short, soft pile, not unlike the Smyrna rugs. A type known as Guergour has a central isolated motif on a plain background surrounded by a floral border. Its oriental origin is undeniable. Kalaa rugs come in shades of yellow, blue, green and brown, and have wide fringes.

Grecian Influence on Culture of Old Rome

Almost as far back as the history of Rome extends Greek influences are to be traced in the development of Roman culture. The Roman people were conservative and slow to cultivate the artistic sense. Rome had little creative genius. In her whole history she did not produce an artist such as Phidias and Praxiteles. The nature of the Roman was unusually practical and idealized power, law and profit. The Romans never created a distinctive style of architecture such as the Greeks. They borrowed their architecture from the Etruscans and the Greeks. The literary life of Rome has a profound effect upon mankind—Cicero with his orations, political and educational treatises; Caesar with his commentaries on the Gallic war; Sallust with his history of Rome; the poets Lucretius and Catullus. These poets, however, do not compare with the Iliad and Odyssey of Homer, the Greek philosophers Plato and Aristotle, Socrates, Xenophon and the orators Lyais and Isocrates.

American Ice Sheets

In North America three ice sheets have been identified. The Labradorean in the northeast had its center in northern Quebec, whence it spread in every direction to the south. Its flow covered most of eastern Canada and reached as far as New York and Cincinnati. The Keewatin sheet, radiating from relatively low ground to west of the Hudson bay, on the one hand came into confluence with the Labradorean sheet, and on the other hand met the third sheet. The Cordilleran diverges from an axis southwest of the Rocky mountains and in its full development may have come in contact with the Keewatin. In the southwest it reached Vancouver and the Pacific ocean. The driftless area of Wisconsin 300 miles within the lobate front of the Keewatin and the Labradorean sheet was left untouched. Just why this area escaped is by no means clear.

Sound Was the Same

Considering the short time the maid had been in this country she had been quick to master a new language, but once in a while encountered words that were puzzling in their import.

One morning the master of the house came down to breakfast and found that some flies had got into the room. He called the maid.

"Hilda, please bring me the fly swatter."

She looked undecided. "Bring you what, sir?"

He repeated, "Fly swatter."

Hilda nodded, went away and soon returned with—a glass of ice water.—Brockton Enterprise.

Advice Worth the Money

A novice who, deciding at last to ignore his friends' advice and to try and make his fortune on the racecourse, answered a tipster's advertisement which ran:

"Horses to follow, horses to watch, and horses to avoid. Send $5 for the best and soundest advice."

The money was sent and in due course the good and sound advice was received. It ran:

"Horses to follow, hearse horses; horses to watch, hobby horses; horses to avoid, racehorses."—Exchange.

"Scandinavian" Peoples

The word "Scandinavian" is of Latin adaptation and its etymology is not certain. In a strict sense it relates only to the Scandinavian peninsula and its people, Norwegians and Swedes. In a broader sense it included also Denmark, Iceland, and all the contiguous islands inhabited by the Scandinavian branch of the Germanic race. The Swedish elements in Finland are also generally included.

Forget About "Hard Luck"

Hard luck is more of a superstition than a fact. We attribute our misfortunes and failures to everything but ourselves, when they are usually due to our own laziness, shiftlessness, carelessness, or lack of foresight.—Grit.

Sand of Sahara Desert Carried Far by Winds

It is now well recognized that the falls of colored rain and also of dry dust that occur at rather frequent intervals in southern and central Europe are due, in most cases, to windborne material blown up from the Sahara desert.

Several cases in which enormous quantities of solid matter have been carried great distances by the winds have formed the subject of elaborate investigations on the part of meteorologists. Thus during the three days, March 8 to 10, 1901, heavy dust storms occurred in the deserts of southern Algeria, and the sequel of these storms was carefully studied by Hellmann and Meinardus. A widespread cyclonic storm, centered over Tunis at the time, sucked up the dust, which was carried northward by the winds at high altitudes.

Deposits from this dust cloud occurred over an area extending as far as 2,500 miles from the place of origin. Reports collected from hundreds of observers indicated that 1,800,000 tons of dust fell over the continent of Europe, and one-third of this fell north of the Alps. As much more is believed to have fallen over the Mediterranean, while on the African coast itself the deposit is supposed to have amounted to 150,000,000 tons.

Maiden's Heart Won by Suitor's Bank Balance

Bill and Jack, living in the same Long Island town, were rivals for the hand of pretty Betty, but, although she remained neutral and showed no preference, each considered himself the favored one. They remained friends, having made a gentleman's agreement that there would be no hard feelings on the part of the unsuccessful suitor.

However, there was no curb on the manner of courting her—and that's where fate stepped in. Bill continually sent Betty flowers and candy and took her to theaters and the opera. Jack, on the other hand, was decidedly stingy. But one night, after a pleasant visit, he managed to leave his bank book behind him in a chair, as if it had fallen out of his pocket.

Betty, being human and feminine, could not resist her curiosity—and that is why she married Jack. Flowers and candy can be forgotten, but real money in a bank speaks volumes. —New York Sun.

Franklin's God

Benjamin Franklin's god resembled a Jehovah, surrounded by his cherubim, a deity that might have been dreamed of by a disciple of Plato. . . . The supreme being of Franklin is separated from us by a series of beings, superior to us, inferior to him, each installed in a planet of its own, and ruling over the satellites which belong to it. As an inhabitant of the earth, Franklin thought himself obliged to worship the god who lived in the sun, and he made a liturgy for him—a kind of abbreviation of the Anglican prayers—to which he remained faithful. Like a good Platonician, he demanded of this god virtue, knowledge, an after life.—Baltimore Sun.

Pressure of Water

Iron vessels and other heavy vessels sink to the ocean bed, and the water pressure has nothing to do with holding them up. Water is practically incompressible, so that even at the greatest depths the water of the ocean is very little heavier than the water near the surface. The volume of the ship is therefore much heavier than the same volume of water at any depth, and the ship will sink. The pressure of a fluid is exerted equally from all directions and not simply upward on the vessel. For a ship to remain suspended halfway between the surface and the bottom, it would have to be constructed of some light material and have a very light cargo.

Rewarded

Russell Gordon Carter, famous as a writer of stories for boys, said it was his experience that boys seldom remember the names of the authors, but never forget the stories that they like.

"One of my neighbor's boys once read a story of mine and told me about it. The fact that my name was on the cover had been entirely overlooked and he was much surprised when I told him I had written the story and pointed out my name.

"'Well,' he said with a grin, 'don't waste time bragging about this one, but get busy and write some more like it.'"

Just Like a Man

Little Johnny is just picking up slang expressions. The other day the three-year-old was playing with his sister. He came to her side and put his arms around her and in a cooing way said to her: "I 'ove 'ou 'titter' dear, I 'ove 'ou," and then quite suddenly he burst out "bologny."

The astounded little sister came to life in time to say: "Just like a man."

Musical Trees

One of the curiosities of the West Indies is the musical tree. This species is a member of the great pea family. On ripening the great pods split open at the edges and the wind, passing through the openings, creates the sound which gives the tree its name. In Barbados there is a large valley of these trees, and the natives, naturally enough, believe the place to be haunted.—St. Nicholas Magazine.

Monarch's Neat Rebuke to Overzealous Priest

King Leopold of Belgium—merry old soul—had a caustic wit. On one occasion when he was at his chalet at Ostend, the parish priest approached him and asked for a private word with him. When the two were alone, the priest began to read Leopold II a long sermon:

"Sire, I am profoundly grieved," he said. "There is a rumor, I am sorry to say, that your majesty's private life is not marked by the austerity suited to the lofty and difficult task which God has laid upon the monarchs of this earth. Remember, sire, that it behooves kings to set an example to their subjects."

For 20 minutes the king listened patiently to the utterances of the good man, until the priest desisted from want of breath, relates Evelyn Graham (in his authorized biography of King Albert, nephew of Leopold).

"What a funny thing, Monsieur le Cure," said the king, fixing him with a cold look and smiling slightly. "Do you know, people have told me exactly the same thing about you! . . . only I refused to believe it."—Kansas City Times.

Little Profit Found in Search for Sensation

A time comes to most of us when life means just a little more than playing around. We must not think for a second that there should be no play. That would be unwise. But what is foolish is the attitude that brings us to the belief that, to gain happiness—for that is, after all, what we are trying to get—we must indulge in all sorts and all kinds of fun and frolic.

Sometimes it extends beyond that we seek every kind of sensation we possibly can in our pursuit of gaiety. Whenever a new idea is mooted we go after it with renewed vigor, in the hope that the boredom of life—as some limited minds regard it—will be changed to a really good time.

We only manage to secure the maximum of contentment by accepting the debits and credits—taking the former at their real valuations, and making the utmost of the credits.—Exchange

Chateau of Knowledge

The speculative mind of man is like a colossal chateau set on a hill. It is surrounded by perpetual darkness. The chauteau has countless windows facing in all directions. There is, at first, but one light, a flickering glimmer, in one small window level with the ground.

Ages pass. Another window slowly lights up. Gradually, as time flows away, a thousand windows in the chateau flame with light. Tower windows begin to glimmer. Finally, the whole chateau is a blaze of light. For behind each window a mind labors in a small dark room shaped like a human skull to create a light of its own From the tower windows the lights gash the dark for a great way. But the most powerful light from the largest window is merely an inch trying to eat the Infinite.—The Thinker.

First Uses for Sideboard

The dining room sideboard once served a different purpose from that of holding the family silver or glass. The sideboard, known first as a credence table, held all the dishes that were to be served at a dinner. An underling of the house then, in the presence of the guests, tasted each dish of food on the credence table to make sure there was no poison that might be fatal to the guests. But gradually, as people became less vicious and the desire to poison one's enemy, or friend, became less customary, the credence was utilized for the display of silver and table service. —Brooklyn Eagle.

Causes of "Blood Rain"

There are many cases of so-called miraculous showers in which the substances found on the ground did not actually fall from aloft. Thus some alleged rains of blood are due to the deposit of red fluid ejected by certain species of lepidoptera emerging simultaneously in large numbers from their cocoons, and others to the rapid multiplications in rain pools of algae and rotifers containing red coloring matter. The well-known red snow of polar regions results from the presence of similar organisms.

"Dragon's Blood" in the Arts

The "Dragon's Blood" of commerce is a red gum made from the ripe fruit of palm trees growing in Siam and the Dutch East Indies. It is used in the pharmacy and finds its way into the arts as a means of coloring varnish and also for use in photo-engraving. It is secured from the nut by a process of steaming and crushing. The product is sent to Penang and Singapore and thence it is shipped half way around the world to points in Europe and America.

Road Builders of the Past

Nobody knows who built the first road but remains have been found of a highway laid out by Cheops, builder of the great pyramid in Egypt, says the National Geographic Magazine. Babylon had three great highways, and the first levying of tolls in the history of highways took place on one of these Babylonian routes. The Carthaginians were the most scientific roadbuilders of ancient times, but the details of their construtcion have been lost.

In Indiana a campaign is on to cease painting barns red. For those who don't know, a barn is an old-fashioned garage.

Johnny, aged six, was told he had to go to the hospital to have his tonsils removed, and his mother was bolstering up his morale.

Stood and pointed to the Crisco.

Yonder dwells the Locomobile,
In the forest of O'Cedar;
He it was who killed Van Heusen,
Slew him with his Kuppenheimer.

Boldly then the Instant Postum
Seized his trusty Biflex Bumper
Gave his bride one last fond Djer-Kiss
Kissed her by the Coco-Cola.

"I am going, Cutie Cura,
On a long and distant journey,
Where the great names Skinner's
Satin and Palmolive are unknown."

"Guard you wll our daughter Jello and our last born baby, Newskin."
Launched he then his Evinrude barques.
On the shining Pluto-Water.

Stood she then and munched the Grape Nuts.
As he chug-chugged toward the Sunset;
While she smiled the smile of Ivory,
Shed she tears of Listerine.

READ WHAT ONE SUFFERER SAYS

I was thin and run down. I had nervous spells, there were black spots in front of my eyes at times and my hair kept coming out and would not stay combed. I did not get enough sleep. My garters kept slipping down. Frequently in rainy weather I could not find my umbrella. People stepped on my heels and my rubbers would come off. Ifelt dull after eating and frequently found it necessary to take a drink of water. Just before meals I often felt weak and famished. I hated to go to bed at night, I disliked to get up in the morning, especially during cold weather whn the fire in the furnace happened to go out. I hated to even split the wodd for the kitchen stove. I felt cross when my Wifes mother came to visit us and sometimes in the morning the coffee tasted like dish water.

Then a friend suggested, "Why don't you eat more Sauerkraut?" I had never thought of it but I followed his advice.

Now I can shave with a broken bottle and rub my face with cayenne pepper. My hair does not come out any more for the reason that the last of it disappeared before I commenced the Sauerkraut treatment. My vision is clear and my breath is stronger, and I seldom open a gate any more—I just jump the fence. Now I am the first one in bed at night and the last one up in the morning. For people who are run down at the heels like I was, I can cheerfully recommend Sauerkraut.

IOWA-BOUNTIFUL LAND

By George Gallarno

IOWA, with its two and one-half illions of population, has two hunred thousand automobiles more an has the city of New York, with population f nearly 6,000,000.

IOWA needs take n secondary ace as a resort for summer visitrs who are seeking climate and mfort. Its Spirit Lake, Lake koboji and its Clear Lake are equled in beauty as but few spots in e world and excelled at none.

IOWA, when it comes to scenic eauty, does not bow to California, r to Colorado, but points with the ride of the veriest pride pointing olitician to its enticing panorama the handiwork of nature in Clayn and Allamakee Counties, along hose borders the great Father of aters pursues its constant course the eas.

IOWA has the only shipyard in e upper Mississippi Valley It is cated at Dubuque and is known the Dubuque Boat and Boiler Co. anufacturing crafts for use in ery part of the United States. The ubuque harbor is headquarters so for the Upper Mississippi River ederal Barge Line Flet.

IOWA has the two largest door nd millwork factoris in the world cated at Dubuque. They are the arr, Ryder and Adams Co., and the arley and Loetscher Co., Shipping eir produes to every state in the nion and throughout Canada, Cenal and South America

IOWA is the home of one of the ree Trappist Monastaries located the United States. It is located New Mellery, in Dubuque County nd it was established in 1848. The rounds of the monastery include ore than 3,200 acres of farm land nd it pays annual taxes in excess $3.500.

IOWA is rapidly forging to the out rank as a dairy state. During e past year more than half-a mill-n cattle were added to the dairy erds of the state.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

FARMERS FEELING FINE AFTER GOOD RAIN OVER COUNTY

Hancock County Is More Fortunate Than Other Parts Of State

The past week certainly has found the farmers in a much better frame of mind because of the good rain and the few showers. Hancock county is fortunate in that respect.

Around Ames the crops especially corn, are damaged 25 per cent more than they are here. All of the corn in that section is fired badly.

A week of good weather should finish the threshing while some rings are through. Some fall plowing is well under way.

Agent Meets With Clubs

I have spent most of the past week meeting with the boys and girls who are going to exhibit livestock at the Achievment Show. Help has been given them how to fit their stock for show purposes.

Wayne Chambers. the Greimans and the Weaver boys have declared their intentions of showing some of their baby beeves at the District Baby Beef Show at Algona which is held in conjunction with their county fair, Sept. 1-5 inclusive

Stock Is Ready For Show

Most of the club stock especially the hogs, sheep and baby beeves will be trimmed and fitted before the show as they are to be judged the first day, August 19.

The fitting of the sheep is done by clipping them so that they appear square hung flat over the back and straight down the sides and rump. In other words, after they are blocked up they should resemble the shape of a pig with four legs.

The pigs toe nails are cut so that the pigs stand stronger and straighter on their posterns. The hair is also clipped from the ears and also from the tail leaving a bush at the end.

Baby Beeves Get Haircut

The baby beeves tails are clipped leaving a bush. Some hair might even be clipped from the withers if has a tendency to stand straight up and look shaggy. The pole and ears are also clipped on some of the beeves.

It may not be possible to have all of the stock trimmed up before the day of the Show but the few that aren't will be taken care of before they go into the ring to be judged.

It certainly is an inspiration to see the eagerness the boys and girls are showing in getting their club stock fittd.

Only Two Mule Clubs In U. S.

One of the main attractions during the show days should be the two yearling and one foal mule colts. Hancock and Kossuth counties have the only two mule clubs in America so we are anxious to see the mule colts alongside of all the other club stock.

The passing words are —Don't miss the Honcock County 4-H Club Achievment Show at Garner, Tuesday and Wednesday, August 19 and 20.

FOREST CITY FARMER HAS LEG CUT OFF BY GRAIN BINDER

E. S. Arnevik, living near Forest City and one of Newton township's progressive farmers was the victim of a very serious accident last Monday, and only by keeping his presence of mind did he save his life Mr. Arnevik, a man about 55 years of age was working aloen in a field on his farm when the guards of the binder which he was operating became entangled in some weeds. He stopped the horses, stepped down to disentangle the obstruction, while in this position the horses started ahead. Before Mr. Arnevik could get clear of the cuttors his foot caught and was literally sawed off in the sharp teeth of the machine. In spite of his terrible position he managed to get holr of the lines and turn his team into a nearby fence, thus stopping them. He called for help which was heard by his brother who owns the neighboring farm.

FIRST STRETCH OF PAVING FINISHED

PAVING CREW COMPLETE FIRST STRETCH TUESDAY EVE

All Equipment Moved North To The Huneman Farm This Morning

McKenzie & Killeen, paving contractors who are laying the concrete on highway No. 15, Tuesday completed the first section of paving between the Wm. Wenz farm, 3 miles south of Klemme, to the intersection of the county road, just north of the Henry Ludeke farm, at the outer edge of Klemme.

This morning the paving crew is starting the second stretch of concrete road near the Hueneman farm three miles north of Klemme. The crew is working toward Klemme again and when this second stretch is completed they will move to Garner and work toward that town until the job is finished.

The crew putting on the shoulders for the new paving are moving right along and will soon finish that part of the work.

Another grading gang working on the county road west of Klemme are at work on this end of the new county road, having completed the west end of the project. They are now grading in the vicinity of the new bridge west of Klemme on the county road.

At the present time Klemme is just a little hard to get into, with so many roads under construction However, this situation will not be for long.

It is announced in Washington that on his trip west President Hoover will avoid politics and devote his time to fishing. Don't blame him. The more we know about politics the better we like fishing.

ROCKFORD CO-OP. CREAMERY SEEKS TO ENJOIN SWIFT'S

"Unfair Tactics" Charged In Petition Filed In Local Court

(Mason City Globe-Gazette, Monday, August 11, 1930)

The Rockford Co-Operative Dairy association thru its attorney, E. G. Dunn, Saturday afternoon filed an injunction in the office of the county clerk, seeking to enjoin Swift and company from paying more for the same grade of cream in the territory adjacent to Rockford and to the members and patrons of the plaintiff than it pays for a like quality and grade of cream at all other stations operated by the defendant in Iowa, allowing for the difference in transportation charges..

The plaintiff also asks that the defendant be enjoined from using "any and all unfair means and tactics to injure the business of the plaintiff and that the court fix a time and place of hearing on this petition and injunction and prescribe the notice to be served on the defendant."

The allegation is made that in the past two months the defendant paid higher prices for butterfat than in other communities for the "sole purpose of destroying the business of plaintiff."

The petition alleges, that on Aug. 2 the Swift concern paid 41 cents for butterfat in and about the territory around Rockford to members and patrons of the plaintiff while at Rockwell it paid 35 cents and at Charles City 34 cents. Other instances of this type are given.

The contention is made that if th defendant is allowed to continue this practice it will be necessary for the plaintiff to go out of business. Further allegations are made that the Swift plant at Mason City is sending trucks to each member and patron of the plaintiff company and that they usually offer to pay 4 to 5 cents more a pound than it pays at other stations operated by it.

The hearing has been set for Sept. 2 before Judge M. H Kepler of Northwod in th district court here.

Mr. Kerns, manager of Swift nad company here, was out of the city and could not be reached. Others at the plant refused to comment.

Face of Dead Empress Reproduced on Carpet

Of all the carpets in creation, the most famous in that known as the Mumtaz Mahal carpet, which was made to order at the earnest desire of Shah Jehan, says an article in the Illustrated Weekly of India. Soon after the untimely death of the beloved empress, Shah Jehan commissioned his court painter to reproduce her likeness from his memory. The emperor was not satisfied with the painting and so contemplated having the likeness of his dearly loved wife reproduced on a carpet. He himself drew a rough sketch of the design meant for this carpet. The weavers came from Persia; the materials for the carpet were also imported from that country. The most rigid secrecy in the execution of this project was necessary lest the religious prejudices of the orthodox subjects be aggravated.

The Taj or the Mumtaz Mahal carpet measures 20 feet by 20 feet and contains 57,000,000 knots. It took 20 years for its accomplishment. The likeness of the empress was reproduced on this carpet and also that of the principal members of her family.

Ancient English Bridge Credited to Evil One

Tradition credits the devil with the construction of Tarr steps, a prehistoric "clapper" bridge which crosses the River Barle in a remote part of Exmoor, and said to be the largest and probably the oldest of its kind in Britain.

The legend says that it was built in a single night, and the devil, reserving the right of way exclusively to himself, proclaimed that he would destroy the first living thing that attempted to cross.

A holy man, who dared to flaunt the evil one, cunningly sent a cat first across the bridge, whereupon the unfortunate animal was torn to pieces. The spell was broken and the holy man took possession.

Whatever the origin, the bridge is of wonderful construction, considering it was built in an age when mechanical power was unknown. It measures 120 feet across, and has 17 spans, resting on piers of unhewn stones piled one on another. Not an atom of cement was used in the whole structure! —London Tit-Bits.

Labor First

An Episcopal missionary in Minnesota visited one of the outlying districts in his territory for the purpose of conducting prayer. He inquired of the lady of the largest house there if he might hold the services in her home. Not being noted for her great piety, she murmured something about:

"Going out to see about it."

Going out to see what detained her after a long wait, the missionary found the men busy. He went up and said:

"Aren't you coming in? Don't you care anything about your souls?"

"Souls?" asked the head of the family, slowly. "We bane na got time for heem, when the bees they swarm." —Pathfinder Magazine.

Loved 'Em All

The second grade teacher was seated at her desk. Up came a little girl with a note which read, "I love you," signed Carl A——. Another girl ran up with a note just like it.

The teacher stood up, saying: "All the children who received notes bring them to me." It seemed as if the whole school arose as 23 little girls came forward with notes, all reading: "I love you. Carl A——."

"Why did you write to every girl in the room, Carl?" the teacher asked.

By this time the little fellow was crying, but blurted out: "I just loved them all, and I thought they ought to know it."

Measuring Moonlight

We grumble at our constant changes in temperature, yet on the moon the noon temperature is hotter than boiling water, and at night it freezes solidly in the deadliest cold imaginable, about 458 degrees below zero. This is because the moon does not retain heat, throwing the sun's rays back into space, like a mirror reflects light.

These facts have been revealed by an instrument invented recently. It is so sensitive that it even measures the heat of moonlight when it reaches the earth, so small a fraction of a degree that it can hardly be imagined.

The Poker Faces

When Dillon, Read & Co. refused that $100,000,000 loan to Germany some one revived an old story of Clarence Dillon's proficiency at poker. He will—or at least he would at one time—when the betting had grown two-handed and fairly stiff, show his hand to the company:

"Do you think that's good enough to call on?"

Then he watched the faces of his adversary and others. Uusually he found out what he wanted to know.—Boston Globe.

Why Not

Little Helen was sitting on Uncle Charlie's lap. He had been entertaining her, as uncles sometimes do, by drawing pictures for her.

"Now, Uncle Charlie, draw me a dish of mashed potatoes."

"Child," he laughed, "I can't draw that."

Helen looked quickly up at him, saying: "I don't see why. You know what they are. You have eaten them at our house, haven't you?"

PIANNED DIVERSION FOR HIS NEIGHBORS' PETS

One day John Kulczak got tired of having his neighborhs' children and pets use his yard as a playground; he couldn't stay at home and watch it all of the time and something just had to be done. So he connected the metal fence around his yard with the electric current of his house circuit. But somebody is always taking the joy out of life when one tries to get a little protection and have a little quietude and numercus objections were soon filed. The neighbors told the police and he was arrested. They said it was illegal diversion of the current, for one thing. Then someone discovered that if they stood on the wet grass and touched the fence with 110 volts he might be killed. The Humane Society pointed out that dogs might be injured by the fence. Mr. Kulczak would of course be awful sorry if his dear neighbor's pup leaned up against that fence. The fire attorney has wagged an angry finger in Mr. Kulczak's direction because of the fire hazard. The fire insurance company is upset. All considered, Mr. Kulczak, seeking a little peace, raised one heluvafus. This is a very unsympathetic world.

Anton Dahl told us Saturday evening that another set of twin calves had been born on his farm recently. This makes one set of triplets and two sets of twin calves born on the farm the past year and all the calves are living. He is getting better than a 100 per cent calf crop and saving them all and he's showing other farmers one of the ways in which money can be made on a farm—"raise more calves" from fewer cows.—Ringstead Dispatch.

BEST TO HAVE COWS DRY NOW

Should Have About Two Months Rest Before They Freshen

Iowa dairymen who have their cows bred for fall freshening and have them dry during the summer are fortunate.

Cows need about two months rest before they freshen and so that the cows can be put dry anywhere from the middle of July to the middle of August, they can be got in shape with a minimum of feed.

When a cow is dry it will take less feed to keep her in condition and it is easier to put her in shape for the next frshening than if she is milking heavily.

Only Surmises as to First Spoken Language

Many surmises have been made regarding the oldest language. In an attempt to discover what children would say if uninfluenced by established speech, Psametichos, an Egyptian king, entrusted two new-born infants with a shepherd, with the strict charge that they were never to hear anyone utter a word. These children were afterward brought before the king and uttered the word "bekos" (baked bread). The same experiment was tried by Frederick II of Sweden and James IV of Scotland and by one of the Mogul emperors of India. Nothing conclusive was proved in either case. The Persians claim that Arabic, Persian and Turkish are the three primitive languages. Their tradition says that the serpent that tempted Eve spoke Arabic, the most persuasive language in the world. Adam and Eve spoke Persian, the most poetic language of all, and the angel Gabriel spoke Turkish, the most menacing language. Scholars formerly agreed that Sanserit was the oldest tongue but later discoveries suggest that it too is derived from some still more ancient speech.

Authentic Records of Men of Unusual Size

The tallest man about whom the actual facts are known, other than those recorded in Biblical history, was one John Middleton. He lived in the Sixteenth century and was commonly called the child of Hale. It is said that his hand from the wrist to the end of the middle finger was seventeen inches long. His whole height was nine feet and three inches. Pliny, the Roman writer, however, mentions one Gabora as "the tallest man that hath been seen in our age." He measured nine feet nine inches in height. Patrick Cotter, who died in 1806, was probably the tallest Irishman; he measured 8 feet 7 inches, beating his countryman, Charles O'Brien, whose skeleton in the museum of the royal college of surgeons, London, measures 8 feet 4 inches only.

Record Meteorite

The most remarkable encounter between the earth and a meteorite of which there is any record is probably the one that resulted in the formation of Meteor Crater, near Canyon Diablo in northeastern Arizona, a desert region.

This crater is about 4,000 feet in diameter, with walls rising about 150 feet above the plain and descending precipitously 600 feet to the floor.

Rocks at the bottom are crushed to a depth of several hundred feet and show signs of great heating. Within a radius of five miles of the crater thousands of iron meteorites have been picked up.

Meteorites differ greatly from meteors, or shooting stars, in many respects, possibly even in their origin.

Stars Still Tell Time

In casually looking at your watch to tell the time of day, you probably don't stop to think that your timepiece, if it is accurate, has indirectly received its time from the stars.

In an article in World's Work, it is pointed out that the naval observatory at Washington, which furnishes the nation its time, makes a check every night by observations of the stars. Three delicate clocks are enclosed in glass cases far beneath the ground, and are kept at an exact temperature. These clocks keep the time which is first determined by astronomers, and hourly throughout the day comes the time across the country, correct to the thousandth part of a second.

Uses for Gyroscope

When first invented, the gyroscope, then called rotascope, was used as a scientific toy to illustrate the dynamics of rotating bodies, the composition of rotations, etc. A delicately mounted form of the above apparatus, invented by M. Foncault, is used to render visible the rotation of the earth on account of the tendency of the rotating wheel to preserve a constant plane of rotation, independent of the earth's motion. This same principle is made use of in an instrument invented by Dr. H. Auschutz-Kampfe, designed to replace the mariner's compass or to serve as a check upon its accuracy.

Changed

"Women used to be clever," declares Nobert Weil, "but now they are, for the most part, very obvious; smart but shorn of mystery, all their little feminine tricks revealed.

"'Does your wife kiss you every night when you come home?' asked the newly married man of his more experienced friend.

"'Well, er, not always,' admitted Mr. Experience. 'She used to, but now she only does it when she expects to go shopping next day.'"—Los Angeles Times.

Also Important

The children's dinner was in progress. They had been provided with a nice fat chicken.

"What part did you have?" asked one little boy of his neighbor.

"The wishbone," was the reply.

"I had a leg," put in another child.

One after the other they explained the various parts.

Presently little Jackie, who so far had not spoken a word, held up a skewer and exclaimed:

"Look, I've got the perch the chicken sat on!"

Millions of Hours Lost by Disabling Illnesses

On an average, each person in the country has at least one disabling illness every year, the committee on the "cost of medical care" has reported after a survey of various sickness reports compiled by the United States public health service and other organizations.

Men have a disabling sickness about once a year, women about twice and children over twice during the school year. Colds, bronchitis, grippe, influenza and pneumonia are oftenest the cause of these disabling illnesses and cause the longest disability. On the same basis of the number of cases and total time lost, digestive disorders and diseases also take a high place.

About 130,000,000 cases of disabling illnesses occur in the United States each year. Adding nondisabling illnesses more than doubles the figure, the committee reported. The 36,000,000 wage earners in the country lose at least 250,000,000 work days a year, and the 24,000,000 school children lose 170,000,000 school days a year. These figures account for only one-half of the total population.—Kansas City Star's Science Service.

Early Postal Records Destroyed by Flames

The first 60 years of American postal history are almost a complete blank because of the great fire of 1836, which destroyed the Post Office building at Washington and with it almost every vestige of postal records. Years later a postmaster general was forced to admit to congress that he was unable to supply the names of assistant postmasters general who had served from the beginning of the system.

One volume alone was saved from the flames by a youthful messenger in the office of the auditor of the treasury for the Post Office department. This book, still in existence and now under control of the chief clerk of the Post Office department, is a ledger of postal revenues for the years 1776, 1777 and 1778. So far as is known, no other postal records of the early years are in existence.—Detroit News.

Pepper Production

Black and white pepper comes from southern India, Sumatra, Java, Ceylon, Siam, Borneo, Penang and other parts of the Malay peninsula. Black pepper consists of the dried immature berries of a perennial climbing shrub called Piper Migrum, native to the forests of western and southern India. White pepper is practically the same product as black pepper except that the outer shell of the berry is removed to a greater or less extent by friction following soaking in water. Red pepper is the powdered ripe pod, both flesh and seeds of any variety of capsicum, the plant which gives us the edible fresh pepper, but which bears no relation to the true pepper plant. Cayenne pepper is, by ruling of the board of food and drug inspection of 1906, distinguished from red pepper as being obtained only from small-fruited varieties of capsicum.

Tiger China's King of Beasts

To the Chinese the tiger, not the lion, is the king of beasts. From childhood they are taught to fear the tiger, and he is made the bugaboo to frighten youngsters. If they are naughty they are told that the "lao-hu" (tiger) will catch them. Paper tigers are pasted over doors in China, so that the evil spirits, seeing the beast, will flee away.

The Chinese have great faith in tiger bones, claws and sinews as medicine. Since the tiger is so strong, they say, medicine made of him must make one strong. Traveling medicine men with tiger skins stretched on their poles as signboards rarely wait long for purchasers of their wares.—New York Times.

Franklin's Precocity

It was in 1772 that Benjamin Franklin tried his hand at journalism for the first time, writes Nathan G. Goodman in the Baltimore Sun. Without their being identified he slipped articles into the Courant under the name of "Mrs. Silence Dogood." Parading behind the mask of a shrewd middle-aged widow this sixteen-year-old boy carried on a moral and intellectual crusade, including an attack on "scollars" at Harvard college. Already Franklin knew how to mix light, amusing observations in serious discussions without falling into burlesque, and he avoided bitterness.

Old, but Apt Phrase

Few phrases are more apt than "All his geese are swans," which has come down to us through more than 300 years, and which we understand to be practically synonymous with the line "He is prone to exaggerate."

Like so many other idioms now a solid part of our daily conversation, this one was originally found in a book now considered a classic.

It was first used in none other than the famous "Anatomy of Melancholia," by Robert Burton, over three centuries ago.—Kansas City Times.

How to Live Long

The trouble with the rules for longevity suggested by centenarians is that they are contradictory. Their habits of life differ. All they seem to have in common are sound constitutions and a good deal of luck.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Most of the caddies at the famous St. Andrews golf course in Scotland are more than 40 years old and are considered expert tactical advisers.

LONGER ROUTES, BETTER PAY

A report from the postoffice department shows that the number of rural routes in Iowa has been reduced from 2,119 to 2,081 in the past year. The claim is made, and it's easy to believe, that service has been expanded rather than curtailed

Clearly rural routes in Iowa are in most instances an echo of the horse and buggy days. A drive of 100 or 150 mils on pavd or gravld roads is as practicable today as was a rout of 30 to50 mils in the old days.

Few routes are all paved and it's probably true that not a majority are all graveled. But the time is fast coming when this ideal will be attained.

There will be times of course when one driver will not be able to plow through the snow to cover his entire route and organization to meet this situation is one problem of mail distribution.

xBut generally speaking routes can and should be made more extensive and those who drive them should be paid commensurately for their added service.

This ought to be welcomed by the men who carry the mail, it can be effected without militating against service for those on the rural routes and an appreciable economy will be forthcoming for the postal department -Mason City Globe Gazette

3 MILES OF PAVING OPEN TO TRAFFIC

RAPID PROGRESS BEING MADE PAVING NORTH OF TOWN

Rain Delayed Operations Two Days So Far This Week

Although the stretch of paving south of Klemme has not been opened to through traffic, it however is bing used daily by farmers along the road, and part of it has been open the past week. Tusday light traffic used the new paving at the Klemme intrsection and could travel south nearly three miles on the new paving.

Shoulders Being Built

Wide shoulders are being put on the new paving and over a mile of this work has been completed.

There is a 'break" in the paving south of town at the river bridge. This short stretch, we understand, was not paved because the proper material did not arrive in time. It will be paved later when the paving outfit comes back to Klemme.

Rain has already put a damper on paving operations two days this week, Tuesday and today, and by the appearance of the weather it may delay operations still more. The paving gang have made rapid progress and have completed over a mile on the north end of the project. A week of good work will about complete the paving at this end, from Wenz' corner north to the Elltown Church.

River Being Straightened

Another grading crew is working on the county road leading west of Klemme and are making good progress building a new grade. Work of digging a new channel and filling in the old river bed is being made at the new bridge west of town. The road at this point is also being straightened.

THOMPSON SELLS POOL HALL TO DES MOINES MAN

SAC COUNTY SETS RECORD IN HORSE SHOW

The Sac County Fair which was held on August 5-8, set a new record for a local horse show when 185 draft horses and mules, 20 saddle horses and 25 ponies made up the exhibition.

("The draft mares which were shown were exceptional in their quality and soundness," stated Harry D Linn, Field Representative of the Iowa Horse an dMule Breeders Association, who acted as judge. "There was also a strong show of draft mules."

THE INVENTORY

A deputy sheriff was sent to take an inventory of the property in a house. When he did not return for three hours, the sheriff went after him and found him asleep on a lounge in the living room of the house. He had made a brave effort with his inventory however. He had written down: Living room—1 table, 1 sideboard, 1 full bottle whiskey." Then the "full' had been crossed out and "half full' substituted. Then this was overlined, and "empty put in its place. At the bottom of the page in wobbly letters was written: "1 revolving carpet."

Robberies occured Sunday night at Buffalo Center and Woden. At Buffalo they entered three filling stations and several business places but got littl of value except a little change from the cash tills

At Woden they fared better. Kicking the panel at the back door of the Ray Valley pool hall and barber shop they gained enwere twelve cartons of cigarettes, a new pair of electric hair clippers and five razors. About ten dollars in money was taken from the cash till. Sheriff Ross was called and made an investigation Monday but so far no clues were ootained that would be of value.

EDITOR SPOTTED FOR DEATH

Maurice Nelson, editor of the Earlham Echo, and several other prominent citizens of that town, together with John Hartely, County Attorney of Madison County, have lately received threatening notes from a man by the name of Earl O. Browning. Browning was once a relief operator in the Rock Island station at Earlham but his whereabouts at present are unknown. Forty-nine people in the town of Adair received threatening notes, identical in wording to the one received by Editor Nelson. On July 22nd, Mr. Nelson received the second threat, written on a plain government postcard, reading as follows: "You are spotted for death and I cannot stop it. Earl O. Browning." Editor Nelson was the only one of the 50 some persons first threatened to receive this "death note."

A CORRECTION

In the last issue of the Times an item of news stated that Mr. and Mrs. Eiml Blumer, two daughters, and two friends were at Nora Springs on business Sunday. This was an error, as they were not there on business but went to visit the flower gardens near Nora Springs and to visit Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gram. The word "business" should not have appeared. We beg pardon.

Evol Pouelson while returning from the gravel pit swimming pool Sunday evening driving Rev. L. G. Gartner's Ford truck, lost control of the car, went into the ditch and sheared off five fence posts and landed upside down in Bruno Stecker's cornfield north of the rainbow bridge. The car was badly damaged but Evel came out of the wreckage without a scratch.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

MANY FARMERS TESTING SOIL FOR LEGUME CROPS

Lime Also Helps Corn And Small Grain Crops, Says Weiss

Farmers are now turning their attention toward their legume ground for th coming season.

Walter Lauden and J. O. Trail near Forest City have both tested their ground to find out if lime is needed to grow legume crops and whether liming will materially help the other crops A very peculiar situation exists on the Lauden farm. On testing it was found that the highest on the place did not need liming but the bottom land needed from two to four tons per acre. Liming will not only help the legume crops but will materially increase corn and small crop production. J. O. Trail found that part of his farm needed about two tons lime per acre while the other needed about a carload of lime to be applied this fall.

Fred Jaqoubek has found that certain portions of his alfalfa are not growing as they should and are turning yellow. On testing he found that the yellow portions are strongly alkaline and due to the xtreme dryness the alfalfa cannot grow as it should. Alkaline soil has too much salt and not enough organic matter to produce well under the dry conditions that have existed this summer.

Constructs New Poultry House

Earl Wilhite of near Corwith has certainly prepared for his poultry flock this year and for years to come. He has constructed a real chicken house 30 feet by 40 feet with a straw loft to absorb the moisture. No poultry house should be complete without the straw loft The straw should be from one and one-half to two feet deep in the loft and does not need to be changed only once each two years. Everything in the poultry house at Mr Wilhite's is easily removable so that clean sanitary methods can easily be practiced. He is not going to overcrowd the house either as he is allowing 4 square feet per bird. He has the large type poultry.

250 Bushel Spuds Per Acre

The Brozik Brothers have started harvesting their potatoes and all indications point toward a good crop. Their first harvesting is running about 250 bushel per acre. They have taken a few truck loads to Mason City so let us hope that they net one dollar per bushel.

Hancock County Vegetables

Mr Sherman of the D. E. Ryan Shippers Company of Minneapolis has estimated that 1000 carloads of vegetable crops will be shipped from Hancock County this year. His firm due to reductions in their sales in this territory sent him down to see what was causing the cut in sales. He stated that after a few hours visit the question was easily answered. We are a producing not a purchasing area. He also stated that this years crop is superior to that of Hollandale, Minnesota.

Marshall Raises Duroc Hogs

Along with his other farming, C. V. Marshall living three miles northwest of Klemme has produced a real bunch of Duroc hogs. He has saved the better ones and will be able to furnish some real Duroc fall boars to anyone wishing the same. He also has a purebred registered Hereford bull that he is wanting to sell.

Ell 4-H Boys Are O. K.

I take my hat off to the boys of Ell township who are entered in the 4-H club. It was their job to present the Farm Bureau program at the last meeting held at the Center School on Thursday evening, August 14. It was a real program and one that will be remembered a long time by the 100 persons present.

MISS ETHEL WELLEMEYER IS GRADUATE of STATE TEACHERS

Ethel Wellemeyer, of this city, was graduated from the Iowa State ing, August 21, in a colorful outdoor commencement program attended by hundreds of students, relatives and friends.

She received the primary diploma in education.

Miss Wellemeyer was one of the 365 students who gathered beneath towering campus elms in the out door amphitheatre to hear the commencement speaker, G. W. Walters veteran Teachers college proffesor of education, describe 'The Teacher in the Changing World", and to receive degrees and diplomas conferred by President O. R. Latham.

Graduation events in which she took part included the president's reception Sunday, August 3, a special Sunday service, August 17, and the college dinner which was held Wednesday, August 20.

HORSE LOSES TAIL IN THRESHER ACCIDENT

Last Saturday morning at the Wilson Legly farm, a team belonging to Henry Hefty was left standing too close to the separator and the tail of one of the horses was drawn into the pulley. The animal was jerked violently agains the machine and had its tail torn off and had to be killed.

The threshing machine was also damaged so that work was stopped for the day while repairs were sent yor.

ROBERT MARTIN VACCINATES HERD OF CATTLE

Loses One Valuable Cow And Has Several Others Sick From Queer Malady

Robert Martin has been puzzled for the past two weeks to know what ails a herd of cattle, most of them yearling feeders and calves. They will fall to the ground as if stunned and, writhing in pain make mournful sounds. Mr. Martin said one day a calf fell and he sent his son to the house for a butcher knife intending to skin it. Before the lad returned the calf jumped up and ran away while Robert sat scratching his head in wonderment.

A veterinarian was called and the herd of about 40 head was vaccinated for hemorrhagic septicaemia. Mr. Martin thought some of the food the cattle were eating may have poisoned them and gathered up sampples of all the food they had access to and had County Agent Weiss send it to Ames for examination. Returns have not been made as yet

The one cow Mr. Martin lost died before the herd was vaccinated.

The traveling salesman remains the greatest single contribution to American literature.

Emil Jacobson near Woden is planning on harvsting about five acres of his second crop of alfalfa for seed. It certainly looks like it would produce well and this dry season along with not too thick a stand is the ideal situation for seed production with alfalfa.

I am sure that all of us are well pleased to learn that Mr. John Crone who has been ill scince corn planting time is able to be around and is feeling much better.

Duplicate Meetings

In closing I wish to state that there has been some misinterpretation in regard to scheduling township meetings. It so happens that on some nights there are two or even three township meetings scheduled. Some of this is due to postponed meetings. Last Friday evening such a condition existed and as Ellington township had asked me to be present at their meeting that is the meeting I attended. I certainly should liked to have attended the meetings in Liberty and Avery.

General Repair Time

NOW is the time to take a final look over the buildings, fence, etc. Did your roof leak last spr ng when it did rain?

We hardly have had need for roofs this summer. Fall is drawing near and we are bound to have rains. Make a close inspection of your shingles—if they are getting ragged and a fire hazzard, better play safe.

We are sell ng a B. C. 100 per cent edge grain shingle that is backed by the manufacturer and guaranteed to last 40 years if applied with nails that will last that long.

Come in nd take a look at them, they are dandies. It costs no more for labor to put on this kind of a shingle, than it does a poorer grade.

Don't put off this inspection tour of your buildings. It does not pay to let them get run down too much. A repair in time is worth while.

Writer Has Long List of Rail Superstitions

Black cats are eyed with horror by railroad men, but dogs are considered lucky. Cross-eyed people avoid approaching American engine cabs because they are evil omens liable to be driven away with well-aimed lumps of coal.

Their proper function is to sit on the first seat of the rear coach, thereby conferring one day's luck on the conductor. As a matter of fact, while the engine driver is giving his steed a final inspection all adults who stare at him are considered unlucky unless they are accompanied by children.

Accidents on United States lines are believed to occur in triplets. An engineer who reports one is gloomy and despondent until he has worked off the spell by reporting two more.

Neither will any engineer who has not lost all interest in life cheerfully write "13 cars" on his report; he prefers to report "13 cars and an engine." The brakeman supports the driver in his observance of superstitious rites by never carrying his lamp above his waist. To do so is considered fatal.

But the strangest of all tales of railway superstition is the story of the engine on the New York, New Haven and Hartford line. On the thirteenth of every month, no matter who he may be, the driver of that engine reports sick. The number of the engine is 0-13.—London Mail.

Happy Days!

A woman writer remarks that when men marry they are usually in a daze. Maybe that is what they call happy daze. A carping critic retorts that the girl herself is usually in trance formation.

FEATURE FARM PRODUCTS

Des Moines, Special:

Agriculture will again be king when the Iowa State Fair, America's largest farm exposition, opens its gates to the public here on August 20 for a period of ten days.

Fair officials have announced for this year the largest showing of farm products, farm equipment, and farm organization projects that has ever been assembled at any one time or place in the United States. More than 100 acres of the 300-acre exposition grounds will be devoted to agricultural features exclusively. Headlining this show will be: displays of the principal Iowa grain and forage crops, farm project exhibits showing the latest work of thirty-seven different farm bureau organizations of the state, forty acres of farm equipment and farm conveniences, a statewide orchard and garden show, a series of county-group agriculture exhibits competing for $4,700 in prizes, a series of individual farm exhibits for $2,610 in prizes, displays of the latest trends in farming methods by Iowa State College, and a complete section devoted to exhibits and demonstrations by nearly 2,000 Iowa farm boys and girls in all phases of crop raising and livestock production. This year's fair, more than ever before, proposes to re-emphasize Iowa's leadership as the greatest agricultural state in the union.

WOMEN AT STATE FAIR

Des Moines, Special:

More than 150,000 women from Iowa and neighboring states are expected to participate in a great statewide women's exposition which will be held here for ten days beginning August 20 as a special department of the 76th annual Iowa State Fair, officials said this week.

Two of the largest buildings on the fair grounds will be turned over to women's organizations of the state for housing the many departments comprised in the exposition. Programs featuring demonstrations and addresses by prominent women leaders will be in progress both morning and afternoon from August 22 through August 29. Every field of feminine interest will be represented in the exposition, including child welfare, home modernizing, styles and costumes, community and welfare work, education, cooking, sewing, interior decoration, drama, music, and art. An open invitation has been extended to all women of Iowa to participate in the programs and the open forum meetings which will feature the exposition.

THE INDIVIDUAL YET NEEDED BY BUSINESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

SOME seem to think that the day of the individual in business has passed. But they are wrong. While the individual may not attract such outstanding attention as he did in the days of old when institutions were conducted on a smaller scale, he nevertheless is to be found in any large corporation, dominating the situation, giving orders here, cooperating there and shouldering the responsibility of keeping a large group of lieutenants, captains and privates working in unison and moving forward under the banner of progress. And all of these are held accountable to the public because the public has entered into a partnership agreement with the corporation through purchase of stock.

John G. Lonsdale

Welfare of Workers

Even in the gigantic mergers that have taken place within the last two years there remains more than ever the necessity for a leader, an aggressive personality, whose duty it is to see that basic principles are not forgotten, that the rights and privileges of the individual workers and the customers they serve are as well provided for as in the smaller business units.

It is gratifying to note that our corporations are giving more and more concern to the welfare of their workers. Numerous benefit organizations have been formed, opportunities offered for advancement of education and position, hospital service established and insurance and retirement pensions provided.

This general humanitarian movement in reality is the outgrowth of analysis, which has disclosed the need of improving the well-being of our individual workers, realizing at the same time that our institutions will benefit.

PREPAREDNESS IN BUSINESS

By R. S. HECHT,
American Bankers Association.

My observations for many years, both as an employee and as an executive, have convinced me that the reason some men and women go ahead and others do not is that some keep themselves constantly prepared to accept and fulfill larger duties and responsibilities as they offer, and some do not.

Grant, as we must, that there is a certain element of luck in the conditions under which opportunity for promotion comes to different men and women, we nevertheless must also see that it is each individual's own state of preparedness which determines his ability to seize opportunity if and when it comes, and having seized it, to succeed in meeting the greater demands which it inevitably places upon him.

Real advancement never means going ahead to easier tasks, but always to harder ones. Opportunity for advancement is worthless unless in accepting it you are able to carry with you the abilities and qualifications that prepare you to meet the heavier exactions that are an inherent part of opportunity.

It is far better to go into action in the field of enlarged responsibility prepared and qualified, rather than that you and the institution you work for shall be exposed to the hazard of your having to build up to new responsibilities after having assumed them.

The new spirit of all business seeks to prepare its people in advance through education for the higher duties it holds in store for them.

Bank Bandits Active

The greatest number of bandit raids on American banking ever recorded in the figures of the protective department of the American Bankers Association were reported during the six months ending last February. Bank members of the association reported for investigation 311 forgery cases, 107 holdup robberies, 16 burglaries, 2 sneak thefts and 8 mortgage swindles while non-member banks, numbering less than half the total enrolled in the association, suffered 86 holdup robberies and 9 burglaries, non-members being burglarized or held up once for every 89 banks, as compared with once for every 164 member banks. The association detective agents caused the arrest of 143 of the 236 bank criminals apprehended during the period covered.

The association's report on these conditions urges support of the movement to provide city police departments with radio-equipped cruising automobiles which have proved particularly effective in Cleveland and Detroit in the broadcasting of alarms and the closing in on criminals immediately after or even in the midst of the perpetration of crimes. Last year the average time elapsed between the receipt of radio calls by these cars and the 1325 arrests which followed was one minute and forty-two seconds, the report says.

CARS OPERATED ON CONSERVATIVE COSTS

The possibilities of economical transportation by automobile is again demonstrated by the yearly record of costs on three trucks and thirty-one automobiles which were operated by the Iowa Department of Agriculture. The cars were run a total of 635,360 miles at a total cost including depreciation of $21,807.04, or an average of 3.4 cents per mile. The average cost on the automobiles was 3 3 cents per mile while the cost on the one and one-half ton trucks was 6.2 cents.

Depreciation in the value of the automobiles or trucks was the largest single item of expense This amounted to $7,281 90 or 33.4per cent of the total cost. Gasoline was the second largest item, this amounting to $6,843.85 after the gasoline tax was refunded or a total of 31.38 per cent of the total. Storage of cars an item often not considered one privately owned cars, amounted to $2,199 37 or 10 1 per cent of the total

Other items of cost were parts and labor, $2,093.85 or 9.6 per cent tires and tire repair, $1,237.28 or 5 7 per cent: oil, $860.29 or 3.9 per cent: and miscellaneous expenses $1,299 50 or 5 9 per cent

State owned cars do not pay gasoline or license tax and the state carries their own insurance. The cost of these items would have been approximately $2,500 or it would have increased the cost of operation approximately 10 per cent.

AGRICULTURAL SEED REPORT READY

The qualityof seeds sold by dealers in Iowa this year and tested by the Iowa Department of Agriculture were above the average of formed years but there was still an apparent reluctance on the part of the dealers to show the presence of small amounts of noxious weeds on the label according to a report of the analyses made during the past spring and just published by the department

The department tested 1,362 official samples collected by inspectors in all parts of the state and 567 samples were submitted by farmers who wished to be sure of be sure of the quality of seeds purchased before they were sown. Sale was stopped on 29 lots of seed, in most cases on account of noxious weed seed present. This is slightly over one-half of the stop sales orders made in 1929.

Copies of the report giving the results on the different samples of seed analyzed may be had by writing to M G. Thornburg, Secretary of Agriculture, Des Moines.

Is The Seed Of Success In You?

A great financial genius once said, "If you want to know whether you are destined to be a success or a failure in life, you can easily find out. The test is simple, but infallible. Are you able to save money? If not, drop out. You will lose. The seed of success is not in you."

By all means start saving. The sooner you do so the sooner will you find yourself on the high road to independence. This is an excellent place to save. Why not now?

The next pastor of the Ell Town d Klemme congregations was Rev. John Gatermann (now at Plymouth, Wisconsin) whose pastor ate began July 1896. During his time the congregation increased to such an extent, that it was decided to declare the congregation independent and call its own pastor. A parsonage was built on the north side of the church lot. An additional lot north of the church property was donated by Mr. August Barz. The parsonage was built in the year 1901, the cost was around $1551 00 The building committee consisted of the following members F. Bock, H Thiemann, A. Schuettpeltz and Hy Wille. Then during this time confirmation classes were conducted in Ell Town and all Klemme ducted in Ell Town and all Klemme pupils were instructed and confirmed in Ell Town. Rev Gatermann writes: "We often think of the pleasant days we spent with the Klemme people, of their liberality in giving for church and pastor, and especially of the interest they took in providing religious education for their children."

The next paster, the first of the independent congregation was Rev Muehlmeier (now at Monticello, Wisconsin) a brother-in-law of Rev. Gatermann. He began his pastorate in September 1901. Under the able leadership of Rev. Muehlmeier the young congregation made wonderful progress. New members were added, the attendance at the church services was very good, and Bible School and Confirmation Class was held regularly and were well attended. The first confirmation class which Rev. Muehlmeier confirmed in the Klemme church follows: Dirk Swalve, Henry Busemann, Henry Knoke, Herman Priebe, Albert Barz, Wilhelmina Reichardt, Sarah Thiemann, Pauline Reichardt, Hiskea Swalve.

Rev. Muehlmeier has promised to give us a report of the years he served here, of this he writes: "There is nothing special to report for the years that we spent in Klemme were quiet and peaceful years, which we remember as the most pleasant years of our ministry." In the year 1909 he resigned to accept a call from the Monticello, Wisconsin charge.

Rev. Achtermann was then elected and he began his pastorate in the same year. He remained for 2 years and 3 months and resigned to take charge of a congregation in South Dakota.

The next pastor was Rev. Wm Thiel then of New Berlin, Wisconsin. He began his pastorate Dec. 3, 1911. From his report we quote the following: "During the pastorate of Rev. Thiel there was a steady growth in membership and attendance at church This could best be noted by the gradual filling and crowding of the church. At first the room underneath the gallery was shut off and used for school purposes. After about a year the doors had to be removed and the room used to accomodate the audience. Additional room was gained when the old coal burners were removed and a furnace was installed Pews were bought to fill this space. Then it became a need to buy folding chairs. There was then already talk of building an addition to the church but the entrance of the United States into the World War and the resulting introduction of the English language into the church services in 1918 made this unecessary. Many of the older members who were unaccustomed to the use of any other language in religion, than the German attended but irregularly thus leaving that much space vacant.

The members of the Klemme Reformed church distinguished themselves by their regular attendance at church, their lively interest in institutions and mission work and by their open and friendly manner and treatment of their minister and his family.

In 1917 Rev. L. D. Benner, then financial secretary of the Mission House visited us to make a special canvas for the new Mission House dormitory. This canvas was a great success. Subscriptions were liberally given, at church, at home, in the grain fields, and even on top of haystacks. For some time the Klemme congregation headed the list of all contributors as to the average contribution per member.

Improvements to the church property in these years were as follow: A basement to the church and furnace in 1914. Addition of a garage and hayloft to the barn in 1915; Electric lights for church and parsonage in 1914; Enlargement of basement and installation of furnace in parsonage in 1917; Organization of the Ladies Aid in 1918; City Water in the parsonage in 1919

The World War left its impressions on the Klemme congregation. A number of our young men were drafted for service. A few of them saw service at the front, but there was but one that brought the supreme sacrifice, namely Elmer Hartbeck, who though he did not fall in battle, nevertheless sacrificed his life to the service of his country.

The family physician who was also a regular attendant at church, deserves special mention, Dr. George Zinn.

In the spring of 1919 Rev. Thiel received a call from the Lodi, Calif. charge. Though having no other reasons for leaving than to take advantage of the excellent climate for the welfare of the family, he resigned to the seming regret of the congregation. He ended his pastorate in Klemme, June 9, 1919.

Depping Was Sixth Pastor

The next or sixth pastor of the Klemme congregation was Rev. A. A. Depping who came to Klemme from Berne, Minnesota. He began his pastorate in July, 1919. He writes: "The history of the church of all times has had its light sides and its shady sides, so it is with the individual congregation. This is also true of the Klemme congregation This sixth period was both a "Jubilee" and a 'Storm and Strife" period. After the close of the World War the congregation enjoyed a few years of peace, during which time Schools and services could be conducted in the old accustomed way.

In the year 1920 the congregation celebrated its 25 anniversary, at which time a fund of $1,000.00 was gathered. The former pastors with their wives were invited to this festival. Rev. H. Treick, Rev. John Gatermann, and Rev. Albert Muehlmeier were present and took part in the program. Rev. Theil of Lodi. Calif., was unable to be present.

In the year 1924 the congregation entertained the Synod of the North West. About 100 delegates attended this meeting. Rev. Muehlmeier was elected president. Services were held both in church and school house.

Language Question Arises

The language question which has proved to be a serious and dangerous question in so many of our congregations now came up to disturb the peace of the congregation. During such a disturbance a congregation will soon find itself on "stormy sea" Rev. Depping resigned after earnest attempts had been made to bring about peace. He rejoices that this question has now been settled and the sea has again calmed down. He closes his report with the prayer of the Psalmist: "Pray for the peace of Jerusalem: they shall prosper and love thee. Peace be within thy walls, and prosperity within thy palaces. For my brethern and companions sake, I will now say, Peace be within thee. Immanuel—God with thee!"

Rev. Depping left for Wishek, No. Dakota in the fall of the year. Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch, was the next pastor elected. Since he did not wish to leave his charge at Stratford, Wis., before the following spring, Rev. Calvin Schmid was asked to supply this charge in connection with his regular work. The Ell Town Congregation kindly allowed its pastor to serve Klemme, and even sacrificed some of their services to give the Klemme congregation an opportunity to have services. The Klemme congregation will ever remember the servics of Rev. Schmid for under his guidance the language question was settled in a peaceful way. When the new pastor came on May 1 1926 the congregation was again united and ready to accept the changes in language that were made.

Services are held in both languages. The first and third Sunday of each month in English, the second fourth and whenever there is a fifth Sunday the services are conducted in the German language. In a few years time the Confirmation Class, the Bible School and the Sunday School employed the English language only. During this last period the congregation again showed the same character that had attracted attention during the pastorates of Rev Muehlmeier and Rev. Thiel. The attendance at cervices increased steadily during the last four yars. The Sunday School has grown from an average attendance of 41 in 1926 to an average attendance of 180 in 1930. The Bible School has grown from an enrollment of 26 in 1926 to 117 in 1930. A young Peoples Bible Class was organized in 1926 and now has a membership of 60.

Decided To Build New Church

On the 26 of August 1929, at a special congregational meeting it was decided to erect a new building to cost about $28,000,00. The following members were elected to serve on the building commitee: Julius Priebe, Chairman; Henry Thiemann, Secretary; Albert Barz; Treasurer; Henry Stromer; W. C. Schmidt; John Bock; Fred Becker.

It was decided to canvas the congregation and in case 85 per cent of the total amount be pledged, to preparations for the building in the Spring. In less than two days the 85 per cent was subscribed, and the at once went to work. The business men of Klemme as well as friends of the congregation also gave liberally for the fund Mr Thorwald Thorson of Forest City was selected as the architect. The contract was awarded to Bartleson Bros. of Forest City The general contract amounted to $21,000.00 The members of the congregation did the excavating early in the spring, so that the contractor could begin work the first part of April.

Corner Stone Laid April 30th

On the 30 of April the Corner Stone was laid. Rev J Berkenkamp of Bongards, Minn. and Rev. when the crowd had gathered on Schmid of Ell Town were the speakers A near tragedy was averted the middle of the floor of the new church A brace underneath had not been properly placed and gave way and the main beam broke. It seemed almost a miracle that the floor did not cave in entirely, but only sagged down about a foot. The damage was soon repaired the folowing day and we were glad and thankful that no one had come to harm.

The work on the new building went along as scheduled Only a little work remains to be done before the new church can be dedicated on Sunday, August 31. The interest shown by the members during the building has been very encouraging Practically all pledges have been paid in full and only a few remain unpaid at this writing. Whenever Mr. Julius Priebe called for volunteers to haul gravel, to excavate, to clean up etc. it was surprising to see how large a number responded The building committee and consistory are to be congradulated on the manner in which they performed their duties. The Writer has never worked with a body of men who have gone about their task in a more concientious and willing spirit.

The old building was moved on the parsonage lot before the excavation of the cellar and was used for services during the summer months Last Sunday the congregation gathered in this building for the last Sunday service. Later this fall the building will be taken down and the lumber sold. Other items of interest during the present pastorate may be the following: In 1926 before the present pastor came the parsonage was remodeled In the summer of the same year the old church was shingled and redecorated. A choir was organized in 1927 and is now progressing nicely under the direction of Miss Adela Schroeder, Director and Miss Edith Haupt Pianist. A men's Choir was organized this summer and is directed by Mr. Emil Barz, Miss Ethel Barz, Pianist

Have Generous Congregation

On looking back over the four short years that we have worked with the Klemme congregation, we cannot help but express our gratitude to God and our good people We have found them true and faithful, willing to undertake any work that is beneficial to the church and the Kingdom of God. The many deeds of kindness will never be forgotten The second year when the ministers old Ford became lame and short on breath, the members were kind enough to give him the means to purchase a new Ford. At the last yearly meeting the congregation voted an additional $200.00 with last years salary. Many were the gifts received from individuals; every one of them is an encouragement in our work. Our prayer is that this work may not have been in vain that the blessings of God may rest upon us as a congregation that we may by his grace continue to teach and learn His Holy Word. "Except the Lord build the house they labor in vain that build it."

WORK WAS VOLUNTEERED

One of the finest pieces of volunteer work that the writer has ever seen took place in the fall when the call went out for gravel haulers and again this spring for excavation work. Old and young turned out and went to work with a will. About 300 loads of gravel were hauled from the Lau and Stille pits. Mr. Wm. Stille donated about 150 loads of gravel to the congregation. All work done by the members was under the supervision of Mr. Julius Priebe.

BARTLESON BROTHERS ARE EXPERIENCED CONTRACTORS

We feel fortunate in having secured the services of Mr. Thorson, the architect, and Mr. Carl Bartleson the contractor. No changes whatever, had to be made in the architect's plans, after the building was begun. Mr. Bartleson supervised all work throughout the summer, and the committee is satisfied that all work was done well. Bartleson Bros. live in Forest City. They were trained in their profession by their father who is a contractor. During the last four years these brothers have built the following churches: Presbyterian church at Lakota; the Methodist church at Crystal Lake; Methodist church at Plymouth; the Lutheran curc at Lake Mills; and the Reformed church at Klemme. From Klemme the four brothers are going to Buffalo Center where they will build the a Methodist church.

YOUNG PEOPLE PURCHASED PEWS FOR THE NEW CHURCH

The young people had a definite part in the building program. A committee of young folks gathered subscriptions, and with the aid of the building committee bought the pews. $1,500 has now been paid, which leaves a little surplus in this treasury after the furniture was paid. Mr. Geo. Born and Mr. G. Goll assembled the pews which were shipped knocked-down from the factory in Waukesha, Wis. The young people are grateful to these two men for their service, also to Mr. U. G. Smid who fastened the book racks to the back of the pews.

LADIES PLANNED KITCHEN

Our Ladies, with the help of the architect, planned the kitchen. They furnished bot the kitchen and the dining room with all necessary equipment. Mr. G. Born again volunteered his services. The tables in the dining room are his workmanship. Sunday the ladies will serve dinner and supper to all guests who are present.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GAVE NEW MODERN PULPIT

The new pulpit was donated by the Sunday School. This pulpit has an adjustable reading desk so that it can be raised or lowered to fit both the long and the short preachers.

DR. ZINN GAVE ROOM FOR USE OF MOTHERS

The mothers room will ever be regarded as Dr. Zinn's share of the new building. Dr. Zinn saw and and spoke of this room, long before the congregation thought of building. His contribution made it possible, to add this splendid room to our building.

As threshers were pitching grain from their wagons into the machine at the Eddie Deverson farm at Leland the steam engine got a full head of steam and the pressure valve "popped off" frightening a horse so badly that it dropped dead.

Claims Elephant Leads Beasts in Intelligence

The question of the relative intelligence of our so-called "dumb" beasts seems to be one to which there is no end. Wherever animal men gather the controversy wages hot and furious. "I think elephants are the most intelligent of all animals," says Hubbard Nye, writing in Liberty Magazine. "I realize this opens an argument, for every man who has worked in a circus or menagerie may think otherwise.

"My contention," continues Nye, "is that elephants show more intelligence in learning to work. In twenty minutes you can teach an elephant to plow a cornfield and not step on a single shoot. The big beast's intelligence shines brightest in vaudeville work. He is the only animal capable of going through his stunts without a trainer and without cues.

"The three-ton star will stand backstage waiting for his act for an hour and a half, placid, thinking his elephant thoughts, while property men shift scenery right under his trunk and chorus girls go scuttling around him. You can lead him between the most fragile sets of gauze, and he won't hurt a thing."

Best to Register Bonds

Registration protects the owner of a United States bond from loss or theft, and holders generally are urged, wherever practicable, to take advantage of the privilege of registration. In case of the loss or theft of a registered bond, unless assigned in blank or for exchange for coupon bonds without instructions restricting delivery, the Treasury department will give relief to the owner in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs 83 to 85 of Department Circular No. 300. Holders of registered bonds receive interest checks drawn on the treasurer of the United States in payment of interest as it falls due, and their names are all recorded on the books of the Treasury department.

Birthplace of Banana

The original home of the banana is believed to have been in India, where it has been cultivated from remotest antiquity. Even before the time of written history, the edible banana had been spread over the Old world by cultivation and other agencies, from southern Asia, westward to Africa and eastward to the islands of the Pacific. Bas-reliefs on the monuments of ancient Assyria and Egypt indicate its early culture. The first known importation of the banana into the United States was in the late sixties. As late as 1879, the banana was looked upon as somewhat of a curiosity in the United States.—Detroit News.

Concerning Earth's Orbit

The naval observatory says it has been proved, first by Sir Isaac Newton, that a spherical body attracted gravitationally only by another spherical body will move in a circle, ellipse, parabola or hyperbola, but this proof is a matter of higher mathematics. The orbits of the planets are not perfect elllipses, because the elliptical motion of each of them that would result from the attraction of the sun alone is disturbed by the attraction of the other planets.

Roy O'Donnell Judged Hogs

Roy F. O'Donnell, of Colo, Iowa, was the judge of the hogs, sheep and beef cattle. Harry Linn of the Iowa Horse and Mule Breeders Association of Des Moines judged the horses and Earl N. Schultz of the Extension Service of Iowa State College judged the dairy cattle.

Miss Fannie Gannon of the Extension Service of Iowa State College judged the girls club work.

Madison Twp. Girls Win

All but three of the girls clubs had booths and there was a very interesting display of baking and cooking at the Opera House. Madison township won first on their booth, Bingham township won second, Ell township won third and Boone township won fourth.

Ell Township Girl Healthiest

Miss Marjorie Stewart of Garner, Ell township was judged the healthiest girl in the county with a score of 97 per cent. She will represent Hancock county at the Iowa State Fair. Alice Schaller of Magor was a close second with a score of 96.6 per cent and Alice Swyter of Erin township was third with a score of 96.3 per cent.

Ell Wins Music Memory Contest

In the Music Memory Contest, Ell township won first place and won the portable phonograph, and Magor township won second.

Miss Dorothy Trulson of Britt township exhibited the best 4-H achievement book, Miss Marie Rieken of Bingham township had the best Expense Account Book and Miss Mildred Peterson, also of Bingham, had the best Record Book.

The contest that created the most interest among everybody was the Girls Demonstration Contest. An elimination contest was held previous to this contest and the five high teams were given the privilege of demonstrating at the Club Show on Wednsday. The following were the five high at the tryout:

Britt—Leona Fisher, Bernice Riehm
Erin—Vera Thornbury, Alice Swyter.
Magor—Emma Beer, Alce Schaller.
Concord—Gertrude Tobin, Miriam Love.
Avery—Gertrude Trampel, Jane Dutheridge.

Avery Girls Win Contest

At the contest at Garner on Wednesday, the team from Avery township, demonstrating "Making and Baking Whole Wheat Bread," won first and will represent Hancock county at the State Fair. These girls and their leader, Mrs. H. C. Barger are to be complimented on their work and Hancock County is proud to have these girls represent them at the Fair. The team from Concord township won second thereby winning a trip to the Girls Club Convention at Ames next June.

Garner Baby Is Healthiest

In the Baby Health Contest, Margaret Mae Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Edwards of Garner won first, and Loraine Ann Rice daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Rice and Calvin Clarence Baumgartner, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Baumgartner tied for second place. May Helen Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mann, who are visiting at the parental C. H. Van Meter home, was the winner over all but on account of their not being residents of this county, she was barred from the contest.

Lead In Community Singing

Bert Donahue of Britt lead the community singing both days at the Opera House. If there was a person in the room that was not singing when singing was started, they were certainly singing before it was over. Mr. Donahue centainly had them all "hanging their troubles on a sour apple tree" and everybody wished that they would have the privilege of having Mr. Donahue lead in community singing more times. We are very grateful to Mr. Donahue for his interest and efforts in behalf of the 4-H clubs and want him to know we appreciate it.

HANCOCK COUNTY BABY BEEVES AT STATE FAIR

Hancock County Can Feel Proud Of Record Boys Made There

The twelve Baby Beef Calves from Hancock County entered at the Iowa State Fair won premiums totalling eighty-eight dollars. The competition this year was greater than ever but nine out of twelve calves placed in the money in their respective classes.

The Senior Hereford Class with one hundred entries found Emory Weaver's Hereford placed twenty-second and Ronald Greiman's Hereford placed thirty-second.

In the Intermediate Class, Wayne Chambers' Hereford placed thirteenth and Wiley Weaver's placed thirty-third.

In the Senior Angus Class only one of the three from Hancock placed and this was Bernard Greiman's Angus which placed thirteenth in a class of seventy-five.

In the Intermediate Class, Bernard Greiman's Angus placed thirty-first in a field of seventy.

Ronald Greiman Wins Fifth

Ronald Greiman showed his Junior Angus into fifth place in that class. With more than one hundred in the class, Ronald and his calf certainly did well.

In the Intermediate Class Wayne Chambers placed 27th with his Shorthorn and Robert Lawhorn was in the money with his Junior Shorthorn.

Hancock County Placed Fifth

With a field of twenty county herds, Hancock placed fifth with the group of five from our county.

Judging Team Shows Up Fine

The livestock judging team composed of Arnold Hampel, Kenneth Greiman and George Knaupp certainly proved their value as stock judges when they placed ninth high team of the state. All three boys judged consistently with Geor Knaupp placing seventh high as dividual of the State. When know that there were fifty-fo teams entered with one hundred s ty-two boys competing we can but feel proud of the judging team

Let me mention in closing th the boys who were at the Fair c tainly worked faithfully and obey orders to the letter. I'll put Ha cock County boys up against a other county group in the state.

We Protect You On Feed Prices

Our feed prices are as low as they will go, in fact, most everything has taken quite an advance the past three weeks and it will only be a short time until advances are here.

We advise our farmer friends to order all the feed they need right now.

We will guarantee against decline in price, in other words—f our prices are lower than at present, any time between now and September 20th, we will give the man who has booked his feed the benefit of that reduction.

We will not guarantee against advance as it is already here. The only way a customer cn protect himself against an advance is by placing his order NOW!

Get your feed orders in now and be on the safe side. The feed situation has changed considerably the past few weeks. Order your supply now and save money.

DAIRY AND FOOD REPORT ISSUED

An interesting report of the conditions found in the various industries that come under the supervision of the Dairy and Food Division of the Iowa Department of Agriculture has just been issued and is available to those who wish it.

Iowa creameries, which represent the second largest manufacturing industry of the state, manufactured 214,561,518 pounds of butter during 1929. This was an increase of over 8per cent in the total make of butter. The total value of all dairy products produced in the state amountedl to $166,898,640 for the year.

The Iowa hen contributed approximately 165,000,000 dozens of eggs as her share of Iowa's agricultural wealth in 1929. The egg production together with the approximately 35,200,000 head of poultry, brought the total value of the poultry income to $84,000,000

The report also furnishes a list of creameries, ice cream factories, canning factories and bottling works The report may be secured by writing to M. G. Thornburg, Secretary of Agriculture, Des Moines.

General Repair Time

NOW is the time to take a final look over the buildings, fence, etc. Did your roof leak last spring when it did rain?

We hardly have had need for roofs this summer. Fall is drawing near and we are bound to have rains. Make a close inspection of your shingles—if they are getting ragged and a fire hazzard, better play safe.

We are selling a B. C. 100 per cent edge grain shingle that is backed by the manufacturer and guaranteed to last 40 years if applied with nails that will last that long.

Come in nd take a look at them, they are dandies. It costs no more for labor to put on this kind of a shingle, than it does a poorer grade.

Don't put off this inspection tour of your buildings. It does not pay to let them get run down too much. A repair in time is worth while.

When the elegant inlaid box of assorted cigarettes was passed, the guest just reached in and took one which upon inspection seemed to be none of the recognized brands, although he was quite a connoisseur of smokes.

REFORMED CHURCH IS DEDICATED

ONE THOUSAND ATTENDED THE DEDICATION SERVICES SUNDAY

Many Visitors Here From Distance To Attend Dedication And Picnic

The Dedication Services of the Klemme Reformed Church, held Sunday morning were attended by over one thousand people, who came from far and near.

Services began at 9:45 a m. at the old church building and the congregation then went to the new church building, where the contractor, Mr. Bartleson, gave the key to church officials who unlocked the door and admitted the members of the congregation and the many visitors who had assembled. Services were in both the German and English languages

Klemme Boy Scouts, in uniform, had charge of parking cars for the visitors and directed traffic, and assisted whereever needed.

The ladies of the church served a chicken dinner to all who atended the services, and approximately one thousand people were served in the large dinning room, which could take care of about two hundred and fifty at one time. The dinning room, halls and auditorium were beautifully decorated with flowers.

Services were again held in the afternoon and in the evening and were attended by a vast crowd, almost equal to the morning session.

At the supper hour the ladise of the church again served and approximately seven hundred people were served at this time.

On Monday the day was spent in having a big Sunday School and Church picnic which was well attended, and in the evening the young people met for a special service in the new building at which time they were addressed by Rev. Muehlmeier, of Monticello, Wis

All former ministers, with the exception of two, were unable to be present. Rev. Thiel of Lodi, California was unable to attend. Rev. Gatermann who was on the program, was unable to be here Sunday because of a funeral, but arrived Monday and attended the picnic.

Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch must be given much credit for the building of the new church and the success of a huge undertaking. He is of a modest nature, however, and says the credit goes to his fine congregation and the men who served so well on the building committee.

This is another busy week for the Reformed people of this community as the Northwest Synod is being held this week at the Elltown Reformed Church, and each service there is well attended.

PAVING CREW BEGAN WORK ON LAST STRETCH FRIDAY

Moved Equipment To Garner And Will Haul From That Point

McKenzie & Killeen, paving contractors, completed this end of the praving project last week, and have finished up some small gaps in the paving over the bridges south of town. This work was delayed because the steel needed to place over the bridge surface did not arrive in time to do this work when the paving machines were on this stretch. The road south has been closed for some time, but it is expected the entire stretch south from Klemme will be opened beforo the end of the week.

The paving crew is now working out of Garner. They began on the last strip of about three miles at a point several rods south of the Elltown Church, and are working to the north. With favorable weather conditions the entire stretch should be completed and open the first of October.

LOCAL SCHOOLS OPENED HERE WEDNESDAY MORNING

Twenty Students Are Enrolled In The Freshman Class

Wednesday morning found our teachers here, and the local school bell ringing once more. Many high school students enrolled last week end and arranged for getting books. Twenty students in all are already in the new Freshmen Class, and there may be still others.

We hope to inteerst all in our school program and hope this year may be a banner one in the results obtained.

Our teachers, we believe, have caught the contagious enthusiasm of their instructors at the county institute at Garner which lasted Monday and Tuesday of this week, and all are intent on doing the most possible for their pupils.

School Nurse Will Visit Here

The sale of Christmas seals in our county last December has permitted the employment of a county nurse who will work in the rural schools of our county, and we understand she will spend some time in our graded schools. She will be welcomed in our schools early this autumn and has agreed to come for an address at our first Parent-Teacher program.

If you haven't time to go camping put up a tent in the back yard, carry your water from the neighbors hydrant, cook on a smoky oil stove and drink warm water. The effect will be the same.

IOWA CO-OP. GRAIN COMPANY ORGANIZED

WALTER WEISS TELLS OF NEW GRAIN MARKETING AGENCY

New Organization Already At Work With Offices At Cedar Rapids

The Iowa Co-operative Grain Co. a central selling agency, organized under the direction of the Farmers Grain Dealers Association of Iowa, and which was incorporated some weeks ago, held a final organization meeting of its Board of Directors at Fort Dodge, Iowa on Tuesday, August 26th, and completed details of the organization.

Have Office At Cedar Rapids

The organization arranged for the opening of a sales office in Cedar Rapids, Iowa and that has already been accomplished. The first two cars of grain were shipped by the Farmers Elevator Company of Albert City on Tuesday, the 26th of August. It is hoped that the office in Cedar Rapids will be able to place the member units of the organization in Iowa in a position to take advantage of the highest possible prices obtainable by keeping in touch with deficit areas and other territory that are buyers of the coarse grains. The organization feels that by developing the consumer's trade in deficit areas of this and surrounding states that it can be of great service to its members.

Can Sell To Highest Bidder

The member organizations are free to seek thme highest market possible for their grain and in the event that they are able to secure a higher bid than the central organization can secure for them they are at liberty to realize on such a bid.

It is one of the main objects of the organization to centralize in one agency consisting of the volume of the Iowa elevators to enable them to deal with purchasers of grain in large quantities. The big grain buyer goes where the big volume is. He seeks his source of supply where the grain is. It is the hope of the leaders of the organization that it will receive the assistance and support of every co-operative in the state.

Will Centralize Business

It is the intention and object of the organization to enable the Farmers Elevators of Iowa to so centralize their business that they will be able to work in conformity with any agency that is set up for the assistance and benefit of the people of Iowa, and especially that section of Iowa which is covered by the members of this organization.

By proper effort a large part of Iowa's coarse grain supply can be marketed in or out of Iowa direct to the consumers, and it is the organizations purpose to attempt, inso far as possible, to meet the demand of the coarse grain producer and that he be able to sell direcet as possible to the coarse grain buyers for the purpose of consumption in other parts of the country.

Small Fee For Each Car

The Farmer's Elevators of Iowa have accomplished a great deal in the building of their organization and the education of their people and developing their business in the past quarter of a century. The time is here for a further stop by combining that economic power. It is useless to talk about it unless something is done. The plans of the organization do not call for a stock subsciption. The organization is not asking for any capital investment. The member companies will contribute a small fee on each car of business for the purpose of establishing the business on a firm financial basis. The company has its office open and has arranged for the financcing of any and all shipments in the usual way. It will render as prompt and efficient service as any grain operator and has the support of the members of the different local elevators who have grain to market.

Early Start

A visitor in a mountain village noticed that one citizen was always up very early, but never did any work. So he questioned the man's wife.

"Why does your husband rise so early?"

"Oh, he wants an early breakfast."

"But he doesn't do anything. Why must he have such an early breakfast?"

"To smoke after."

Beauty in Great Bridge

There is beauty of a different and stupendous kind in the bridges that connect Manhattan island with Brooklyn or the mainland. Your first feeling at these bridges is always one of admiration, even of awe, for modern engineering. . . . To stand on the East river docks and see the gigantic, wirespun, airy boulevard of the Brooklyn bridge go leaping up into space and descend in a curve of marvelous grace into the granite gorges of lower Manhattan is to experience a sensation no other city on earth can offer you. . . . It would have been from the footpath of this bridge, too, that Wordsworth would have written his sonnet to Manhattan—we wonder in what spirit of solemn awe?—Walter Prichard Eaton, in "Green Trails and Upland Pastures."

Untaught Rustic Youth Rose to Fame as Poet

The first English poet whose name can be found in ancient archives is Caedmon, who lived in Northumbria, near the Streanhalch monastery. Streanhalch is now known as the town of Whitby. Caedmon is regarded more or less as a saint by the Anglo-Saxon church, although for the greater part of his life he lived a monk and died faithful to his vows on February 11, 680.

The legend of Caedmon's first inspiration to poetry is as follows: At a feast attended by Caedmon, then a raw country youth, the harpist applied to him for a song. Abashed at his inability to compose even a drinking song, Caedmon left the hall and fled to the hills, where he spent the night. In his slumbers, a song called "Creaton" came upon him, which he remembered and sang when he awoke and returned to his village.

The village bailiff, or reever as he was then called, took the singing rustic to the Streanhalch monastery, where he was induced by the Abbess Hilda to take holy orders. He dwelt the rest of his life in the monastery composing many fine ecclesiastical poems and translating the Scriptures into the current Anglo-Saxon of the country of that time.—Vancouver Province.

Mysteries of Vitamines Sought by Scientists

Vitamines are one of the essential elements in foods. Lack of them has been proved to cause eye diseases, sterility, rickets, scurvy, beri-beri and stunted growth. They exist in certain foodstuffs only, and even in parts of foodstuffs, such as the husks of rice and potato peelings, which are not generally eaten. Methods of removing these elements from unpalatable parts of foods are most important, as they may thus be added to more palatable diets otherwise inadequate to the maintenance of health.

Science is attempting to solve the mysteries of vitamine production and removal, says a writer in the Washington Post. Ultimately it expects to manufacture these valuable food constituents synthetically in its laboratories. When that day arrives human health will have been promoted immeasurably, for no other single item is more important, particularly to children, than the vitamine.

Firefly in Commerce

Fireflies destroy larvae and insects, which are their natural food. In addition to this, they have a value, dead or alive, in China and Japan, where they are used in the manufacture of drugs, poultices and pills peculiar to the practice of Chinese medicine. Firefly grease (hotaru-no-abura) is used by woodworkers for the purpose of imparting rigidity to objects made of bent bamboo. In China and Japan the catching and selling of fireflies during the summer months is of such extent as to be considered an industry. The chief center of the industry is in the region about Ishiyama, near the lake of Omi, where a number of merchants ship the fireflies to Osaka and Kyoto. Each house employs from 60 to 70 flycatchers, and experts are known to catch as many as 3,000 in a single night.

Still Use Roman Roads

The changes which have come over the planning and construction of great highways built or projected across the continent prove that the first builders of roads were the best, according to Thomas S. Bosworth, in the New York Times. The main highways across Europe, many of them still in use today after 2,000 years, remain as monuments to the supreme mechanical genius of the Americans of their day, the old Romans. Not only did they plan their roads on the principle that the straight line is the shortest between two points, but they built them so well that, with minor changes, the modern cities of Europe still depend upon them for their communication by automobile.

Temperature and Earth

Only a few feet of earth on the very surface is affected by the daily range in temperature. There is then a larger layer upon which neither the surface temperature nor the temperature of the inside of the earth has any effect. Then comes the layer where the temperature of the earth increases one degree for every 50 to 75 feet one goes into the interior of the earth. The cold water comes from the layer which is unaffected by temperatures from within the earth or on the surface of the earth. In some places we have thermo springs where the water comes from a depth below this in the region which is influenced by the heat from within the earth.

The Trans-Andine tunnel, five miles long, is 10,486 feet above sea level, and affords direct connection between Valparaiso, Chile, and Buenos Aires, Argentina. It was opened in 1910.

Butter Builds Health Reserve

That the amount of butterfat eaten is directly related to the occurrence of respiratory diseases, such as colds, was found in research work by Dr. Amy Daniels of the State University of Iowa. Dr. Daniels studied the eating habits of children suffering from respiratory infections and discovered that their diets were low in Vitamin A. BUTTER is the richest food fat source of this Vitamin.

"To build a health reserve which protects you from disease, eat at least the 'protective' amount of butterfat every day," say nutrition authorities of he National Dairy Council. "Vitamin A may be stored in the body. This storage, according to Dr. H. C. Sherman, nutrition authority, acts not only as a reserve but increases the vigor and ability of the body to resist disease."

Trace Old Superstition to Historic Incident

Quite a few common sayings, it has been found, come down from old English ballads, while some are founded on some historical incident. The most famous of the latter perhaps is the old Scottish superstition, "Bad luck to kill spiders."

Those who have read the various stories of Robert Bruce, king of Scotland, will recall the one where it is told of the Scottish baron who, awakening one morning disheartened over his attempts to conquer the English and gain the throne of Scotland, saw a spider trying to fasten its web across the rafters of the building.

Twice the spider tried and failed and thereupon Bruce resolved that if its third attempt should be successful, he, too, would try again to defeat the English and gain the Scottish throne.

Bruce, watching the spider, saw it steeling itself for a supreme effort, the spider sprang, and succeeded in fastening its web on the rafter, and, full of courage, Bruce arose to try once again, and like the spider, succeeded. Hence, the superstition, "Bad luck to kill a spider."

Chinese Capital Loses Noted "Thieves' Market"

The famous "thieves' market" of China's ancient capital is formally abolished in a decree issued by Gen. Chang Yin-wu, mayor of Peiping. The decree also prohibits the fairs which have been held for centuries there at dawn and after nightfall. The decree quotes a Chinese classical writer as saying that the middle of the day is the time for people to buy and sell. The "thieves' market" has been one of the most picturesque features of Peiping life for generations. To an appointed place hundreds of dealers have brought every conceivable sort of object at six o'clock in the morning, or earlier, and Chinese and foreign residents in search of bargains have been the patrons. It has been popularly supposed that a large number of the articles displayed were stolen, which accounted for their surprising cheapness.

Death-Dealing Habits

The handshake, universal gesture of friendship, is the distributor of disease and death. It has been definitely established that typhoid fever, tuberculosis, diptheria and cholera are among the diseases which may be carried through the handshake. Experiments have shown that the seventh person removed from the original germ bearer may be infected. The danger would be greatly lessened were it not for the common habit of putting the fingers in the mouth. A group of 40 students and teachers in a library were observed during a period of a half hour. Only one person failed to carry his hand to his mouth. Thirteen members of the group were seen to moisten their fingers before turning the leaves of their books, a particularly dangerous habit.

Technological Education

The beginning of technological education may be traced back to ancient times, as is evidenced by the construction of the pyramids of Egypt, the aqueducts, military roads and fortifications of the ancient Romans. During the Middle ages there was a general lack of interest in learning of all kinds. It was principally conducted by the monks and similar religious organizations, whose interest was more in the arts than in the sciences. Technological schools were founded in the Eighteenth century. In the United States the work of Dr. Jacob Bigelow did much to further interest in technological studies. He published his "Elements in Technology" in 1829.

Valuable Outlet

In the critical years of adolescence, when the emotional nature of the young person is in evidence, music is the most valuable outlet for the surplusage of emotion—a veritable safety valve, in fact; not alone the mere passive hearing of music, but more than this, the serious study of music in its executive sense, will do more to hold to the track a youngster tingling with the higglety-pigglety emotion of that period than anything else. Parents who neglect the musical education of their children are ignoring one of the most valuable factors in character advancement.—Exchange.

Venetian Canals

Venice is built upon islands, which served as refuge for inhabitants of neighboring cities during attacks by barbarians. Its strategic advantage was so great that many fugitives remained, and the lagoons which separated the islands were the natural streets. These islands were formed from the silt and debris brought down by rivers, and the soil is an oozy mud that makes building difficult. Roadbeds would be extremely difficult to make, while canals are, obviously, easy to construct and maintain.

Early American Volcano

North Carolina once prided itself on having a first-class volcano in its midst. It was Bald mountain. Things were pretty bad with Bald mountain in those days. It was acting up in the spring of 1874.

"The mutterings of Bald mountain," the paper reported on April 17, 1874, "were heard distinctly at Long's Mills, Person county, a distance of over 200 miles, on Tuesday last."—Raleigh News and Obeserver.

TAKING THE GUESS OUT OF BUSINESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE
President American Bankers Association

BANKERS and business men err in not adopting more universally the tactics of the scientist. When the scientist wishes to fathom the mysteries of the universe or resolve things into their component parts he calls to his assistance the magnifying power of the microscope. There before him, like an open book, lie the secrets of nature which unaided eyes cannot observe.

John G. Lonsdale

The uncanny power of the microscope's all-seeing eye has revealed countless secrets for the material and intellectual progress of humanity. It has enabled us to study the processes of growing cells in plant and animal life, trace the causes of disease and successfully combat the ills of mankind; it has aided the engineer in his search for stronger and more serviceable materials, giving us taller, lighter and more sanitary structures, and better highways; it has disclosed the defects in steel rails and brought us an era of safer railway travel; it has added to the food supply of the nation; in fact, it has affected favorably nearly every activity of the human race, whether it apply to production, distribution or consumption, in time of peace or in time of war.

In the business and banking world, economic research and analysis serve as the microscope through which we are enabled to see basic factors more clearly and thus determine the causes of success and failure. Only recently have we begun to realize the full value of research and analysis and apply them in such a way as to eliminate the guesswork that was characteristic of industry a few years ago. "Eliminate the guess and reach success," might well be a motto for all of us.

Banking Conducting Continual Research

The American Bankers Association is daily submitting every phase and every department of banking to searching scrutiny and study, says John G. Lonsdale, president of this the world's greatest financial association. The findings of these investigations are made available to the 20,000 members of the organization for their guidance.

"It is a fine tribute to the spirit of cooperation among bankers that it is able to carry on this work," he says. "Bankers from one end of the country to the other are constantly giving freely and unselfishly of their skill and experience so that the association may produce the truly great results that are being accomplished."

Statistical information on national and state banks, savings institutions, trust companies and trust departments, clearing house groups and general banking is prepared after exhaustive inquiry and distributed for the use of all bankers. The organization's investigations have resulted in the passage of beneficial legislation, revision of banking practices and innumerable changes for a stronger and more efficient banking structure. It has set up an educational system through its affiliated American Institute of Banking, where 45,000 ambitious young bank men and women are now availing themselves of the opportunity to advance in the banking field.

"It has been well said that the American Bankers Association, exclusive of the Federal Reserve System, has been the greatest single nation-wide source of stability and improved conditions for banking in the United States," Mr. Lonsdale says.

Banking Grows More Complicated

DENVER, Colo.—The increase in the technicalities of the banking business in the past dozen years was shown by a speaker before the American Institute of Banking which held its annual convention here recently when he pointed out that in 1918, when the institute last met in this city, it gave only three courses, while today it gives 10, with more subjects in preparation. At the earlier date, he said, the curriculum of the institute consisted of elementary banking, commercial and banking law, and money and banking, whereas today it consists of banking fundamentals, commercial law, negotiable instruments, standard economics, standard banking, credits, investments, trust functions, analyzing financial statements, and public speaking, while the two new subjects of bank operation and organization, and bank management are to be added.

The New Pace of Business Change

Business evolution used to move slowly—it measured off its gradual changes almost invisibly, like the hour hand on the clock. But today its tempo is that of the second hand. The movement of evolution that is quickening business with rapid changes is alarmingly visible and makes it difficult to keep up with them.—R. S. Reed.

RADICAL CHANGES TRANSFORM BANKING

National Commission Sees Changing Opinion on Branch Banking Issue—Studies Group and Chain Banks.

NEW YORK.—Modification of the attitude of bankers on the long disputed branch banking question is forecast in a review and report covering rapid changes going on in banking issued here by the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association. The report, however, after referring to recent proposals that national banks be given branch banking powers within the business territory surrounding their location, declares that "we do not believe that so-called 'trade-area' branch banking is likely to gain the support of any large percentage of the banking fraternity."

The commission says that the "most important development that has affected American banking in recent years involves the rapid growth of multiple banking organizations in the form of group, chain and branch banking systems," and adds that "we present this report as an unprejudiced economic study and have no theories or policies to urge at this time." The statement says that the commission's information indicates there are now 269 group or chain bank systems, which control 1922 banks and $15,285,000,000 in aggregate resources, and that there are only six states and the District of Columbia where it does not find any group organizations.

The Commission's Investigation

"We have been in touch with the managers of many important bank groups," the report says. "Aside from the obvious economies of centralized operation and control a number of these organization heads very frankly tell us that they do not feel that the system has been in operation and tested long enough to justify them in making positive or sweeping statements as to its advantages or disadvantages compared to unit banking.

"The Banking and Currency Committee of the House, which is conducting an investigation into banking developments, has called a number of operating heads of some of the great group systems. These men declared that they found, under certain conditions, definite operating and economic advantage in both group and branch banking over independent unit banking. Some thought group banking was only a transitional stage, that branch banking was preferable and if it were permitted on an extensive enough scale they would change their groups over to branch systems. Others held that group banking was preferable.

"Some held that the ideal plan was a combination of the two with group bank units for localities strong enough to support complete banking institutions and with branch offices extending further into the smaller places requiring banking services but not large enough to support complete banks. Several of these who advocated multiple banking declared that nevertheless they believed there would always be room for vigorous independent unit bank competitors.

Government Officials Express Views

"The Comptroller of the Currency recommended that national banks be given branch banking powers within 'trade-areas.' The Governor of the Federal Reserve Board appeared to be in general agreement with the Comptroller. He said there were 24,645 banks and 3,547 branches, a total of 28,192 banking offices; that in this total, 6,353 offices were either branches or bank members of groups, or both, leaving 21,839 banking institutions that might be definitely termed independent unit banks, having no branches and in no way connected with group affiliations. He said all the banks had total loans and investments of $58,500,000,000, of which the group and branch systems held $30,000,000,000, or more than half.

"He opposed nation-wide branch banking at present but said that ultimately if bankers became trained and experienced in the larger technique of 'trade-area' banking he thought it would in time evolve nation-wide branch banking under control of relatively few banks, but he did not believe this would mean monopoly or lack of competition. He favored branch over group banking which, however, he said represented an economic development along 'trade-area' lines and would spread unless something else were substituted and thought 'trade-area' branch banking would serve this purpose.

"It is the intention of the Commission to develop its own studies in these questions, watch carefully every move that is made and every bit of information that may develop in this connection and keep itself prepared to give an unbiased and accurate statement of the facts of the case whenever that is desired," the report concludes.

Federal Reserve Pays Government

In the fifteen years since its establishment in 1914, aggregate net earnings of the Federal Reserve System's twelve regional banks have amounted to $515,216,000, of which $90,672,000 has been paid to the member banks as dividends, representing 6 per cent annually on their contributions of capital to the reserve banks, while $277,434,000 has been added to the surplus of the reserve banks and $147,110,000 has been paid over to the Federal Government as a franchise tax.

Canadian Writer Says Good Word for "Bunny"

Rabbits have been much in the news of late. A motorist has put on record the fact that he had to travel at thirty-four miles an hour to keep up with a rabbit that was running in front of his car. Then, Russia decided to raise rabbits by the million for food. But the rabbit, in spite of its smallness and timidity, has had a way of making a noise in the world. It is a curse to gardeners and farmers even in this country, and in Australia it quickly became a national menace. In this connection a good story is told of a newcomer to the Island continent—a Scot—who asked an Australian if there were many Scots in Australia. "Yes," was the immediate reply, "but our real plague is the rabbit!" But—even though the Australian won't believe it—rabbits are luckbringers. Say "White Rabbits" three times first thing on the first day of each month, and you're in for four weeks of good fortune! So, at least, runs the story. —Montreal Family Herald.

Ram Literally Butted Himself to Bitter End

A farmer named Darby had a ram. This ram could have taken the blue ribbon in the butter class at any fair. He would butt anything in sight, especially if it was moving.

Darby was a patient man but after the ram had butted everything on the farm, including Darby himself, he vowed vengeance. So one morning when he and his family were going to be gone for the day he suspended a heavy post-maul by a rope from a tree limb and turned the ram loose. The ram, seeing the maul swinging, made a rush for it. He hit it a blow that sent it swinging more. The maul, on the return trip, hit him on the head but he didn't mind it; in fact it merely made him call out his reserve powers.

Darby and his family grew tired of watching the duel between the ram and the maul, so they went to town. Toward evening they returned and the first thing they did was to visit the dueling ground. They saw the maul swinging—and they wondered what had become of the ram.

Then on going closer they found that the ram had actually worn himself out butting the maul. All that was left of him was a piece of his tail about as long as your thumb.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Improved Indian Trail

The Berry trace was the principal path of white travel northward from the Ohio river into the interior and it was merely an improvement on the pre-existing Indian trail extending northward through Ohio to the White river. The Whitzel trace was really created by the white men. Whitzel and several companions cut down the forest and cleared a roadway for passage of a train. This trail was used by incoming white men from the East until 1826.

Viking History

All the vikings to about the year 1000, with few exceptions, were pagans. The wicings (more southerly people) were also pagans but they were Christianized at a much earlier date in Great Britain, where the Jutes (Jutland, Denmark) first landed in 449, while the vikings in greater numbers began invasion of the British isles in the Eighth century.

WHAT ABOUT

COAL

IN RESPONSE TO THE INQUIRY, "IS COAL GOIN BE CHEAPER THIS FALL?" WE ARE GO-ING TO GIVE A SHORT SUMMARY OF THE SITUATION—

Coal is only mined and loaded as orders are received fo it, except coal that goes to the docks, and all rail coa or coal direct from the mines is cheaper here than doc or lake coal. Production of coal has been the lowest thi year it has been for a long time. Very few dealers hav put in any great amount. And few, if any, consumer have put in their coal. Industrial consumers have no put in their stocks of coal. Bather wait and see if fal business would open up.

With a reopening of industry, which is claimed to b assured, heavy buying of coal is bound to affect the mar ket. With the regular domestic consumption which th climate demands there can be no great reduction in the price. Freight is the largest cost in coal today and the miner must be paid and the producer must receive a certain amount or he will close his mine.

—OUR ADVICE—

Put In Your Coal As Early As Possible

while prices are as low as they can be. And in even of a starting of industry youwill not be buying on an advanced market which comes with a heavy demand. Our policy has always been to sell good coal at a mini mum price and our customers have not been fooled.

But Background Will Be White and Letters Blue—One of 11 States to Rrtain Colors

The only change which will be made in the Iowa license plates for the coming year will be that the letters will be blue and the field white on the new plates, where this year the letters are white and the field blue.

Iowa is on of the eleven states to retain the color combination, but to reverse the background and the letter colors according to a report of the American Automobile Association.

Missouri and Oregon are the only two states yet to select the colors for their 1931 license plates. Following are the color combinations for passenger cars in some of the neighboring states— Illinois, black on light green; Minnesota, white on black, Kansas, white on green; Nebraska, red on light gray; South Dakota black on white; Wisconsin, yellow on blue.

A POTATO STORY

Last year Ed. Crane of Monroe raised a potato weighing 21 ounces which was covered with knots. In showing the spud to his friends he was told that if he planted the spud it would produce potatoes with knots. This spring the potato was planted and last Saturday Mr. Crane dug a bucket full of as nice Red River Valley potatoes as you will find anywhere, they were smooth and not a knot in a carload. "They simply didn't know what they were talking about," said Mr. Crane. He is a veteran of the Civil war and was 88 years old last St Patrick's day.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

SEED CORN SHOULD BE PICKED NOW SAYS COUNTY AGENT

Seed Corn Is Bound To Be High In Price By Next Spring

Farmers, this is the season of the year you should be directing your attention to the selection of your seed corn for the coming season. Of course, a ligh frost would not hurt your chances for seed but should we get a real hard one the seed could not be as strong. As long as it does not freeze the best place for your seed corn is in the field but who knows just what night is going to bring a frost

I cannot help but feel that good seed corn is going to bring a premium so why not at least assure enough for your own use and maybe some for your neighbors? You better strap that sack over your shoulder and get that seed for next season. Better to be one of those that did than one of those that wish they had.

Clover And Alfalfa Is Good

Henry Hoick of near Corwith is cutting twenty acres of clover for seed. Withe most of the heads yeilding from 15 to 65 clover seeds the possibilities are way above average for a real seed crop.

Lester Wilhite isn't going to throw away any more legume seed. He is getting a carload of limestone to be applied this fall. He knows that the best time to apply the limestone is at least six months before sowing the legume seed.

C. F. Whetsler now realizes that his alfalfa an alkaline soil needed more moisture than obtaied this season.

Mr. Rutz, south of Britt has finished threshing his flax crop which had very good quality.

Hancock County Club Boys Run Away With Fair Prizes

Wayne Chambers, Wiley Weaver Ronald and Bernard Greiman, surely added quality to the District Baby Beef club show at the Algona Fair last week. The judging was done on Tuesday with the following prizes received by Hancock County boys calves. In the Hereford club class. Wayne Chambers won first Wiley Weaver second and Ronald Greiman third. In the Angus club class, Ronald Greiman won first and Bernard Greiman third. Ronald Greiman's junior Angus was judged to be the grand champion of the District show.

In the open class Bernard Greiman won first, Wiley Weaver won second and Ronald Greiman won third. In the Junior class, Ronald Greiman won another first with Wayne Chambers second. All this was done with five calves which certainly speaks well of the feeding ability of the Hancock County Boys.

Any fond lover of good mules has only to visit the Floyd Fiero farm to see one of the best span f mules in Northern Iowa.

Shelter Belts On Farms

During the past week visits were made to each shelterbelt in the county that was obtained through the Farm Bureau Office from the Extension Service, there being one in each township and two at rural schools.

The farms having these shelterbelts are Tom Hinders, Bingham; Norman Hanson, Crystal; Osmund Ashiem, Madison; Fred L. Meincke Ellington; E. H. Hammon, Concord; Art Abele, Garfield; Clifford Schaper, Britt; D. E. Keat, Orthel; Frank Schwab, Boone; H. V. Caldwell, Erin; E. J. Blumer, Liberty; C. J. Wille, Ell; Howard Barger, Avery; A. G. Ruka, Twin Lake; Walter Holck, Amsterdam; Fairfield Dean, Magor. On the whole these shelterbelts ar doing nicely in spite of the dry season. It was found, however, that the trees that were not shaded were doing the better.

Real Speed In Silo Filling

Speaking of speed in silo filling one must not overlook the cutter owned by Miller Townsend, Antony Baker, John Paulson, and Robert Martin, and powered by Mr. Townsend's Allis -Chalmers tractor. At the B. F. Legg farm just north of Britt, good sized loads were run into the silo at an average of three minutes per load of bundles. Mr. Legg uses wood pulp cartons for insulation instead of paper or mud. Much less spoiled silage at the door is his reason for using wood pulp cartons.

Checked Up On Spraying

H. E. Nichols was in the county last Thursday checking up on the spraying for Oyster Shell Scale done at the Jelle Tjaden farm last spring. The strength of solution was from 15-25 pounds lime sulphur per 50 gallons of water. No scale was found on the check up which should inspire farmres having oyster shell scale infestation in their orchards to apply the dormant spray next spring.

We take our hats off to Miss Alberta Matson and her Crystal Twp. 4-H club girls on their program given at the J. J. Hanson school house last Friday evening. It was a real program and showed what god leadership can do for a group of club girls.

DUCK HUNTING SEASON WILL OPEN ON SEPTEMBER 16

The hunting season opens Tuesday, September 16, in Northern Iowa, and those who enjoy the sport are already making plans to get in a few hours of hunting the first morning. Unless the weather turns quite cold the first hunting will have to be confined to the so called local birds as the migrating ducks do not start their flights until several weeks later.

As the summer has been unusually dry there is not going to be an abundance of hunting places. The sloughs have dried up, the creek is low and larger bodies of water have retreated.

Local hunting licenses can be secured from the county Recorder, or in Klemme at the First National Bank.

Local hunters will probably try their luck at Twin Lakes and at Eagle Lake.

Butter Helps Build Life Time Towers

A beautiful stone, lace-work tower, the legend runs, was built from money paid to the church by the peasants of France that they might eat butter during Lent. It is viewed by tourists today in Rouen. Here is a tower built two hundred years before Columbus discovered America. Because of its origin it is called "Tower of Butter."

All of us can find a real lesson in this Tower of Butter. Each one is building a life-time tower. Every meal we eat adds new material to the structure. If we would stand straight and strong, there are certain building foods which we must be sure to furnish our bodies. Of htem all, BUTTER is one of the most important because it is such a concentrated source of Vitamin A.

SCHOOL DAYS

"With the opening of the fall term of school the question of the physical condition of the child should be uppermost in the minds of parents," says the Iowa State Department of Health. "Children whose teeth ar decayed, whose tonsils ar infected, who have adenoids, whose vision is impaired or whose hearing is not acute are handicapped from the start and it is small wonder that such children fall behind the class and fall behind their more fortunate fellows in play or study. Periodic examinations of children even if they appear to be healthy are a profitable investment for any family. Especially should such examination be made of those children entering school for the first time.

"Before entering school every child should he protected against smallpox and diptheria. The incidence of children's diseases begins to rise about the last of September whn the hazard of increased exposure to disease due to congregation of many children at schol begins to show its effect It is not possible to protect children against all diseases but the protection given by vaccination against smallpox and and toxin- antitoxin for diptheria is reliable. Also, the child who is physically fit, who is not handicapped by tonsils and adenoids, by bad teeth or undernourishment, will be better able to withstand the exposure to infection which is offered by contac with many children than one who is not in good physical condition. Furthermore correction of physical defects in in children affords better results if done early than if such defects are allowed to exist until later years. By such correction disease will be forestalled and if serious defects are found by examination the child wil not be expected to progress beyond the limits of his physical ability."

"Let the little children of today look back in later years and bless their parents because of their attention to their health."

BILLY SUNDAY HELD HIS FIRST REVIVAL IN GARNER IN 1887

To most people the name of Billy Sunday suggests huge tabernacles, great revival crowds. and the saw dust trail. But this is only part of the story of the famous evangelist.

William A. Sunday was born in a log cabin near Ames, on November 19, 1862. His father was in the Union Army and died a month after Billy was born, leaving his family in poverty. As a result of this loss Billy and an older brother spent a few years in the Soldiers' Orphans' Home Later the younger boy was apprenticed out to Senator Scott of Nevada, Iowa. Herehe graduated from high school and began his career in baseball.

When he was twenty-one, his phenomenal base-running at Marshalltown attracted the attention of "Pop" Anson and young Sunday joined the White Sox. Later he played with the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia teams. In his baseball work Sunday was famous for his speed. He was the first player in baseball history to circle the bases in fourteen seconds.

Athletes were social Lions in those days, too, it appears, and one form of hospitality was treating. Possibly due to this Billy Sunday, acquired a taste for intoxicating liquor. One Sunday in 1887, the young player and several companions had visited a saloon and had several drinks. Toward evening they became aware that hymns were being sung in Pacific Garden Rescue Mission. Sunday was reminded of his mothers ideals. He left his companions, went into the mission, and came out to lead a different life. Although he played ball for some time after that event, Sunday soon went into evangelistic work, and it was in the little town of Garner, Iowa, that he held his first independent revival meeting.

IOWA-BOUNTIFUL LAND

By George Gallarno

IOWA stands the test of drouth and burning weather better than any state in the union. Iowa soil may be burned and dried out, but it surmounts all difficulties, and is always prolific.

IOWA has increased its factory output during the last two years more than $25,000,000 and is one of less than one-half of the states to show any gain during that period of time.

RELIGION IN A PACK OF CARDS

A private soldier by the name of Richard Lee was taken before the magistrate of Glasgow, Scotland for playing cards during divine services. At the church, those who had Bibles took them out; but this soldier had neither Bible nor common prayer book and pulling out a pack of cards he spread them out before him. He first looked at one card and then at another. The sergeant of the company saw him and said:

"Richard, put up the cards; this is no place for them."

"Never mind that," said Richard.

When the services were over, the constable took Richard a prisoner and brought him before the mayor.

"Well," said the mayor, "what have you brought the soldier here for?"

"For playing cards in church."

"Well, soldier, what have you to say for yourself?"

"Much, sir, I hope."

"Very good; if not, I will punish you severely."

"I have been,' said the soldier, "about six weeks on the march I have neither Bible nor common prayer book. I have nothing but a pack of cards, and I hope to satisfy your worship of the purity of my intentions."

Then spreading the cards before the mayor he began with the ace.

"When I see the ace, it reminds me that there is but one God. When I see the deuce, it reminds me of the Father and Son. When I see the trey it reminds me of the Father. Son and Holy Ghost. When I see the four it reminds me of the four evangelists that preached-Mathew. Mark, Luke and John. When I see the five it reminds me of the five wise virgins that trimmed their lamps. There were ten: but five were wise and five were foolish and were shut out. When I see the six. it reminds me that in six days the Lord made heaven and earth. When I see the seven it reminds me that on the seventh dav God rested from the great work he had made and hallowed it When I see the eight it reminds me of the eight righteous persons that were saved when God destroyed the world.viz: Noah and his wife, his three sons and there wives. When I see the nine it reminds me of the nine leners that were cleansed hv our Savior. There were nine out of ten that never returned thanks. When I see the ten it reminds me of the ten commandments which God had handed down to Moses on the table of stone. When I see the king it reminds me of the great King of heaven which is God almighty. When I see the queen it reminds me of queen of Sheba who visited Solomon for she was as wise a woman as he was man. She brought with her 50 boys and 50 girls all dressed in boy's apparel for King Solomon to tell which were boys and which were girls. The king sent for water for them to wash. The girls washed to the elbows the boys to the wrist: so King Solomon told by that."

"Well," said the mayor, "you have described every card in the pack except one."

"What is that?"

"The knave," said the mayor.

"I will give your honor a description of that to if you will not be angry."

"I will not," said the mayor, "if you do not term me to be the knave."

"The greatest knave I know of is the constable who brought me here.

"I do not know if he is the greatest knave," said the mayor, "but he is the greatest fool."

"When I count how many spots there are in a deck of cards I find 365 as many days as there are in a year. When I count the number of cards in a pack I find 52, the number of weeks in a year. I find there are 12 picture cards in a pack, representing the number of months in a year. On counting the tricks, I find 13, the number of weeks in a quarter. So, you see, a pack of cards serves for a Bible, an almanac and a common prayer book."

The soldier was discharged.

SCATTERED OUTBREAKS OF HOG CHOLERA REPORTED

Des Moines, Iowa, September10. Scattered outbreaks of hog cholera have occured during the periodfrom January 1 to July 1, 1930, in 82 Iowa counties, out of 92 that were recently covered by a survey completed by Dr. Peter Malcolm, Chief of the Division of Animal Industry of the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

In completeing the survey reports were secured from 272 veterinarians located in 92 counties. These men reported 664 outbreaks of the disease during the six months period with a total death loss of 5, 689 hogs before vaccination. There were 49,282 hogs exposed to the disease and a total of 185,955 hogs were vaccinated. In some counties, there were several outbreaks of the disease reported while in others there were only one or two cases. In most counties the losses were not considered greater than could normally be expected.

In summing up the situation from the standpoint of control of hog cholera, Dr.Malcolm stated, "There is no question but that hog cholera can be controlled through the se of anti-hog cholera serum and hog cholera virus when they are administered by trained operators.

Due to the fact that we have hog cholera in the state which may be further spread by fall rains and other carriers, it is advisable to consult a veterinarian for a proper diagonis if sickness appears in any herd of hogs. It is very important that a proper diagonis be made, as hog cholera may be caused by administering hog cholera virus to hogs that are sick from such diseases as flu, pneumonia of other similar diseases."

WHY CHILDREN LEAVE SCHOOL

"Just tired of schol" explained a fourth of the children 16 to 18 of age who left the Oakland Calif., full-time schools during a recent year and who were enrolled in the part-time schools in accordance with the state law requiring that all children must attend either full-time or part-time schools until they reach the age of 18 years. As reported by the division of vocational education of the University of California and the state department of education, another fourth left primarily because of economic necessity or to learn a trade. Unfavorable home conditions including a low family educational standard caused about a third to leave, and lack of school success and physical handicaps were given as the chief reasons by the remainder of the group.

LANDS 82 POUND CATFISH LAST WEEK

During the past week, Eldon Saeugling in charge of the U. S. Fisheries at Marquette for the past five years caught an 82 pound cat-fish says the McGregor Times.

In order to land him Eldon was forced to take the risk of capsizing the boat between the combined weight of himself and the fish as he leaned over the side. Forcing his arm down its mouth and by ta-king a firm hold of its gills he fin-ally succeeded in getting it in the boat.

Ths is one of the largest fish of this species that has ever been cau-ght in the Mississippi river in a gre-at many years.

The fsh is now on display at the U. S. Fisheries at Marquette. Later it will be sent to Lincoln park Mu-seum at Chicago where it wil lbe exhibition

THE INDIANS ARE RIGHT

The growing custom of opening up Indian graves for the purpose of getting relics is at last being pro-tested. Chief Shortwing, Chief Soldier and Chief Knows -Their-Thoughts, Winnebago Indians in Illi-nois are preparing to protest to Governor Emmerson in an effort to stop the desecration of the gra-ves of their tribesmen by scientists and other relic hunters. The Ind-ians are justified in their protest We would not think of opening up the graves of other people, so why desecrate those of these early Am-ericans?

FROM TREE TO NEWSPAPER

A test was recently made in Aus-tria to decide in how short a space of time living trees could be con-verted into newspapers. At 7:35 a. m. three trees were cut down; at 9:34 the woold having been stripped of bark cut up, and converted into pulp, became paper and passed from the factory to the press whe-nce the first printed and folded copy was issued at 10 a. m. In 145 minutes the trees had become news-papers. —California Publisher.

The gas slopped over the side of the can and thru the floor boards and onto the exhaust. The gas fumes were ignited and the auto burned to the ground. It was a complete loss.

Low Visibility

Simpkins considered himself a humorist. He sent a selection of his original jokes to the editor of a newspaper and confidently await-ed a remittance. His excitment ran high when he received a letter, ob-viously from the newspaper office. He opened it with feverish haste. There was no check however, just a small note as follows:

"Dear Sir: Your jokes received Some we have seen before; some we have not seen as yet."

SCHOOL BAND TO BE ORGANIZED

STUDENTS BEING SIGNED UP FOR BAND WORK THIS WEEK

Other Items Of Interest Concerning Our Public Schools

An effort is being made this week to sign up all former members of the Klemme School Band, and any new pupils who may wish to belong to the organization this year. The band will be conducted along lines similar to last year. A fee of $6.00 for three months will be charged each member, which goes to pay the instructor, and to purchase music for the band. Mr. Fraser of Mason City will undoubtedly be secured to direct and instruct the band this year Mr Fraser is rated as one of the best band men in North Iowa and under his direction Klemme should have an excellent band.

Any pupil or parent interested in band work should get in touch with the superintendent at once, so that the band may start work soon.

Klemme Lost To Hayfield

The Klemme high school base ball team went to Hayfield Friday afternoon but came home with the short end of the score A scoring rally in the fifth inning was staged too late, but for a time looked dis-astrous for Hayfield.

Next Tuesday after school Klem-me will play Thornton here. Our boys are getting some experience, and for nearly a complete new line-up, show up well. We expect to give Thornton a real battle.

The annual high school party was held last Friday evening at Bayside, following the ball game at Hayfield. All enjoyed a fine time roller skat-ing at the Bayside rink.

School Work Organized

This week finds school work go-ing full blast with most everyone supplied with books and materials and everyone eager to beat last record. It has been beaten already in point of the size of our enroll-ment in high school. Our total en-rollment last year was but 80 while this week our enrollment has alrea-dy leapt to 86, only 14 shotr of 100 which would make ours a Class A school. This we consider gratifying for it indicates a general confidence in the high quality work our fac-ulty are doing. It also reflects fav-orably on our rural folk accessible to Klemme. They are sold, it app-ears, on the question of twelve years of schooling for their children They are making sacrifices for their boys and girls which parents ary. It shows c2betaoi oinshrdlucf a few years ago were not disposed to make and considered unnecess-ary. It shows they are keeping ab-reast of the times.

Rural Students Predominate

We find in checking the number of non-resident pupils that over 55 per cent are coming from outside our own district. We confess to be-ing a bit crowded in our assembly room and we wish some of our class rooms had been made a bit larger for this present school year. But we have planned to use every bit of available space and believe no one will be handicapped for want of room when Mr. Patet, our cap-able janitor gets our seating arr-angement completed.

As in most schools, the girls in our high school outnumber the boys being in the ratio of 48 to 38.

The size of the classes in high school varies to a considerable de-gree. In the freshman class there are now 25; in the ophmore class, 20; junior, 28; and in the Senior class there are but 13.

New Students Enrolled

Those now with us not enrolled last year are the following: Roy Arnold, Howard Baack, Lynford Back, Victor Greimann, Lauretz Peterson, Helena Albers, Lillian Brown, Leo Brown, Marie Grei-mann, Fay Neuberger, Esther Pals, Frances Sandry, Ethel Swanson, Mildred Thiemann, Edwin Thie-mann and Dale Schlei.

Are Freshmen This Year

Entered from last year's eighth grade of our own school are the following: James Larson, Harold Jost, LuVern Drake, Asa Gibbs, Al-vin Keeper, Verle Keraus, Marie Stille, Irma Sampson, Hilda Keep-er, and Novella Bredbenner. This speaks well for our own commun-ity, that everyone of this class, of those now remaining in Klemme, people in Klemme and her environs have gone on into high school. The believe in giving their children a fair start up the educational ladder Several of our high school gradua-tes will this year be enrolled in higher institutions of learning. We wsh it were possible for all of them who aspire this additional training to be provided it but t costs no small sum these days to carry on work n our American colleges and some of our graduates will be em-ployed for a year or so in prepara-tion for enrolling later which is very commendable. We hope they nay relize this most worthy ambi-tion.

Grades Have Good Enrollment

In our grades there are enrolled at present in grades 1 and 2, 25 pupils; in grades 3 and 4, 25; in5 and 6, 20; and in grades 7 and 8, 18 pupils. In grades 1-8 there are in all 88 pupils. This gives us a to-tal enrollment in our whole school of 174 which exceeds that of any previous year.

Lots of room is provided our el-ementary grades and it seems to us a pity that rural children living in districts near Klemme cnnot be pro-vided the superior advantages off-ered in our graded school. We do not believe parents would regret the slight additional expense invol-yed in abandoning their own one room school house and combining their resources with those of our town district especially after a year or two of trial. A teacher with but two grades to occupy her time during the school day can do so much more for her pupils than can one with eight grades to instruct. Besides each teacher can with but two grades become much more of a specialist, and therefore much more efficent.

The car coming from the east belonged to Henry Olson and was driven by his daughter. Miss Trafford received only minor scrat-ches and bruises and both cars were damaged. Miss Trafford is a former resident of Klemme.—Bel-mond Independent.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

COUNTY AGENT URGES YOU TO PICK YOUR SEED CORN NOW

Frost May Hold Off Until October Because Of Dry Summer

Farmers, don't forget that seed corn for next year. However, statis-tics show that with a rainy septem-ber frost usually holds off following a dry season such as we just exper-lenced until in October. This is not always the case for in 1901 follow-ing the extreme drought and heat killing, frost came Sept. 18. 1913 and 1918 were repititions of 1901 with killing frost on Sept. 22 and Sept. 20 respectively.

Should we have twice the normal rainfall this September, chances are good for a late frost. However why not be safe rather than sorry by starting to pick seed corn?

Farmers Are Testing Soil

Testing of their soil is the big cry of the farmers this fall. They are asking themselves whether they need to lime their soil in order to grow legumes. W. H. Kester finds that his thinnest ground needs no lime but needs lots of manure and organic matter plowed under. Bill Reimer has an unusual situation as he has a small patch of alkaline ground up on his highest ground. Tony and Carl Rasmus are both seeding alfalfa and find on testing that they need at least two tons of limestone per acre. W. W. Clement s another farmer who is applying limestone. Clyde Tanner of Klemme has ordered a carlaod of limestone to be applied this fall. Albert Bor-chers is going to apply limestone to his alfalfa seeding this fall, how ever, if the stand doesn't look heavy enough in the spring he will plow it under.

The dry heat season certainly was hard on new seedings. Those of you who secured a good seeding are indeed fortunate.

Schlawin Has Nice Farm Home

Those of you wishing to see a neat, clean and well-kept farmstead only have to visit the Otto Schlaw-in farm. There is hardly a twig to be found about the yards and it certainly is an immpresive farm to visit.

Baby Beef Sold In Chicago

The last of the baby beef calves fed in Hancock county were sold at Chicago at the sixth weekly auc-tion held September 9th. There were four Hancock county calves owned by Ronald and Bernard Greiman, Wiley Weaver, and Thel-ma Chambers. The average weight of the four calves was 988 pounds; the average price was $13.33 with the top $14.00. The above calves brought the highest county aver-age for the twenty-two counties selling calves on the sale of Sept. 9th, however other counties had more calves for sale.

Of the baby beef club calves, there is but one left for showing in Hancock county and that is the Ronald Greiman calf, Junior Angus and it will be exhibited at the In-ternational at Chicago in December.

GYPSIES STEAL $20; SHERIFF GETS IT BACK

Gypsies filling three large cars descended on Northwood from the north about 7:30 Saturday morn-ing and proceeded to make their usual visits to the business houses resulting in the temporary loss of a twenty dollar bill which was filch-ed by on of the females of the spec-ies from the cash register of the Northwod Produce Co., and before J. W. Schulz, manager, stopped her she mixed with other members of the outfit and disappeared.

Sheriff Wenneth was notified and stopped the cars just as they were leaving town. Mr. Schulz id-entified the woman and afte rsome protest and manifestation of perse-cution the money was returned.

LION SHARE OF FARM CASH FROM CREAM CHECK

"The Farmer receives a greater portion of the consumers's food dollar from his DAIRY PRODUCTS than anything else he produces," stated M. D. Munn, president of the National Dairy Council, in a recent radio talk. "This return comes to him regularly throughout the year lke a pay check, daily or monthly, in accordance with the way in which he markets his product. The ready cash necessary for his immediate living and agrcultural operations are supplied by this steady ncome."

The return from his grain cannot be realized for six months or a year after the initial planting. Beef animals must be grown before they can be marketed but the milk or cream check comes to the farmer regularly even during the winter months when the other agricultural activities are dormant.

YOUNG FRENCHMAN HAD METHOD to GET SEAT in CAR

French railroad men are chuckling over the plight of a young man who thought he had dicovered a clever method to get a seat on a crowded suburban train

The youth entered a car, and when he found every seat was filled announced in an official tone that the car would not leave with the rest of the train.

Everybody piled off and the young man re-entered and picked out the choicest seat Ten minutes later station official came in and asked him if he were the person who announced that the car was to remain at the station.

After much hedging the youth admitted that he had made the announcement

"Well, you were right," the station master assured him. "An employe heard you and thinking you were an official, he uncoupled the car The rest of the train has gone on its way. You're going on your way too—there's a policeman outside waiting to take you to jail."

BEFORE YOU GO AHEAD

The first essential in building, remodeling or repairing, is to make certain that the materials you put into your building are the best money can buy.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUILD, REMODEL AND REPAIR—

FALL is the ideal time of the year to Repair, Remodel or put up new buildings. Why not inclose that Porch now and enjoy the added bright, sunny room this winter? Build that new Garage or Shed now. Fix up your buildings——re-roof and be protected against winter. Do those jobs now——the cost is small compared to what you will spend later to replace rotted out material.

HIGHER LETTER RATE WILL BE CONSIDERED

Officials Plan Increase toBring United States Postal Service Out of Red

Convinced that an increase in postage is the only feasible way of lifting the world's biggest public utility "out of the red" postal officials are preparing to press their their advocacy of a higher charge for carrying first class mail.

When Postmaster General Brown submits his annual report to congress in December, the enactment of legislation authorizing the increase is to be his most urgent recommendation. The postmaster believes a rate of 2½ cents an ounce on first class mail would balance the departments budget for the present.

Assistant Postmaster General Tilton generally regarded as the financial expert of the department said an increase in the rate on leater mail is the only solution of the deficit problem.

Last years postal deficit amounted to $50,000,000. Tilton estimated itwould run over $60,000,000 his year. The present loss in handling the mails is now a charge against the general funds of the treasury.

The present rate on first class mail has been in effect since 1885, a situation without paralel Tilton said in any other line of business.

Meanwhile, the world's biggest business has been growing at a tremendous rate. Last year it handled more than 27,000,000,000 articles and the increase in the number of articles every year is more than a billion.

IOWA-BOUNTIFUL LAND

By George Gallarno

IOWA, according to the report of the Secretary of Agriculture has less than one per cent of waste land. And of all the tillable acres of the state but 4.68 per cent is set aside for farm buildings, feed lots and highways. Highways account for 2.5 per cent of the land.

IOWA has, at Davenport, the first all American oxygen producing plant ever built. This plant takes the raw air, and by processes of condensing and pressure separates the hydrogen from the nitrogen. All concerns within 150 miles of Davenport receive their supply of oxygen from the plant located there.

IOWA can boast of tho fact that the greatest agricultural state in the union has at Davenport the largest exclusive steel wheel factory in the world. Side by side,, Agriculture and industry co-operate to the continued glory of the state.

IOWA has at Davenport the largest flour mill in the state with an annual production running close to the $9,000,000 mark.

IOWA manufacturers obtain from their own state 70.4 per cent of all raw materials they use in their manufactured products.

IOWA has 164 free public libraries and 593 daily and weekly newspapers are published in the state.

IOWA can count year after year close to 20,000 students enrolled in her three great state educational institutions, the State University at Iowa City, the State Colelge of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts at Ames and the State Teachers college at Cedar Falls.

IOWA is rapidly approaching the leadership of the nation in dairy production. As one enthusiast puts it: "Her cattle, at the pail and at the tan bark have attracted national attention and won national honors. Her breeders have met all comers and more than held their own. Her buttermakers have swept the boards in many quality contests."

IOWA exports its manufactured products to every country in the world and its exports range from threshing machines to pearl buttons.

IOWA will reach another top notch distinction this year when it will be demonstrated that this state leads all the 48 in the production of popcorn. Iowa has 50,000 acres in popcorn and the yeild is estimated to reach 80,000,000 ear pounds.

IOWA has the largest playground equipment factory in the United States, located at Council Bluffs.

IOWA has a limestone deposit, near the town of Oakville, estimated to be worth $50,000,000.

IOWA manufacturers spend more than $350,000,000 annually

WATERLOO DAIRY CATTLE CONGRESS

Sept. 29 to Oct. 5

September 29 to October 5, 1930 are the dates set for the twenty-first annual Dairy Cattle Congress and the twelfth annual National Belgian Horse Show at Waterloo, Iowa.

Hancock county folks are paticularly well situated with respect to transportation, due to the fact that a paved highway takes you directly to Waterloo.

The best dairy cattle and Belgian horses in the world will be found at this Congress. The Dairy Cattle Congress and American Poultry Congress are usually held in connection with the National Belgian Horse Show. The International Water fowl Exposition is also a part of the combined shows. These shows, like the exhibitiaon of Belgians, are both national in character and attract the best America affords in dairy cattle and poultry.

One of the leading 4-H dairy calf club shows is held annually. There is to be a junior judging contest, a 4-H judging contest, a cow testers, judging contest and a dairy farmers judging contest.

An extensive exhibit of dairy barn equipment and supplies is also made in three large buildings which provide a total floor space of 100,000 square feet. A large exhibition of general farm machinery is also on the grounds.

The dairy products exhibit, consisting of a showing of butter and cheese, has entries from all parts of the United States. A complete department for women and club girls is another feature of the exposition which is both attractive

The Hancock County Farm Bureau ladies will be represented at this show with a County Booth which gives the summary of the work accomplished in the Second Year Nutrition Work. The farm ladies wil also be represented by a demonstration team composed of Mrs. Chris Jacobsen and Mrs. H. C. Armstrong of Britt.

IF CORN DIDN'T MAKE EARS—

Best Way to Handle Crop May BE to Put It in Temporary Silo

Some fields of corn in Iowa this year will hardly be worth the husking so far as corn grain is concerned For men with such crops, the way to get the most value out of them may be to put them in a silo. If no silo is available or not enough space available to take care of the corn, it may pay to build a temporary silo or one of low cost.

This suggestion is offered by agricultural engineers and farm crops men at Iowa State College. The crops men say that corfn which was "burned up" so that it made few ears would provide a god deal of feed if put into a silo. Of course, the desirability of putting it into a silo will depend upon the livestock production on the farm—whether there is stock which will utilize the silage advantageously.

Some farmers could build trench silos satisfactorily where they are to be used only a year or so. The success of the trench silo is dependent largely on whether it can be built without having trouble with drainage. If water seeps into the silo so that the silage must be taken out of water, the trench silo would be undesirable.

Another silo which may be built at much less cost than the ordinary silo is the woden hoop silo. The wooden hoop silo is made, as its name indicates, by making hoops from wood and lining these with floorfing. If desired, the outside also may be covered with flooring. A silo 12 by 32 ft. can be built for approximately $300, and if the outside is covered the cost will be increased about $60.

The wooden hoop silo has been used for many years in the eastern states and is also widely used in California. These silos will last for a number of years and can be built at a very low cost as compared with other types. Also they work very satisfactorily.

Those interested in either the temporary trench silo or the woodn stave silo may secure information relative to constrution by writing to the college at Ames.

WHEN DRY, CORN GOES HUNTING FOR MOISTURE

Corn Roots Go Down Six to Eight Feet for Water as Shown by Tests at Ames, Iowa.

Howdeep down do the roots of corn go?

Ask the next half dozen farmers you meet, and the chances are, that their replies will be as far from correct as your own guess.

Most of them will estimate anywhere from eight to eighteen inches.

But that isn't even a starter according to G. N. Carlson of Huntley, who has seen scientific tests made at the Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa.

"I was surprised to find that that the roots go all the way from six to eight feet down," said Mr. Carlson. "I saw the actual test made and know that it is true"

"The average stalk of corn, instead of having the handful of roots we are accustomed to seeing, has a long string of roots ranging in size from a ten penny nail to the fineness of a human hair. The bundle of roots will make a good handfull in circumference and hangs down like a horse's tail."

The method used in determining the depth to which corn grows is this: A trench about ten feet deep is dug around the stalk in a manner that will provide a drain A derrick is then erected to hold the stalk in place, while a stream of water is played upon the dirt isin which the stalk is rooted, until no dirt isleft. This leaves the stalk suspended free of al dirt and all the roots are intact.

MAY MAKE GOOD BOND PAPER FROM OAT STRAW

Government Establishes Station to Experiment With Oats and Wheat at Ames College

High grade bond paper made from wheat and oat straw, is the objective of the Bureau of Standards which has established an expeimental laboratory on the Iowa State Colege campus.

Due to the rapid depletion of our forests. the time is not far off when the paper industry of the United States will have to depend on something other than wood for the manufacture of its products.

Experiments have been made by the Bureau of Standards with other substitutes but this is its very first attempt in working with wheat and oat straw. Straw should be a very god substtute as a constant suply is practically assured due to the fact that it comes from annual crops.

SOW RYE FOR FALL PASTURE

Will Also Be valuable for early Spring Grazing

Bluegras pastures got a hard "bump on the chin" with the prolonged drouth and hot weather this year. Consequently, they will probaly be very slow reviving even if considerable rain falls and the result will be that bluegrass will provide very little fall pasture.

Because of this situation, it is especially in order this year to sow rye for fall pasture.

Rye may be sown any time now just as soon as moisture is available and it will provide pasture in a short time. It is one of the best crops in Iowa for fall and early spring pasture.

About 1½ bushels an acre should be seeded. The variety to use for pasture is not important.

EXPORT TRADE SETS PRICE OF PORK

Foreign Outlet Is Shock Absorber to Pork Industry

The price the Iowa farmer receives for his hogs is largely a matter of the demand for his product in England and Germany.

The United States exports from 25 to 35 per cent of its lard and 10 per cent of all other porkjroducts.

Exports follow hog production. When prices are low and production is heavy the heaviest exports are made. Consequently the foroutlet acts as a sort of shock absorber to the pork industry.

England and Germany are our best foreign customers. But in the last few years we have lost much of the English trade due to the Danish and Canadian farmers putting a higher quality product on the market.

Canada is our chief competitor for the ham trade of the United Kingdom. On the other hand, Canada is our best customer for pickled pork.

KLEMME MAY HAVE GAS SERVICE

NATURAL GAS MAINS WILL BE MILE AND A HALF FROM TOWN

Central States Electric Company To Service Gas If Wanted Here

Mr. W. E. Klingaman, manager of the Central States Electric Co., of Garner, was in Klemme Tuesday interviewing various people to get their sentiment on whether or not the town of Klemme would like to have natural gas service.

Gas Lines Come Near Town

The survey for running a large as main across the state of Iowa has been made and work is actually under way of constructing a large gas line which comes into Iowa at Council Bluffs and will follow a northeasterly course across the tate to Fort Dodge, then up this way missing Klemme and Goodell y a few miles, then north and east o the west side of Clear Lake and hen again north and east to the Twin Cities Mason City will be a-out twelve miles from the main but a pipe line will be laid from Mason City to the main.

Mr Klingaman stated that if enough interest was shown here that he Central States Company would sk for a franchise in Klemme A special election would have to be alled for this purpose. The entire xpense would be borne by the Com-nny If the franchise is granted hen they would go ahead and con-nect to the gas main and bring this ervice to Klemme There is no ense whatever to the town, and an improvement that few small towns ever hope to get.

Klemme should feel quite fortun e in being located near enough to his gas main so that the Company an afford to bring service to town. L s get behind this proposed im-ovement and urge the Central tates to give us this service

Garner and Belmond recently voted on the franchise and each o. he towns it carried by a large ma-ority, about four to one. Many her towns along the route are eceiving the proposition with fav-or.

Those who might want more in-ormation on this natural gas pro ect may have an interesting pamp let on the subject by calling at the Times office, or writing the Central tates Electric Co. at any of their offices.

The Project In A Nut Shell

Routing for the pipe lines of the natural gas service which is propo-ed through Iowa has been deter-mined in its course through Han-cock county. It will enter the coun-y near the east side of section 34, n Twin Lake township, run diag-onally northeast to cross highway No. 15 at a point two miles north of Goodell, then about two miles outheast of Klemme, and will leave he county on the east side of sec-ion 1, Ell township.

This routing will make a distance of 14 miles within the county, in addition to which there will be the branch lines to serve such towns as ccept the service. Inasmuch as it will add a considerable item to the taxable value of the county it is a monetary asset as well as a conven-ience.

Every landowner, through which land the lines will run, will be pro-vided with a tap from which he can secure gas at the rate which applies in the nearest town. This tap is pro-vided without charge to the land-owner, other than the regular rates for gas consumed.

Telephone lines will be built to afford communication between the numerous stations where pumps are located to give the necessary pres-sure to the gas as it flows through the mains. The Missouri Valley Pipe Line Company, the Northern Gas company and others are inter-ested in this project. from which the prodrct is sold to such compan-ies as make arrangements to give local service along the line.

Klemme Lost To Thornton

Thornton came to our diamond Tuesday evening and left with the long end of the score, defeating our high school boys.

Our next game is with Crystal Lake next Friday evening at Crystal Lake. It will take some time for our players to learn the game but with the fine spirit now prevailing among them they will improve fast.

More Needed In School Band

Our school band has not yet been started but will as soon as enough has been subscribed to carry it on for three months We hope for a prompt response to the matter on the part of those interested.

Grades To Have State Tests

We are co-operating with our own State University this week in an effort to establish forms in language. or English in grades 4 to 9. Tests are being given in these grades and the results will be sent to Iowa City to be there assembled with scores made in other schools of our state and later published.

Both our students and teachers will be interested in comparing the scores made here with those made in other schools of Iowa. Besides an incentive may be created to improve in this important phase of school work.

GARNER BOY RUN OVER BY TRUCK

No Bones Broken In Accident

Paul Engstler, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Engstler, while working on the grading of No. 18 was accidentally knocked down by a truck containing three tons of gravel. The truck passed over Paul's thigh bruising the flesh and loosening the ligaments. The depression in the soil where his leg was pressed by the truck explained why bones were not broken. He is under a physician's care in the home of his parents. The attending physician brought him to Klemme where X-Ray pictures were taken at Dr. W. F. Missman's office.

FORESTALLS BANK ROBBERY

The suspicions of D. L. Klove, of Gordonsville were aroused Tuesday forenoon about 10 o'clock when a stranger in a Buick coupe drove by his place in the west part of town several times, then stopped at the side of the road and was in the act of changing his outside clothes and placing an handkerchief about his face when Klove called B. R. Miller cashier of the Gordonsville bank and and it is believed that this quick work averted a holdup of the bank. Miller at once put his cash in the vault and locked the dors of the bank and went across the street to watch developments. The expected holdup did not materialize, however as the suspect evidently realized that his actions were being watched and he left town in a hurry. Still suspicious that all was not well Sheriff Myre, of Albert Lea was called and the incident reported, giving him the license number of the car which was 137-764 Minn. The motor vehicle department at St. Paul was then called and it was learned that the car had been stolen Tuesday night from A. P. Meyers, of Faribault, Minn.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

FARMERS INTERESTED IN EXTERMINATING NOSE FLIES

Local Veterinarian Should Be Secured To Give Treatments

In talking with many farmers in various sections of our county I find that there is much interest in the project for treating horses to extinguish the nose fly. The treating is the administering of a carbon disulphide capsule by the local veterinarian.

This treatment to be effective must be done either in December, January and never later than the first few days of February. For this territory December is the better month for treating the horses, mules and colts.

Bots Are Injurious To Horses

The treatment is to kill the bots or maggot stage while it is still attached to the stomach or intestines. For several months during which the bots develop from an almost microscopic size to about two-thirds of an inch in length, these parasites may be doing great harm. Naturally the degree of injury to the animal depends upon the number of bots present and to some extent upon the species concerned; also upon the animals susceptibility, which in turn is influenced by its condition. Very commonly several hundred bots may be found in a single animal and over 1000 of them have been taken out of the stomach of a colt at one time.

County-wide Campaign Planned

If enough interest is shown, this project, costing the farmer only 50 cents per head for treating will be put on a county wide basis. If this is approved by you farmers I feel confident that you will be able to throw away the nose baskets next year or refrain from buying new ones.

Will Use Beans For Feed

Harry Ruka is fortunate as he does not have to lime in order to grow alfalfa. Oscar Gorman is going to thrash his soy beans, then crack them to be used as the protein supplement for his dairy cows. Soybeans are hard to beat but the soybean meal is about 6 per cent higher than the cracked beans. The meal is about 39 per cent protein.

Ray Perry utilized his late plowing for sweet corn production. He has hauled the corn to Forest City and is going to cut the stalks which are more than relished by his dairy cows.

The results of the judging contest of the Garner-Klemme cow test association at their anual picnic last Wednesday were that Christian Rasmusson won the honor of representing the association at the judging contest at Waterloo.

C. A. Goepel certainly has some real nice purebred spotted Poland China boar pigs which are for sale and should prove real breeders.

Walter Ross certainly has a real yearling purebred Hampshire boar which will help most any herd in the county.

Britt Farmer Has Alfalfa Seed

Elmer Jensen north of Britt has recently cut about two acres of alfalfa for seed and believe me it certainly is loaded. This has been an unusual year when it comes to seed production. Clover has seeded heavily; even third cutting alfalfa at the Milo Brown farm set seed.

Any of you looking for cockerels from purebred flocks of Rhode Island Reds, Buff Rocks and S. C. White Leghorns certainly cannot go wrong visiting the Ray Perry farm one mile east and one and one half miles north of Miller.

Pick seed corn from strong, disease free stalks.

When immature corn is artificially dried. plenty of circulation should be provided or the corn will be worse off than if left in the field.

HOTTEST DAY IN IOWA

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 24. Sunday, August 3, 1930, was the hottest day Iowa ever experienced, considering the state as a whole. On that day the average of temperatures reported from 104 stations was 106 4 degrees. The hottest reported was 113 degrees at Sac City and the lowest maximum reported was 95 at Postville, in the northeast portion of the State.

Some of the higher Statewide averages obtained from 103 to 113 stations were as follows: July 24, 1901, 106.1 degrees, July 21, 1901, 105.6 degrees; July 22, 1901, 105.4 degrees; July 4, 1911, 105.1 degreer July 5, 1911, 104.4 degrees; July 26 1894, 104 1 degrees.

Abundant records are available since 1890. Mr. Charles D. Reed, Director of the Weather and Crop Bureau of the Iowa Department of Agricul., searched the more meager records extending away back to the ear 1870, and gives it as his opinion that August 3, 1930, was the hottest day in Iowa in 60 years

PAY OFF THE MORTGAGE

Des Moines, Iowa Sept. 24. Northeast Iowa is sitting on top of the world this year, as will become apparent when the season's marketing reaches its height. Mr Charles D Reed, Director of Weather and Crop Bureau of the Iowa Department of Agriculture, points out that this is the time to pay off the mortgage on the farm, paint and repair the rundown farm buildings and fences, and otherwise provide the more necessary things on the farm. At the same time he points to the danger from swarms of salesmen for worthless bonds and stock, and every conceivable unnecessary, untried and untested farm appliance, that is sure to over run northeast Iowa on tips given by commercial economists and statisticians relative to rich sales territory.

SPRAY WEEDS IN SEPTEMBER

Is Effective Time—Fire Danger Is Past In Most Sections

Fire danger from use of sodium chlorate is past in all except the sections of the state, according to plant pathologists at Iowa State College

September is an especially effective time to spray Canada thistle, perennial sow thistle, quack grass and Europeas bindweed. Recent experiments have also shown that one or two sprayings in the fall are more effective in killing horse nettle than several cuttings.

The use of the knapsack sprayer in treating weeds between corn rows is recommended However, care must be taken that none of the material gets on the stalks. To avoid any possible danger of fire from the chemical around dry corn leaves or tall grass the spraying should be done on days when the sun is not too bright and hot.

DROUGHT COMMITTEE ORDERS FEED SURVEY

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 24. A survey of the feed situatiou in the state in order that counties having feed to sell may get in contact with her counties that will need to buy feed, was recommended by the state drought committee which met at the call of the state chairman M. G. Thornburg.

"We will ask crop reporters, county agents, and all others who are in position to help in this work," tated M G. Thornburg. "It will be the purpose of the survey to aid in getting buyers and sellers together in the sale or purchase of feed. It is likely that most communities will depend on local crops for roughness so that the major shipments will probably be feed grains."

The committee also feels that reduced railroad rates on a 500 mile min. in the movement of stock from drought areas are too limited when stock is moved to another section for the purpose of feeding. At the present time Iowa gets little if any benefit from the reduced freight rate that are applicable in movement of live stock to and from drought areas

The members of the committee attending the conference were: H. Patterson, Sioux City; W.H. Brenton, Des Moines; W. G. C. Bagley, Clarion City; Harry Hopley, Atlantic R. M. Gunn Buckingham; C. J. Nelser, Decorah; Mark G. Thornburg, Des Moines.

UNUSUAL EFFORT TO SAVE ROUGHAGE

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 24. Iowa farmers are generally making a greater effort to save various types of roughage that may be used to feed stock during the coming winter than has been customary in former years, according to the Iowa Department of Agriculture in their various contacts throughout the state.

One firm in Sioux City, Iowa; was recently asked to quote a price on 2,500 car loads of hay to be shipped to one of the southeastern states. This shows the demand for roughage of various kinds, caused largely by the dry weather which made it necessary to feed live stock for a longer period of time than usual.

Corn fodder is being cut in large quantities in all parts of the state. Considerable oat straw is being baled and put in barns. Iowa will not be caught short of feed to winter stock on, at least in the majority of communities, on account of the steps taken by the majority of the farmers to conserve other types of roughness in addition to hay.

SEEKS BETTER POP CORN

Uses Corn From Tenderest Ears With Fewest Hulls

Experiments in the improvement of pop corn are being conducted by J. C. Eldridge, of the farm crops and soils departments at Iowa State College.

By sampling many ears he has found great differences even in the same verioty. By planting kernels from ears which are tenderest and have the fewest hulls, and by self-fertilizing the plants he hopes to produce new improved strains.

Iowa ranks first in the United States in the production of pop corn. The best variety seems to be the Japanese Hulless In order to pop best it should have from 10 to 12 per cent moisture. If it is a good grade the corn will increase 25 times in volume in popping.

HIGHER BEEF PRICES IN 1931?

If Business Improves and Market Behaves as in Past, Late 1931 Market Will Be Good

In the present cattle situation, judging from experiences of the past, are indications that Iowa cattlemen who buy feeders at low prices and have sufficient feed to carry them thru until late in 1931 should be rewarded by substantial profits, according to E. L. Cady, extension specialist in livestock marketing, Iowa State College.

The above statement, however, has certain qualifications. Cattle prices will be better providing business conditions improve somewhat and providing the market price rises as it has in the past following a short corn crop. Latest statistics still indicate a downward trend in busines conditions.

Factors favorable to higher prices late in 1931 are: (1) Short corn crop which is usually followed by higher cattle prices; (2) A smaller supply of fed steers is expected in 1931 as indicated by the fact that feeder shipments into Iowa in July and August were only 32,926 as compared with 51,529 in 1929 and 57,036 in 1928.

Factors unfavorable to higher prices are: (1) The estimated number of cattle on farms in the United States, Jan. 1, 1930, was 57,967.000 or 2.7 per cent more than on Jan. 1, 1929, yet cattle slaughter for the first seven months of 1930 was one percent smaller than a year ago. (2) Cold storage holdings of beef Sept. 1, 1930, amounted to 49 8 per cent above the five-year average. (3) Prices of slaughter steers in mid-August were 38 percent under a year ago despite smaller slaughterings.

HAS BATTLE WITH RAT

Dennis Murphy of Wapello, Iowa and a rat have met in mortal combat and settled a long feud. The rat is dead and Murphy somewhat damaged! They met in the corn crib on Murphy's farm, where the rodent had been making free with Murphy's crop The rat raced up his trouser leg and kept on climbing At the collar level, while Murphy frantically beat it, the animal bit and clawed his neck and chest The farmer was badly lacerated before he could crush the rat.

PASTURING STALKS DOES NOT PAY

The difference between running cows on stalk pastures and keeping them out of the pastures and them good rations is equal to 195 pounds of butterfat for three month from seven cows, according to the experiences of S. P. Saylor, dairy farmer living near Waterloo. In 1928 and 1929 Mr. Saylor allowed seven cows to run on stalk pasture During three months time he sold 601.9 pounds of butterfat from the seven cows. Last winter he kept the cows off the stalks and during the same three months sold 796.6 pounds of butterfat, according to cow testing association records reported by the tester to the Extension Service at Iowa State College..

PICK EARLY BUT MATURE SEED

Field Matured Corn Best—Ears Picked Early To Avoid Freeze Need Careful Drying

The ideal time to pick seed corn is before it has been hurt by a hard frost but if possible after it has fully matured in the field.

However, if the weatherman predicts a hard freeze it may be necessary to pick seed before the ears are matured because immature, artificially dried seed is better than seed which has been damaged by a hard freeze. Seed should be dried as quickly after picking as warm air can do it. Artificial heat up to 110 degrees Farenheit will not injure the seed if plenty of circulais provided.

It has been determined that mature well-filled kernels grow into stronger plants than small shriveled kernels Farmers who pick their seed after it is matured and kernels well filled before it has been hurt by a hard freeze will have the strongest, most vigorous corn.

In selecting ears, those heavy for their size, usually not the largest, make the best seed. Ears with decidedly brown or dark shanks should be discarded. Dull, darkened cobs with kernels loose on the cobs are signs of disease. Any ears showing evidence of dry rot, mold, discolored cob, or otherwise abnormal appearance should be discarded or given an ear test to determine whether or not they are good for seed.

Most desirable seed ears have a bright gloss or polish on kernels, cobs and shaff. Dull or hazy appearing kernels usually should not be used. The kernels should be bright, horny and dense appearing containing no excess of white soft starch either at crown or tip and should retain their tip cap when they break from the cob.

PLOW GROUND THIS FALL

Despite Present Hardness Soil Will Work Better Next Spring

Stubble fields, old meadows and pastures which are to be in corn next year should be plowed this fall even tho they are hard and dry.

The added cost of wear on [illegible] and tractors will be more than offset by the improved soil condition in the spring if the plowing is done this fall. Fall plowing allows the straw, grass and other organic matter in the soil to decompose over winter for the use of next year's crop and the freezing and thawing will break it up and improve its tilth.

In preparing a seed bed in the fall for wheat alfalfa and other crops, it would be best to wait for rains to break up the hard lumps before the cost of breaking the land by harrowing or discing would be too great.

At their meeting last week the M. E. Ladies Aid Society elected the following officers for the coming year: President, Mrs. C. F. Koss; Vice-President, Mrs. J. N. Davis; Secretary, Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson. Asst. Secretary, Mrs. W. F. Pavey; and Treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Elder. Two new members were added to the roll.

THODIST CHURCH FOUNDED IN 1893

ODIST DEDICATION WILL BE HELD SUNDAY

H. E. Whyte Gives Sketch Of rogress Of Methodism Here

e dedication of our new church nday, October 5th, will mark epoch in the history of Meth- in this community. It will possible a larger and more ate program, especially in our people's work. For some we have felt the need of a more ate building for the Sunday l and Epworth League, but tions had not seemed right to a building program until all, when it seemed imperative some thing be done. Shortly conference, therefore, a can- of our membership and consti- was made with favorable re- and on Thanksgiving even- he congregation came together voted to go forward with the ruction of the new building is now completed, and is to edicated Sunday.

this point a glimpse into the ground may be of interest to people, for we have simply upon the foundations which s have helped to lay, and with- their contributions in the way oney, toil and service the the nt achievement could not have possible.

Fifty Years Of Methodism

nearly as we are able to recall facts, Methodism came to this munity nearly fifty years ago ugh the medium of the circuit , who was stationed at Garner served several points. Such ices were first of all held in a ol house in Liberty township. he congregation grew the need more adequate place of worship soon felt, hence the old church built on the site of the present rty Church during the pastor- of Rev. Wm. Koerner. Shortly this Klemme was added to the it and preaching was carried n the school house for a time. as under the pastorate of Rev. k Wellemeyer who served un- the German Conference, of h Rev. Koerner was then Dis- Superintendent, that the first E. Church was built in Klemme e year 1893.

Circuit Rider Served Klemme

was about this time that an- r circuit rider, the Rev. Charles mer who lived at Meservey, n preaching in Klemme to the lish speaking Methodist folk, within two years started the ding of the English Methodist rch. Rev. Plummer did not re- n on the field to see the build- completed, for he was moved by conference in the midst of the truction program and Rev. rles Anderson was sent in his e to carry the project through completion.

Congregations Merge

During the intervening years, these two buildings served the religious needs of the Methodist following of the community each one meeting a paticular need for the time About ten years or more ago the English language was made a part of the worship services of the German M. E. Church and from that time on there was a growing feeling that Methodism should be a unit in the community. Therefore, in the fall of 1924, under the pastorate of Rev. A. W. Gauger, the two congregations merged and came under the jurisdiction of the North West Iowa Conference. The Liberty congregation also took this step at the same time.

The new church, just completed, has been made possible only thru this union of Methodism in the community, and it marks the beginning of larger and better things in the way of building Christian character in the community. Let cooperation and mutual helpfullness be our watchword in the future.

Fine Spirit Of Co-operation

The spirit of cooperation has already been manifest in many ways while the building project has been in hand. First of all we needed a lot of gravel hauled and a call for men and trucks was sent out. Response is evidenced by the fact that some 160 loads of gravel were hauled in about two days and everyone seemed to enjoy doing it. The gravel was secured from the Emil Lau's pit for half the regular price.

Several other times during the spring andsummer there was eed for help, first in the digging of the basement, and later, for grading the lawn, and there was always a willing and ready response. Men came with shovels, teams and scrapers or whatever else was needed and stayed until the task was finished. Even the sidewalks were put in by volunteer help, the cement mixer having been furnished by William Bachman, who also donated his time to help run it.

The sewer line and the drain pipes from the eave spouts were all laid by Frank Ward as donation work. The work of installing the entire plumbing system in the building was donated by Fred Ridder, who did a very fine peice of work The gravel around the church corner was given by the town and hauled by Harold Leitzinger with his truck.

Organizations All Helped

Other donations which have been made to the building are a new pulpit lamp, a new pulpit Bible, new song books and a new blackboard for the League room. Several of the windows were also paid for by different organizations and will be named for them.

The Ladies Aid made a very substantial ubscription to the general fund and also equiped the the kitchen with a new electric stove. They also solicited money to buy a full set of dish and silver ware.

Mayer Given The Contract

The general contract was given to Mr. J. C. Mayer of Clarion, wro proved himself to be a very efficient workman and builder and also very agreable.

The electric contract was given to Mr. Prouty of Garner. The windows were purchased from the St. Joseph Art Glass Works, of St. Joseph, Missouri, and the furnace was procured from the Cambell Heating Company of Des Moines. It is said to be one of the latest and most efficient church heaters.

About the only delay worth mentioning after the work was begun

ELEVATOR MANAGERS AND FARMERS TO HOLD MEETING

Grain Grading School Will Be Held At Mason City October 13th

Methods of grading grain, requirements for different grades. grain inspection and the newly developed method of grain inspction in transit are among the subjects which will be explained in a grain grading school to be held in Mason City on October 13 in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms, and in Algona on October 14 at the Court House, according to Walter Weis, county agent.

Around The County With Agent Weiss

CORN PICKERS THIS YEAR WILL GET ABOUT FOUR CENTS

Farmers Will Get Plenty Of Pickers This Year Says County Agent

What about those corn pickers? The time is here when we are thinking about getting that corn picked which means to some of you that help is needed.

Corn pickers are starting to show up and of course the mater of price is brought up. It seems to me that corn pickers this season would be getting a good and fair price if they were paid four cents per bushel when the farmer has an elevator, and five cents per bushel when the corn has to be shoveled. Some of you may want to pay more in order to get your small acreage picked out but by no means would I if I were you, pay more than six cents.

Three Cents For Illinois Pickers

An Illinois man told me just last Saturday evening that in his state they were only going to pay three cents which means that plenty of men will be available in the good corn sections of Iowa. Most men have been doing day labor this season at three dollars per day and boarding themselves. An average picker will husk out around 75 bushels per day. At four cents he has three dollars with his board and board and room thrown in.

Nose Fly War Declared

From all indications over the entire county it appears that the Bot or nose fly is going to catch it this coming winter. Each township that I have presented the nose fly control in are 100 per cent for the eradication. The process which is rather simple will be done by the local veterinarian at a cost of around fifty cents per head.

Has Had Experience With Bot

I might give you the experience of Ralph Pave farming on one of Walter Ross' farms west of Garner. Last year he lived in Wright county in one of the six townships that treated their horses last winter. This spring he moved west of Garner. During spring work and corn plowing season no nose baskets were needed as his horses were not bothered by the flies, however, when it came to threshing when he had to have his horses around the neighbors it was necessary to buy nose baskets.

Not only will you save the price of nose baskets which cost you almost fifty cents a year per head but you are doing the horses a humane act. What is your reaction when the common fly bothers you a lot? Another thing, the horses will come through the winter in much better shape and do more work easier the coming spring.

Result Of Dormant Spray Demonstration

Through H. E. Nichols of the Extension Service I shall give you the result of the Dormant spray demonstration for the Control of Oyster Shell Scale which was conducted at the Jelle Tjaden farm near Woden:

No oil was available for this demonstration so different rates of dry lime sulphur were compared. The dry lime sulphur was used at the rate of 15 and 25 pounds to 50 gallons of water.

In checking results in thsi orchard no difference could be observed between the efficiency of eithr strength. Both gave complete control. No liv scale could be found on branches sprayed with either strength.

This should prove a value to all farmers in the county having oyster shell scale in their orchards. This one thing has been proven. If you apply a dormant spray with the proper strength of solution which is 15 pounds dry lime sulphur per 50 gallons water and cover entire tree the scale can be easily exteminated.

COUNTERFEIT BILLS ARE GOING AROND

Upper Des Moines- Republican.—The sheriff's office announces that they have received warning of a series of counterfeit bills which are being scattered arond the country and are warning merchants to be on the lookout for them. The bills are of $5.00 and $10.00 denominations. Serial number for the $10.00 bill is J06186756A and J10568179A and for the $5.00, A05286996A.

SHORT HEALTH PROGRAM IS SPONSORED IN HANCOCK CO.

A short Health program is being sponsored in Hancock rural schols and the first eight grades in the town schols by the County Christmas Seal Committee, which is supporting this work, financialy, by funds collected through previous sales of the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal. Miss Edith Holmstrom, public Health Nurse from the Iowa Tuberculosis Association is conducting this Health program. She was present at Teachers' Institute and for part of three weeks has completed work in townships adjoining Klemme.

This work is merely an introduction to Public Health Nursing and it is hoped that the work may be continued next year to establish a permanent program. Hancock co. should keep pace with others. Word comes from the State Department o Health that more interest than ever before is evident in the employment of Public. Health Nurses. School-boards, committes and counties are requesting quaified Public Health Nurses to start work next fall.

Mrs. M. P. Summers of Sioux City, State President of Iowa Congress of Parents and Teachers says, "No group of people has so intimate a knowledge of the effects of ill health in a child (mentally, physically and morally) as parents in the home and teachers in the school. Even so, how often does the child actually suffer through lack of intelligent understanding in even these his natural guardians?" She urges that Iowa make this year a banner year for Health and start hundreds of little children on their schol careers, September 1930, as free from remediable defects as it is possible for us to make them.

When we approach such a goal we can look for healthier, happier children in our schools and less time lost because of preventable disease.

Miss Holmstrom is pleased with results in better care of children's teeth inagurated in this county and still it will only be in three or four years from now that we can begin to measure real results from such an activity as the Iowa Plan for Dental Health Education. Is it worth while? Dr. Chas. Mayo has said recently, that one of the next great steps in preventative medicine must come through dentistry. The school health inspection reveals many abnormal conditions and correction of these remediable defects of diseases by the Family Physician (to whom the child is already referred by the nurse) will go far in over coming the obstacles to that equality of opportunity which we desire for every boy and girl.

Health inspection has been made in the first eight grades of the Klemme Independent school. The following are some of the abnormal conditions found in the 88 pupils that were inspected by the nurse:

Number of pupils found with——
Abnormal condition oe eyes 25
Abnormal condition of ears 6
Abnormal condition of nose and throat 30
Abnormal condition of teeth 60

All pupils were weighed and measured and regulations for hygenic rules of living were pointed out by Miss Holmstrom. A conference with parents was conducted on Friday, Sept. 26. Miss Holmstrom wil give talk at a Parent-Teachers meeting later in the year.

FEEDING GRAIN ON PASTURE PAYS

The value of feeding a good grain ration on pasture is shown by the experience of a West Branch Cow Testing Association member, according to a report made by the tester to the Dairy Extension Service Iowa State College.

This member fed only shelled corn in July and had a feed cost of 33 cents per pound of butterfat. In August he fed a mixture of 450 pounds ground corn and cornmeal, 450 pounds ground oats, 100 pound cottonseed meal and the feed cost dropped to 24 cents. This was despite the fact that all cows were milked in July, while two were dry in August.

Admiral Byrd must feel a bit nervous when he thinks of all the collegeg that are laying in wait to pounce upon him with honorary degrees.

According to reports from Georgia the popcorn is popping on the stalks out in the fields. It is now time for Kansas to report that the hens are laying hard boiled eggs.

PULLETS IN POOR CONDITION Need Good Feed and Care In Preporation For Winter.

Following the hot, dry weather of the past fow months and poor feeding which has been practiced by many poultry raisors because of low prices, much Iowa poultry is in poor condition to enter the fall and winter seasons.

Altho the dry weather has been an aid in controlling parasites, wet weather will probably cause an in- in parasitic infestation, especially in flocks of weakened vitality. Many flocks over Iowa have been poorly fed or allowed to search for ther own food and are in poor condition. As soon as cool nights come, birds in crwded houses are likely to contract colds and even croup.

Feeding a well balanced mash and succulent green feed and preventing the chickens from drinking out of dirty watetr holes will aid greatly in building up the vigor of the flock this season. Scratch grain should be scattered on a clean fresh place each day.

A saddle horse in Oklahoma sold the other day for $27,500. Now let the snappy rumble seat roadsters try to laugh that off.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION GOES TO DES MOINES

The Iowa Poultry Improvement Association, which has had its headquarters in the Extension Service, Iowa State College, since it was organized in 1927 will move to offices in Des Moines, Oct. 1, according to an announcement by Hugh Gordon, field agent for the association. The association has never been officially connected with the college. but the Extension Service donated office space for the new organization until it got well under way. The association and extension workers cooperate in many phases of poultry improvement work.

YO—YO

How thoroughly the yo-yo fad has taken hold in this community! And we guess it is general all over the country, according to the newspapers Ayear or so ago a few of the merchants in town tried to introduce them but without success. At that time they were quite the rage at Charles City. No interest was taken in them here. Then suddenly about a month ago, the town was full of yo-yo's. The merchants were forced to order again and again because of the continual demand. Everywhere one went the returning top was shooting out and back from boys' hands. Then girls began taking it up, tho less eagerly. Even grownups are not above it, though their awkward efforts are not displayed much in public.

EDITORIALS FOR AND AGAINST A PHEASANT HUNTING SEASON

The Eagle Grove Eagle:— "It is reported the Iowa fish and game commission contemplates announcing a five day open season for the shooting of pheasants this year. It would seem this commission has decided on the extermination of these beautiful, attractive birds. Last winter's deepsnow killed many hundreds of thme, and if it is at all desirable to preserve them there should be no shoting of them allowed this year. These birds were placed in Iowa at no small expense. If it was a mistake let it be openly confessed and their extermination be honestly ordered. They are beautiful birds, and the pleasure of seeing them along the highways is enjoyed by all travelers. The farmers really furnish the food for these pheasnts and they alone should be allowed to shoot them. If they consider them a nuisance let them kill them, but let there be an end to these three and five day slaughterings by sportsmen from the cities who have contributed nothing for their propagation and maintenance.

Several newspapers in this portion of the state have spoken editorially against the open season on pheasants. One takes the stand that the pheasant is an ornamental bird and should not be killed and the other that we are making the open season into sort of a Roman holiday when we slaughter these handsome and defenseless birds. To set history right it should be kept in mind that the ringneck pheasant was not propogated in Iowa for ornamental purposes. Twenty years ago when the campaign for the establishment of the ringneck pheasant was at its height, the editor of this paper was in the midst of it and argued long and loud for the ringneck to take the place of the vanishing prairie as a game for the shooters of Iowa. The ringneck was brought here for sporting purposes. It is a game bird handsome, toothsome and hardy. Game birds are propogated to be shot as a barnyard chicken is raised to be killed. Pheasants are killed with a gun and hogs are killed in a packing plant. If it is a Roman holiday in the opon pheasant season drop into a packing house and get a view of real blood flowing. If pheasants should not be killed then barnyard chickens should be allowed to live forever. If it cruel to shoot a pheasant that is wild and has never known the kindness of human hands, then what is it when a kindly woman picks up a chicken that she has raised and petted and fed from the time it k'cked ont of the shell, and wring its neck so that she can prepare its carcass for a feast when the minister arrives? Thefact of the matter is that every form of life to be found in the world sustains itself on something else. Even the plants grow from the substance they take from the earth and the air. Then to say that the phmeasant should not be killed and should not be taken to grace the hunter's table and reieve his apetite is something out of the ordinary and that can not be considered. The ringneck pheasant should be allowed to fill its destiny—to fill our hedgerows with beautiful bird life, and to give our sportsmen an opportunity to test their maksmanship and later grace their tables with his toothsome carcass. — Humboldt Independent

PROTECT OUR SPORT

When tempted during this hunting season to violate one or any of of the laws enacted to protect wild life, pause and think it over. When you consider it for a few minutes you will agree that to observe the game laws is not only the wise but the decent thing to do.

How long would there be any game alive if there were no laws to protect wild life? How long would small and large game survive if an uncontrolled slaughter were the order?

Isn't it merely the part of good sportsmanship to observe these laws and help perpetuate a favorite sport for future years?

WATCH SODIUM CHLORATE USE

Fire Hazard Is Great When Soil and Vegetation Are Dry

It is inadvisable to use sodium chlorate for the killing of weeds dur ing periods suhc as the recent drouth, when the soil and vegetation become exceedingly dry.

The danger of using this chemical weed killer lies in its exceedingly combustible nature. A number of fires have started in fields spontaneously where sodium chlorate has been used. Also, if it is allowed to soak into the clothes of persons using it ,when dry the least friction may set the clothes on fire. Wagon boxes or any other organic matter are apt to ignite with slight friction after having been saturated with sodium chlorate.

In sections where the ground and vegetables have not been well wet up by recent rains it would be safer to delay applying sodium chlorate until along in September.

CLOVERS KILL WITH BLOAT FOLLOWING FROST

The most dangerous time for cattle on sweet clover, alfalfa and red clover pasture is when the frost season arrives. Frosted clovers kill at once with bloat. Last spring several men reported severe losses when cattle were on clover that was frostd. The cattle die in the early morning of the frost. It is dangerous to pasture sweet clover or alfalfa at any time with cattle, but it is almost certain loss to pasture them in the early spring or fall due to bloat. These pastures are fine for hogs at any time and all the time providing you do not hurt the stand of clover.

Much confusion and disorder in the household can be avoided if a first floor closet is equipped for the childrens clothing. Low shelves, hooks and rods for small hangers encourage small members of the family to put away their own wraps.

All the banks of Hancock County are carrying the minimum amount of currency for their daily needs.

REQUEST

The banks therefor ask for the approval and assistance of their customers in their SAFETY FIRST measure, and when more than a nominal amount of currency is required, give the banks timely notice so that additional currency may be shipped in.

This method of foiling and preventing bank robbery is strongly recommended by the IOWA STATE BANKERS' ASSOCIATION to all the counties in the state as it makes bank robbery unprofitable and protects the lives of the bank employees and customers.

6% AND SAFETY

WHEN you invest your money, the rate of return is not the only thing to consider—the safety of the principal is equally as important.

Investments which promise to pay large returns cannot have this element of safety—they must be speculative and may result in the loss of your principal.

An investment in our Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock not only pays you 6% yearly in quarterly installments, but also gives you assurance of the absolute safety of your principal.

We can say "absolute safety" because we have been issuing our Preferred Stock for over six years, and no one who has invested in it has ever failed to receive a dividend or lost any part of the principal.

Let our manager or some employee tell you more about 6% and Safety.

East Indian Superstition

In the month of May the pipal tree, venerated in India, is said to be in its most benevolent mood; so in Bengal at that season groups of young maidens, all dressed in yellow robes, assemble each morning to pay homage to it. If one of their number happens to become engaged to be married at that time, she is honored with a crown of pipal leaves by her companions, for whom in return she cooks food; and those who partake of that food will also, it is believed, meet with a similar happy fate.

Rare Chinese Pottery

Peachblow ware is the most valuable of Chinese pottery. It belongs to the Chinese potteries which are transmutation glazes embracing a type of flambe color. These glazes differ from red to a delicate pink, which is peachblow. Peachblow products have realized prize amounts in salesrooms, and many of these pieces are exhibited in museums. They are no longer made. Originally peachblow was made in King-te-Chin and was considered as a perfect example of potter's art.

Favorite Vegetable

Jimmie, age four, is very proud of ability to eat various kinds of food that are placed before him from day to day. The other evening there were several guests at the table, and he was discussing his accomplishment to the discredit of his two brothers, whose tastes are not so easily satisfied.

"I like almost everything," said Jimmie. "I even like liver and fat meat. Franklin and Shirley don't. Liver and fat meat are my favorite vegetables."

SEES HEAVY CLAIMS ON FUTURE BANKERS

American Bankers Association Official Declares That Banking Changes Creating Large Bank Systems Will Call for Broader Social Viewpoints.

Larger scale group or branch banking will inevitably bring a new era of banking organization and operations to the United States and bankers will have to develop "new conceptions, new administrative methods and new economic views," Rudolf S. Hecht, Chairman of the Economic Policy Commission of the American Bankers Association, recently told the members of the American Institute of Banking.

The institute is the educational section of the association and he emphasized the point that the new era in banking demanded "that we must step up our education so that banking shall be fortified for new responsibilities."

What the Future Calls For

"We must broaden our social conception of banking," Mr. Hecht said. "Not only for the technical operations of the new banking must we fit ourselves, but both as individuals and an organized profession we must charge ourselves with serious consideration of the social problems that are involved. Already we hear murmurings and fears and doubts as to whether the changes that are coming about in banking in the extension of group and branch systems do not constitute the looming of a new financial menace, a monopolistic threat not only to the individual unit banker, but to the financial liberty of society in general. I am stating these things merely as facts that must be taken into consideration in our studies.

"Public opinion cannot be ignored by any business, least of all by banking, which is admittedly semi-public in character and is, therefore, subject to special supervision by the constituted authorities. If banking develops tendencies that give rise to public fears, we must so conduct ourselves as to reassure all doubts.

"For this is true,—that business succeeds only by serving society—that no business can permanently prosper which does not both render service to the public and at the same time convince the public that it is rendering that service. Banking, therefore, must take cognizance of what the public is saying of this new era in its development.

"It must be part of the technique of modern banking administration, whatever form our enlarged institutions take, to avoid the creation of monopolies, or even the appearance of such a centralization of financial power as to be able to exercise an undue influence over public or private finance or other lines of business. The public's right to the safeguards of fair competition must be observed.

Must Preserve Individual Initiative

"It must also be an item of management that individual initiative and opportunity shall be maintained. If America has outstripped other nations in the distribution of the benefits of its progress, it is due to the fact that there are no barriers of social caste or business tradition against advancement for character, ability, and initiative. American business has learned that it serves itself best by encouraging by every practical means individual ambition and initiative, and hurts itself most by repressing or neglecting them. Competition for efficiency, both within an organization and between organizations, will prevent any institution from long enduring in which maintenance of opportunity and recognition of initiative are not controlling principles of management. As heads of the greatest of our financial and industrial institutions stand men who started from the humblest of beginnings. Through all the grades of executive authority and reward stand men in positions in keeping, generally speaking, with their individual merits. I, personally, see no reason for fearing that the enlarged banking organizations which the future may hold would necessarily supply future bank employees with any less opportunity for achievement than unit banking.

"Again, a major consideration of administration in any multiple form of banking organization must be its public relations in every community it touches. Its foremost consideration must be actually and visibly to serve the economic upbuilding of that community. No system will be long tolerated whose local members work, or are suspected as working, to draw economic strength from one place to enlarge the finanical power of another. The local unit bank has always been part and parcel of the communities where it lives—and no system can last which does not make it a major principle of operating technique to serve, and not exploit, the communities into whose business lives it enters."

Growth of Banking Education

DENVER, Colo.—At the American Institute of Banking convention held here last month the growth in the effort among bank employees to provide themselves with banking education was shown by the fact, as reported by one speaker, that 12 years ago the institute had 80 study chapters, today 208, and that its enrollment in the study courses had grown from 11,000 to 45,000, or an increase of over 300 per cent. The graduates number nearly 14,000. The institute is the educational section of the American Bankers Association through which bank workers are given instruction in theoretical and practical subjects relating to their business.

CHANGE IN ROCK ISLAND TRAIN SERVICE RAISES HOWL

Trains Bring Mail Any Time Now, All Trains Hours Late

Monday a new schedule of train service went into effect on the Rock Island, which made bad service several hundred per cent worse.

Two trains are listed on the bulletin board now. Northbound at 10:45 a. m., and Southbound at 3:00 p. m. That wouldn't be so bad if the trains really got here somewhere near that time.

They got a bad start right off the bat, establishing perhaps a national record for lateness the first day.

Tuesday was even worse. The 10:45 a. m. train getting into Klemme sometime around 4:30 p. m., and the 3:00 p. m. train struggled in here about 10:30 p m.

Today, Wednesday, is still worse. The morning train has not yet arrived, and we can swell supper getting ready. The afternoon train will probably arrive next week!

These trains carry passengers—(pity the poor devils), freight, express, mail—(so old it begins to smell when it reaches us), cattle, and hogs.

It's time mail patrons got up on their hind legs and petitioned for some service. If the Rock Island can't handle our mail satisfactory, lets get a "Star Route" here to give service to Klemme and Goodell. It can be done, but we can't sit back and wait—we've got to get busy. Train service is getting worse every day—we must get our mail by another method like other towns have done. Star Routes at present serve Kanawha, Hayfield, Crystal Lake, Thornton, Woden, Titonka, and other nearby towns. Let's have it here!

Greeks Used Butter As A Cosmetic

The "ultra smart" among the Greeks and Romans as early as the year 450 B. C. used BUTTER as a hair dressing and a cosmetic. The Hindoos offered it as the greatest and holiest of sacrifices in their worship. The Macedonians used BUTTER as an ontment after bathing. In Spain as late as the seventeenth century, butter fat was found in the medicine shops for exernal use only.

Enlightened by advances in the field of nutrition, we use butter at the present time as one of the healhiest of natural foods. Vitamin A, which is found so plentifully in BUTTER, is not only important n bone-building, but is also important in cell-building; this makes BUTTER such a necessary food for the growing child, states the National Dairy Council, as well as the health of the adult.

MORE NAMES ON METHODIST CHURCH ROLL

In compiling the long list of names which apeared on the membership roll of the Methodist Episcopal Church, published in The Times last week, it was an easy matter to cause an error. An error could slip in in recopying the list by the minister, and later in setting up the type matter. In any event the followng names were intended to have appeared in the list in their proper places:

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson.
Mrs. Henry Medaus.
Mrs. Nettie Wade.
Rev. Buriff, a former minister of the English Methodist Church.

Gimer On Building Committee

The name of Mr. A. D. Gimer should have appeared as a member of the Building Committee. Mr. Gimer is a member of the offical board, who were all on the building committee as well.

FARM BUREAU OFFERS COURSE IN LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTURE

The Hancock County Farm Bureau has voted to offer a course in landscape architecture as a major project in their educational program for the coming year. The immediate objective of this course is to create an interest in and to promote the proper landscape development of home grounds and farmsteads by emphasizing the value of careful planning according to proper principles of landscape architecture It is hoped that through proper planning the average farmstead in Hancock county will be greatly increased in efficiency and visual beauty with a saving in cost of construction, operation, and maintenance, and that an increased appreciation of farm life at its best will be awwakened through the vision and gradual accomplishment of better home surroundings.

A course of seven lessons covering the principles of landscape architecture as applied to farmstead planning will be given by a specialist from the extension department of Iowa State College under whose guidance local leaders will prepare and carry out plans of their own farmsteads as real demonstrations, the local leaders becoming in turn sources of information on landscape architecture for their own communities.

Commencing with a general discussion of landscape architecture the specialist will take up the other factors involved in the location of the various elements (barn, house, fences, entrance drive, farm court, plant materials, etc) that go into the farmstead will supervise the completion of the individual plans, aid in the selection of plants and other material needed, and finally make a personal visit to each farmstead planned.

This is an unusual opportunity to learn the principles underlying the art of Landscape Architecture and to get a complete plan to follow in the future farmstead development. Whether interested in the location of a future building, fence sidewalk driveway or other farm element, or only in the location and selection of trees, shrubs and flowers for the house grounds development, those taking the course are free to carry out as much or little of the specialist's recommendations as they see fit. No immediate change is expected. The plan is merely a guide to the gradual growth which will be made in the future farmstead development. The plans will take into account all existing conditions and only such changes will be made as the owner thinks advisable after the specialist has pointed out the advantages.

Faint or Weak Heart

"What happened to Brown?"

"He,s dead."

"How did that happen?"

'Well, you know his wife had a habit of making him carry everything she bought, so last week she bought a grand piano."

"He didn't have to carry that, I hope."

"No; but he took one look at it and died of heart failure."

HANCOCK COUNTY FARMERS START PICKING CORN

It May Be A Bit Early To Crib Corn From Some Fields

Another week has passed with many farmers in the county already starting to pick their corn. It seem to me that some have startde a little early for cribing but with a god many acres to be picked an early start is essential.

The rainy weather has been a relief from the dry weather we have experienced this season but it is rathr hard on the farmers who are hulling clover seed and alfalfa.

Wallace Hulls Clover

Ed Wallace has huled 20 acres of cover which netted him 71 bushels of olean, plump red clover seed. He is having a purity and germination tst run on the seed so that he will know exactly what his seed is.

Henry Holck has started hulling his 20 acres of clover which will undoubtedly yeild him a good return.

Farm Stead Improvement

All of our Farm Bureau members have recieved letters in regard to the Farm Improvement course which is to be one of the major projects for the coming year. May I urge those of you who are interested and I am sure many of you should be, to get in touch with the Farm Bureau office or the leader in your township right away as the training schools will start Oct. 13. I am sure that thoes of you who attend the first meeting in your respective schol center could not be kept away from the meetings that are to follaw.

Henry Henderson and D. E. Keat made this statement in regard to the Farmstead Improvement project that they thought this project should be the most interesting project the Farm Bureau has put on for a long time and they surely wanted in on it. Remember that this project will be supervised by E. J. Johnson, Asst Landscape Architect from the Extension Service at Ames who knows the subject.

Erin To Battle Bot Flies

[illegible] Bot Fly Control again, at the Erin Township meeting [illegible] very much interest was manifest in this undertaking. Four farmers from diffent school districts of the township stated that they would see the farmers in their districts and sign them up for the treatment which will be given durng the months of December, January and the fore part of February. The men covering the four districts in Erin are Helmer Hill, Charlie Howlett, John Brcka and Floyd Fridow. There are five more school districts to be covered so any of you wishing to see your neighbors, I shall be glad to have you do so Remember this, that we must have each horse, mule and colt treated to make it as effective as it should be.

Farmers in seven school districts in Concord township are being signed for the treatment by Ed Woiwood. A. W Anderson, Victor Meyer, Roy Lawhorn, Matt Love, Paul Knaupp, Tony Rasmus and Clint Daniels.

SHIP FROM NORWAY IN IOWA

Without announcement the Viking ship "Roald Amundson" anchored at the Ferry street landing at Camanche, Clinton county, where the night was spent. The vessel was on its way to the Viking day celebration at St. Paul, having brought Gerhard Folgaro across the Atlantic ocean and thence up the Mississippi river. The craft is 60 feet long and draws only three feet of water. The journey across the Atlantic and up the Mississippi attracted world wide interest. When the old boat reached Clinton its captain and crew were greeted by several hundred people who had been advised of its approach.

A splendid dinner was prepared for us all by Carico and her mother which was relished by all. We appreciate these opportunities for a closer acquaintance with parents of our students. It always helps toward a better understanding of olr mutual task of developing the youth we are employel to instruct and aid. Clarice has a good home and fine parents.

T. B. LAW IS DECLARED TO BE CONSTITUTIONAL

Des Moines, Iowa October 8 —. The recent decision of the Supreme Court in declaring the bovine tuberculosis law constitutional should aid materially in rapidly eradicating tuberculosis from Iowa herds, declared M. G. Thornburg, Secretary of Agrculture, after reading the decision which reversed the lower court in the Mitchell county case.

In deciding the case the Supreme Court carefully analyzed the different points made by those opposing the present law and showed that the legislature had not exceeded their authority in passing the law, that it was not arbitrary, that the tuberculosis law is within the police power of the state, and that it does not interfere with due process of law.

In discussing the police power the court stated: "Manifestly, from all that has been said and cited, it is evident that a statute permitting the tuberculosis test for dairy and beef cattle is within the police power of the state. Such test is not so arbitrary or unreasonable as to permit the courts, under the circumstances, to interfere with the legislature'sprerogative in that regard."

In regard for the testing of cattle they state: 'From the foregoing discussion, it is apparent that the act does not vest in the state enforcing agents arbitrary or unreasonable power. Neither arbitrariness nor unreasonableness is contemplated in the act. The test agents are required to pass adequate examinations and qualify for the positions. We cannot presume that they wil not preform their duties according to law. There is no reason in this respect to hold that the act is unconstitutional."

The danger from tuberculose to humans as well as to livestock is recognized by the decision. The court also held that while the test was not perfect it was reliable and dependable.

NEARLY FIFTTEEN HUNDRED ATTENDED SERVICES

Over Thousand People Had Dinner At The Church Last Sunday

Last Sunay was a ed etter day for the Methodist Church in Klemme and, we believe, for the Kingdom of God. It is estimated that there were between twelve and fifteen hundred people who came to the Dedication Day services. There were several hundred presnt who were unable to get into the building for th morning and afternoon services, and the house was filled to capaoltyin the evening.

Dr. Frank E. Mossman, President of Morningside Colege, deliverel one of the most stirring spiritual mssages that has been heard in Klemme for a long time. This, I believe is almost the unanimous testimony of the neary six hundred people who heard him.

Rev. Spence Gave Address

Another great message was deliverel in the afternoon by Dr. Wm. Spence, of the first M. E. Church of Mason City, and the same high standard was mainttained by Dr. W. H. Lase, our District Superintendent, at the evening service. Dr. Lease not ony delivered a gripping gospel message, but also had charge of the ledication ceremony.

All Former Pastors Invited

An invitation was sent out to all former pastors of both the English anl German M. E. Churches, but only three were able to attend. Most of the others sent their greetings and thir good wishes, and likewise their regrets in not being able to be present because of urgent responsibilities in their own charges.

Church Ladies Served Dinner

A grat deal of credit is due to the Ladies Aid and to the women of the church who worked with them to help make the day the success tat it was. As nearly as can be determined, over a tousand people were fd in the basement during the day, and more than nine hundred of these at the dinner hour. The whole affair was well planned and arried out with precission; Thanks to th Ladies Aid and their helpers whowaited on tables. With Mrs. C. F. Keraus as President of this organization the are assured of a successful years work.

The Music rogram for the entire day was arranged bv Mrs. Whyte, and she wishes to express her thank to everyone who had a part in it for their fine cooperation. We wish to express our special appreciation to Miss Ford, Miss McGinnis, and to Prof. Penrod who directed the choir.

Building Is Free Of Debts

When we came up to the morning service there was something over $5,000 to be cared for before the hour of dedication in the evening This seemed to be a big undertaking to many, and it was, but thru the able leadership of Dr. Mossman and the fine cooperation of the Board of Trustees and Building comittee. and the help of the good people of the church and comunity, and even some from outside the community, th entire indebtedness of the new building was covered in cash and in pledges by the hour of dedication. In this fact we may all well rejoice.

Large nough For All Activities

We have now a building that is adequate for larger and finer activities. Furthermore, it should give new inspiration and courage to all. Let us now move on to greater things for the kingdom of God.

Regular Services Next Sunday

Next Sunday morning all services will be according to schedule both in Klemme and at Liberty. The new organization of th Sunday School in Klemme will take place Sunday morning and classes will be assigned to their respective places and departments. Be sure to be on hand.

The Kings Herads and the Light Bearers will meet in the basement at 10:00 A. M. The Epworth League will meet in the new League room at 7:15. The young people are urged to be present for this meeting as we have some important matters to consider. We are also beginning our evening preaching services Sunday and with your help we plan to make a worth while beginning. The service will be at 8:00 o'clock. The choir will meet on Thursay evening at the schoo house for practice at 7:30 o'clock.

Lack Of Water Cuts Production

As a result of inadequate water supply, the butterfat production of a dairy herd owned by a farmer near Osceola decreased from 57 pounds of milk and 20 pounds of fat per cow in July to 194 pounds of milk and 6.2 pounds of fat in August. The short water supply was caused by a well going dry as a result of the drouth, according to the cow tester. The decrease of 13.8 pounds of fat is largely because the cows did not get enough water to drink, according to dairy extension specialists at Iowa State College.

One benefit of the drouth which isn't questioned is that it has been disastrous to the European corn borers, according to reports from infested states. That may save Iowa's corn for a bit longer.

WANT TOMATOES AFTER THE FROST

Pick Green Ones Befre Vines Are Killed

The ripe tomato season has not passed! The home gardener may lengthen the season by artificial methods. Tomatoes that are still green or are just commncing to show a little color should be picked and stored before the vines are killed by frost.

Well formed tomatoes of various sizes should be selected so that all will not ripen at once. Wrap them in paraffin paper and store them in light boxes in some cool place such as a fruit cellar. By this method ripe tomatoes can be kept for a month and in some season much longer.

Plowing Sod Controls Insects

Old timothy, bluegrass and especially old pasture fields should be plowed up this fall if the ground is in condition to be worked because the farmer can prevent the cutworm sod web worm, and seed corn maggot from injuring his crops by doing so. Plowing also aids in the extermination of other minor pests.

Pasture New Seedings Lightly

New seedings of clover this fall should be pastured lightly because of the damagng effects of the drouth, acording to H. D. Hughes, head of farm crops at Iowa State College. Ordinarily it is safe and sometimes beneficial to pasture red clover and alfalfa lightly in the fall. However, this year growth has been too sow to make pasturing advisable.

CORN BORER LOSES GROUND

Drouth Delays Advance — Control Machinery Being Developed

The corn borer lost some ground this year and the spread is less than usual on account of the drouth, according to E. V. Collins, of the Agricultural Engineering Department at Iowa State College, who recently returned from a corn borer conference at Toledo, Ohio.

The corn borer situation is more acute in the eastern sections of the United States, Collins says. Altho th corn borer advance has been delayed the menance to Iowa remain as it is only a matter of time until the pest reaches this section.

Remarkable progress has been made in developing machinery to combat the pest. One plow exhibited at the conference was designed to cover the cornstalks completely. Binder attachments were shown which cut the corn short.

HULL AND DRY NUTS WELL

Proper Handling Improves Quality —Turning Speeds Drying

Walnuts picked for eating purposes should be hulled and spread out in a bin to dry in orler to give them the best flavor, ascording to G. B. MacDonald, head of the forest Department at Iowa State College. To speed up the drying they may be turned often. Other varieties of nuts found in Iowa should also be spread out to dry if kept for eating phrposes.

In case nuts are kept for planting they should not be permitted to dry out. Excellent storage may be had by keeping them buried in a pit located in a small knoll so that the water will flow away. The nuts shoud be placed in layers about three inches deep with sand or sandy earth between each layer. The pit is coveredl with a heavy layer of straw or leaves. When the nuts are removed in the spring for planting care should be taken not to break the rootlet on each nut.

HOME FEED SUPPLIES IN MOST IOWA COUNTIES

..Des Moines, Iowa October 8 —. Most Iowa counties will have sufficient feed to supply their home needs but the supplies that are usually shipped out may be cut in some counties, according to the reports that have been received from county agricultural agents by M. G. Thornburg, Sec. of Agriculture.

"A few counties have indicated that they will have some hay and other types of roughage for sale," stated Mr. Thornburg. "Others have indicated that they are already buying hay from the west for feeding purposes. A few counties will probably have to buy feed grains, although this movement will not likely be any greater this year than is usually the case. Some of the surplus feed producing counties will undoubtedly make smaller shipments of grains this year than usual on account of the smaller corn crop."

IOWA — BOUNTIFUL LAND

By George Gallarno

IOWA today continues its progress onward, industrially and financially as, in the language of Roger Babson, "the one bright spot on the national map."

IOWA, agriculturally par excellence: For, you may bake you may scorch its soil if you will, but the "average crop" will cling to it still.

IOWA has, at Council Bluffs, the nly industrial, grey iron die casting factory in the United States.

IOWA will have completed more than 3,100 miles of paved highways when the present paving season closes, a mileage that is equivalent to ten roads crossing the state from east to west, and at a city, town or hamlet in the state situated more than twenty miles from a paved through thoroughfare.

IOWA records that 99.8 per cent of her population in cities and town enjoy the facilities afforded by electrical service; 60 per cent of her urban population has gas service, while electrical service now reaches more than 15 per cent of rural residents, and is being rapidly extended.

In one day the Prince of Wales is promoted to vice admiral of the naval fleet, lieutenant general in the army and air marshal ofthe flying force. With the proper backing that boy would get somewhere.

"Kingston (Ohio) streets are deserted after nightfall because two families of skunks are roaming them," says a dispatch. What do they mean deserted? A street with a skunk on it is crowded.

We are wonderng what woudl happen to a fellow in one of those baby motor cars if an eight wheeled truck hit him.

A bulletin says that we annually produce 25,000 windmills in the United States, which is in addition to the ones bienially elected to Congress.

Separation Of Years

She: "Time surely separates the best of friends."

He: "Quite true. Fourteen years ago we were both 18. Now you are 23 and I'm 32."

Hadn't Noticed Anything

Butter Is Rich In Vitamins

Says Dr. E. V. McCollum, nutrition authority:

"BUTTER should be used as a spread, in cooking and in the preparation of various food dishes whenever possible, for a liberal supply of the vitamin is better than the minimum on which growth is possible."

Since butter is one of the best food sources of vitamin "A" and since vitamin "A" s such an important food accessory, it is wise to use enough butter each day to be sure that you are giving your body a reserve of the important vitamin. In Sweden, when a minimum of 53 grams or practically two ounces of butter a day was used, xerophthalmia—the disease of the eye which indicates a real deficiency of vtamin "A"—was unknown.

Miss Mildred Johnson is perhaps the most thoughtful young lady in this community. She invited and urged her Sunday School Class to go with her and drive to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Newberger, where their daughter, Pearl, has for some time been ill with rheumatism and unable to attend Sunday school.

Miss Johnson held a regular Sunday School Class at Pearl's bedside and the entire class enjoyed their lesson, prayers and Bible reading.

This was all very much appreciated by Pearl and her parents.

Only Surmises as to First Spoken Language

Many surmises have been made regarding the oldest language. In an attempt to discover what children would say if uninfluenced by established speech, Psametichos, an Egyptian king, entrusted two new-born infants with a shepherd, with the strict charge that they were never to hear anyone utter a word. These children were afterward brought before the king and uttered the word "bekos" (baked bread). The same experiment was tried by Frederick II of Sweden and James IV of Scotland and by one of the Mogul emperors of India. Nothing conclusive was proved in either case. The Persians claim that Arabic, Persian and Turkish are the three primitive languages. Their tradition says that the serpent that tempted Eve spoke Arabic, the most persuasive language in the world. Adam and Eve spoke Persian, the most poetic language of all, and the angel Gabriel spoke Turkish, the most menacing language. Scholars formerly agreed that Sanscrit was the oldest tongue but later discoveries suggest that it too is derived from some still more ancient speech.

Authentic Records of Men of Unusual Size

The tallest man about whom the actual facts are known, other than those recorded in Biblical history, was one John Middleton. He lived in the Sixteenth century and was commonly called the child of Hale. It is said that his hand from the wrist to the end of the middle finger was seventeen inches long. His whole height was nine feet and three inches. Pliny, the Roman writer, however, mentions one Gabora as "the tallest man that hath been seen in our age." He measured nine feet nine inches in height. Patrick Cotter, who died in 1806, was probably the tallest Irishman; he measured 8 feet 7 inches, beating his countryman, Charles O'Brien, whose skeleton in the museum of the royal college of surgeons, London, measures 8 feet 4 inches only.

Record Meteorite

The most remarkable encounter between the earth and a meteorite of which there is any record is probably the one that resulted in the formation of Meteor Crater, near Canyon Diablo in northeastern Arizona, a desert region.

This crater is about 4,000 feet in diameter, with walls rising about 150 feet above the plain and descending precipitously 600 feet to the floor.

Rocks at the bottom are crushed to a depth of several hundred feet and show signs of great heating. Within a radius of five miles of the crater thousands of iron meteorites have been picked up.

Meteorites differ greatly from meteors, or shooting stars, in many respects, possibly even in their origin.

Stars Still Tell Time

In casually looking at your watch to tell the time of day, you probably don't stop to think that your timepiece, if it is accurate, has indirectly received its time from the stars.

In an article in World's Work, it is pointed out that the naval observatory at Washington, which furnishes the nation its time, makes a check every night by observations of the stars. Three delicate clocks are enclosed in glass cases far beneath the ground, and are kept at an exact temperature. These clocks keep the time which is first determined by astronomers, and hourly throughout the day comes the time across the country, correct to the thousandth part of a second.

Uses for Gyroscope

When first invented, the gyroscope, then called rotascope, was used as a scientific toy to illustrate the dynamics of rotating bodies, the composition of rotations, etc. A delicately mounted form of the above apparatus, invented by M. Foucault, is used to render visible the rotation of the earth on account of the tendency of the rotating wheel to preserve a constant plane of rotation, independent of the earth's motion This same principle is made use of in an instrument invented by Dr. H. Auschutz-Kampfe, designed to replace the mariner's compass or to serve as a check upon its accuracy.

Changed

"Women used to be clever," declares Nobert Well, "but now they are, for the most part, very obvious; smart but shorn of mystery, all their little feminine tricks revealed.

"'Does your wife kiss you every night when you come home?' asked the newly married man of his more experienced friend.

"'Well, er, not always,' admitted Mr. Experience. 'She used to, but now she only does it when she expects to go shopping next day.'"—Los Angeles Times.

Also Important

The children's dinner was in progress. They had been provided with a nice fat chicken.

"What part did you have?" asked one little boy of his neighbor.

"The wishbone," was the reply.

"I had a leg," put in another child.

One after the other they explained the various parts.

Presently little Jackie, who so far had not spoken a word, held up a skewer and exclaimed:

"Look, I've got the perch the chicken sat on!"

Water Filtration Has Curbed Disease Spread

About 1887 it was announced by Percy Frankland and others that sand filtration removed nearly all the bacteria in water. Five years later came the outbreak of cholera in Hamburg, and a striking demonstration was afforded of protection through filtration. Hamburg and Altona, two cities on the Elbe river, both used the river as a source of water supply. Hamburg used unfiltered water; Altona filtered its supply. When cholera infection of the river water occurred, Altona escaped with only a few cases. Hamburg, on the other hand, had an enormous number.

Following the rapid advance of the science of bacteriology in the '80s and '90s, it was natural to consider the possibility of purifying drinking water by the addition of chemical disinfectants. The first systematic use of chlorine in water is credited to Houston and McGovern in England in 1904 and 1905. The present world-wide use of chlorine disinfectant of public water supplies, however, is due largely to the work of George A. Johnson, who, in 1908, used bleaching powder ("chloride of lime") for the purification of Jersey City's water supply.—New York Times.

Inventions That Would Make Deviser Wealthy

Among the 20 ways of making a million dollars, revealed by Roger W. Babson, economist, in the Forum are: (1) Pills for plants—condensed form of fertilizer, to do away with wasteful spreading. (2) A new gearless automobile which will use a rotary engine, go sidewise as well as forward and backward for convenience in parking. (3) A foolproof helicopter, to lift an airplane directly off the earth, enabling the aviator to light on city streets and building roofs. (4) Gliders for children. Boys will fly around their yards as safely as they now play in their sandpiles. (5) A light that will pierce fog, something greatly needed in the field of air navigation. (6) Talking books—that is, pages that may be fed into a machine and save the bother of reading. (7) Flexible, unbreakable and bulletproof glass. (8) Cold light, to do away with 95 per cent of electric current now wasted on resistance to create glow. (9) Mahogany lumber from native hardwood trees, by inoculating them with dyes and chemicals.

Diet of Lions

Lions in their native habits prey largely upon young antelopes, zebras, buffalos, giraffes and other vegetation-eating animals. For this reason it is often stated that the lion will not eat the flesh of carnivorous or flesh-eating creatures. The fact seems to be that lions will eat the flesh of any animal recently killed, such as animals left by hunters. Certainly lions in captivity are not particular about the kind of flesh they eat. There is also abundant proof that the king of beasts will occasionally attack and eat human beings. Dr. W. Reid Blair, in his book "In the Zoo," tells of two man-eating lions in Africa which carried off 18 men employed in building the Uganda railway.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Small Potatoes

The late Haley Fiske of insurance fame said one evening in a Y. M. C. A. address in Brooklyn:

"It pays big business to be liberal. To save a dollar in a mean small way signifies the loss of hundreds of dollars in good will.

"Whenever a mean, small economy is proposed to me I tell the anecdote about the Scotchman who went into a barber shop and said:

"'Hoo much for a haircut?'

"'Forty cents, sir,' said the barber.

"'Hoo much for a shave?'

"'Twenty cents.'

"'Shave mah head.'"

Purifying Public Water

The first noteworthy movement in this country for the purification of a public water supply was made in 1866, according to the New York Health department, when St. Louis sent James P. Kirkwood to Europe to investigate the methods practiced there. On his return Kirkwood made an elaborate report that water engineers still regard as a classic. In 1872, about five years after Kirkwood's death, a plant was built at Poughkeepsie in accordance with his plans. This was the first practical attempt at purification of a municipal water supply in America.

Unrepose Prose

If a cat doth meet a cat upon a garden wall, and if a cat doth greet a cat, O need they both to squall? Every Tommy has his Tabby waiting on the wall, and yet he welcomes her approach by an unearthly yawl. And if a kitten wish to court upon the garden wall, why don't he sit and sweetly smile, and not stand up and bawl, and lift his precious back up high and show his teeth and moan, as if 'twere colic more than love that made that fellow groan!—Pathfinder Magazine.

Simple

The other day a man, hitherto without a spot on his character, inquired, with well-feigned innocence:

"How can five persons divide five eggs so that each man will receive one and still one remain in the dish?"

After the company went all but distracted in the mazes of this proposition, the fellow meekly said:

"One takes the dish with the egg."

STATE TAX MEN AND BANKERS IN ACCORD

Months of Negotiation Lead to Agreement on Changes Broadening Method of State or Local Taxation of National Banks.

NEW YORK.—Months of conference and negotiation between an American Bankers Association special committee and the Committee of the Association of States on Bank Taxation have resulted in an agreement on a form of amendment to the Federal statute dealing with state or local taxation of national banks that "maintains the integrity of the protective principles of the section and is satisfactory to the commissioners' committee," says the American Bankers Association Journal.

Thomas B. Paton, the organization's General Counsel, in making the announcement says that previously proposed amendments to the statute, which is known as Section 5219, have been opposed when it was felt their terms would enable any state to place banks in a tax class by themselves.

"The law as it stands today," Mr. Paton says, "permits state or local taxation of national banks or their shareholders in one or the other of the four following forms: the shareholders upon their shares,—a property tax; the shareholders upon their dividends,—a personal income tax; the bank upon its net income; the bank according to or measured by its net income. Only one form of tax can be imposed, except that the dividend tax may be combined with the third or fourth form if other corporations and shareholders are likewise taxed.

"The conditions permitted are: the tax on shares must be at no greater rate than on other competing moneyed capital; the income tax on shareholders must be at no greater rate than on net income from other moneyed capital; the tax on bank net income must be at no higher rate than on other financial corporations nor the highest rates on mercantile and manufacturing corporations doing business within the state; the tax measured by net bank income is subject to the same limitations as the tax on net income of the bank but may include entire net income from all sources."

States Seek Broader Law

National banks and their shareholders are taxed in different states under a diversity of systems, he says. The U. S. Supreme Court has held that the low millage rate on intangible personal property is in violation of the present law where it results in national bank shares being taxed at a rate greater than that assessed upon competing moneyed capital. A number of states, unwilling to use the income methods permitted, had the alternative of either repealing the intangible tax laws or limiting taxation of national bank shares at the intangible rate. Therefore they sought a broadening of the permissive provisions.

Also, Mr. Paton points out, a Supreme Court decision held a state's excise tax on corporations invalid where it included income from Federal and local government bonds in the excise measure. This created doubt as to some state bank excise taxes.

"Conferences have been held to reach some agreement which would protect the banks, satisfy the tax commissioners and avoid a contest in Congress," Mr. Paton says. "From the standpoint of the tax authorities, the main objectives have been an amendment which would permit certain states to retain their low rate tax upon intangibles and at the same time derive an adequate, but not excessive, revenue from national bank shares, and an amendment which would permit certain states to tax corporations on their net income, excluding income from tax-exempts, and at the same time derive the same revenue from the banks as heretofore. From the standpoint of the banks, it has been deemed imperative to maintain the protective principles of Section 5219.

The Changes Agreed On

"In the proposed amendment the existing provision permitting taxation of bank shares no higher than the rate upon competing moneyed capital has been modified with respect to certain intangible tax states only by a provision under which, instead of the moneyed capital limitation, the rate shall not be greater than the rate upon the shares of other financial corporations, nor upon the net assets of individuals, partnerships or associations employed in the banking, loan or investment business, nor higher than the rate assessed upon mercantile, manufacturing and business corporations with head office in the state.

"Also an added fifth alternative permissive method, designated as a specific tax, permits a state, in place of an ad valorem tax on bank shares, to add together total dividends paid the preceding year and the increase in capital, surplus and undivided profits, less additions to capital or surplus paid in by stockholders, and to divide this total by the number of shares. The state may tax the shares based upon this amount, but not to exceed the rate on other corporations in proportion to their net profits.

"This method is designed for states which have heretofore taxed national banks upon their entire net income from all sources at a proportionate rate to that assessed upon business corporations. The amount which is the basis of the tax is the equivalent of the entire net income from all sources, but being assessed against the shareholder upon his property in the shares and not a tax upon the bank, it is not open to the objection as an indirect tax on exempt income."

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL IS INTERESTING PROJECT

All Townships In County Already Have Quota For Courses

It certainly is encouraging to find the great interest manifested in the training schools which will be held this week in connection with the Farmstead Improvement project. Each township in the county has their full quota enrolled excepting Crystal, Amsterdam and Bingham and these townships, while not having their number, have some families entered. I am sure that this will prove to be one of the Farm Bureau's most interesting projects and one which will show its effect on the entire county. The training school centers are Britt, Woden, Corwith, Klemme and Garner.

New Members In Erin

The Farm Bureau certainly is glad to welcome the following prosperous farmers of Erin township to its fold as members. Edw. Eckhoff, Ole Eenhuis, O. W. Friedow. F. W. Jurgens, Rufus Steffens, Ray Rutz and B. H. Peck.

Peck Farms 720 Acres

I believe that I am safe in saying that Bruce Peck is farming as extensively as any man in the county. Bruce has farmed 720 acres this past season. Of this acreage 210 acres are in corn which looks as though it would yeild above the average . His corn ground is as clean as any to be found in Hancock county. It was not anything for Bruce to have 22 horses in the field at one time as no mechanical power was used in producing the corn. It is estimated that 12,000 bushels of small grain and corn will be produced under Bruce's management. No little credit should be given Mrs. Peck as she found much time outside of rearing her family and doing her housework to assist with all phases of farm work.

Take Care Of Your Pullets

What are you doing with your pullets? It does not pay to leave the pullets out on the range too late in the fall. From now on the nights are going to be cold and it doesn't take much damp cold weather to result in bad colds with roup resulting Pullets are much better off, even though not fully matured in good, well ventilated houses where they can be properly fed and handled. If you have it, last cutting alfalfa or clover furnish valuable food nutrients, and are rich in vitamins which help increase fertility and hatchability of the eggs produced by your poultry flock.

EXPLAIN GRAIN INSPECTION

What Makes Some Grain Grades Low. Was Discussed Oct. 13 and 14

The application of federal grades to corn, oats and wheat so that local elevator managers may protect their interests by appealing for another grading inspection if their carlot shpments were graded lower than they expected was explained at a grain grading school held in Mason City on Oct. 13 at the Chamber of Commerce rooms and at Algona on Oct. 14 at the courthouse.

Representatives of the federal inspection service of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Extension Service of Iowa State College conducted the meeting. Farmers, couty agents and elevator managers of Hancock and surrounding counties were invited.

The meeting started at 10 o'clock and lasted practically all day. Exhibits and motion pictures were furnished by the federal men. Discussions included methods of improving grades which farmers can use such as proper storage, maintenance of soil fertility and use of varieties which mature properly before frost.

HANCOCK 4-H CLUB BANQUET WAS BIG SUCCESS

Reports Given By Members At Annual Affair

The 4-H club of Hancock county held its annual banquet in the Garner opera house Saturday night. Two hudred and nintey people, the largest group ever assembled at an occasion of this kind, were in attendance. Miss Winifred Hampel, of Ell township, county 4-H president, made a delightful and winsome toastmistress. She compared 4-H club work to a growing garden in that both the Boys' and Girls' club work were important elements in the soil.

A report was given from the boys and girls clubs from each of the townships. Community singing was led by Bert Donahue, of Britt. The address of welcome was given by Ruby Benert. Reports from the livestock clubs were given by Miss Eunice Beinert, who reported on two prize market pigs that weighed 60 pounds the first of June and made a gain of 130 pounds in 80 days. Ronald Greiman reported the care he had given his prize wining Angus calf which won the grand championship at the 4-H show of Hancock county; fifth place at the state fair and first of all at the Kossuth county fair where he won $45 premimum money. George Knaupp reported on his prize winning Holstein dairy calf. Robert Rassmuson told of the care and rations he had given his prize winning sow and litter and Bernard Greiman his prize winning colt.

The Girls clubs from the townships reported their work in baking bread. One club reported making 347 loaves of whole wheat bread; 288 of white and 72 variations besides cookies and cakes. Miss Florence Forbes, state agent in club work, complimented the club on their splendid work and the parents on their cooperation. Frank P. or "Dad" Reed addressed the group and gave them much praise for the fine reports. Dad is state 4-H club leader and is a real 4-H boy. Others on the program were Miss Emma Beer, of Corwith, who played several harmonica solos and jigged to the "Irish Washerwoman". Mary Trulson, Britt, and Hattie Casperson, Garner, offered several vocal selections. Miss Ruth Gelner, of Forest City, gave a whistling solo.

Lee T. Nutty, Ames, who organized the club work eight years ago, was here. Mr. Nutty was the first county agent of Hancock county. Walter Weiss, who has filled the place since, praised the parents for heir splendid cooperation and W. L. Lawhorn, president of the Farm Bureau, gave a short talk. The banquet was served by the Catholic Daughters of America.

Four-H club officers of the county are Winnifred Hampel, President; Gertrude Tobin, Secretary and Fern Smith, Britt, Historian.

SPORTSMEN BE CONSIDERATE

A true sportsman has a genuine consideration for the game he hunts and the place he hunts Do not destroy the farmer's crops, deface his property or trespass unlawfully.

Be careful when and where you shoot. The farmer's stock is his wealth, to destroy it by carelessness is to banish all good sportsmen from the priviledge of using another's land on which you shoot for pleasure.

Caution your friends to avoid the destruction of birds and nests during the nesting season.

SHOOTS TAGGED DUCK

Willis Leeson, , local nimrod thought he had shot somebody's tame duck early one morning a fwe weeks ago when he brought down a duck and found that it carried a metal leg band. Upon investigation he found that the duck had been tagged by the National Biological Survey and the band carried a request that the hunter should write the Survey and give the details of the shooting. It is thought that the Survey thus gains information concerning the habits of wild fowl.

FIND DISTRICT SELLING PAYS

County Shippers Association Considers Larger Selling Units

Strengthening existing local livestock cooperative marketing associations by development of district selling and the use of good business methods were topics of dicussion at the fall meeting of the Hancock county livestock shippers. Other agencies participating in the meeting were the State Shippers Association, the Iowa State College, the county farm bureau and County Agent Walter Weiss. T. R. Riehm, county chairman called the meeting to order.

District Selling More Effective

T. R. Riehm, a director of the Iowa Cooperative Livestock Shippers explained the importance of local associations federating to bring about a more effective selling of hogs. He told how the state shippers have aided in opening a new market outlet and have conducted educational work to help local associations develop successful district selling. The necessity of livestock cooperatives continuing to work together in grading, traffic, and other marketing problems was empasized by Mr. Riehm. He pointed out that the state association is rendering an expanding service in the collection of loss and damage claims.

The eleventh annual convention of the state shippers trade organization will be at Des Moines, December 9, 10, and 11, according to Mr. Riehm.

KLEMME AUXILIARY NOTES

By Mrs. P. W. Johnson

The American Legion Auxiliary held the first meeting of the new year at the home of Mrs. R. J. Hughes. New committees were appointed and nineteen members signed up for another years membership Our quota is thirty-nine. The dues are only one dollar. If you are eligible hand your money to the treasurer and help in this wonderful work the Auxiliary are doing throughout the country.

Mrs. J. C. Thomas was elected as treasurer to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Leona Lau from that office.

Ten dollars was voted for local charity.

Rummage Sale To Be Held

The date of October 29 has been set for the second annual rummage sale As last year any donations are gratefully received. Some one will buy the things you will throw away, and if not, the Unit sends them on for social service contributions.

Notify Mrs. Grange or Mrs. Pavey and some Auxiliary member will see it is collected.

Refreshments will also be served. Keep the date in mind—Come for the sale and supper, October 29th.

HAS EXPENSIVE FIRE

When closing shop Tuesday night Arthur Paist, poolhall proprietor of Stanwood, found he had an unusually large amount of currency and checks on hand. Having no safe and fearing a holdup if he should carry it home, Paist placed the currency in the waste basket. The next morning he swept out the place as usual, emptied the waste basket and burned the contents. Soon afterwards he went to the cash drawer to get change and it dawned on him what he had done. Rushing to the bonfire he found only a smoldering pile of ashes with the exception of the silver dollars. The bills and checks, the amount of which he has not divulged had been destroyed.

Someone told Mamie that the posoffice was having a bargain sale and selling 26 one-cent stamps for a cent and a quarter, so she rushed right over to get a supply. When the postal clerk explained that a cent and a quarter was the same as 26 cents, she was so angry that she tried to slam the revolving door.

P. T. A. MEETING FRIDAY EVENING

TEACHERS WILL BE GIVEN A RECEPTION BY PARENTS

County School Nurse Will Give Talk On Health Of School Children

At our P. T. A. program on this Friday evening, which we understand is to be in part a reception for the teachers, our County Nurse, Miss Edith Holstrom, who has already done work in our school, will address us on the topic, "Health Hazards of School Children." Miss Holstrom is at present working in or about Kanawha. She will also present the Iowa Dental Plan which is being promoted by the University of Iowa and is being introduced in the towns of Hancock County and, in fact, all over Iowa this school year.

Language Test Scores Given

In the language tests given in our school not long ago in grades from 5 to 9 inclusive, a variety of scores were made. In the ninth grade they ranged from 114 to 267, with a median or middle score of 187. The highest scores of this class were made by Novella Bredbenner, Fay Neuberger, Roy Arnold, Victor Greimann, Hilda Keeper, and Marie Greimann.

In the eighth grade scores ranged from 100 to 257 with a middle score of 193.5, higher, it may be noted than the middle score of the ninth grade, which was but 187. The three highest scores were made in the eighth grade by Bessie Larson, Ruth Wellemeyer and Mabel Schlichting Bessie ranked next after the highest in the ninth grade and Ruth just below the second highest of the 9th grade.

Scores in the 7th grade were 88 to 189. Median score was 133.5. The two highest in this class were George Stokesbary and Milvern Barz.

Scores in grade 6 ranged from 59 to 188 with a middle score of 125. Highest in the 6th grade were Nora Wellemeyer and Richard Hughes, and Carmen Kluckhohn.

Scores in the 5th grade were from 37 to 127 and middle 80½, while Avis Barz, Juanita Pavey were at the top of their class.

Report Cards Go Out This Week

We urge all parents to give attention to the report cards as they go to the homes this week. Some students are to be commended for their fine beginning this new school year. Others, perhaps, need to be chided and to be kept more regularly at their school work. Parents can aid a lot toward the success of their children in school by their attention to their children's habits. Perhaps a few are failing who should not be blamed, but of this class there are few. Most failures are due to lack of study and to a waste of time. If we can do more to eliminate them we will if shown how.

Parents Can Help The Child At Home

Below we give some hints to parents copied from "Your Child and its school" prepared by United Parents Associations of Greater New York.

1. Arrange the breakfast and lunch hours so that there is no rushing at home or to chool.

2. Encourage puntuality and regularity of attendance; not permitting trifles to interfere.

3. See that the children are dressed simply, neatly, modestly, and in accordance with the weather.

4. Insist upon children under fourteen having at least ten hours's sleep.

5. Find out how much time should be devoted to home work and see that it is done.

6. Provide a quiet place for home study, with good light and ventilation. Prevent interruptions as far as possible.

7. Show an interest in the children's school work, athletics, and other activities.

8. Visit the classroom during American Education Week, and at other times for a better understanding of conditions.

9. Do not criticise the teachers or school at all within the children hearing. Always hear both sides of every question and ask the teacher about it.

10 Instil in the children habits of obedience and respect for authority.

11. Picture the school as a happy desirable place, rather than as one children should dread.

12. Keep in mind that the school offers unlimited opportunities to those who take advantage of them. parents as well as pupils.

13. Plan to meet other parents in the school. It will help you to understand your children beter. Mothers should arouse the interest of fathers in school activities and get their cooperation. If there is a parent-teacher association in your children's school, join it. Intelligent cooperation brings splendid results to all.

"The best thing the millions of our youth can do to assure their future success is to work faithfully at their studies. That opportunity for improvement and discipline will never return." From an address by Calvin Coolidge.

FARM BUREAU HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING; ELECTS OFFICERS

W. L. Lawhorne, Garner. To Head Oganization In 1930-31

Members of the Hancock County Farm Bureau held their annual meeting at the Memorial building at Britt on Friday, October 10. The morning session was given over to the business of the organization. Reports of the various divisions of the year's work were given. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, W. L. Lawhorn,Jr., Garner; vice president, Virgil Cook, Goodell; secretary, Earl Ruka, Goodell; Treasurer, Herman Gelner, Forest City; county club chairman, Anna Paulson, Britt,and the county home project chairman, Mrs. Ed. Oxley.

A picnic dinner was enjoyed at noon.

The afternoon session opened after the invocation by Rev. Ringhand of Britt. Bert Donahue of Britt led the community singing which everyone enjoyed.

Mrs. Heike Rust of Sheffield, District committee woman, gave her talk on Character Building by planting seeds of ideals, thoughtfulness, good morals and Christian life.

Charles B. Hearst, state President of Farm Bureau, spoke on the need of an economic program to be carried on in agriculture. He explained the phase of livestock cooperative shipping.

Music was furnished by Miss Marie Miller, Britt; Ole G. Petersn, Britt and the Orthel Township male quartet.

Approximately 500 people were in attendance at this meeting.

TAKING KINKS OUT OF PAVING

E. J. Sidey of Greenfield, Adair county tells how the state highway commision proceeds to take the "dips" out of the paving where such imperfections develop. Here is the mode of procedure: "By forcing a mixture of mud and cement under the low places they were lifted to the proper level. A crew of men employed by the state highway commission did the job east of there by means of a special machine. This machine forces the mud mixture through a hole drilled in the pavement. It is operated on the principle of a high pressure pump, each cylinder generating 1800 horse power. The system of raising dips is now n general use over the state. The same machine can be used to level off high places in the pavement by means of drills.

Milking machines must be cleaned right if high quality milk is produced.

After the ground is plowed in the fall of corn is taken off, lime may be applied.

DEAD BANDITS WANTED

Palo Alto county bankers are offering $1,000 for the first dead bandit to be bagged in the county. But he must be dead.

A woman who is eligble to membership in the Order of Sob Squad breaks into print with a tearful effusion. regretting that men are growing so wicked, hard hearted and depraved that they will thus offer a reward for killing a human being. If her husband was a banker and they brought him home on a stetcher some day after a bank raid, she would undergo a change of heart.

APPLES

From Georgia to Maine, from Pennsylvania to California, the apple grows almost everywhere in the United States.

Although the apple is not a native of this contnient, we have developed so many varities that are distinctively American, that we look upon the apple as our own. Europe now buys thousands of carloads of American apples evey year.

The apple is one of the few edibles that is as good raw as when cooked, as good cooked as raw. Cooking does not spoil the apple but cnverts it into something new and strange. Who ever heard of a baked orange? But a baked Rhode Island Greening, swimming in a rich syrup composed of its own juices and all the sugar it can carry, browned to a turn and enriched by a liberal baptism of thick fresh cream, is there anything that comes to the table quite as good as that?

Apple pie! Europe may claim the apple, but we have first claim on apple pie. No Fronch chef ever learned how to make an apple pie. The English call them "apple tarts" and leave out the cinnamon and most of the sugar and make crusts out of something more like an inner tube in texture than the flaky substance which melts in your mouth and which every good American cook knows how to mix and roll.

King George the Second, who was a sort of royal dumbell, is said to have marvelled, on first eating an apple dumpling, how the apple got inside the dumpling. He would have marvelled more if he could have had genuine American baked apple dumpling, for the English idea of a dumpling is to wrap it up in a rag and boil it. Baked apple dumpling with a "hard" sauce compiled of lots of granulated sugar and lots more butter, all beaten together with a liberal flavoring of nutmeg, may not be the food of the gods but it comes pretty close to the nectar and ambiosia which Ganymede used to serve on Olympus.

And cider! But hush. Cider has an unfortunate habit of obeying one of the laws of nature which was not repealed by the Volstead act. Neverthless and notwithstanding, the apples which are not quite good enough for pies are not going to waste on the ground, as they used to do, however we may deplore that fact.

NONE TOO OLD TO LEARN

Often one hears an uneducated man bewail his lot, complaining that he never had a chance to acquire an education. Usually such a man is one who actually labors not more than eight hours a day. He overlooks the fact that he could easily devote three or four hours daily to profitable reading and study whereby he might overcome the handicap of which he complains.

Too many get the idea that unless they acquire an education in early life they must remain in ignorance. No greater mistake can be made. It is not when one begins to learn, but when one stops, that counts.

The trouble with the man or woman who goes through life in ignorance is usually nothing but sheer laziness. Think of Lincoln getting an education at night from borrowed books, studied by the light of a fireplace. Or of Andrew Johnson, who only learned to write after he was married, and received an elementary education through his wife's instruction. Yet both rose to the office of President of the United States.

How great the opportunities of even the humblest today, in comparison with those of Lincoln and Johnson. Books, magazines and newspapers are within the reach of all. Machinery has given everyone greater leisure for self-improvement, if such is really desired.

No one need remain uneducated unless he deliberately chooses to remain so.

NOTICE

Everyone is invited to come to the school house on Friday night, October 17th, to a Reception for the teachers.

Those who have not been solicited please bring 1½ dozen sandwiches; also their own dishes.

WHY SPOIL GOOD PRODUCT?

Quality Poultry Often Damaged By Poor Handling Methods

After producing good quality poultry why sacrifice part of the profit because of poor poultry marketing practices?

This is the question on which W. D. Termohlen, poultry marketing specialist; in the Extension Service Iowa State Colege, often ponders as he studies the various ways which farmers take live poulty to market. Many farmers put too many birds in a coop, often crowding them in so they cannot stand. This results in dead birds, broken wings or legs and bruised spots with consequent loss to the producer. Another result is outbreaks of severe colds among the poultry in the feeding station or live poultry car.

A common practice which should be avoided is marketing poultry in gunny sacks or tying young birds young birds together with string or binding twine by their legs or wings. "There is little excuse for these practices when the farmer can obtain a poultry coop from some local dealer for the asking," says Mr. Termohlen.

Good marketing practices coupled with production methods will make more money for Iowa poultry farmers. declares Mr. Termholen.

MARKET NEWS EXTEDED

Sam H. Thompson, extension economist of the Iowa State College stated that new market conditions are constantly arising. He pointed out that the United States Department of Agriculture has just recently developed a larger market news service at Des Moines, covering 27 interior hog markets of Iowa and southern Minnesota. It was his belief that this new service would be helpful to Iowa hogmen. An analysis of the results of 26 associations during July was presented by Mr. Thompson. These figures showed opportunities of more effective disposal thru effective district selling. Possibilities of more effective adjustment of livestock production to market needs were considered and factors influencing prices discussed.

The meeting was one of a series held periodically with the cooperation of the cooporative shippers and educational agencies.

"DUB" BUG WALKING STICK

Gets Name From Shape; Feeds On Leaves Of Trees In Iowa.

Iowa State College entomologists report having received many inquiries from curious farmers about a freakish looking bug called the "Walking Stick." The insect was "dubbed" such because it mimics a walking stick in appearance, according to C. J. Drake, state etomologist.

Its queerly shaped body serves as a protection against both man animal because it is difficult to detect upon the leaves of a tree where it feeds. The walking stick is green, brown and strawcolored.

Entirely harmless to man, the walking stick does not sting or bite. Its only enemy is green foliage. Four years ago many southeastern Iowa ash trees were entirely defoliated. Spraying with lead arsenate will control the insects, altho their injury is not serious enough to warrant the expence.

DROUTH HELPS, HURTS IOWA

Will Be Hard On Cash Grain Farmers, But Aid To Stock Men

The way th drouth of the past season has hit different parts of the United States spells bad news for Iowa cash grain farmers and good news for Iowa livestock raisers, according to Dr. A. G. Black, of the Agricultural Economics Department at Iowa State College.

The two reasons for this are the corn crop distribution and the effect that the price of low wheat is having on the price of all feed grains The United States corn crop is estimated to be 25 per cent of normal while Iowa's corn crop is 20 percent short. Ordinarily this fact would be some consolation for the farmer but this year the low price of wheat is depressing the price of corn to about 15 cents below normal for a crop this size.

Low wheat prices have also lowered the price of barley and oats, altho these crops are somewhat larger than those of the last five years. Reduced yield is usually offset by an increased price, but this year the low price of wheat is taking this compensation from the farmer.

The present situation is advantageous to the Iowa stock feeder because the livestock feed shortage is not so great as elsewhere. Less livestock will be fed in other states which will likely result in an increase in hog and cattle prices next year.

IOWA — BOUNTIFUL LAND

By George Gallarno

IOWA has the smallest per cent of foreign born population and the smallest percent of teracy of any of the states.

IOWA invested capital is making it possible for more than 300,000 of her former citizens to live at ease in other states, mostly in California.

IOWA, recognized as the greatest agricultural state, must also be recognized as an important industrial state, with its 5,700 manufacturing plants.

IOWA now has more concrete paving on its state highways than any other state west of the Mississippi, and is exceeded in this respect by only five of the other forty-seven commonwealths of the nation.

IOWA, which ranks sixteenth in population of the forty-eight states ranks in eighth place as the best market outlet for the four leading low priced motor cars.

IOWA still remains, in the mind of George Althouse,, editor of the Ackley World Journal, the bright and shining reminder to the rest of the world that "there is evidence everywhere that the farmer is still the most independent of all men. Where can the traveler see so many big red barns, so many fat cattle, hogs and sheep as are in evidence everywhere in Iowa?"

IOWA, says this same editor, is the state "where country children have palatial school houses, and the progressive farmer has all the modern conveniences that the city and town dweller can boast; and in addition he may go and help himself to nice fat hens, or a porker, burn electricity in both house and barn —and the observation is that they can ride and do ride to market in automobiles that have been paid for. This is Iowa of the present day."

MINNESOTA YOUTH PICKED UP BY LOCAL OFFICERS FRIDAY

Wanted On Bad Check Charge By Minnesota Sheriff

A young man, who gave his name as Sorenson, and address as Glanville, Minnesota, was picked up by local officers Friday morning when his actions arlused suspicion.

The young man, who was driving a little Austin car without license plates, spent the night in the car parked on he little used street south of Wm. Sille's residence. Mr. Stille on seeing the stranger asleep in the car reported to town officials, who questioned the young man, as to his queer action, and not getting a definite answer, held him for investigation.

Mayor Grange got in touch with Minnesota officials and learned that Sorenson was wanted on a bad check charge, and later in the day the Glanville sheriff arrived and took him in charge.

It seems that young Sorenson had been trading cars, giving a worthless check for a car, which he traded for the little Austin.

A. D. GIMER ON TRIP TO OHIO TO ATTEND EXPOSITION

A. D. Gimer, manager of the local Creamery left Saturday in company with Mr A. D. Ives, of Mason City, on an autot rip to Cleveland, Ohio, where they are attending the National Dairy Industries Exposition, which started October 20th, and will close October 25th. Mr. Gimer expects to return to Klemme about Thursday.

We are told of a printer down in Texas who got slightly peeved at a doctor who demanded bids on his order for a few letterheads and statements. He kept the incident in mind when later he had occasion to deal with the doctor and wrote him somewhat as follows:

"Am in the market for bids on one operation for appendicitis—one two and five inch incisioin with and without nurse. If appendix is found sound, want quotations to include putting back and cancelling order. If removed, successful bidder will hold incision open for about sixty days, as I expect to be in the market for an operation for gallstones at that time and want to save the cost of cutting.

RIGHT OF WAY FOR GAS LINES MEETS WITH FAVOR HERE

Work Of Securing Rights Is Nearly Completed Around Klemme

The prospect of having natural gas brought to Hancock County is now an assured fact. The work of securing right of way for the gas mains through farm land in the vicinity of Klemme, has been practically completed, according to C. W. Wiles, who is working with the gas company in buying right of ways.

Mr. Wiles states that this work has been almost finished, and in nearly all cases the farm land owners were very willing to grant the rights, and in most cases were anxious to have the gas mains cross their land, so that they could avail themselves of this modern convenience.

The Company pays so much for the right of way, pays for any damage caused, and furnishes the land owner with a gas tap.

Gas Lines Already In Iowa

Machines are at work near Ogden and are working both ways, toward Council Bluffs and toward Ft Dodge and another machine is expected to begin work soon near Mason City, working toward Fort Dodge. In this event the gas line may be laid past Klemme this fall.

The gas line will cross Clear Lake at the sand bar, according to the final survey. At the river near Klemme it will be in the form of a U and will go under the river bed.

HANCOCK COUNTY NURSE MAY BE HIRED FOR NEXT YEAR

Christmas Seal Chairmen Convene At Britt To Formulate Plans

The Hancock County Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale Committee which was held in Britt on Saturday the 18th. The town and township chairmen held a pot luck luncheon in the basement of the Congregational church. Miss Edith Holmstrom, our nurse, and the Board of Supervisors were invited guests—Messrs. Christenson and Oxley being present.

Miss Holmstrom gave a report of the work she has done since September first—namely she has visited 49 rural schools and examined 600 pupils for hearing, vision, teeth and weight. Has made 53 visits to farm bureau or school meetings talking to 800 people besides conferences with 41 parents in schools or homes. Twos chools in the county are 100 percent on dental work, each pupil having had his teeth examined this fall.

Messrs. Christenson and Oxley comended the chairmen on their work of last year, the first year of selling Tuberculosis Christmas Seal by mail. Guests were then excused and chairmen began work on 1930 sales.

Mrs Barnes appointed a committee to draft Resolutions to be presented to the Hancock County Supervisors. The following resolutions were approved:

Be It Resolved that the Board of Supervisors do all in their power to aid in establishing a public health service on a yearly basis to work in conectino with our schools for the imprvement of the health of the children of our county.

And Be It Further Resolved that Miss Edith M. Holmstrom, Itinerant Public Health Nurse, be given an oportunity to appear at a Board Meeting in December to give a report of the County Health Service conducted from September 1 to December 20, 1930, supported by the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Fund.

And Be It Further Resolved that we invite the Board of Supervisors to visit some school while the Health Inspection is being conducted by the Public Health Nurse.

FARM IMPROVEMENT PROJECT IS GOING OVER GREAT

Project Is Under The Direction Of E. J. Johnson, Of Ames

The Farmstead Improvement project under the supervision of E. J. Johnson, Asst. Landscape Architect from the Extension Service took on real life the past week. The first meeting held on Monday, October 13 at Garner found nineteen families were present. The Corwith meeting on Wednesday found fourteen present; Thursday at Woden twelve were preent and, at Britt on Friday, Mr. Johnon had an attendance of twenty.

Six Training Schools To Be Held

The first training school of a series of six was spent in a round table discusion on the necessity of the work, what it would involve and what preparation must be done before the next series of meetings which will be held in November. Through this project I am sure that Hancock county will have approximately seventy-five farmsteads that are saving time doing chores, saving money, labor and land due to the fact that a definite plan was prepared as to location of yards, buildings, fences, sidewalks and shrubbery and trees.

Should Hurry Up Slow Signers

May I urge all you who are going to sign up farmers in your school districts for the Bot Fly Control work to do so as soon as possible. Remember that as the 100 per cent townships are turned over to me that is the way I shall turn them over to the local veterinarians. In other words, it is first come first served. With the county wide interest shown in this work I am afraid that the last townships to turn in will not receive the treatment because we don't have enough veterinarians to cover the entire county. Why not put this over so that your horses will come through the win-Remember too that if treated, your horses wil come through the winter in better shape on less feed and do more work next spring and summer. I will estimate that on the average, each farmer will save twenty dollars worth of feed this winter if he treats his horses. If you are interested. interest your neighbor so that townships will be signed up 100 per cent.

4-H Girls Served Banquet

The girls 4-H club of Bingham township and their leaders are certainly to be complimented on the real banquet served their parents and friends at Woden last Wednesday evening.)I beleive that this is the first banquet of its kind held in this county. A real club spirit was in evidence during the entire program.

This Isn't A Fish Story!

Twenty-one loads, 530 bushel, of corn husked in one short day was a record made by Ed Miller of near Woden with his two row mechanic picker last Wednesday. August Naefke had a 700 bushel day last year and states that he is out to beat that this year.

Why Not Use Real Butter?

After all the publicity and teachings from our colleges on the value of butter it seems too bad that in high schools the Home Economics girls are taught and required to use lard instead of the real dairy products in certain foods that, in my taste, would be spoiled with anything but butter. I am informed that in one of the High schools of this county such a condition exists. Thank goodnes, lard is being used in preference to so called butter substitutes, but why should the younger generation be taught false economy in regard to butter? Imagine yourself being served a real hot bowl of tomato soup and instead of having a healthy cube of rich butter in it, lard is substituted!

What would become of the health of the pupils and of our dairy business if each school in the country taught its Home Economics students to belittle the use of butter?

HALLOW'EEN PARTY FOR BOYS 9-15

KLEMME BOY SCOUTS TO STAGE ANNUAL HALLOWE'EN PARTY

An Evening Of Strenuous Activity Will Be Topped Off With Feed

At the regular meeting of the Klemme Boy Scouts held at the school house Monday night, it was unanimously voted to have another Hallowe'en Party to be given Friday evening, October 31st.

All Boys Are Invited To Come

This will be the second annual Hallowe'en Party given by Troop 56 to the boys of this community. All boys, in town or in the country between the ages of 9 to 15 years of age are invited to come. The Boy Scouts would like to have at least one hundred boys at the party. The Klemme Scouts are going to put on a real party. There will not be one single minute of lost time. Every second is going to be cram full of fun—stunts, games, contests and snappy Scout Songs, and a feed to round out the program Boys who come to the party should not wear their best suit, come in overalls or every day clothes, because Scout games and stunts are fast and furious and its easier to play in old clothes which won't matter if they should get a bit soiled on the gym floor.

Tell the boys about this party. It don't matter if you are not quite 9 years old, or a bit over the age limit, the Scouts want you to come. The fun will begin about 8:00 o'clock, so be there on time!

If you live in the country, bring your dad, and have him bring a load of other boys. Your dad will have a lot of fun too!

TOWEL SHOWER HELD FOR MISS NORMA LENZ

Another shower for Miss Norma Lenz was held Saturday at the Chas. Goll home. Vola Goll invited about twenty girls to a 6:30 waffle dinner and towel shower in honor of Miss Lenz.

She received a number of lovely turkish and linen towels.

The rooms were decorated in the Hallow'een colors and Hallow'een favors were given by the hostess.

Miss Lenz was attired in a brown silk dress with a tan lace collar. The gifts were brought in by the sister of the hostess, Miss Geraldine Goll, who wore a white dress upon which were black hallow'een figures.

Everyone brought a recipe for the young bride-to-be and these were put in a cook book prepared by the hostess.

Party games were played later in the evening. A very fine time was had by all.

We hear the house in which the young couple are to live is nearing completion and that the barn is also well under way.

We think the wedding date is to be Wednesday, the22nd of October, which is the brides parent's 28th weding anniversary, and at the Peace Reformed Church in Ell township. Invitations have been sent ont already.

LESSON ON LANDSCAPING WAS HELD IN KLEMME

E. J. Johnson, Ames Instructs The Leaders Of Four Townships

The first series on "Landscape Architecture," sponsored by the Hancock County Farm Bureau was given by E. J. Johnson of the extension service of Iowa State College on Tuesday, October 14, at Klemme. Local leaders from Avery, Twin Lake, Liberty and Ell townships were represented at this training school center.

Mr. Johnson explained that landscape architecture is an art which deals with the arrangement of land and the objects upon the land for human use and enjoyment, and stated that, contrary to common belief, all farmstead landscape planning must commence with arranging the larger elements of buildings, fences, driveways, yards and other necessary objects on the farmsteads before consideration can be given to the purely esthetic finishing touches added by plant materials, rock gardens, and lily ponds.

The specialist laid great emphasis upon the necessity of cleaning up all rubbish, old machinery, broken and dead trees, repairing the yard fences and buildings and painting, as the first steps in producing a beautiful landscape. Neat, clean, and orderly grounds precede the lily pools and the more expensive decorative elements.

The principles of order which must be followed in any art were discussed, and the leaders were instructed how to draw plans of their existing conditions.

It is hoped that the farmsteads in Hancock County will be greatly increased in efficiency and visual beauty and that a greater interest and appreciation of our landscapes will be stimulated through these landscape training schools.

LOTS OF CORN HAS BEEN PICKED IN THIS COMMUNITY

There are already a number of farmers in this community who are through with corn picking. A number of others will finish this week and still others expect to complete the job soon.

There are quite a number of corn picking machines in this community and of course this speeds up the job.

USING LARD IN HIGH SCHOOLS

In making his rounds about our county, Walter Weiss, county agent, has made a descovery of a deplorable condition A home economics teacher in one school has her class in cooking use lard instead of butter. And in the face of all the advertising, pleadings by colleges, dairy industries, doctors and nurses to "Eat More Butter." That teacher should go back to school and study up on a few vitamins which are essential to the health of growing children. She will find that butter contains all of them in great quanities.

Evidently, there is still need to keep hammering away on the "Eat More Butter" campaign.

WHOSE NEWSPAPER IS IT?

The following editorial from the Mason City Globe Gazette holds as true here as it does in Mason City and we have just changed the name of the town. It is good reading

The Klemme Times, in the fullest sense, does not belong to the publisher nor to any other single individual—it belongs to the people of Klemme. If it has any excuse for existence at all, it is to serve the interests of all the people of its community.

A city's newspaper is considered one of the most potent factors for good or evil, progress or retrogression that exists. It can either help build a comunity or tear it down. In direct ratio to the interest and assistance it receives from the progressive minds of the community, does it fulfill its best mission. No newspaper can succeed without friends and many of them.

The Times is blessed with a loyal aggregation of friends and supporters. But there is one thing it craves which it has never fully received in the past-assistance in getting names—the names of your friends who come and go; the names of your neighbors and their friends who come and go—in short the little personal mention that means more to a newspaper in a community such as Klemme than any other factor.

In the old days of the horse and buggy, when most of the traveling was done by train, a reporter could meet the trains and find out who departed and arrived. Today, the automobile whisks folks out of town or brings in relatives with no opportunity for the news gathering force to know about it. There is only one way we can get the information and that is through you.

All of us have telephones. It takes but a minute to call the Times office and give us the information. It really is a mark of courtesy due your guests to have their names appear in the paper. It is also a courtesy to the friends whom you may visit, to give their names when you go a-visiting.

And—it is the one thing you can do for your home town paper that will be appreciated more than anything else. If the Times could get the name of every family into the personal columns every three months, it would be the most popular newspaper in America.

THE POWER OF WILL ROGERS

Ready wit, blunt humor, a shrewd ability to analyze men and events, have made Will Rogers the friend alike of Presidents and peasants, of cattlemen and kings.

His homely philosophy, his absolute artlessness, his straight forward reasoning and his knack for pure humor -humor which is true statement of fact- have made him one of the most widely listened to men in the whole world.

Through the movies, from the stage, from lecture platforms, in newspapers, in magazines, over the radio, Will Rogers reaches reguarly nearly everybody who understands the English language. And every word he utters is his own idea, every sentence that appears in print under his name has been written by Will Rogers, and by Will Rogers alone-- except, of course in the movies when he is playing a part. Even then he ad libs lines that never occurred to the author of the play.

If the President of the Uinted States says a thing is so, the Democrats may doubt him. But if Will Rogers backs him up, even the Democrats believe. In Washington they say that the senate fears Will Rogers more than all the editors in America, for Rogers, in 100 words, can laugh away the effect of hours of oratory and weeks of research.

"You can never have another war in this country," a Washington statesman has said, "unless Will Rogers is for it." —Jerome Beatty in the American Magazine.

TIP TO CALAMITY HOWLERS

A firm of New York printers and lithographers, Ritterland, Reed and Co., has issued a book that is so short we can column the whole thing for you. "A Little Story With a Moral," it is caled. Here it is:

"A naturalist divided an aquarium with a clear glass partition. He put a lusty bass in one section and minnows in the other. The bass would strike every time a minnow aproached the glass partition. After three days of fruitless lunging which netted him only bruises, he ceased his eforts and subsisted on the food that was dropped in. Then the naturalist removed the glass partition The minnows swam all around the bass, but he did not strike at a single one. 'He was thoroughly sold on the idea that business was bad. Moral: Take another shot at the glass partition. Maybe it isn't there any more." -Kansas City Star.

CARD MAILED TWENTY YEARS AGO RECEIVED

A postal card mailed twenty years ago has just reached its destination, according to Iowa Falls residents The card was delivered to Ed From but was addressed to his wife. who died a few months ago. It was mailed by her brother, Grant Sanders at Evanston, Illinois,' in November 9, 1910. The card is yellow with age but the writing was still legible Where the card has been all these years, is a mystery.

TO REPLACE OLD MAPS IN IOWA

A comittee has been organized from various parts of Iowa to conduct a campaign to destroy all existing out of date road maps of Iowa which are now being used to direct tourists. The campaign was inaugurated by Walter Farrell, Secretary of the Iowa Automotive merchants association and is to continue through this week.

The idea, acording to Mr. Ferrell, is to organize comittees in all parts of Iowa who will see to it that the out of date maps are destroyed and that new ones, showing the 6,000 miles of surfaced highway Iowa now has, be put up in their places.

Commercial clubs, chambers of commerce and others are urged to collect all the old maps in their comunities and ship them to Des Moines where they will be burned before representatives of many big newspapers outside of Iowa. The committee feels this stunt will get much publicity outside of Iowa from other newspapers and assist in attracting tourists to the state.

It is understood that Iowa now ranks sixth among all states in the union in miles of concrete paved state highways.

LIME FOR SPRING SEEDING IS EASIER TO SECURE NOW

Is More Effective When Used In The Fall of Year

Lime for acid soil where legumes will be seeded next spring can be bought most advantageously this fall, suggests J. L. Boatman, soils specialist in the Extension Service, Iowa State College.

Lime is more plentiful in the fall while in the spring many quarries will be sold out and farmers cannot get the limestone in time to apply it Roads are better in the fall for hauling. Lime applied for several months ahead of seeding time has time to correct the acidity of the soil and is more effective in adding the new legume crop. If corn is followed by small grain and clover seeding, the liming may be done either this fall or next spring after the corn is up.

DIP MANGY PIGS BEFORE COLD WEATHER COMES

Mange infested hogs should be dipped before cold weather to enable them to make satisfactory gains during the winter, according to Dr. K. W. Stouder, veterinarian ni the Extension service Iowa State College. Mange may be identified by rough, scaly skin, deep wrinkles or redened spots on the skin, or stubby bristles indicating that the hogs have been rubbing. One pint of liquid lime sulphur tb 25 or 30 pints of warm water will kill mange The dipping should be repeated in two or three weeks for best resuts. When dipped in the middle of the day, turned in the sun, the pigs are in no dangor of chilling. After the wather gets cold little can be done for the disease, because dry powders have no effect on mange mites.

RAW CARROTS GET "KIDDIES" VOTES

Children like raw carrots better than any other food. This is what Miss Alice Marie Harper, graduate student at Iowa State College learned among children attending the nursery school of the Home Economics Division.

Spinach, crisp bacon, meat balls and lettuce sandwiches were next in order of preference. Miss Harper believes those results disprove the common saying that children do not like vegetables. Various vegetables well prepared and fed from infancy on will keep children from disiking them and simplify food problems.

BEWARE OF SEED CORN SITUATION

Poor Seed Often Panted in Spring After Fall Of Good Weather, Crops Men Observe

In such a year as this, when weather is ideal for ripening of seed corn, the next spring poorer seed frequently is planted than following a year when it is 'nip and tuck' to get enough seed gathered before a killing frost arrives.

Such is the history of past years, crops men at Iowa State College say. The explanation is that care is used n gathering seed early, drying it quickly and thoroly in years when weather isn't favorable, but in such years as 1930, so sure are farmers that they'll have no trouble getting seed at any time, they neglect the task.

In many fields this year, because of the prolonged drouth, farmers have found difficulty in finding ears that "looked right," but many of these half filled ears will make better seed than the good ears selected in a year when conditions are so favorable that practically all ears ears look like good seed.

FARMERS OPEN WAR ON RATS

First Comunity Campaign Is Under Way In Mills County

The first organized rat control campaign among a group of farmers in the state is now in operation in Mills-County, acording to Fred D. Butcher, entomologist at Iowa State College. He demonstrated the use of calcium cyanide as a means of control at a meeting in that county recently at which 100 farmers laid plans for a cooperative control program.

Calcium cyanide is very efective if the gas can be confined with the rats, says Butcher. The dust is pumped into the burrows where the rats live or into holes beneath feeding floors where the released poison kills them.

This kind of poison is very effective, but will not do the entire job. It was found in Mills county that poison bait is most effective in cleaning up the infestation of rats. Butcher explained that it is first necessary to induce the rats to eat the poison bait. To accomplish this, unpoisoned bait, such as liver, meat fish and bread, is set out until the rats are eating it without suspicion. This usually takes one week. Then the poison is added and good results follow.

Arragements were made to purchase Red Quill poison by the bulk at a reduced price for the campaign. This is the safest poison as it is not so dangerous around stock and humans as barium carbonate, which is cheaper but requires a larger amount, to get the same results.

Cooperative campaigns of this kind in any community are the most satisfactory method of control because they mean a general clean-up.

LENZ - STROMER WEDDING THIS AFTERNOON

Young People Wed At Elltown Reformed Church At 1:30

Miss Norma E. Lenz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Lenz, and Mr. Verner A. Stromer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stromer, were united in marriage this aftenoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Elltown Reformed Church, Rev. C. A. Sschmid, pastor, officiating.

Following the church wedding ceremonies the bridal party and about one hundred and twenty-five invited guests gathered at the Lenz home where a dinner was served.

This popular young couple will make their home north of Klemme where a new home and set of farm buildings has been built for them, on the paved highway, where they will be "at home" soon to their many friends.

As we go to press it was impossible to secure the details of this happy event, but The Time expects to have a complete write up. In the meantime we join with the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Verner Stromer in extending congratulations and best wishes!

You Can Never Tell

—Just what MOR-GAIN PIG MEAL can do for your hogs unless you try it! That is just why we are so anxious to have you come in and take out a half ton or so to prove that it will do all we say it will and more by balancing your home grown grains. If the ration you are feeding isn't balanced, some of it is being wasted and that waste means money lost. The money lost if put into MOR-GAIN PIG MEAL will stop this loss and SHOW A PROFIT.

Others have found this out and feed MOR-GAIN regularly. They say it pays—We know it does. We have a complete stock on hand, so let us prove to you that feeding the MOR-GAIN way makes BIGGER PROFITS.

We now have MOR-GAIN Pig Starter on hand—the feed with the YEAST in it. We will be glad to tell you more about it.

It's Smart To Be Thrifty

SOMEONE Once said, "Rarely do you find a rich man who is wasteful, because rarely a wasteful man becomes rich. More often than otherwise a poor man is a wasteful man, and often he is poor because he is wasteful. A man can waste so much in little ways that it will keep him broke."

Small SAVINGS can open the door to big opportunities, and this is a good place to keep savings safely—

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

AGENT WARNS FARMERS THAT HOGS NEED EXTRA CARE

This Time Of Year Herds Easily Contract Flu And Other Disease

Farmers, what preparation have you made or are going to make to keep your pigs healthy during this season of the year? You all know that this season of late fall and winter is a dangerous point in hog production. Flu is very prevalent and nothing will stop those good gains quicker than flu in the herd. Warm days and cold nights, as we now have, may bring flu on over night.

Clean Hog Houses Now

If you have not already done so, clean that permanent hog house thoroughly. Not only re-bed, but give it a thorough disinfecting with any good dip, then bed it well but not too heavily as too much straw, like oats, will cause sweating during the night when the hogs are in the house resulting in chilling when they go out to feed in the morning

Ventilation Is Very Important

Watch the ventilation in the hog house as drafts on hogs are very uncomfortable. Don't let your hogs sleep outside over night if you want to keep them gaining well, however there are many hogs sleeping near strawstacks with much more comfort than in some of the hog houses found on some farms. In short, clean, re-bed often, and keep the hoghouse dry.

Food Should Not Be Wet

Our hog producers seem to find themselves in the cultured feed stage. By this, I mean that many are at least trying out hog production using cultured feeds which require feeding soaked grain. While I am not enthusiastic about these feeds in the summer I certainly am opposed to them during the winter months. Why should we add to the already cold weather a wet feed which will chill them more than is desirable?

A Good Tip On Feeding

Why not feed corn and oats in eparate compartments of a self-feeder along with another compartment containg tankage, oilmeal and alfalfa meal mixed as such:—200 lbs. tankage, 100 lbs. oilmeal, and 100 lbs alfalfa meal. Also a simple mixture also self fed. A simple mineral might easily be made at home using 40 lbs limestone, 40 lbs. bone black and 20 lb. salt per 100 lbs. This mineral will cost approximately $1.45 per 100 lbs.

How About The Poultry?

Are you farm wives taking care of your poultry as you should? If you have left your birds roost outside in unprotected places you undoubtedly have experienced birds with watery eyes, ones with run ning nose, etc. If this is the case you can make up your minds that they have caught cold.

Poultry Houses Should Be Right

Check your poultry house for ventilation, cleanliness and be sure that when you bring the poultry in to their winter quarters that they are not overcrowded. A good treatment for your poultry with colds is one pound of Epsom Salts per 100 birds in the drinking water. Then follow this with one quarter of a pound of baking soda for 100 birds in the drinking water for 3 days. Remember this, however that this treatment should be effective only when the cause for colds is removed.

In closing may I draw your attention to the article in this paper on the hatchery school which will be held at Garner on Nov. 5 starting at 10:30 A. M.

A MAYOR'S WIFE IS ROBBED

La Crosse Tribune: It has been a long time since there has been anything quite so amusing as Mayor William Hale Thompson's recent thunderous declaration that Chicago's police must get the upper hand in their war with gangland.

Such a declaration, in itself, is not especially funny, of course. But you have to look at it in connection with its background.

Thru several years gangland has had Chicago more or less at its mercy, and during all of that time the mayor has never seemed perturbed by the situation. His public remarks have been chiefly assertions that the city's troubles have been greatly magnified by designing political schemers and sensational newspapers.

But the other night gangsters held up the mayor's wife and relieved her of some valuable jewels. And the next day the mayor sounded off.

Will you pardon us while we send a brief laugh up our sleeve?

It pays to keep minerals continually before cattle and hogs.

DOINGS AT SCHOOL THE PAST WEEK

HIGH SCHOOL ENJOYS HOOVER-PREMIERS ADDRESSES

Radio Installed In Assembly To Hear Famous Men Talk

Our high school was permitted to listen in on Monday morning of this week to Premiers of England and Japan, and our own President, Mr. Hoover. Mr. Brietske made this possible by bringing over his new radio from his own apartments. It ic a great age when men can be heard speaking from the opposite side of our globe. It marks a triumph of mind over matter and our students are reminded that it is infinitely worth while to develop the intellect since these achievements have bee nmade by thinkers.

Art Exhibit From University To Be In Klomme Schools Monday

On next Monday we look for an exhibit of art from the University of Iowa which is being sent to public schools of the state who are interested. We invite all interested in works of this sort to visit the exhibit. They will be here but a few days and then sent to another school. The exhibit will give one an idea of the quality of work being done in the art department of our state university.

School Library Being Improved And Books Catalogued

Miss Trumbell has undertaken the work of cataloguing our high school library, asisted by local students. Mr. Brietske has been working odd moments installing book shelves for our library which have been made necessary by the gradual increase in the number of books each year. The Graduating Class of 1930 has left to the school enough to purchase the material required for this library improvement for which we may be very grateful.

School Nurse Will Present Dental Plan Here Friday

The county nurse will be here on Friday to present to our teachers and students the Iowa Dental Plan. The dinner was certainly fine. Mr. Ludeke had one of the best sales Saturday he has ever held. His hogs sold at a good price, and buyers were attracted from a great distance.

Reva Elder and Floyd Klotzbach entertained their Sunday School Classes to a Hallowe'en Party at the M E. Church basement Saturday evening Ghosts and witches and Hallowe'en decorations were in evidence and a real spirit of mystery prevailed throughout the evening Games and stunts were enjoyed and all had a fine time. GENERAL ELECTION TUESDAY, NOV. 4TH

COMING ELECTION HOLDS BUT LITTLE EXCITEMENT IN IOWA

County Ticket Will Provide Some Competition For Two Offices

Iowa as a whole does not appear to be very excited about the coming General Election to be held Tuesday, November 4th.

There does not seem to be any doubt that Dan Turner will be the next Governor of Iowa, and L. J. Dickinson will easily win the United States Senatorship. He is opposed by Daniel Steck, democrat, who does not seem to be stirring up any competitionf or "Dick."

Fred C. Gilchrist will succeed L. J. Dickinson as Congresman from our district, the Tenth.

In county politics it ie news to many that John Suurballe has opposition. G. C. Hejlik is running againsth im on the democratic ticket. However, that should cause Mr. Suurballe no worry at all.

For Supervisor ther promises to be more or less excitement, as Mr. Fred Oxley, present member of the Board of Supervisors, is running on the Independent Ticket. George E. Klipping and Thos. H. Thompson are the candidates on the Republican ticket for the office. Two men are to be elected as Supervisors.

The other county offices have no competition. Peck Hanson, for the office of Sheriff; Chris Jacobs for Auditor, Fern Peck Katter for Recorder, and Chis J. Johansen for Clerk have no opposition.

Besides the above ballot a special ballot will be given the voters on the Consitutional Convention, that they may say whether or not a convention shall be held to amend the present constitution.

It is the duty of every voter to go to the polls Tuesday and cast their ballot. The big fight in this county will be on Supervisor. Go to the polls Tuesday and support your men.

THIS IS AN AGE OF PUBLICITY

This is the age of publicity and he who employs the best medium for reaching the buying public achieves the greatest success.

For many years newspapers furnished the only means for carrying messages to the buying public. Later, magazines and other periodicals entered the field, then circulars, and finally the radio.

Volume advertisers employ advertising experts who are constantly on the job studying the subject, and well they may be for they spend hundreds of millions of dollars to create and stimulate buying.

These experts are generally agreed that no medium of publicity approaches the newspaper which enters the home and is read by every member of the family, and often by neighbors who are not subscribers. As a result of their studies circulars have been discarded as of little value. The radio as an advertising medium has seen its peak. A recent survey showed that 60 per cent of the radio audience turns the dial onto something else when an advertising talk is on the air. You cannot turn off the home town paper. You can throw it away but you never do until you have read it throughout.

The merchant who reasons that he is so well known that he does not need to advertise is courting a visit from the sheriff. Older readers will recall St. Jacob's Oil, a remedy that was in the medicine cabinet of nearly every home in America thirty years ago. It had been placed there by the excellence of the product aided by a great and intelligent campaign of newspaper advertising that extended over a period of many years. We can visualize their ads even at this late day. Finally, the origional owners, sold out to some concern for a large sum of money. The new owners of St. Jacob's Oil reasoned that the product was so well advertised that further advertising was throwing money away and by discontinuing the use of newspaper space they could effect a saving of something like two million dollars per year, the sum the former owners had been spending to keep their product before the pubic. What happened? Sales immediately began to fall off and in a few years St. Jacob's Oil became but a memory with the old timers. The owners, of course, went to the wall. Countless Others have met with the same experience, and yet others who persist in following in those footsteps will meet the same fate.

Newspaper advertising brings buyer and seller together at less expense and with greater effect than any other medium. Why not use it? —Congressman Harold Knutson, Pioneer Journal, Wadena, Minn.

POWER OF ADVERTISING

Advertising has developed within a generation in the United States until at this time more money is spent for advertising than is expended for the entire wheat crop of the United States: Thus, if bread is the staff of life then advertising is the staff of business.

While advertising started in a humble way and was an incident of the first publications in which it appeared, it is now the tail that wags the dog in most of the newspapers of the country, because the larger part of the revenues of the most successful newspapers is represented by advertising rather than circulation revenue.

From a crude and shaky begining advertising has developed into a combination of business profession and art. Apparently there appears no reasonable limit to the continued growth of advertising.

Thirty and thirty-five years ago there was a question in the minds of conservative people regarding the truthfullness of advertising. Fakers and get rich quick schemers were among the first people to appreciate the value of this great force in commanding public attention.

Today the advertising columns of newspapers are read as closely as are the news columns. Exclusion of fake advertising has taken place and new and improved methods or forms of advertising have won the appreciation of the general public to a marked degree.

The last thirty years has seen advertising become the most important factor in the distribuion and sale of commodities and service, and the ensuing thirty years will witness even a more pronounced advancement and development in the field of advertising. — Harvard, (Ill) Herald

WORTHLESS

The advertising grafters are abroad in the country again, soliciting $5 to $10 advertisements on maps, church directories, bus scheduler, hotel rules, shirt boards and a dozen other schemes, lauded as advertising by smooth tongued salesmen or saleswomen but which are wholly worthless if the business man gives the matter a moments thought. As a general rule the printing is let to some printing plant in some outside town for about one-tenth of what the solicit or gets. Then the salesman goes to other pools for more suckers who will whine "advertising doesn't pay." We'll admit that sort of thing doesn't pay, as it isn't advertising, even tho the glib-tongued solicitor called it that. Use your home town paper and play safe. —Brainerd, Minnesota, Tribune.

A LOCAL CRIME WAVE

Nearly every exchange coming to the Graphic carries a story telling of petty thievery which has been successfully terminated. There seems to be a wave of small crimes in this and adjoining counties, just why it is impossible to say. Stores, depots, post offices, elevators and in some instances residences have been entered, with the result that considerable merchandise has been carried away and in some instances cash of no small consequence. People of Lake Mills can probably prevent thefts by taking precautions before hand. Locked doors and windows will often discourage the culprits and lights left burning in the store at night is also another means of protection. —Lake Mille Graphic.

SUGGESTS FLOGGING

Geo. W. Wickesham chairman of President Hoover,s law enforcement commision, has suggested an inquiry into the results of flogging as a punishment, as to employing it in the war against banditry and racketeering. We consider this the most timely suggestion that has been made yet by this law enforcement commission. However there is no need, as we see it, of investigating the "desirability of flogging. There is no question that it will work as well—or better—than the present prescribed punishments which do not work a-all.

The country should adopt the flogging plan for bandits and racketeers, but have the law stipulate that we develop about seven thousand Simon Legrees, and that the blacksnake whip, with a short handle, be the weapon. The punishment should be not less than a hundred strenuously directed strokes, with a guarantee of enough more to put the "patient" in a hospital for less than 18 months. After that a parole be granted with the understanding that a repetition of the crime, the second flogging will call for a pine box with an "indetermediate sentence."

Some months ago The Bee suggested flogging, in the most public place in town, as one of the best crime deterrents that could be devised. A jail sentence, with approved food topped off with pie a-la-mode, is simply no punishment at all. In most cases it puts a premium on crime. Have a whipping post by all means, and get a sailor of the "old school", with a black patch over the eye, and arm muscle like a mule's hind leg to weild the "gad" and the law abiding public will see results. We're for Wickersham! —Jefferson Bee

The Loyal Workers Sunday School class held their annual meeting Sunday for the purpose of electing its officers and teacher for the coming year. This is always an interesting occasion as it affords a very fine social afternoon as well. A chicken dinner was served in the church basement at the noon hour not only to members of the class but to other members of their families as well. There were something over a hundred present Sunday. After the dinner a short but interesting program was given and was followed by the business meeting and election of officers. The following officers were chosen for the year:

Teacher, Erick Josten; Assist. Teacher, Mrs. Will Stille; President, Elmer J. Arnold; Vice Pres., Ralph Elder; Sec., Mrs. E. J. Arnold; Treas., Frank Gruetzmacher; Chairman of Sick Com., Mrs. Frank Gruetzmacher; Chairman of Flower Com., Mrs. Martha Bredbenner; Chairman of Entertainment Com., Mrs. H. Busse.

Anyone who has children they wish to have baptized, please bring them Sunday morning to the regular worship service. We should be glad to have tahe names of any such before hand, if possible.

Iowa will be well represented by livestock and people at the 1930 International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, Nov. 29 to Dec. 6.

"HUMAN GORILLA" FOUND COMRADE IN ADVERSITY

A customers' man temporarily out of a job ran into a friend who owned a circus and asked him for something to do.

"Well, the gorilla recently died," said the friend, "and if you want to get his skin, swing on the trapeze, growl a bit and amuse the children, you can have the job."

The customers' man filled the bill well until one day the rope on which he was swinging snapped and he was catapulted into the lion's cage.

The lion, seeing him, let out a lusty roar to which he offered a timid yelp. The lion roared more menacingly. The pseudo-gorilla lost his nerve and became entirely human and backed into a corner yelling "help, help."

The lion thereupon came closer and said in a hoarse whisper, "Shut up, you d--d fool, you are not the only customers' man out of a job." —Wall Street Journal.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

THIEVES ARE MENANCE TO THE FARMERS OF COUNTY

Loss Of Lambs, Poultry And Hogs Reported In One Township

Farmers, what have you been doing to protect your property from thieves? Already thieves have started to function on a large scale in certain sections of our county and it appears that this fall and winter will find more rather than less of this practice.

So far it seems that the property stolen in Avery township was done so by local talent but who knows just when he will be next? Hogs, sheep, geese and poultry have been the victims and no small effort should be made by each of you to protect your stock, harness machinery, etc.

One farmer in Avery had ten of his spring lambs stolen. Most of them were marked as the farmer had intended keeping them in his breeding herd.

How easy it is to bunch the herd of sheep, for through fright they will bunch themselves together. It would be no task for one or two men to grab two apiece, load them in a truck then go back for more. How well I remember when at home of about 140 western lambs being stolen from a cornfield, probably by the truck method. At least the truck tracks could be followed to the ditch bank which saved a lot of lifting for the party stealing the sheep.

On another place in Avery township the thief or thieves even stuck the hog's throat in the hog house before dragging it out and loading it in the car or truck. The killing was undoubtedly done so that no noise would result Neither of the farmers mentioned above were at home at the time of the stealing. Every farm in the county is entirely abandoned at some time or other during the year when thieves are most active.

Why not put cowbells on a few sheep if not all of them? This practice will at least protect them from the sheep killing dogs not only at its own accord but by attracting the attention of the farmer. A corral with a high fence where the sheep can be placed at night and the gates padlocked seems a successful practice. The poultry should have its permanent house for wintering. It then should be a simple matter to padlock the doors each night. The hog house, too, can be padlocked each evening.

The method most farmers use is that of having a good watch dog. This is good practice providing the dog stays home at nights or could not be coaxed away by the thieves. I only hope that you will at least give a little of your thought to this problem because with the number of people out of work all over the county some of them are going to resort to stealing in order that they might fulfill their wants.

May I take this means of atracting your attention to a seperate article in this paper about Multiple Hitch Demonstration which is to be held at the J. J. Bonnstetter farm just east of Corwith on Thursday afternoon, November 6th at 1:30.

Harry Linn of the Iowa Horse and Mule breeders Association will do the demonstrating.

FARMERS HUSK CORN FOR TED DUTHERIDGE MONDAY

Neighbors and friends of Ted Dutheridge, who has been confined to his bed for nine weeks with a broken leg, and at the present time is in the Mercy hospital, Mason City having submitted to another operation on his leg, decided to pick corn for him. Jay Griggs and son Fernon, assisted by Wm. Lassahn, drove around and solicited help. aMny farmers are not done husking corn themselves, but were very willing to help. Those who helped Monday were: Barney Vance, Harry Marshall, Howard Ruka, and Eli Hetland of Goodell; Fernon Griggs, Mike Kearney, Jay Griggs, Jessie Tery, Bill Lassahn, Henry Beek, Tom Nelson, Jr, Elmer Bachman, Fred Bell, Henry Runge, Dwight Osborn, Elmer Arnold, Wayne Pavey and Fay Smock. Leon Sherwood being unable to pick corn, went over and plowed about ten acres. Another group of men are planning to pick corn Wednesday.

DOINGS AT SCHOOL THE PAST WEEK

ABOUT BASKETBALL

Why does each prospective basket ball player need to pass the physical examination?

To show the coach physical defects so injury thru misuse will not be apt to occur.

How do we know who has passed the required physical examination?

Examination slips are handed to the prospects. These slips are taken to the physician, by the prospect, at the time of examination, and the physician signifies over his signature whether or not the physical condition of the prospect warrants active participation in strenuous games and sports.

What responsobility does the school asume in case of injury to a player?

The school asumes no resposibility. However due diligence and care will be exercised in the conduct of all contests. First aid for all minor injuries will be given by the coach The injured player should report to the coach at once.

Some of the goals of our physical program are:

1. To give as many of our boys a chance to participate as possible.
2. To show the beneficial effects of training on the general mental and physical condition.
3. To teach unselfishness. (The ability to sacrifice, that your team, and your school may win).
4. To teach recognition to CONSTITUTED AUTHORITY—Coach and Officials.
5. To teach that recognition of true worth in an opposing team will minimize the "VICTORY COMPLEX" (This includes the community).

At Klemme any boy who is willing to attend practice reguarly, to make the necesary phyical acrifice (which known as training, and to make the necessary mental sacrifice to "keep eligble" can be a member of the squad.

How can a member of our Athletic teams earn a letter?

By playing more than half of the time.

The faculty supervises the qualifications for letters rigidly. It is an honor to wear the "K". All who wear the "K" or are candidates for this honor are expected to be worthy representatives of the Klemme school.

In some schools the Instructor who flunks out an athlete is a criminal. Not so at Klemme for athletics and all other activities are subject to the same exacting academic qualifications (Passing in at least three subjects and an average of no less than 85 in deportment).

In spite of our rigid qualifications we believe that our team will not need to be penalized because of ineligible players, for each prospect will do his utmost to maintain the average of his team.

We are ambitious to have our team play a "no star" game. We hope the type of play will bear mute testimony of this principle.

Klemme boys and girls are never to question the authority of the officials. (Officials are always selected with the consent of both teams, and the word of the official is law on the playing floor). We are desirous of seeing the ame respect in the teams we play with.

We believe our FANS will back a winning team, also that they will show the same enthusiam for a losing team. We have often heard this statement: "Let the best team win." Seldom we hear "We want VICTORY regardles of cost."

Let us all remember that "PEP without PURPOSE is PIFFLE".

HITCH AND COLT BREAKING ARTIST IN THE COUNTY

Harry D. Linn, the Hitch and Colt Breaking Artist from the Iowa Horse and Mule Breeders Association will be in Hancock County on Thursday afternoon, November 6th.

Through the request of many farmers we have booked Harry for a Multiple Hitch demonstration at the J. J. Bonnstetter farm just one-half mile east of Corwith on Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Harry will demonstrate the big hitch on a three bottom plow using eight horses. Remember that whether driving two or 52 horses two lines is all that needs be used.

If any of you have not seen a corn stalk pulverizer in action this is your opportunity to do so as this corn borer eradicator will be usd for part of the demonstration.

Be at this meeting and learn how ot drive your horses to get the greatest amount of work per unit of power.

Remember, Harry wants to see you at the J. J. Bonnstetter farm one-half mile east of Corwith on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 6 at 1:30.

PHEASANTS IN BATTLE

The story is being told and we are told that it is true that in the northern part of this couny on a farm certain pheasants were in the habit of coming into the barnyard and eating with the fowl of the farm. A certain gander being more or less greedy attacked the only pheasant present one morning. A fight ensued in which the pheasant cock was thoroughly licked and went off with a bloody head and tail feathers those that remained looking very bedraggled. Much to the surprise of the family the next morning they observed Mr. Defeated Pheasant of the preceding day coming back across the field followed by five other cocks. On reaching the yard, the leader of the bloody head marched around the gander flapping and making gutteral sounds. the relay army immediately atacked Mr. Gander giving him a most thoro thrashing and might have finished him but for the interference from the home, after which the six pheasants, still lead by the "Captain Cock Pheasant," mached away across the field. —Windom Reporter.

STAR ROUTE WILL SERVE KLEMME

STAR ROUTE SERVICE WILL BE STARTED IN ABOUT 2 WEEKS

Klemme, Goodell, Belmond Will Be On Twice A Day Route

For some time business men and postmasters at Belmond, Goodell, Klemme and Garner have been at work trying to get a Star Route service. Since the change in the Rock Island train schedule and service a few weeks ago, the need for a Star Route was felt along the line, and steps were immediately taken to get Star Route service.

Postmaster C. A. Frisbee, of Garner gladly co-operated in the movement and devoted much of his time in getting the service put through.

Inspector Here Last Week

Last week Mr. Frisbee, accompanied by E. D. Mallory of Chicago, post office inspector, made a trip over the proposed motor mail route, which runs out of Garner as far south a Belmond. Mr. Mallorys aaw the need of this service and has put his O. K. on the project.

Another Star motor route will be put into service from Garner north, serving Miller, Forest City, Leland, Thompson, Buffalo Center and Lakota. This route will be about 50 miles long, and will make a total rip of 200 miles daily, while the Garner-Belmond route will make a total trip of 76 miles daily.

Going to Belmond the Star Motor Route leaves at 7:00 a. m. The carrier waits at Belmond for some time and will be back in Garner at 11:15. The afternoon trip leaves Garner at 2:20 and returns at about 5:30. Mail trains arriving at Garner early int he morning and afternoon will give good service for these routes.

As soon as contracts for hauling have been approved by the Post Office Department, the service will be put into effect. This will take two or three weeks perhaps.

With a motor route serving this community we will again have good mail service.

PHEASANT HUNTING GOOD THIS YEAR IN NORTH IOWA

The first open day of the pheasant season was last Saturday in 33 North Iowa counties. In Hancock the hunting was excellent and the majority of local hunters got their limit of three birds. Many visiting sportsmen, not acquainted with the ways of the warry ring-neck, went home empty handed or with a small showing.

The second session is again on today and tomorrow, Nov. 4-5. The last two-day shooting privilge will be next week Friday and Saturday, Nov. 14-15.

DID THE COW JUMP OVER THE MOON?

Henry Bettner, a farmer living southwest of Lake Mills, has a new and somewhat novel way of disposing of carcasses. The method was revealed only by chance and was certainly a surprise to the inventor.

Bettner had a dead cow which he wished to dispose of and thought that burning it would be the easiest and most satisfactory method. After cutting a large gash in the body of the animal, two gallons of gasoline were poured inside and the outside of the carcass was covered with crankcase oil. Taking no chances on what the result would be, Mr. Bettner built a small bonfire nearby and when all was ready took a pitchfork and threw the burning pile onto the cow. Bang! That was all there was to it. When Bettner recovered his wits the cow was scattered over five acres and the grass for a large area was on fire. Two hours of hard work with the assistance of neighbors were required to put out the fire.

PROSPERITY VS. DEPRESSION

PROSPERITY is up for election, running to overthrow DEPRESSION.

It's for the people to decide which will be chosen. Every man and every woman is privlegedto ballot —every day.

DEPRESSION has no rightful place with a hundred and twenty million people, exchanging goods and services— capable — accustomed and willing to work— more highly skilled than other peoples— leaders in efficiency and progressiveness— backed by the vast natural resources of the United States. When we have made it possible for the man who works to have a job we make it possible for him to buy food for his family and so help all business, including that of the farmer.

The rest of the world is of small importance compared with that free market of 120,000,000 people —homogeneous— of like tastes, habits and aspirations— living under the same laws— free of trade barriers. Foreign trade may be troubled by tariffs and revolutions, but at their peak our exports represented only five and a half billions of dollors of gross business in a year out of a total American income of ninety billions.

Stagnation of circulation is all that's the matter with agriculture and with Business. Everyone can help to get ha circulaion moving again.

Government can't make Prosperity— alone. Bankers and other business leaders can't make Prosperity— alone. It's the people, united in opinion and purpose and courage, who determine Prosperity. They can elec it— no other.

Ballots that will be validly counted for PROSPERITY are of many kinds. Some one of them every man and woman can cast. For example:

Help a deserving man or a woman to get a little paying work— or, better, a regular job.

Spend wisely and not too timidly, and anticipate scheduled expenditures so far as practicable.

Turn the deaf ear to false mischievous rumors; and don't repeat if you do hear them.

Be willing to pay a fair price. Don't take advantage of the other man's necessity. Recognize the fact that he has as good a claim to a fair profit as you.

When a vampire that fattens on the miseries of others shows up, help to make him unpopular.

Discourage calamity howlers.

Keep business moving evenly, and remember that, to the average man his job is his particular business. When possible reassure him against his fear of losing it.

Save, but save wisely, not in fright. Invest for the profit that sound enterprise pays and for the added profit that will come after the hysteria o' pessimisum has passed.

PIPE LINES ARE COMING

From "Along The Line"

Judging from the comments we have received on the article entitled "Natural Gas for Iowa," which appeared in our last issue, many of our readers did not appreciate the size and importance of the various projects which are under way for the furnishing of natural gas in the state of Iowa. Since th's article appeared, several of our readers have expressed their doubts as to whether the plans for the extension of these lines into Iowa will be carried out as rapidly as our article woud indicate. We are glad to say that the statements we made in regard to the progress of the construction work are proving to be corect and that the work has been moving forward in Nebraska more rapidly than was contemplated due to favorable weather during the last few months.

C. L. Collins, manager of the Central States Electric company of Nebraska, with headquarters at Walthill, has recently given us a report of a visit which he made to the work being done by the Northern States Natural Gas company on the line being constructed from Lincoln to Sioux City. He was accompanied by a number of business men of Walthill. The purpose of the visit was not only to inspect the work but to invite those in charge of the work to make their headquarters at Walthill while the work was being done in the locality. He reported that the invitation was gratefully received and accepted, which speaks well of the progressive spirit of the Walthill business men.

Mr. Colins stated that when this committee inspected the job on September 27, the gas line had been completed to a point seven miles which is about 55 miles west of the Missouri river. The crew were laying the line accross the Platt river and due to difficult digging caused by quicksand, they were progressing rather slowly, but they were told that as soon as the river crossing was completed, operations would again be speeded up and it was expected that the line would be laid at the rate of approximately two miles per day. If these promises are lived up to, the line should reach the property of the Central States Electric company of Nebraska in about 30 days, and should be completed into Sioux City by December 31 Mr. Colins gave a very complete report on the work which contains many interesting facts. He says that the locality where the work is going on is a very busy and interesting place. The construction crew includes about 250 men who live in tents near the point where the work is going on. This camp is a complete tent city with all of the conveniences and equipment necessary for feeding and housing so large a number of men. The camp is moved forward as the work progresses and he understood was soon to be located near Walthill.

The greater part of the work of laying the main is done by machinery, which includes gigantic ditching machines and a host of caterpillar tractors annd various other digging and filling machines, all of which are the most modern type available for such work. There is also a large fleet of trucks and automobiles of all kinds used in carrying on the work and in handling materials and supplies.

Speed seems to be the main bjective and the entire work has been systematized so as to keep the line moving forward as rapidly as possible. When a person contemplates the amount of work required to dig a trench approximately three feet in depth and lay two miles of main , from 24 to 12 inches in diameter, in one day he can realize that it requires the maximum of efficiency in operation.

The ditch is dug by a gigantic machine, which also does the work of swinging the pipe into the trench after it has been welded into sections. These sections are then welded to the main while the ditching machine moves forward and prepares the trench for another section. Every six miles a gigantic valve is placed in the line. As soon as the line is tested this valve is cosed and the valve at the end of the preceeding section is opened. The gas is then available for service up to this point. The work of refilling the ditch is also done by machinery. The main from Lincoln to Fremont is of 20 inch pipe, but at Fremont it is reduced to a 16 inch pipe.

While the work on the pipe line has been moving rapidly forward, the Central States Electric company has been busy on its part of the project. Franchises were secured in Walthil, Winnebago, Lyons, Rosalie Homer, and Pender Nebraska, and the company will install distribution systems and furnish the natural gas service. The business in these towns will be handled through the Central States Electric company of Nebraska, a subsidary of the Iowa company.

The work of installing the distribution systems in these towns will be under the supervision of A. J. Lawlor, who has been in charge of gas construction work for our companies for a number of years. Mr. Lawlor and his crew have just completed distribution systems at Clarinda and Missouri Valley. The equipment was moved from Missouri Valley to Walthill several weeks ago and headquarters for the work in Nebraska were established at that point. The first task that Mr. Lawlor had to undertake was to assemble a new crew as it is the policy of our company to employ local labor so far as possible. While this was being done, material was being received at Walthill. The work was started in Walthill and at the town of Winnebago, about ten miles north. These towns are located close to the route to be taken by the pipe lines so that very little work will be required to bring gas from the main to the town distribution systems. We are informed that the distribution systems at Walthill and Winnebago have been practically completed and that work has aso been started at Lyons and Homer. It is believed that at least these four towns will be ready to receive service as soon as the pipe line reaches their locality. It is planned that the system in all of these towns will be completed before January 1, 1931.

We have been unable to secure a report on the activities of the Continental construction company. which plans to construct a pipe line across the southern part of Iowa as part of its Kansas City-Chicago line. We are informed that the work of securing right of way contracts for this line is being carried on at various point along the proposed route but we have been unable to get any definite information as to when actual construction work on this line will start in Iowa.

Boys' Prank Caused Excitement

Friday noon, Kermit Smith and Clarence Cline, both Freshmen in Goodell High School, decided they would have some excitement, and go for a joy ride. They took Mint Cline's car and went to Webster City, where some of Clarence's relatives live. The boys had told their chums at school they were leaving the country, so naturally it caused quite a bit of disturbance. Kermit is the younger son of Mat Smith, and Clarence is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cline of Belmond, but he stays with his grandparents, Mint Clines. However, the boys thought it wasn't as much fun as they had planned, and both returned home Saturday morning.

Good Preferred Stocks

ONE of a series of statements dealing with present conditions favorable to investment in BONDS, PREFERRED STOCKS, COMMON STOCKS AND INVESTMENT TRUST SECURITIES

Buy Now for Income and Profit

FOLLOWING the stock market collapse of last autumn, it has been difficult to arouse public interest in anything with the name "stock" attached to it. Preferred stocks have suffered with common stocks in public disfavor. . . Accordingly, numerous issues of high-grade preferred stocks have been—and still are—selling at a very low price in comparison to their intrinsic value.

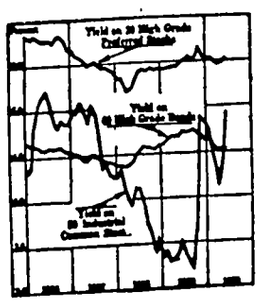
Recognizing this fact, some of the nation's most astute investors are today turning to the field of preferred stocks for opportunities to buy assured income at an attractive price.

In the normal course of recovery in the securities markets, fixed-income bearing securities are first to reflect rising prices. But since bonds are better known and better understood than preferred stocks, this process of recovery comes first in the bond market. Later, it will inevitably spread to high-grade preferred stocks.

We have already seen this typical course of recovery in the market for high-grade bonds . . . these have shown a rising tendency for several months. Well informed observers believe that this tendency will continue—and that it must surely include, before very long, the market for good preferred stocks.

NOW—before this rise begins—is the time for the shrewd investor to take advantage of the preferred stock opportunities that are now available.

In addition to the special and temporary situation that makes preferred stocks particularly attractive at this time, the intelligent investor will not overlook the factors that make high-grade preferred stock A GOOD INVESTMENT AT ANY TIME. The table printed on this page shows the yield on twenty high-grade preferred stocks over a period of five years, as compared to the yield on high-grade bonds and on common stocks. It will be noted that the yield on preferred stocks is almost as stable as that on bonds . . . that the preferred stock yield averages practically a full one per cent higher than that of the high-grade bonds.



TREND OF INVESTMENT YIELDS

The adjoining chart, supplied through the courtesy of Standard Statistics Company, shows the yield on 20 high-grade preferred stocks, compared to that on 60 high-grade bonds and 90 common stocks.

Expressed in terms of percentage of income return, this one per cent difference in yield means a difference of about twenty per cent in the income received by the investor.

This differential in income return should receive the most careful attention from the investor who is buying income. High-grade bonds, of course, have their place in every investment list. They are the safest of investments. But the investor who is seeking maximum income may profitably and properly place a certain part of his funds in securities that pay a higher rate.

Let it be remembered, therefore, that high-grade preferred stocks are an investment medium worthy of careful consideration on their intrinsic merits—and that today, because of a temporary market situation, you can buy good preferred stocks at an especially attractive price level. This price level cannot prevail for long . . . the far-sighted investor will take advantage of it today.

Our 6% Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock is a "Good Preferred Stock." Ask our Manager or any employee about it.

IOWA — BOUNTIFUL LAND

By George Gallarno

IOWA keeps its home fires burning and its factories beching forth smoke, by consuming 16,000,000 tons of coal annually. But only 4, million tons of this coal is mined in the state though Iowa soil conceals fields that in aggregate cover 20,000 square miles of coal.

IOWA per capita is the wealthiest state in the union. Iowa has a wealth of $4,000 for each man, woman and child residing within its borders.

IOWA, it will bear repeating, ranks first of all the states in the value of its corn crop, in the value of its oat crop, its hogs, its poultry and its eggs. It is first of the states in the value of farm lands and farm improvements; first in the total value of all farm crops; first in the combined value of farm property, and first in the actual percentage of improved farm lands comparde with its total acreage.

IOWA besides having at the present time more than 3,000 miles of permanently improved and paved highways, has more than 15,000 miles of graded and graveled highways, and nearly 2,500 miles of highway, graded, bridged and drained, ready for hard surfacing.

IOWA has one telephone for every five of its population, which means that Iowa has more than 500 000 telephones, an average of one for each family in the state, and more telephones than has the entire country of France.

IOWA has, according to national statistics, an annual electrical home service bill of an average of $5.00 per capita of its population, and a reading bill, newspapers, magazines and books of $9.50 per capita.

It's hard on the winter's cream checks to neglect the milk cows duning corn picking.

GRACKA QUANDT IN STATE ORCHESTRA

HIGH SCHOOL MUSICIANS WILL PLAY AT TEACHERS MEET

"All Iowa" High School Orchestra Will Broadcast Over WHO

DES MOINES, Nov. 12—Special:

Friday afternoon between 3:00 and 4:00 p. m. Klemme people will tune in station WHO, Des Moines, to hear the concert broadcast by the All-State High School Orchestra, of which Miss Gracka Quandt of this city was chosen as a member and will play in the violin section of the 225 piece orchestra.

This is an honor, both to the Klemme high school and Miss Gracka, as not all schools in the state are represented. It will be a fine opportunity for Miss Quandt, and she can well feel proud of being invited to play with this organization.

Gracka will leave for Des Moines this evening Practically all of the time Thursday will be devoted to rehearsals, by groups and by the entire orchestra.

Following is a complete description sent out from Des Moines regarding the orchestra:

An "All-Iowa" High School Orchestra composed of selected boy and girl musicians from over 150 high school orchestras in Iowa, will be assembled here next week, as a unique feature of the annual convention of the Iowa State Teachers Association, to be held here November 13, 14 and 15.

The orchestra, consitsing of over 225 pieces, will be one of the largest high school orchestra groups that has ever played in this state, it was said today by Chas. Pye, Secretary of the teachers' association, which is sponsoring the program. Efrem Zimbalist, internationally known concert violinist, will appear on the same program with the orchestra.

Over 8,000 Iowa school teachers are expected to attend the annual teachers convention. Many noted educators will apear on the program including Will Durant, philosopher and author, Dean Raymond A. Schwegler of the University of Kansas, Cameron Beck, Personnel Director of the New York Stock Exchange, and W. F. Schilling, member of the Federal Farm Board.

The "All-Iowa" High School Orchestra will be under the supervision of Prof. Chas. B. Righter, associate profesor of music at the University of Iowa. Prof. Righter is a known authority on public school music and was formerly supervisor of instrumental music in the Lincoln, Nebraska schools. Under his direction the Lincoln High School Orchestra won first place in the national orchestra contest in 1929 and 1930. Prof. Righter will be assisted by 28 Iowa music directors from schools throughout the state.

The high school students who are paying their own expenses to Des Moines in order to participate, will meet here for rehearsal on November 13 and will broadcast a program over radio stations WHO and WOC on Friday afternoon. The orchestra program will be given at the Shrine Temple on Friday evening, November 14th, and will be immediately followed by the Zimbalist recital.

"The appearance of Zimbalist on this program will be one of the outstanding features of the convention," Mr. Pye said. "It is seldom that students have the opportunity of hearing a great master and of studying his technique."

"One of the most significant developments in education in recent years, has been the study of music and musical appreciation in our schools. This orchestra program will provide an excellent opportunity to check the accomplishments of the teachers of Iowa in this work. Every student should be inspired to greater achievement in the study of his respective instrument."

MRS. F. KLUCKHOHN FUNERAL MONDAY

MRS. FRANK KLUCKHOHN DIED EARLY SATURDAY MORNING

Large Crowd Attended Funeral Services Held At Methodist Church

This community was sadly shocked when it was learned that Mrs. Frank Kluckhohn had passed away Saturday morning at about 4:30 o'clock, following a serious illness which had confined her to her bed for the past month.

Mrs. Kluckhohn had not been in good health for over a year. Last summer she submitted to an aperation in the hopes that she would be restored to helath. For a time improvement was noted, but later she gradually grew weaker until death claimed her.

The high esteem in which she was held in this community was manifest by the large crowd present at the funeral services Monday, and the large bank of beautiful flowers contributed in her memory.

A mixed quartette, composed of Ralph Ludeke, Mrs. H. E. Whyte, Mrs. J. E. Stille and Emil Patet, with Miss Mildred Johnson at the piano, gave several numbers. Rev. H. E. Whyte preached a very impressive sermon.

The pall bearers were W. F. Pavey, John Day, Pete Wilson, John Etchen, Henry Lewis, and Paul Grange.

Funeral services were held at the home at 2:15 p. m. and at the M. E. Church at 2:30 p. m. The Junior Class of the Klemme High School paid respects to their class-mate's mother by attending the services in a body

The following out of town relatives were present at the services: Mr. Ernest Lilljenberg, of Fargo, North Dakota; Mr. and Mrs. Julius Kindn; Mr. and Mrs. Art Ashpole; Mr. and Mrs. Millard Berg; all of Thompson, Iowa; Mr. Morgan Havden, and Mr. Leslie Ell, of Mason City; Mrs. Emma Washburn, Ventura; Mr. Art Kluckhohn and Miss Merle, of Garner; Mrs. Julia Herzog, of St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stille of Waterloo; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Griewe.

There were also a number of friends who came a distance to attend the funeral services.

Interment was made in the Klemme Cemetery.

Obituary

Mrs. Anna Amelia Kluckhohn was born on Jan. 25, 1892 at Thompson, Iowa, where she spent most of her early life. On May 14, 1914, she was united in marriage to Mr. Frank Kluckhohn of thie place, and they have made their home in this community since that time. To this union there was born three children —two sons, Kenneth and Franklin, and one daughter, Carmen.

Mrs. Kluckhohn was confirmed and reared in the Lutheran Church, but has been identified with the Methodist Church since coming to make her home in Klemme. She was a member of the Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church and was always a cheerful and willing worker. Mrs. Kluckhohn was a member of the Klemme Auxiliary Unit and was a loyal worker in that organization.

Although she has been in poor health for some time, she was always cheerful and hopeful. She was always ready to lend a helping hand and always reluctant to complain or ask any unnecessary favor of any one else, even in the hour of sickness.

In the latter part of the summer she underwent an operation at the Mercy Hospital. She appeared to be improved for a while but never fully recovered her strength. About a month ago she was again confined to her bed and it became evident that her condition was serious. From that time on she gradually grew weaker and weaker until the end came early Friday morning, November 7th. She had fought a good fight. Her age at the time of her going was 38 years, 8 months, and 12 days.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, her three children; her father, Ernest Lilljenberg of Fargo, North Dakota; her mother, Mrs. Kinden, of Thompson, Iowa; her brother, Bennie Lilljenberg; two sisters, Mrs. Julia Herzog, of St. Louis; and Mrs. Blanche Stille, of Waterloo, Iowa. Likewise her many other more distant relatives and a host of friends.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation of the help, acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy extended to us during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother, and for the many and beautiful flowers and words of comfort in our bereavement.

Frank Kluckhohn and children, Kenneth, Franklin and Carmen.

FARM DEVELOPMENT COURSE OF THE FARM BUREAU

The enthusiasm shown for the Extension courses in Landscape Architecture as well as the results of a state wide survey of Iowa farmsteads conducted the past year brings to light a strong desire on the part of the Iowa farmer for better planned, more livable as well as workable farmsteads.

During pioneer years it was quite natural that the farmstead should have grown in a more or less haphazard fashion. The begining was made when there was neither need nor means for the extensive set of improvements necesary for present farming operations. Like Topsy, the farmstead just naturally grew. Additions were made to fences, buildings and yards as the need arose. In recent years, however, the need of planning the whole farmstead as one unit has become increasingly apparent. The survey of last year showed that nearly 50 percent of those interviewed were puzzled to know where to locate some contemplated structure, while all intervelwed were desirous of knowing what and where to plant around the home.

One of the most puzzling problems in the development of the home grounds or farmstead is to know what and where to plant. Buying and planting a large number of plants doesn't make a beautiful and useful landscape any more than buying and sewing together a large number of different peices of cloth makes a beautiful and useful dress. A pattern or plan must be made and folowed by one who understands both the use intended and the manner of organization for the greatest amount of beauty consistent with that use.

In response o that growing appreciation of this need, the Extension Service of Iowa State College has made available courses in LandscapeArchitecture whereby farmers can have their famsteads completely planned fo future development under the supervision of a spetcialist. Through this means, the farmer not only has his own farmstead planned for use and beauty. but he is made acquainted with the why and wherfor of everything done by the landscape architect, thus becoming in turn a source of this information to the community. Hundreds of farmsteads have alrgady been planned in this way. The Farm Bureau of Dallas county has offered this work during two succesive years and the results in better planed home grounds and farmsteads as noted in driving through the county is strikingly apparent.

We heartily approve of this movement since it involves no great expenditure of hard earned cash, but will, instead, greatly increase the efficiency and visual beauty of our farmsteads with a saving in cost of construction, operation and maintenance, as well as increased property values. Above all, it will awaken an apreciation of farm life at its best through the vision and gradual accomplishment of better home surroundings.

In passing. if any of you are interetsed in being a real well equipped and conenient dairy barn you have only o visit the Hastings farm to do so. Holstein men will be given an added treat as "Fat" certainly has some good Holsteins.

Hatchery School Drew Crowd

I am glad to report there was a good turn out at the Hatchery school held in Garner last Wednesday. W. M. Vernon of the Extension Service gave the people present some very valuable information on the care and management of poultry. A few of the important factors discussed were:

1. Clean feed, clean drink and clean surroundings.
2. Abundant feed in ample hopper space (a four or six feet hopper per 50 birds)
3. Enclosed yards sided to crops (don't let birds run over entire farmstead)
4. Frequent culling at least three times a year, spring, summer and fall.
5. Comfortable, well equipped poultry house with correct ventilation.
6. Prompt removal of sick birds.
7. Regularity in feeding and management.

A few good scratch rations are: 200 bs. yellow corn, and 100 lbs. oats, or 300 lbs. yellow corn, 100 lbs. oats, 100 lbs. wheat, or 400 lbs. yellow corn, 100 lbs. oats,, 100 lbs wheat and 100 lbs. barley, or 300 lbs. yellow corn, 200 lbs. oats and 100 lbs barey.

Sixty Farmers At Demonstration

Nearly sixty farmers attended the big Hitch Demonstration at the J. J. Bonnstetter farm last Thursday. Harry D. Linn gave those at the demonstration the "ins and outs" of horse power and explained the various hitches that any farmer might use. When driving horses why not drive them correctly?

Watch this space for the results of the Corn variety test plots run at the Sam Barber farm in Twin Lake Township; also the test plots at the Oscar Gorman farm in Bingham township.

Evening by telephone appointment.

Mr. C. F. Redlich says:

The "Perfect Retention Shield" hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. The give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkably short time.

The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which hertofore were considered uncontrollable.

Stomach troubles, backache and constipation, nearly always a consequence of rupture, promptly disappear.

STEAD IMPROVEMENT MEETINGS DRAW CROWDS

Series Of Meetings Were Conducted Last Week

e second series of Farmstead ovement meetings held in this y were conducted last week a larger attendance than at the r meetings. A growing in- t is evident and with nearly ve entirely new farmsteads be- planned I am sure that in the future there will be located in county not a Model Home, as of the Register and Tribune, many model farmsteads. Dur- the past week nineteen families ded the Garner meeting and teen the Klemme meeting, nine Corwith, seven at Woden and teen at Britt.

ith Farmer Planted Soybeans

E. Mullins near Corwith cer- y played his hunches last g at soybean planting time. He ted 36 acres of Manchu soy- s which yielded right at thirty el per acre, however, Mr. Mul- saw to it that his soybean id was entirely free from ds before planting time. The s were planted about the 25th May. From planting until the s were a foot tall they were of- harrowed. Some of the beans s were plowed once while other e not plowed at all. A beet der was used to plant the beans for those that were plowed a plow was used. About six acres the 36 were cut for hay while rest were cut for seed. The bine was used to thrash the soy ns and it certainly did a real . Very few of the soybeans were ked. Mr. Mulins intends feed- some of the beans this winter is going to save a good portion seed.

Soybeans Paying Crop Here

I feel that there is a place for ybeans in Hancock County. They ll yeild from 15 to 30 bushel of d per acre which at even one llar per bushel is much better a oats. Soybean hay is nearly xcelled for dairy feed. The ns will grow on the poorer nd and are a legume which re the ability of extracting free trogen from the air when the ns are inoculated. Cracked soy- ns are about 32 per cent protein th linseed oil about the same. In er words soybeans ar a protein supplement however the crack- beans should not make up too ge a part of the the ration be- ee they will cause "soft pork" to produced or soft butter when fed abundance to dairy cattle. When oil has been extracted from the n you have a meal which is 40 cent nitrogen, higher than lin- d or cottonseed meal.

Has Flock Of 600 Chickens

I take off my hat to Mrs. Phon Lawrence of near Corwith, who one of the nicest flocks of ltry to be found in this county. the 600 birds she still has, after ng nearly that many. every one ks alike in that they are uniform size color and weight.

C. T. A. Enters Contest

The Garner Klemme Cow Test sociation has entered the better es contest which is state wide. e pedigree and record will be t on each sire used in the Assoc- on this coming year which rted Nov. 1st. This certainly is means of finding out just which lls are worth keeping and those . Through this contest it is hop- that the farmers will see that r bull is either a world beater, o-good or just average.

No Township 100 Per Cent

The month of December is nearly n us and as yet, no townships in county have signed up 100 per for the Bot or Nose Fly Con- work. Amsterdam township e closest to 100 per cent with four out of the nine school district slips turned into me. May I urge that those of you who have the school district slips to try and see the farmers in your district real soon so that the veteninarians can start work right after December 1?

REFORMED CONGREGATION HAD SURPRISE ON PASTOR

Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock the congregation of the Reformed Church met at the church to have a big surprise on their pastor, Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch and family. The pastor and his family had been invited to the country for supper and did not discover what was going on until he arrived in the Church to meet with the Young Peoples Bible Class.

Mr. Herman Schuldt, in his talk, told of the meaning of this gathering and welcomed the pastor.

The Young Peoples Bible Class then took charge of the program and gave their program which included Bible contests. Raymond Barz, one of the members, gave a very interesting talk which was enjoyed by everyone. The evening was spent in a social way and a delightful lunch was enjoyed.

The congregation presented Rev. Grosshuesch with a purse of money.

This gathering demonstrated the fine spirit of co-operation between the members of the congregation, church officials and the pastor.

TWENTY ONE ATTENDED THE FARMSTEAD MEETING HERE

Second Lesson Draws Large Crowd To Interesting Course

The second lesson on Farmstead Development was held in Klemme on Tuesday, Nov. 11. Twenty one were present. Each one brought plans showing their existing conditions.

The lesson dealt with the general principles to be applied in farmstead development, aiming to give the why and wherfore of everything done by the landscape architect commencing with a discussion of the elements of the weather and giving the principles of design or arrangement in relation to the area of the yards, access and circulation of walks and drives and making the basic design plan.

Landscape principles were illustrated by the use of colored slides showing the different trees and plants. Plant materials were also discussed.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 16 for Ell and Liberty and Jan. 6 for Avery and Twin Lake.

HE PROFITS MOST WHO SERVES THE BEST

It isn't the cut of the clothes that you woar,
Nor the stuff out of which they are made,
Though selected with taste and fastidious care;
And it isn't the price that you paid.
It isn't the size of your pile in the bank,
Nor the number of acres you own;
It isn't the question of prestige or rank,
Nor a question of fame or renown.
It isn't the servants who come at your call,
And it isn't the things you posess,
Whether many, or little, or nothing at all;
It is service that measures success.

AND THE FURNACE SMOKES

A man seeing the notice "Iron Sinks" in Bruno's Window at Cloquet went inside and said that he was perfectly aware of the fact that iron sinks.

Alive to the occasion, Carl retaliated. "Yes, I know, and time flies, sulphur springs, Jam rolls, grass slopes, music stands, moonlight walks, rubber tires and the organ stops."

"Haven't you forgotten one thing?" asked the visitor.

"What's that?" inquired Carl cautiously.

"Marble busts," was the reply. — Lake Mills Graphic.

MESERVEY LAD SERIOUSLY INJURED HUNTING NEAR HERE

Shot Gun Accidently Discharged In Thigh Of Left Leg

Orville Rooks, fourteen year old boy, was seriously injured Saturday morning by shotgun wounds in his right thigh.

Orville, in company with his father, Ed. Rooks, and his younger brother, and Mr. Ostendorf, all of Meservey, had been hunting pheasants on the Nelson farm southeast of Klemme. The party had returned to their car to go to other fields. The Rooks boys were getting into the car and Orville's gun was accidently discharged as he was entering the back seat of the car. The full load of the shell entered the back of his left thigh above the knee, tearing away flesh and bone.

He was rushed to Klemme where Dr. Zinn administered first aid and took him to the Mercy hospital for surgical care.

Reports this morning were that the injured youth was in a critical condition.

Goodell Youth Badly Injured

Herschel Johnson, fifteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Johnson residing a few miles south of of Goodell, underwent an operation Monday evening for the amputation of his foot which was injured Saturday while hunting pheasants and he was accidently shot.

DOINGS AT SCHOOL THE PAST WEEK

TEACHERS ATTENDED MEETING AT DES MOINES

First Basket Ball Game Friday Eve Will Be At Hayfield

Teachers and pupils are back on the job after two days of vacation for the children, while the State Teachers Meeting was in session at Des Moines. It was one of the best we have ever attended from the standpoint of interest and quality of program. The attendance was also the largest. We believe all who attended came away with more enthusiasm for their tasks. We feel certain the faculty of Klemme are going to do their school work better for having been to this great State Meeting.

"I Am Education"

As last week was set apart or dedicated to the cause of Education we should have inserted these lines in last weeks issue of our local paper, but it has been since then that we came across them and we give them out now. They indicate the importance of education and possess real literary value. They are as follows: I AM EDUCATION—I bear the torch that enlightens the world fires the imagination of man, feeds the flame of genius. I give wings to dreams and might to hand and brain. From out the deep shadows of the past I come, wearing the scars of struggle, and stripes of toil, but bearing in triumph the wisdom of all ages. Man because of me, holds dominion over earth air and sea; it is for him I leash the lightning, plumb the deep and shackle the ether. I am the parent of progress, creator of culture, the molder of destiny. Philosophy, science and art are the works of my hand. I banish ignorance, discourage vice, disarm anarchy. Thus have I become freedom's citadel, the arm of democracy, the hope of youth, the pride of adolescence, the joy of age. Fortunate the nations and happy the homes that welcome me.

The school is my workshop; here I stir ambitions, stimulate ideals, forge the keys that open the door of oportuniy. I am the source of inspiration, the aid of aspiration. I am irresistable power.

P. T. A. Well Attended

A very fair crowd greeted those ont he program at our monthly Parent-Teacher Meeting on Tuesday evening of this week. Besides eports on the State Meeting given by our faculty and Gracka Quandt, who represented us in the big AllState high school orchestra, County Agent Walter Weiss talked on the advantages of a college education to a farm boy, and our local high school orchestra, directed by Miss Ford, played. The usual after-program lunch was served.

Iowa Dental Plan Adopted

The Iowa Dental Plan has been launched in our local school and its success rests in a large part on our parents. We hope they co-operate in the interest of their own children and see that their teeth are put in first class condition. On next week we purpose listing the names of all children who have been to a dentist since school began or shortly before to have teeth cared for and who now are taking proper care of them. A few dollars spent with a dentist may easily save manyd ollars spent for a doctor or for medicine. Many ills today are due to neglected teeth. Let's give the children the best possible chance to learn and grow.

Basket Ball Game At Hayfield

Our basket ball boys play their first game of the season against Hayfield there on Friday night of this week. We are anxious to see them perform. They will be seen in action on their own court here on Wednesday night of next week against Crystal Lake. All Klemme will back them up.

FARMSTEAD IMPROVEMENT LESSONS LAST WEEK

The second lesson of the course n Farmstead Development sponsored by the Farm Bureau of Hancock County was given the week of Nov. 10-14 by E. J. Johnson. specialist in Landscape Architecture from Iowa State College. Representing about seventy-five farm homes, men and women met with the specialist at Garner, Klemme, Corwith, Woden and Britt.

Emphasis was placed upon the importance of planning the farmstead for convenience and economy of operation as well as for more liveable home surroundings. "Unless one plans the location of the barn, silo, corncrib, feeding floor, and other elements in the farmstead with a view to elimdnating unnecessary work and steps in doing the farm chores, a person may loom himself and many future generations as slaves to work which proper forethought could have eliminated", stated Mr. Johnson. "Since modern masonrystructures will remain where now placed for generations to come. The beauty of one farm place as compared with the ugliness of another is generally due to the manner of arangment or plan of all buildings, drives and fences as well as plant materials, order and cleanliness being fundamental."

Slides were used to illustrate the principles of landscape architecture studied by the groups attending the meetings. The speaker also called attention to the anomoly of a nation touring to see beauty in he landscape and a the same time patronizing those who most glaringly sin sin against that beauty by erecting ugly roadside signs and billboards.

The next series of meetings to be held during the week of Dec. 15-19 and Jan. 5-9 will be devoted to working out plans for each farmstead represented, about seventy-five in all. Much interest is manifested and it is hoped that much improvement in our farm home surroundings will result.

RABBITS READY TO GNAW BARK FROM TREES

T. J. Maney Suggests Effective Measures of Prevention

Before the young orchard has beeen ruined in part or in all by chewing the bark, it is best to use an "ounce of prevention," suggests T. J. Maney, chief pomologists of the Iowa Agricultural Experiment Station at Ames. Practically every winter letters come to the college asking what can be done to save trees that have been girdled or badly injured by rabbits. By protecting the trees now, injury can be prevented.

The best method of preventing rabbits from damaging trees is to wrap wire netting around the trunk. Ordinary window screen wire or galvanized wire will serve excellently.

A wood veneer wrap is another preventative suggested by Maney. Newspapers which are w apped well about the trees are often effective. Gunny sacks tied about the trunk will do much to keep the rabbits from attempting to chew the bark. Cornstalks placed close around the trunk have been used to advantage.

Tar paper should never be used, Maney cautions, because experimental work has proven it to be ineffective.

GOT 15 MALLARDS IN 4 SHOTS

Jim Sawyer and his dog, Brownie hold the season's record for bringing in the mallards. A week ago last Saturday at Goose Lake, Jim saw a big flock of mallards in the open water just east of the island. It was mighty cold that morning with a raw cold wind blowing from a quarter north of west that roughed up the water and the mallards came ino an open hole to the lee of the island. Jim and Brownie crawled thru the weeds until they were within range; Jim got in one shot before the birds left the water, the second as they rose which dropped the big shafe of the bag, and got in two more shots before the birds were out of range. It took Jim and Brownie a half hour to bring in the ducks, the ice making it impossible for Brownie to get them alone, and both man and dog were almost exhausted before they were all picked up. But it was a record breaker nine green-heads and six mallard hens, the limit bagged all in mallards in our shots.—Lake Mills Graphic.

Last Thursday evening Miss Mildred Johnson's Bible Class and her Sunday school class went out to the home of Miss Pearl Newberger to visit with her. Miss Newberger was presented with a gift from her class mates. Pearl's condition is greatly improved. The young ladies enjoyed refreshments which they brought with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fraser of Mason City, are in Klemme every Wednesday teaching voice, piano, piano accordeon, band and orchestral instruments. Pupils may make arrangements by phoning the school house for appointment. tfc

Albert Schroeder drove in from Chicago, arriving here Saturday evening for a fewd ays visit with relatives and friends. Grandma Schroeder returned to Chicago with him Tuesday morning, where she will spend the winter.

One of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Knoke's little twin boys was quarantined Tuesday morning for scarlet fever. We understand the case is light. This is the only contagious disease reported in the entire community. The two older Knoke boys and Mr. Knoke were fumigated out, and the boys are attending school, as they had the disease a few years ago.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK, KLEMME, IOWA, CLERKS

The old livery barn, a landmark in old Amsterdam, was moved last week to the Eldredge farm. The barn will be remembered by old timers. It was built of hewn timbers, pinned together. It was built by Mr. Avery, the first white child born in Hancock County. The old barn recalls the days when stage coaches were common.

"Everything To Eat And Wear"

Telescope Traced Back to Seventeenth Century

By the aid of a grant from the Rockefeller foundation to Leyden university enough funds have been collected to enable the university observatory to build its own telescope at Johannesburg, in South Africa. As we know, many of our scientific instruments had their origin in far-off centuries, but surprisingly enough the telescope does not seem to have been developed until the Seventeenth century. Although the famous traveler, Sir Richard Burton, claimed that the telescope was known to Arabian scientists many years before this time, the father of the modern instrument was produced in 1608 by Hans Lippershiem of Middleburg. At once the importance of the invention was realized, and telescopes were on sale in Paris within a year. Galileo, the famous astronomer, heard of the Dutchman's invention, and immediately made a telescope himself, and on the first night that he used it, in 1610, discovered three of Jupiter's moons. A year later Kepler invented the astronomical telescope.

Clemenceau's Mind Saw Beauty in Nothingness

Shortly before his death, "Tiger" Clemenceau spoke quite freely on his philosophy of life.

"Men do not amuse me any more," he said. "I find that they attach too much importance to themselves. A man consecrates his entire life to beetles and in the end never sees anything in the world but beetles."

Asked what he thought about life after death he said:

"I don't know who had the first idea of Paradise. He must have found life too short, that fellow. Happy man! He wanted it to go on, with a less stupid government and with more amusing diversions.

"But nothingness is really superior to Paradise. Paradise is an improvement—nothingness is perfection. With nothingness, everything arranges itself perfectly."

Rare Art Treasures in New York's Great Museum

Many visitors to the city of New York go to gaze at the wonders in the Metropolitan Museum of Art. This great repository of art treasures, however, can admit to its collections only works that have stood the test of time. Modern art has no representation.

This shortcoming has now been remedied. There is to be an accessory Museum of Modern Art, where contemporary works may be displayed until such time as their worth may have been proved sufficiently to admit them to the Metropolitan museum.

A museum, says Webster's New International dictionary, is "a repository or a collection of natural, scientific, or literary curiosities or objects of interest, or of works of art." Thus, the Museum of Natural History contains mounted specimens of animals, birds, reptiles, etc. In America, large collections of books are called libraries; but in London the largest library in the world is known as the British museum. The word museum meant in ancient Latin "the temple of the Muses"; in classical mythology, the Muses were nine goddesses who presided over song and the different kinds of poetry, and also the arts and sciences.

Korean Pockets Due to Spread of Christianity

Christianity is responsible for one change in Korean dress—the use of pockets, according to Mrs. Roy K. Smith of Chairyung, Korea, who says: "There were no pockets in the old Korean coat, but the Christian needed a place for his Bible, for coming to church without a Bible is practically unknown in Korea. Following American example he made a large pocket in his jacket, and later several on a sleeveless coat or vest for his Bible and other prize treasures. But it is not enough to carry the Bible in one's hand or pocket. We have many who carry great sections, even whole books, in their heads and can recite without a mistake long passages. One man walked a hundred miles to recite the Sermon on the Mount to his pastor."

Silkworm Cultivation

For centuries the cultivation of the silkworm was a royal industry, empresses tending the precious grub and developing the cult in all its branches until what was once an empress' pastime became an imperial art of an imperial people.

Not only every Chinese empress and all the ladies of the nobility, but even the peasant women of scattered countryside have practiced regularly the art of sericulture which for centuries was known only to China. The secret was guarded until the transferred allegiance of a Chinese princess caused her to smuggle silkworm eggs, the worms and mulberry seeds to the home of her new lord, an Indian prince.—Grace Thompson Seton, in "Chinese Lanterns."

Ancient Time Tellers

Devices for telling time are as old as history itself. The Greeks, points out Modern Mechanics Magazine, had the water clock, the Aztecs the calendar stone, the Saxons of England the candle clock, and other peoples the hour glass and sun dial. The first alarm clock was developed soon after gunpowder was invented. A sun dial was placed over a miniature gun. When the sun came to a certain hour position the rays, focused on the fuse port by the burning glass, ignited the powder. The chief differences in the ancient and modern timepieces lie in the mechanism, the magazine says. Where the ancients put nature to use to indicate the time, modern man uses machinery.

"Oriental" Rugs

Indistinguishable from rugs made in Persia, oriental floor coverings have been made in Germany for more than 75 years. Early in the 1850's a party of Germans was sent to Persia to master the details of the art. They returned to Cottbus, near Berlin, and the product of the hands and looms found their way principally to America. Only in 1913 was machinery introduced, when it was found that the work could be done not only faster but better than by hand. Most of those sent to America are sold as "Smyrna" rugs. They are, however, it is claimed, much finer in appearance than those really made in Smyrna.

Ladybird Protects Plants

The ladybird, one of the common beetles of the garden, is man's ally against one of the pests which are ever ready to attack the tender new shoots of trees, roots and plants—the aphids. The ladybirds are a natural enemy of the aphids, and will consume great quantities of them in the course of a season. There are varieties of beetles closely resembling the ladybirds in shape and size which are leaf eaters, however, and present a pest in themselves.

Not What He Meant

There is a good story told about that well-known Congregational minister, Doctor Horton. As a theological student he objected strongly to the clerical collar, and in his college magazine he wrote a strong article about it, ending with the words: "I will wear nothing to distinguish me from my fellow-men." Unfortunately for Doctor Horton, the waggish subeditor slipped in a comma after the word "nothing"!—London Tit-Bits.

All Accorded Honor in Scottish War Memorial

No one seems to be forgotten in Scotland's wonderful war memorial which is built on the rock of Edinburgh.

There it stands glowing with the carved and colored badges of every Scottish regiment that served in the World war, while in bronze friezes or stained-glass windows, sailors, artillerymen, airmen, chaplains, nurses and other workers are depicted. Even birds and beasts have their memorials.

Carved on the walls are the words "Remember also the humble beasts that served and died." Then come medallions framing the heads of a horse, a mule, a camel, a message dog, and other animals; with a cage of carrier pigeons and a group of canaries and mice inscribed, "The tunnelers' friends," because these little creatures are used underground, where their swift collapse when the air becomes poisonous is a warning to men.

In the shrine is a block of marble set on the rock which rises through the floor, and on this block is a casket given by the king and queen inclosing books containing the name of every Scotsman who fell in the war. It is a place of pilgrimage to Scotsmen all over the world, this holy place where the noblest heroes and the humblest creatures are all remembered together.

Daughter's Temper Not Improved by Education

The Church of England high school for girls at Haifa, Palestine, is attended by Moslems, Jews and Bahai, together with Armenian, English and Greek Orthodox Christians. The school believes that all forms of education should rest on the solid foundation of religion. Scripture is given first place in the school curriculum. The rule is that all must assemble in the early morning to ask God's blessing on the work of the day. Parents expect a great deal from this school. "Have I not already paid fifty piastres for Hannah's education," said an irate Arab father one morning, "and have I not told you that all this money was not spent only that my daughter may be clever in history and geography but that she should learn first of all to be a good girl? How can you defend yourself, for Hannah has already been two weeks in your school and yet she is still a little she-Satan at home?"—Exchange.

For Marital Success

If two people are congenial in tastes, have mutual interests, and apply to their home making and marriage contract half of the principles of good business that they do to outside interests, success in most cases is assured. Troubles may come—and they do to every couple—but people seem equal to these real emergencies. It's the straw that breaks the camel's back, you know, and it's the little things of life that count for the most. Little courtesies must be remembered and each party should endeavor to be a good sport and play fair. A woman who nags is never a beloved woman, and the man who has a perpetual grouch becomes a person to be endured. Affection may be strong but it seldom survives constant criticism, indifference and carelessness of personal appearance.—Rachel Ann Neiswender in Household Magazine.

Cricket "Alarm Clocks"

A novel custom among the Japanese is the keeping of singing crickets which they use like watch dogs—only the warning of the cricket is directly opposite from that of the dog, writes Raymond L. Ditmars, naturalist, in Boys' Life. The crickets are kept in cases not unlike bird cages and sing all through the night. When somebody walks across the floors, which shake because they are laid on bamboo rods, the vibration frightens the crickets and they stop singing. Then everybody wakes up—from the unusual silence.

Bees Not Wax Collectors

It is a common mistake to suppose that honey bees collect wax from flowers. Beeswax is a product of digestion and is secreted by the workers in the form of tiny scales which appear between the segments on the under side of the abdomen. The notion that bees collect wax from flowers undoubtedly arose from the fact that they collect pollen, which is carried to the hive in small masses attached to the hairs of the hind legs. This pollen, often confused with wax, is converted into bee-bread by mixing it with honey.

Pope Guided by Council

The pope of Rome personally does not annul or dissolve a marriage. When there is petition for the annulment of a marriage in the Roman Catholic church or in which a Roman Catholic is involved on the ground of fraud, want of age, want of consent or other valid reason, the matter is considered by the Rota, a supreme council of the Roman Catholic church, which declares its findings and the pope makes a declaration in accordance with such findings.

On the Way

Betty was discussing with her playmate Maxine whether a certain holiday had passed. After debating the question for some time, Betty remarked:

"Well, Max, it hasn't passed our house yet."

Danish History Centers in Old City of Viborg

Viborg is one of the oldest (some maintain the oldest) cities in Denmark. As far as history goes back, there has always been a city there. It is beautifully situated on two hills and along the shores of two lakes. For centuries the Danish kings had to be crowned there before they were actually regarded as kings.

The city has always been a religious center. In the Twelfth and Thirteenth centuries there were 22 churches and many cloisters, although the town at that time had only about 2,000 inhabitants. The city has burned several times, which accounts for the fact that most of the buildings dating from the Middle ages are gone.

Even now, Viborg is one of the most beautiful cities in Denmark, and thousands of tourists visit it each year. The cathedral is one of the main attractions. It is decorated with frescoes from ceiling to floor, depicting the old and new testaments. The cathedral is said to be the only one of its kind north of the Alps. Viborg is situated almost in the center of the peninsula Jylland, which forms the largest part of the kingdom of Denmark.

Viborg is the capital of the amt or county bearing its name and has been the seat of a bishop since the Eleventh century.

Bright Idea That May Have Averted Tragedy

Allusions to the effective use of ridicule against his opponents made by the late Lord Balfour during the term of his chief secretaryship for Ireland recalls an incident of long ago, when a body of convicted prisoners who had been concerned in one of the rebellions—the 1848—had to be marched through the streets of Dublin. The authorities had been warned that a desperate attempt at rescue might be made by the mob and even though a military escort had been provided, there was some uneasiness. In these circumstances a really brilliant notion occurred to the officer in command of the troops. He gave instructions at the last moment that the suspender buttons on the trousers of the prisoners were to be cut off and thus they had to walk through the streets holding up their trousers. The spectacle was greeted with roars of laughter by the crowd, and no more was heard of the attempted rescue.—Montreal Family Herald.

Males Alone Vocal

The fabled henpecked husband may well look with envy upon life in the insect world, for there, according to Raymond L. Ditmars of the New York zoological gardens writing in Boys' Life, it is the male who makes all the noise, the female being condemned to eternal silence.

The chief singing insects, says Mr. Ditmars, are crickets, locusts and katydids. The males of "all these insects sing by rubbing the forward edges of the wings, which, when closely examined, look like mica. These are the resonating or stridulating organs. In the female they are lacking. However, the males more than make up for their mates' silence. The volume of sound produced by these small creatures is astonishing."

Relatives

Benny, age eight, had attended a family reunion and was one of the most interested of all the guests. He heard his mother later telling a friend about the gathering. "And all our 'in-laws' were there, too," she said.

Next day Benny was assigned to entertain a caller, president of the culture club his mother belonged to while his mother slipped into another dress.

Benny drew on all his powers of description in telling her about the family reunion. "And all our outlaws were there, too," he said proudly.

"Please Stand By"

This phrase, so commonly used by radio broadcasters, signifies "Be ready, in wait for further messages or program, keeping the receiver in operation and tuned to the same frequency." This use has probably been adopted from the nautical term "to stand by," because the radio at first was employed largely in connection with shipping. The sailor is ordered to stand by the anchor or the main sheet, in readiness for the next order with regard to it.

The Guiding Instinct

As the traveler who has lost his way throws his reins on his horse's neck and trusts to the instinct of the animal to find his road, so must we do with the divine animal who carries us through this world. For if in any manner we can stimulate this instinct, new passages are opened for us into nature; the mind flows into and through things hardest and highest, and the metamorphosis is possible.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

"Higher Place" Explained

Jack was the cause of much trouble to his parents. At school he was always at the foot of the class. One day, however, he came flying home.

"Dad—mum, I have got a higher place in the class," he cried.

His father gave him a dollar.

"Now, Jack," he asked, "how did you gain promotion to a higher place?"

"Well, it's like this, dad," said the young hopeful. "My desk is being mended."

Duel Over Pilgrim Girl First in New England

Among those who sat down to the first Thanksgiving dinner were two mettlesome youths, Edward Lister and Edward Dotey, both servants of Stephen Hopkins, one of the principal men of the colony.

These boys shortly before had violated the gentle code of the Pilgrims by lighting a duel—the first fought on New England shores.

Swords and daggers were used. The struggle ended with both lads slightly wounded in hands and thighs.

Governor Bradford sentenced the culprits to a tying of their hands and feet as they fasted (in public) for 24 hours.

But Stephen Hopkins and his wife pleaded with the governor and his colleagues of the colony's triumvirate, Elder Brewster and Capt. Myles Standish. On promise of "better carriage" the lads were released.

Historians whisper that Master and Mistress Hopkins intervened because the cause of the boys' quarrel was their too-mutual love for handsome Constance Hopkins, daughter of their master.—Detroit News.

Maya Indians May Have Been "Pioneers" in Corn

At Quirigua, in the republic of Guatemala, there exists a number of most interesting ruins, apparently the remains of temples and other public buildings. There are many individual monoliths, erected as monuments of different sorts, sculptured with human faces and figures and animal designs, as well as hieroglyphics, which archeologists have not as yet been able to decipher accurately. One such stone bears a date in Mayan chronology which has been computed to coincide with 535 A. D. of the Gregorian calendar. The carving of this monolith, which is the largest of the surviving remnants, is still clear and perfect, despite the long procession of centuries that has passed over it. Inscriptions and representations on this and other stones tend to the belief that Indian corn was first cultivated in Guatemala. The corncakes of the Mayan Indians were probably the first attempts to cook corn, or maize, and these cakes are still today the staple of the Guatemalan and Mexican diet.

"Older Than the Hills"

Man's history is brief compared to that of the tulip tree, according to the American Forestry association, for this giant of the woods is literally "older than the hills." Fossil remains reveal that back in the Cretaceous period before mountain-forming disturbances took place and when reptiles were dominant on land and in the sea, there were more than ten species of tulip trees in the temperate belt which then extended across Europe, Asia and North America.

Magnificent tulip trees are found in the Great Smoky National park, some of which are approximately 200 feet tall and are from six to ten feet in diameter. It has been said that the tulip is the finest deciduous tree on the North American continent.

Great Medical Discovery

A young Canadian surgeon, Dr. F. G. Banting, returned from four years of service at the front in the World war with the idea of the new remedy, insulin. He submitted his plans to Professor MacLeod of the University of Toronto, and under the latter's direction, with the assistance of Mr. C. H. Best and others, experiments were begun in May, 1921. After a preliminary trial of the remedy on himself, Doctor Banting saw the first case of diabetes to be treated with insulin to receive his injection in the Toronto General hospital, January 10, 1922. This date marks an important discovery in modern medicine.

Superfine Wool

Shetland wool sometimes refers to English two-strand fine knitting yarn, but its real meaning is very fine and lustrous wool yielded by the Shetland sheep. The real Shetland wool has an undergrowth found under the long hairy wool, and is not shorn but "roo'd" or pulled by hand in the spring. It comes in white, gray, or brown, and is one of the costliest wools known. The wool is scoured and spun by hand, then treated with fumes of sulphur and made up into hosiery, underwear, crochet work and very fine shawls.

In a Fix

Fred and Harold were discussing matrimonial problems on their way up to London from the suburbs.

"Would you advise me to marry a sensible girl or a beautiful girl?" asked Harold.

"I'm afraid you'll never be able to marry either, Harold," returned Fred, a merry twinkle in his eyes.

"Why?" queried the anxious Harold.

"Well," answered the other, "a beautiful girl could do better, and a sensible girl would know better."—London Answers.

Sculptors Kind to Women

Sculptors of ancient Egypt were kind to their women subjects. Women always were represented in the prime of beauty, regardless of advancing age or expanding hip lines, according to Dr. T. George Allen, egyptologist of the Field museum at Chicago.

Only the men were represented in statutes as they appeared in real life, he says.

RYE FOR EMERGENCY PASTURE

May Be Seeded Any Time Before Ground Freezes Up

More emergency seedings to provide pasture for next season will be made this fall and next spring than have been made for many years, according to H. D. Hughes, of he Farm Crops and Soils Department at Iowa State College. Where rotation seedings failed the past season winter rye is the best crop to seed this fall to provide early spring pasture.

While winter rye seeded in the early fall is ready for pasture earlier in the spring than seedings that are made later, rye can be seeded at any time before the ground freezes and still give a good crop. Late seeded rye grows more slowly in the early spring than seedings made in September, but it provides pasture later in the summer.

Seed of any northern grown variety can be used satisfactorily. Dosen rye gives a larger yield of grain than other varieties, but it is not superior when used for pasture.

Hughes advises sowing 6 pecks of seed per acre when the seeding the seding is made in the midle of October or later. If a drill is not available, the seed may be broadcast and covered by discing and harrowing. In many cases there will be no advantage in plowing the seedbed being prepared by thoro discing and harrowing.

Winter rye usually will provide a great amount of palatable pasture from early spring until about June 1. Seeding a mixture of timothy, red clover and sweet clover in the rye the latter part of March or early April will lengthen the season of the pasture. One of the surest methods of obtaining a stand of grass and clover is to seed with the small grain and then pasture the small grain crop.

FEED EWES TO SECURE TWINS

Extra Rations 10 Days Before Breeding Is Reccommended

Give extra feed to breeding ewes at this time of year to insure their being in good condition at time of breeding, sugests J. C. Holbert, of the Animal Husbandry Department at Iowa State College.

It is a profitable practice to put breeding ewes on fresh grain or pasture about 10 days before breeding, altho sometimes the feeding is carried to far and the result is that the ewes are over fattened. The ram is often blamed for the failure of an ewe to drop twins, whereas the poor condition of the ewe sometimes is the cause.

If the ewe is kept on regular feed until about ten days before breeding and then given extra feed, the chances for producing twins are much greater. When this practice is followed and only one lamb is it is usually a much stronger and healthier lamb than would have been dropped otherwise.

KLEMME LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nissen, of Sioux City, spent the week end visiting at the J. N. Day home. They arrived here Thursday evening and left again Sunday. Donald got in some good pheasant hunting while here and took some birds home to show his friends.

Karl Kraus spent Saturday and Sunday at Cedar Falls visiting his daughter, Lucille and also to take in the football game on Dad's Day. He saw Cedar Falls get beat bad, as he put it. Karl says he had a fine time.

Peck Hanson took over the duties of the Sheriff's office Tuesday morning. Peck was elected twice. To fill the unexpired term of the late Mr. Wahlert, and for the two-year term, beginning January 1st. Peck was in town Tuesday morning and made the Times office a call.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gibbs and son of Mason City were week end visitors at the Emma Gibbs home. Charles came over to do some hunting Saturday.

The house which blew up at Mason City last week from a gasoline explosion attracted many visitors. It should be a lesson never to do dry cleaning in the house.

TEST OUT ORANGE SUBSTITUTE

Juice from Tomatoes, Carrots, Spinach, Fresh Cabbage Satisfactory

Tomato, carrot, spinach and fresh cabbage juice may be used advantageously instead of orange juice to supplement the milk diet, which is apt to be deficient in vitamin content according to recent experiments carried out by home economics specialists at Iowa State College.

In some comunities oranges are difficult to purchase and in certain seasons of the year are too expensive for many people to buy. Realizing this, food experts conducted investigations to test the growth promoting qualities of other juices. Rats were used in the experiments since they respond to treatment in food in much the same way as do humans.

A basal diet for all rats used in the experiment was the same. while the fruits and vegetables to be tested were fed seperately. It was found that rats fed on spinach and carrot juice were no different from those receiving orange and tomato juice. On the juice from spring cabbage, the rats maintained normal development. Spinach juice and orange juice seemed camparable both as to mineral and vitamin content.

KILL PESTS OF POTTED PLANTS

Spraying or Dusting Is Recommended by E. C. Volz

Potted plant lovers should examine their plants for diseases and injurious insects, warns E. C. Volz, head of floricultural work at Iowa State College. Common diseases found on potted plants are mildew and leaf spot. Dusting the plants with sulphur or spraying with potasium sulphide, using 1 ounce of material to 3 gallons of water, are favorite remedies.

Insects of various kinds are very troublesome and are found frequently on all house plants. Aphids or plant lice are easily disposed of with a spray of nicotine and soap suds. Persistent insects, as the fuzzy mealy bugs and the brown or white scale, insects on ferns palms and rubber plants, are more of a puzzle unless the proper remedy is known. A solution of lemon oil soap, a patented insectide, is very effective. Also suds of fir tree oil soap and fish oil soap may be used to advantage.

The plants should be sprayed, washed or dipped in the solution and left standing for at least two hours before rinsing with clear water. Several applications at weekly intervals are necessary in obstinate cases.

EAT PLENTY OF RIPE BANANAS

Dietitians Find Them Excellent Food For Children

The ripe banana constitutes a valuable addition to the diet of any child, dietitians in the Home Economics Division at Iowa State College, find This is due to the availability of the sugar and the softness of the cellulose. Banana flour is used in the treatment of diarrhea instead of egg albumin and barley water because the latter diet cuts off practically all of the nourishment.

Banana flour plus condensed milk can be fed to infants in place of cow's milk if that milk is unavailable. Infants fed on this diet gain weight rapidly.

BROWN BLUEGRASS NOT DEAD

Prolonged Heat and Drouth Caused Many to Wonder if Dried Grass Would Recover

Farmers with bluegrass pastures that have been dry and brown for months need have no fear that the grass is dead, acording to L. H. Pammel, former head of the Botany Department at Iowa State College.

Dr. Pammel tells of experiments conducted in his laboratory in late August with the roots of bluegrass, quack grass and some other weeds. The bluegrass and quack grass made an almost 100 per cent recovery when planted and moistened even tho they had appeared dead.

Dr. Pammel believes it will not be necessary to reseed bluegrass because pastures or lawns contain an abundance of rootstocks (roots) which will develop as soon as there is sufficient rainfall. He says the longevity and vitality of these rootstocks are remarkable.

MAY FEED WHEAT TO POULTRY

Can Replace All of White Corn, But Not Yellow Corn

When wheat is the same price or less per pound than corn, is may replace all of the white corn in poultry rations, but wheat is not a satisfactory substitute for all of the yellow corn, says E. W. Henderson, head of the Poultry Husbandry Department at Iowa State College.

At least 25 per cent of yellow corn should be included in the scratch feed or mash of the poultry ration because yellow corn contains vitamin A. This vitamin not found in white corn, wheat, nor other cereals is esential for the prevention of a nutritinal type of roup in pullets, for the growth of chicks. for high egg production and hatchability of eggs.

In the Cornbelt it is more convenient and econmical to supply vitamin A by using yellow corn than by feeding cod liver oil.

DO NOT MULCH FLOWERS YET

Wait Until Ground Has Frozen Solid, E. C. Volz Suggests

Mulching of such hardy perennials as tulips and narcissus should not be done until after the ground is frozen solid, according to E. C. Volz of Iowa State College. The primary purpose of mulching is to prevent alternate freezing and thawing. For that reason plants should not be covered up until quite late, probably early in December, depending on the season.

Dry leaves held down by corn cornstalks provide an excellent mulch, Volz states. This combination elimminates the danger of weed seeds.

Winter protection is necessary only for a few kinds of roses. Hybrid tea and baby rambler roses should be carefully protected by drawing earth up around the stems to a height of about 8 or 10 inches. A mulch of dry leaves or strawy litter may then be placed over this.

One sure way to winter tender roses, such as hybrid teas, is to dig up the entire plant and bury it in a deep trench, covering with soil and a heavy mulch of manure. Altho most climbing roses are very hardy it is safer to give them some protection by taking the canes from the trellis. laying them on the ground, and covering them with dirt or straw. They should be promptly uncovered in the spring before any growth has started.

Hybrid perpetuals and shrubby roses suggested for border and screen planting do not require any special protection.

FERTILIZE EVEN SILO CORN

That Would Be Conclusion of Test In Worth County This Year

The value of using fertilizr regardless of whether the corn crop is put in the silo or husked was demonstrated the past season on the Atwood Dairy Farm near Northwood.

The cornfield, consisting largely of Benoit silt loam and containing a large percentage of alkali, was fertilized with a commercial fertilizer, containing 20 percent phosphorus and 20 percent potash. A small portion of the field was not treated because the fertilizer supply was exhausted.

When the corn was cut to put in the silo early this fall, more than twice as much fodder was found on the fertilized ground than on the unfertilized. The corn on the fertilized soil had large vigorous stalk and was well matured, while the corn on the unfertilized ground showed little growth.

CANDLING OF EGGS IS RIGIDLY ENFORCED

Preventing the sale of eggs that are unfit for food by tho rigid enforcement of the egg candling law has occupied a large proportion of the time of inspectors of the Dairy and Food Division of the Iowa Department of Agriculture during recent months.

"The sale of eggs that are unfit for food is not only detrimental to the reputation of Iowa eggs but it means that producers of good eggs are penalized to make up for the loss which the dealers would otherwise have to absorb," stated M. G. Thornburg, Secretary of Agriculture when discussing this phase of work.

"The only way that a dealer can tell if eggs are fit for food is to use an egg candler when he buys the eggs," declared Mr. Thornburg. "If a dealer pays for rotten eggs, it not only penalizes the business but makes for unfair competition, and a general lowering of prices that are paid for eggs.

We have felt that a thorough enforcement of the egg candling law was the first step toward buying eggs on grade. When dealers candle eggs in a thorough manner as they are received from producers, it is only one additional step to buy them on grade, thereby further stimulating the production of a greater percentage of high quality eggs."

MILK IN DIET NEEDS HELP

Should Be Supported by Fruits and Vegetables, Dietitians Say

Does a milk diet insure healthy teeth?

Dietitians at Iowa State say that milk is not the only essential food for the growth and preservation of the teeth. A large amount of milk is likely to crowd fruit and vegetables out of the diet and be supplemented by carbohydrates, which are not so effective in prevention of dental decay.

Fruits and vegetables help to maintain the normal constituents of the saliva which constantly surrounds the teeth. The vitamins also help to build up resistance to the harmful bacteria.

Milk is an almost perfect food, but its vitamin content is variable. The ideal diet, acording to home economics specialists, is composed largely of milk, plus fruits and vegetables.

CARE FOR NEW TREES, SHRUBS

Past Season's Drouth Still Endangers 1930 Plantings

Trees, shrubs or perennials planted last spring or this fall need special attention because of the unusual drouth of the past season, according to John Fitzsimmons, extension specialist in landscape architecture at Iowa State College.

In sections which have been unusually dry, the ground around the plants should be soaked early in the morning of a fairly warm day so that the surface water will drain away before evening. After the leaves have fallen and the ground is frozen, th plantings should be mulched to prevent alternate freezing and thawing.

Trees and shrubs may die during the winter as a result of drouth if not properly cared for, according to Mr. Fitzsmmons. Hard maples began losing their leaves early this fall because of the dry weather, but in most cases they probably will recover.

Shrubs which bloom in the spring should not be pruned until after blooming, while summer blooming plants may be pruned now or during the winter.

Your Cream Check

Do you know what has happened to your Cream Check this year?

It has shrunk below the figures which it should have been — simply BECAUSE too many families in this country have been eating BUTTER SUBSTITUTES instead of good wholesome BUTTER.

They have been fooling themselves into believing that they were practicing economy. But they were not and as a consequence the butter situation has been held down on account of too much butter on the markets.

If your family would insist upon butter, and not plant oil substitutes, your cream check would not have suffered its depreciation.

eware Of Fake Grocery Peddlers In County

I sound a warning to the in Hancock County? Lyman the marshall at Britt, in- me that grocery salesmen me firm down south are ing this territory taking or- foodstuffs. They take your when you place the order. you will get your groceries be you won't. My opinion you are getting beat even if you get the groceries and I understand that in some cases the groceries were never received. Play safe and buy from your home town merchant. You know him but how much do you know about a strange salesman?

Watch Out For This Fellow!

Another type of salesman that seems to be reaping a big harvest in this county is the Tattoo Marker salesman. The marker is designed for use on poultry, hogs, cattle and sheep. It is nothing more than a cheaply designed pliars with a needle point mark or number. This particular marker is being sold for $7.50. In many cases this company's salesman will try to buy the Wallaces Farmer poultry marker that you might have. He will give you three or even four dollars as a trade-in for your Wallace Farmer maker.

Keep You Good Marker

May I urge you to keep your Wallaces Farmer marker, as I know that each marker they put out is registered with not only County Agents but with all poultry buyers and dealers.

To my knowledge the other marker being sold for $7.50 is not registered and you are buying about 50c worth of metal but are paying $7.50 for it. Why not adopt this slogan? "I am going to investigate before I buy."

START POULTRY RECORD FLOCKS IN NOVEMBER

November is the beginning of a poultry year for those who keep records. The calendar record forms recommended by poultry specialists in the Extension Service at Iowa State College and used the past year for the first time are available at the Farm Bureau office, according to Walt Weiss, county agent.

Those who did not start the new record on Nov. 1 may start later, preferably by Dec. 1, transferring their records to their calendar record.

These calendar records consist of a seperate sheet for each month on which is a place for various records of expenses and receipts, timely information for the flock owner during that month, and other data. The form is easy and simple to keep.

Keeping a record on the poultry flock gives the owner the satisfaction of knowing how much profit his flock is making or losing, enables him to see where expenses can be cut down, helps him find defects in his system of feeding, breeding and management and enables him to produce the same number of eggs from fewer hens, thereby decreasing his expense and increasing his profit, according to Mr. Weiss.

STAR MAIL ROUTE SERVING 3 TOWNS

KLEMME, GOODELL, BELMOND ON NEW MAIL SERVICE

Each Town Will Have Benefit Of Four Mails Each Day

Beginning Monday, December 8, a Star Mail Route will be put into service between Garner and Belmond and wil serve Klemme, and Goodell, with terminals at Belmond and Garner.

Ralph Wilson, Belmond, was awarded the contract for hauling the mail from Garner to Belmond and return, twice a day, leaving and picking up mail at each of the three towns on the route.

Route Leaves From Garner

Mail coming in on the Milwaukee passenger at Garner will be the main "feeder" for the new route.

The first mail will leave Garner at 7:00 a m., and will arrive at Belmond at 8:10 a. m.

Leaving Belmond again at 10:15 the Star Route will pick up mail at Goodell and Klemme, arriving at Garner at 11:30 a. m.

The afternoon mail will again leave Garner at 4:00 p. m. and arrive at Belmond at 5:00 p. m.

After another short wait at Belmond the mail truck will again go north and is scheduled to arrive in Garner at 6:00 p. m. or a little later.

Will Leave And Pick Up Mail

At each of the towns the mail truck will both leave and pick up mail on each trip, which gives four mail services at day for each town.

Chicago mail will arrive in Klemme each morning shortly after 7:00 o'clock. At the same time the mail truck will pick up south bound mail. Returning the truck will again put off mail, and will pick up mail for distribution out of Garner.

The official schedule has not been given out, but at Klemme we will get the first mail about 7:15, from the south around 11:15, agin in the afternoon at about 4:15 and the last mail at about 5:45.

With the new system in operation Klemme and Goodell should have as good mail service as in former years when we had two mail trains a day.

With the Star Route making fine connections at Garner and Belmond the new service ought to be about as good as we have ever had.

ALBERT SWANSON HAS FLOCK OF 1200 FINE LAYERS

Is Trap-Nesting Best Birds; Only Trap-Nested Flock In Nort Iowa

Those of our readers who like to see a flock of good poultry should take a trip to the Swanson Leghorn Farm, just north-east of Klemme. Albert Swanson is the young man who is the owner of this flock of over 1200 god layers.

At the present time Mr. Swanson is trap-nesting and keeping an individual record of each bird, so that he can pick out the very best birds and pedigrees. He has perhaps the only trap-nested flock of Leghorns in this part of the state.

He says that his flock is better than ever this year, as a result of the care he has given in selecting only the best each year.

In this issue of The Times he has an advertisement that should prove of real interest to those who want high grade baby chicks next spring.

Besides being an expert in the poultry line, Mr. Swanson finds time to bee keeping, and his bees produce honey by the ton.

BASKET SOCIAL

Come to the pie and basket social on Tues. eve., Dec. 2, at the Liberty No. 8 school, 4 mi. west of Klemme. A program will be given by the school. Ladies please bring baskets or pies. Fern Stille, teacher; E. J. Blumer, director. 1tc

DOINGS AT SCHOOL THE PAST WEEK

Our boys and girls are happy in the anticipation of another two-day vacation on Thursday and Friday of this week. Some may have turkey, others duck, perhaps a few may eat goose, and many may be glad to sit down to chicken. All will be glad and thankful that school does not keep on Thanksgiving Day. We hope none of them over eat and fail to return on time next Monday marning.

Our basketball team was defeated at Hayfield last Friday night, but will be better prepared for their game here with Crystal Lake on Wednesday night of this week. The game starts at 8.00

It has been thought advisable to offer our basket ball fans this year season tickets at a very fair price of $1.25 for the five games to be played on our own floor. To our own school children they will be offered at but 75 cents. This is a saving of 50 cents on the five tickets said adults and a saving of 25 cents on children's admission to the five games. The regular price of admission for single tickets will be as last year, 20 cents for children and 35 cents for adults. They may may be purchased before our first game, of our students, or of Mr. Day or at the door on Wednesday evening. Let all who can purchase before the first game and be prepared to take all of them in. Adults save ten cents on each game and children five cents. Each can thereby attend five games for less than four would cost them at single admission prices.

Last week ended the second six-weeks period of our first semester and reports of students work will be sent parents this week. We hope they are given the attention they deserve in the interests of good school work. No wise parent will blindly condemn our teachers for unsatisfactory letters on the report cards, but will seek to know the cause for them and will consult their children's instructor who may know some of the reasons for them. Parents and teachers working together in a friendly mood can always do more for the good of the children for which the schools exist. Perhaps poor health, occaisioned by improper diet, or late hours or energy wasted in one form or another is the cause. Perhaps it's lack of will power or interest or just lack of capacity. Whatever the cause it should be known to both parents and teacher so that something may be done about it if possible. Many of our students are doing well in school, however, and are our own pride and their parents joy. They make school work a pleasure. They are an inspiration to us all for they make us feel that our eforts are not in vain.

Our first morning bell rings at 8:30 and our first afternoon bell at 12:45. Parents will please us by observing the time and seeing to it that children are not ushered off to school before these bells ring. Our teachers are not required to be in their rooms before these bells, and pupils should not be in the schoolhouse in their absence. Exceptions must be made, however, in the case of children coming from rural homes from a distance, whose departure cannot always be timed at the school the same time each day.

Our teachers have not as yet reported to us those pupils receiving dental work in accord with our Iowa Dental Plan now being promoted in school. We understand many are having their teeth cared for and we hope many others will do so soon. Let us put Klemme on the map for the children's sake. Perhaps a small expense now may save a larger expenditure later, and at the same time prevent ills that perplex both youth and their parents. A valuable bit of prevention which does not cost much is the regular daily or nightly use of a good dentrifice and tooth brush. All children should be encouraged to form this habit. It will add not only to their health but to their appearance now and for years o come.

Get your tickets for the five basket ball games.

RECORDS HELP POULTRY OWNER IMPROVE FLOCKS

Many Iowa poultry raisers are keeping some form of records on their flocks to enable them to produce eggs and poultry more efficiently and economically, thus making more profit per bird. Flock owners who use the calendar records report indicate that they have been able to improve their poultry management methods in many ways because the records showed them wherein their system was faulty.

Mrs. Fred Wagner who has a flock of more than 900 white leghorns near Washington just finished her first year of record keeping. As a result of information gained by keeping the records, dropping boards and new nests have been installed in the poultry house. Mrs. Wagner reports that the poultry records are simple, easy to keep and provide plenty of room which is a distinct advantage over the records provided by a commercial firm which she used last year.

Dale Allen of near Malvern, has benn keeping records for the past year and has found that it pays to feed mash to the laying flock the entire year. He has found that his income per bird has increased slightly as a result of the use of improved practices to which his attention was directed by record keeping.

Poultry and egg production has been carried a step further than it is on most farms by Mrs. E. L. Huring of Gowrie, since she started keeping records several years ago. She has kept records in coopeartion with the Extension Service for four years. She says that the calendar record is so satisfactory that she can "scarcely estimate the value it has been."

Mrs. Huring has been trapnesting and practicing individual mating of cockerels from high producing stock. She keeps the young and old flocks seperate and uses new ground in order to prevent disease and worm troubles.

As a result of keeping records, which led to improvement of stock and breeding, Mrs. Huring sometimes sells cockerels for breeding Mrs. Ruring sometimes sells cockerels for breeding for ten times as much as she did a few years ago.

Weighing the feed, installing lights in the poultry house, culling the flock more closely, feeding a baanced ration and laying mash the year around, installing a straw loft in the poultry house and securing a good local market for fresh, infertile eggs are some of the improved practices adopted by Mrs. F. A. Stanerson who lives near Conroy. Many of these practices have been adopted as a result of keeping poultry records during the last three and a half years.. During the last two years Mrs. Stanerson has used the forms recommended by the Extension Service. Keeping records enabled Mrs. Stanerson to prove to the rest of the family that she could make as large or larger return on poultry for the money invested than could be made on livestock.

All of the above poultry raisers reported that their income has shown from slight to large increases since they have kept flock records.

A LOOSE GORILLA TERRORIZES FARMERS AT ATLANTIC

A gorilla is roaming the countryside surrounding Atlantic, Iowa terrorizing farm workers and live stock.

The beast has been seen several times and a hunting party was planning to track down the animal, which it is believed to be one escaped from a circus at Glenwood a year ago.

Numerous reports have been circulated about the gorilla's visits and authorities have no doubt that here is one of the giant apes running loose.

A farmers wife saw the beast in a corn field on her husband's farm. The animal came near her, but after watching the woman husk corn for a while retreated without any show of viciousness.

The animal was last seen when two farmers spied it walking beside a fence. As they approached in their car the animal jumped the fence and fled.

DR. FRANK MATHIS

Dr. Frank Mathis, the distinguished preacher and evangelist, will be at the Methodist Church in Klemme for the next three weeks. He will hold his first service on Tuesday evening, December 2.

Dr. Mathis is a member of the North West Iowa Conference, but is known all over the U. S. for his ability as a preacher of the gospel. As an evangelist, he is in constant demand, not only in the smaller places, but also in the largest churches of our denomination as well. His methods are sane in every way, but his preaching is pointed and forceful. He deals with the great themes of the gospel in their vital relation to human life

Dr Mathis wil have a message for everyone and you cannot afford to miss any of the meetings, which will be held every night of the week except Monday and thru service on Sunday.

We also plan for a large chorus and special music. Everyone in the community is invited to attend. Come and enjoy the inspiration and fine christian fellowship of these 3 weeks of meetings. You will find them profitable.

The watering of fall pigs is important, tests at the Iowa Station have shown. An automatic waterer heated with a kerosene lamp, has paid in some of the experiments.

OKOBOJI BOAT JUNKED

The Miss Thriller, once the central figure in one of northwest Iowa greatest tragedies, now lies on a junk heap on a side street of Milford. In July, 1929, the Miss Thriller, then a speed boat in Lake Okoboji, sank, rammed by another speed boat, and nine persons were drowned. Since then it has been much in the limelight. Its owners were twice tried in connection with the disaster, though finally acquitted in another county than the one in which it occured. Expensive efforts were made to raise the boat and it was necessary to hire deep sea divers. When it was finally on shore, its owners planned to make money by exhibiting the death boat to the curious. Then the mayor and citizens of Arnolds Park united in refusing to have the tragedy commercialized.

DON'T BREED COWS TOO SOON

At this season, when many dairy cows are freshening, it is well to keep in mind that they should not be bred so soon after they freshen that the following year they do not get a dry rest period, suggests Wilbur Goecke, tester for the Marion-Lucas cow testing association, in his monthly report to Iowa State College. Mr. Goecke finds that six cows in his association which had no dry rest period this year are 52 per cent below a year ago in production when they were given a rest.

297 MILES FROM CAPITAL

Acording to a recently published chart showing the distance of every county seat in Iowa from Des Moines, Rock Rapids, Lyon county, holds the record, that town being 297 miles from Iowa's capital. Sibley, Osceola county, comes next with 255 miles, followed by Waukon, Allamakee county, 235. Every county seat in the county is now connected with Des Moines by either a paved or graveled highway.

WEATHER AIDS CORN PICKERS

Early Maturity, Small Ears Have Favored Use of Machines

Conditions this fall have been very favorable in some sections of Iowa for the use of the mechanical corn picker, according to E. G. McKibben, of the Agricultural Engineering department at Iowa State College. Where low yelids and small ears were produced and the crop matured early, it was possible to pick corn early and crib it satisfactorily. In some regions, however, the corn was blown down badly and many ears were blown off the stalks, which made it difficult to avoid leaving much corn in the field.

The depression lowered the cost of labor so that competition between the corn picker and manual labor was keener than in other years.

Proffessor McKibben found in tests that mechanical pickers give the poorest results on dry days because the shanks are brittle and the ears are knocked off easily.

Clair West, Raymond Schuldt, accompanied by "Shorty" Busch of Mason City were the victims of an auto acident Sunday, in which Raymond received a fractured left arm, "Shorty" a bruised knee and Clair only a minor bruise. The accident happened near the Bielefeld farm, as the boys were coming north toward the river bridge. Clair West, who was driving Sumner Trumbell's Ford Coach, put on the brakes as he noticed a mud puddle on the other side of the bridge. The radiator, and front fenders of the car were badly damaged, and the windshield and both door glasses broken.

We Thank Everybody

At this glad Thanksgiving time we turn to thoughts of thankfullness. We are indeed thankful for the fine patronage of our farmer friends the past year, who have stood by us loyally. We are thankful for the fine spirit of Co-Operation shown us by all the past year.

This Thanksgiving Day we not only want to thank the farmers for their loyalty and support— we also want o hank all of you who have endeavored to assist the entire dairy industry in the campaign—the slogan of which is "EAT MORE BUTTER." We thank the people of our community for the interest they have shown in promoting the dairy industry, and their co-operation in helping the Klemme Creamery to grow both larger and better.

ORCHARDS AREN'T PASTURES

Large Numbers of Livestock Do Damage to Fruit Trees

When tempted to turn hogs, cattle, horses and sheep into the farm orchard, one should remember that it takes 10 years to grow a good, productive orchard and therefore it should not be made to serve as a pasture, warns H. W. Richey, professor of horticulture at Iowa State College.

Horses and cattle cause damage by nipping the trees. Hogs do very little damage when only small numbers are allowed in the orchard, but it is aways well to keep in mind that an orchard is not a hog pasture.

WILL RENEW NOSE FLY FIGHT

Wright and Butler County Farmers Who Waged Campaigns Last Year Plan to Repeat Them

The nose flies that attack horses can be "licked."

Wright and Butler county farmers who put on extensive community campaigns last year are convinced of this. In fact, they are so sure of it that they are going to put on similar campaigns again this year and some of the work will be done in nearly every county of central, northern and western Iowa.

The community campaigns which were put on in two Wright county townships last year were organized by the local Farm Bureau in cooperation with Fred D. Butcher, extension entomologist, and Dr. K. W. Stouder, extension veterinarian Iowa State College. Local veterinarians administered the treatment to the horses.

The results of the campaigns in these communities, where practically 100 per cent of the horses were treated, noticeably reduced the number of nose flies. Another striking result was that the horses which had been treated came thru the winter in far better flesh than in previous years.

The nose fly is a member of the bot fly family and so spends one stage of its life attached to the stomach walls of a horse. The treatment for the nose fly, to be most sucessful, must be timed to catch these flies at the proper stage in the stomach, which is during December or early January, according to Dr. Stouder. Hence, any communities which wish to put on campaigns should organize them early enough so that the horses can be treated some time during the next two months.

The usual charge for treating horses is 50 cents per head for materials and professional services. The treatment consists of getting a capsule containing carbon bisulphide into the stomach of the horse.

COWS EAT SAWDUST

Making cows eat sawdust, and like it, is the feat of the Forest Products laboratory, Madison, Wis. A process has developed that converts the fiber of the woody pulp into food for cattle by treatment with heat and chemicals. Its immediate application is seen in utilizing the sawdust that was formerly a useless by-product of lumber camps. Tests indicate that cows and other livestock thrive on the sawdust diet, says the Popular Science Monthly.

GET THE MAIL BOX READY FOR WINTER MONTHS

The rural mail box is another item which must now be added to the list of things which we must get ready for winter. With the state prepared to plow all trunk highways, and many of the counties and townships increasing their snow removal programs, more mail boxes must now have attention than in former years.

Even with the most careful driver behind the snow plow, it is often impossible to see the mail boxes or to avoid hitting them. With the high speed plows in general use, the mail box on a rigid post too close to the highway is in a precarious position. One type recommended by the state highway department has a swinging arm, made from a 2 by 4 ten feet long, counter-weighed so that the mail box is up in the air and out of the way. A short piece of rope is attached so the mail carrier or persons calling for the mail can easily pull it down within reach. A diagram showing the material needed and how to construct this box will be furnished by the department on request.

Another type is made by using an iron pipe for he postwith a smaller "L" shaped pipe as a swinging arm The mail box is bolted to one end of the smaller pipe and the short end of the "L" fits loosely into the post.

Simpler and less expensive types are the common tripod or "horse" and the post set in the old milkcan ballasted with gravel or cement. These require moving back and forth but if the owner forgets to move them before the plows come, they will not be as badly damaged as boxes on posts set in the ground.

"WELL BRED" CORN STANDS UP

Winds recently have blown down a great deal of corn in Iowa, extension specialists of Iowa State College who have been out over the state report. The wind struck fields at Ames where some strains of the corn used in the extensive breeding program which is now under way at the college, were grown.

When the corn was harvested where the wind had hit, M.T. Jenkins, who is in charge of the corn breeding work, observed that come of the hybrids—crosses of inbred strains—were not even leaning, while perhaps in ajoining rows, or at least in nearby rows, would be other straine in which 50 to 60 per cent of the corn was down.

Still another difference has been noted in the different strains, varieties and crosses—some have shanks which make the ears "hang onto" the stalks, while others drop the ears off badly. This is important from the standpoint not only of hand huskers but especially of those who use mechanical corn pickers.

When the ears fall off, it may be due to a diseased condition as well as to the breeding, Mr. Jenkins says. Often the shanks are diseased and for that reason break off even tho they may be large.

Activity of Small Use if Not Wisely Directed

Aeschylus, one of the greatest of the Greek poets, tells us that "A child pursues the flying bird," and the old Greeks who heard him understood just what he meant. We have often seen a dog go after a flying bird with all possible eagerness; and we smiled at his folly. The dog might be a good runner, but the bird had no need to fear his speed. We have seen a dog chase a railway train and if the dog could think, no doubt when the train had passed beyond its ken it would say to itself, "I chased away that great monster."

Activity is little use unless it is wisely directed. A man may spend a lifetime chasing flying birds, or attempting to catch something which he has never the remotest chance of securing. Men have spent many years trying to discover the secret of perpetual motion, but the secret still eludes humanity. Youth is usually busy at something or other which is perfectly practicable, but occasionally we find a wild chase after the impossible. And, even if the child caught the bird, what would he do with it? Suppose we get what we are after, what good will it be to us? We have seen men catch something which they had been seeking for months, or even years, and when they had secured it they were no farther ahead. The thing was not worth the effort.—London Times.

Roger Bacon First to Use "Magnifying Glass"

"Spectacles" is the name given to lenses of any required form which are supported in front of the eyes to assist vision. In the early days when it was not easy to obtain glass of good quality, they were also made of quartz or rock crystal, as it was called. Some years ago quartz lenses were revived by opticians and sold at fancy prices on the erroneous plea that they were cooler to the eyes.

Prof. M. von Rhoh says that Roger Bacon explained how to magnify writing by placing a segment of a sphere of glass on the book with its plane side down. Demand for spectacles increased during the Sixteenth century with the advent of the printed book, especially in North Italy and South Germany, where there were glass workers. The early mounts were made of horn and leather, and about this time metal began to be used.—Kansas City Star.

How He Benefited

Blinkers looked at his doctor.

"Yes, doctor," he said, "the strain of life to one in my business is very great." He paused, then: "But I have a great remedy, you know, and that is cycling."

"Ah, I can quite believe you," said his doctor. "First-rate exercise, cycling. Takes you out of yourself. Fills your lungs with fresh air; brushes away the cobwebs of care, eh?"

"Well, no, it's not that."

"No?"

"The fact is, when I do go out I'm so thankful to get home alive that I feel in high spirits the rest of the day."—St. John Telegraph-Journal.

Somewhat Out of Place

The place was crowded. It wasn't exactly a fashionable wedding, but there was no gainsaying the interest it caused, because both bride and bridegroom had been much in the public eye, she as an actress, he as a conjurer.

Everything went well until they reached the critical stage of the proceedings, and the clergyman asked for the ring.

The bridegroom plunged his hand into his pocket and brought out a rabbit. Then the horrified look in the clergyman's eyes and a startled exclamation from the bride made him realize that something was wrong. He looked down and saw the rabbit.

These Happy Victorians

One entry in the diary of Mary Gladstone (afterward Mrs. Drew), daughter of W. E. Gladstone, "Grand Old Man" of Victorian politics, reads:

"Quiet evening at home. I was in my room at 9:30 and heard him and mamma coming up the stairs singing, 'A ragamuffin husband and a rantipolling wife' at the top of their voices."

"Him" was her father, the prime minister of England, then seventy-four years of age. "Home" was No. 10 Downing street, official residence of the P. M.—Kansas City Star.

"In the Doldrums"

To say, "I am in the doldrums" signifies that one is "in the dumps," or is depressed. It was originally a term of the seas. The word, "doldrums" refers to the shifting zone of equatorial calms of variable airs between the trade winds. The weather is hot, moist and extremely dispiriting with heavy and frequent rainfall usually accompanied by thunderstorms. In the old days, sailing vessels sometimes laid by helplessly becalmed for weeks with the crews "in the doldrums."—Kansas City Times.

Comma-ical

It's funny what a difference just a comma will make. The following shows that:

"After washing golf hose, babies, sweaters and stockings, place them on wooden frames bought especially for this purpose. The articles will dry evenly without shrinking and will not require pressing."

This is the best and most complete grinding Mill in Hancock County—and it's at your service now!

We are fully prepared to grind any kind of feed that the farmer raises on his farm... If it ever paid to feed home grown feeds and grains it does this year. Grain is cheap and livestock prices high, comparatively. Mill Feeds are high compared with grains. You can make MONEY by bringing in your grain and have us make it into a form that the LIVESTOCK can REALIZE the MOST out of it!

Our PRICES are LOW — our CAPICITY is LARGE — and you have NO LONG WAITS here.

If you are one of the farmers in this part of Hancock County who has never tried having feed ground here—we invite you to call and inspect our Mill, see what it can do, and ask about our prices.

We are here to SERVE the FARMER always, and we are working for his best interest.

Tankage, in ton lots at $60.00. Less than ton at $62.00

EASY TO RESURFACE OLD LINOLEUM

Home Furnishing Specialist of Iowa State College Tells How

Resurfacing linoleum will aid in brightening up the kitchen, will make the floor covering last longer and save money for new coverings, according to home furnishing specialists in the Extension Service at Iowa State College.

The old linoleum should first be cleaned thoroly and alowed to dry. Broken parts may be mended, putting a patch of inner tube both on the upper and under sides and cementing securely.

A coat of good floor paint is then aplied to the linoleum and allowed to dry, after which a second coat of the same paint may be applied if necessary. The paint may be plain in color if desired but is more easily kept clean if a second harmonizing color is stippled on.

The stippled effect can be secured by applying enamel with a spongo fastened to the end of a stick. The enamel should be thinned and the stipling evenly distributed over the sunface. A second harmonizing color may be stippled on while the first is still wet. After the enamel has dried, good floor varnish should be applied and allowed to dry for at least 24 hours. A coat of wax will help maintain the appearance and lasting quality of the finich.

More boys and girls are needed in the Klemme School Band. Let R. A. Jorgenson get an instrument for you—new or used, all prices. tc

A ONE-CENT CHRISTMAS STORY

I won't buy a stick of candy.
I buy no newspapers nowadays.
I can't even go to Sunday-school alone.
I can think of more things I used to do that I am no longer allowed to do than any husband in the world.
Eleven months in the year I am good for nothing.
But in December—oh, boy!
Then I come into my own.
I buy the most beautiful decoration for a Christmas gift package.
I buy hope for the sick.
I buy health for a child.
I buy a CHRISTMAS SEAL.

"STOP!" SAYS SANTA CLAUS

Among the thousands of children hurrying daily to school or play, many need to heed the signal of Santa Claus, who directs the Christmas seal traffic.

"Watch for the red light," says Santa. "When you see it, stop. The red light means danger to health; it means too much strain; short hours of sleep, ill-chosen food; neglected teeth and tonsils; too little sunshine.

"Tuberculosis usually begins in childhood, and may be endangering health long before any symptoms appear. Fully half the cases of adult tuberculosis in later years show X-Ray signs of having had this early condition called childhood tuberculosis at an age under 15. Such children can usually be discovered by the X-Ray and the tuberculin test and given special care.

"Parents should see that children take the well-marked detours around the steep grades during the years when the child is becoming a man; when school life is most intense and the temptation to excess is greatest.

"On the road to health, keep your brakes in good condition, stop at the red lights and proceed cautiously when you see the blinker of overstrain."

1930 Christmas Seal

This is the 1930 Christmas seal. Santa Claus has given it his official approval by uplifting his hand to emphasize the holiday greeting, "Merry Christmas—Health to All."

Everybody buys Christmas seals which raise the money to fight tuberculosis, but few know that the original seal designed by Howard Pyle in 1907 is now treasured by stamp collectors and has a value of $5.00—5000 per cent. of the original cost of one cent.

This is the twenty-fourth seal sale. Practically all the returns are used in the community where the money is raised. Some of it goes for national purposes, such, for example, as the work of the national committee on medical research, which is conducting extensive laboratory experiments on the nature of the disease process known as tuberculosis.

HEALTH CAN BE BOUGHT

Health is not an accident. Science has shown us that certain diseases are unnecessary. Among these is tuberculosis, taking a toll twenty years ago of two hundred lives out of each 100,000, since reduced to less than 80.

An organized army is devoted to extirpating this disease entirely from society. The attack is centered on tuberculosis because of its insidious character as well as the extent of its onslaughts, for those who die because of it usually waste away slowly, and the life of the community is permeated with the by-products of the disease in depleted energy of workers, and poverty. There is another great reason why the forces arrayed under the banner of the double-barred cross, financed by the annual Christmas seal sale, concentrate on tuberculosis. This is because the measures that prevent tuberculosis also prevent many other diseases. Annihilate it and the danger of other diseases is reduced proportionately.

How may this be done or rather how has it been half-done already? The cure of the disease is by rest, fresh air, wholesome food and sunshine. The prevention is by rest, fresh air, wholesome food, sunshine and exercise.

It is so simple most people don't believe it—they would be inclined more to see value in the sudden and mysterious "discovery" of a sure panacea.

CHILDREN NEED MUSCLE FOOD

This Feature of Diet Frequently Neglected, Specialist Says

Muscle building food one of the most easily supplied elements of the diet, is too frequently found lacking in the children's diet says Miss Ruth Cessna, extension specialist in foods at Iowa State College.

If a child has a full developed, muscular upper arm, he is probably eating sufficient muscle building foods, while flat flabby muscles in the upper arm indicate an inadequate muscle building diet.

Milk, eggs and meat are the most common muscle building foods. A quart of mlk every day is advocated One or two eggs and a serving of meat once a day are desirable for school children. Younger children should have the same amount of milk but smaller quanities of the other foods.

Half the total quantity of milk may be used in cooking and the rest as a beverage. If possible the children should have some milk at noon, preferably hot, as ni a creamed soup. This may be prepared at home for school children and taken in the lunch and heated at the school.

Eggs may be used in any of the three meals. They make a good sandwich filling for the school lunch.

Meat is one of the best muscle building foods and is easy to serve Beef, veal, mutton, liver, fish and all kinds of fowl are excellent foods for chidren over 2 years of age. Portions of meat from the exercised parts of the animal are the best to use for children, as they contain the most iron.

A Jersey cow owned by Meredith Jersey farm, Des Moines, recently won a gold medal from the American Jersey cattle club for large production of butterfat.

Blue prints for many farm buildings are available at cost at Iowa State College.

The grain of wood is important in making paint "stick."

A tank heater for dairy cows pays.

AROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

COUNTY VETERINARIANS ARE READY TO BATTLE BOT

Treatment Found Beneficial To All Horses Which Have Bots

Farmers, the veterinarians of the county are ready to start treating your horses for the Bot or nose fly. Remember this, too, that you are not only getting rid of the bots in the stomach of your horses, but are also getting rid of the worms in your horses.

Many Horses Are Infected

I would guess that 90 per cent of all the horses in the county are infested with worms and we know they are infested with bots. The treatment is worth one dollar per head just to rid the stomach of these worms and bots saying nothingof the relief from the nose fly the coming year.

Has Treated Horses Often

Mr. Cooper, living just on the edge of Kanawha, told me that he has treated his horses for the past five or six years just to get rid of the worms and bots. He did not pay much attention to the time of treating but was primarily interested in freeing his horses of these evils. When he first started treating he paid one dollar per head and last year seventy-five cents per head. He also told me that even if none of his neighbors treated their horses he was going to treat his because he has seen the results and knows what it is worth to dispose of the worms and bots.

Are Nearly One Hundred Per Cent

Liberty and Twin Lake and also Amsterdam townships have eight of the nine districts signed up ready to start treating and the other districts will be ready in he next day or so. Ell and Concord are all signed up ready to have the treatment administered. Many of the other townships have almost every district covered which means that much interest is being shown in this project. The results will convince any farmer in the county.

Farmers Will Be Notified

Before treating, every farmer what day the veterinary will be at his place to treat his horses. Remember this, farmers, that the horses must be starved twenty-four hours before treating. The notices you receive will give you sufficient time to do this. In other words, if the vet was going to be at your place on a Friday morning, you would get your horses in and feed them Thursday morning but would not feed them again until after they were treated.

Watch Out For Peddlars

Let's take advantage of this opportunity and beware of salesmen other than vets of trying to sell you capsules to treat your horses with. Knowledge has come to me in regard to men traveling the north sectioin of the county trying to sell the Bot Fly capsules to farmers so that one farmer in a township can treat the whole township. Remember, that there is a lot of difference in the capsules that can be used for this work and that you might be buying a sugar pill that will not do the work. You can rely on your veterniarian so why not let him do the work as what he will administer will be O. K.

Here's Proof For You!

To verify what I have been telling you in regard to many of the feeds being sold by out-side salesmen, may I refer you to Ted Boehnke near Ventura. Ted has had experience with them and will gladly give you his opinion.

Don't forget about starving your horses twenty-four hours before they are treated.

The per capita consumption of dairy products is now the highest in the nation's history, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

TANNER CAR STOLEN SATURDAY NIGHT FOUND AT GOODELL

Clarence Tanner accompanied by Dwight Hummel drove the Tanner Ford "pick-up" to Belmond Saturday night on business.

The men had completed their business and nad returned to the place where they had parked, only to discover that the car had disapeared. Mr. Hughes of Belmond assisted the men in the search and combed the town. He then brought the men to Klemme. First they stopped at Goodell to search but found no trace of the car. Coming to Klemme they notiied Mayor Paul Grange, who in turn got in touch with Cheriff Hanson.

Later Harvey Christenson, Goodell, telephoned Clarence Tanner that he had ound his car parked back o the school house and had put it in his garage. Wereupon Mr. Tanner went to Goodell to get the car, which he ound in good condition.

It is supposed that someone had "borrowed" the car to get back to Goodell. However, it was a dirty trick and caused a lot o trouble.

PHORT CO., OF DES MOINES TO DRILL NEW TOWN WELL

Work Expected To Begin Early Part Of Coming Week

The contract for the work of drilling a new well for the town of Klemme was awarded by the Council to the Phort Co., of Des Moines. This company are specialist in the construction of large wells.

Acoording to information it is expected that the Phort Company will begin work on the Klemme well the fore part of next week. Work will be pushed ahead rapidly and men will work day and night until the well has been competed.

While this work is progressing it will not interfere with the present working of the water system. There will probably not be a single minute break in the water service, as the work will be so arranged that connections can be made while service is maintained from one of the two supply tanks.

The new well will be 12 inches in diameter and will be as deep as is neccesary to produce not less than one hundred gallons of water per minute.

The old well and pumping system will be maintained, so that the town will have two complete pumping systems.

At the present time there are in the neighborhood of one hundred patrons depending upon the water system. The present system was hardly adequate to take care of this number of homes. Witht he new well and equipment installed the system should be able to care for the needs of the town for some years to come, and will be large enough for any imergency, such as a large fire in the town.

Klemme has long felt the need of a better water supply system.

RENT FARM TO STUDY EROSION

200 Acres of Page County Land To Be Used in Study

The State Board of Education has decided to pay part of the rental of a 200 acre federal experimental farm in Page county. The remainder of the rental or the farm will be paid for by Page county citizens and organizations, who started the movement to secure the farm when they sent delegates to Iowa State College in October to confer with agricultural experts on the possibility of establishing the farm to study soil erosion problems.

The federal Bureau of Chemistry and Soils in the United States Department of Agriculture will spend about $25,000 a year for a period of ten years in studying the control of erosion on Marshall silt loam, one of the most important soil types in the midwest. The experiments will be carried on in cooperation with Iowa State College.

AVERY TOWNSHIP FARM BUREAU HELD MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Avery Township Farm Bureau was held Thursday evening, Nov. 27 at the school house in District No. 8. The committee in charge of this meeting was Mrs. Jay Buchannan and Miss Edith Halfpop.

The program opened by singing two verses of America. The minutes of the previous meeting were ead by W. R. Prelipp, and he also gave the director report of the last board meeting which was held at Garner.

The balance of the program was carried out in the following order:

Song "America, the Beautiful."
Story, "Polly's Thanksgiving," by La Vonne Sherwood.
Reading "Something to be thankful for," Mrs. J. J. Cook.
"Results of Nutrition Work," by Mrs. Howard Barger.
One Act Play, "Troubled by a Ghost." Boys of Dist. No. 8.

Refreshments were served which consisted of sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee.

A large crowd was in attendance.

MIDWEST UTILITY SYSTEM IS LAUNCHING INVESTMENT DRIVE

Mid-West.. States utilities Company,.. parent corporation of the Iowa Union Telephone Company which furnishes this city with telephone service, will launch a permanent campaign.. for customer-ownership of its securities, about December 15th, it was learned today by L. O. Deal, local manager.

Class A shares of the Mid-West system will be the initial offering, Mr. Deal said. Officials of Mid-West States system have incorporated, in Delaware, Mid-West States Securities Company which will be theinvestment division of the utility.

Proceeds from the sale of securities to customer-owners will be used for the improvement of the company's plant within each territory, according to advices from the system's main offices in Chicago, Mr. Deal said.

"These shares never before have been offered except by members of the international banking syndicate," the communication from Chicago to Mr. Deal said. "It has long been our desire to permit investors in smaller communities to participate in profits from the service furnished them. The system has been in the process of expansion which has left us insufficient time for carrying on such a campaign. The establishment of an investment subsidary is intended solely to answer requests from numerous subscribers and to improve public relations by distribution of profits."

The shares, which are traded daily on the New York Curb Exchange, will be sold through the company's local office, Mr. Deal said.

Many Children Have Turned In Health Cards To Teachers

We have asked our grade teachers to submit to us names of children whose parents have acted upon the advice of our county nurse with respects to physical defects observed. Some of the defects may not have been very serious but the parents were wise in taking steps toward their correction. Only slight defects neglected for a time may develop into much more serious ones, causing the child much discomfort and the parents not a little concern besides involving added future expense.

Turned In Health Cards

The following children have already turned in their health cards, signed by physcian or dentists: Shirley Johnson, Jacqueline Kudje, Allen Barz, Magnus Schuldt, Russll Wade, Marvin Suckow, Elnor Schuldt, Doris Johnson, Eugene Kluckhohn, Everet Barz, Milvern Barz, Franklin Kluckhohn, Arlene Krause, Buster Jorgenson, Carmen Kluckhohn, Max Barz, Alvin Barz, Avis Barz.

High School Students Report

In High School the following have been to their dentist for work on teeth needing attention either just before or since school began: Ethel Lemke, Emma Goll, Esther Greimann, Gladys Bridges, Irene Bridges, Loraine Lemke, Cecil Bridges, Edith Swanson, Dale Schle Thelma Kluckhohn, Verner Priebe, Esther Pals, Ethel Barz, Florence Tanner, Ethel Schoenwetter, Verle Keraus, Mitchell Bock, Nellie Stromer, Gracka Quandt, Ethel Swanson, Clarice Johnson, and Blanche Gimer.

Parents Show Real Interest

We are glad for this interest on the part of the parents in their children's physical welfare. We are sorry, however, for the boys and girls whose parents have apparently done nothing for them. From one of the rooms twelve children are reported as having teeth needing attention. Some of these children are underweight and it may be due in some part to their teeth. Some children were found with very bad eyes, others with adenoids, or tonsils needing attention, yet so far as we know these defects have not received attention. We hope it may be given soon that the children may have every advantage to keep abreast of their classmates.

Have Fine Attendance Record

Miss Barz of grades 5 and 6 reportes the following children of her room neither absent nor tardy this year: Raymond (Buster) Jorgenson, Glenn Lewis, Wayne Shoafstall, Thelma Gimer, Max Barz, Norman Sampson, Arlene Kraus, Doris Ludeke and Nora Wellemeyer.

Nine Others Have Record

From grades 7 and 8 Miss Ford reports as neither absent nor tardy to date: Milvern Barz, Leo Brinkman, Mabel Schlichting, Mabel Griffen, June Ludeke, Thomas Gimer, Berends Schaper, Bessie Larson, and Ruth Wellemeyer.

Should Not Sacrifice For Record

We hope all of these can go thru the year without marring their record. But if accidents come as they sometime do to prevent perfect attendance, no one should feel too badly about it. Perhaps, on some days both the child's and his classmate's interests would be better served by non attendance. This is especially true in case of a threatened contagious disease or even in case of a very severe cold. Too great a price may be paid for an attendance record. Children should not come to school nor be sent there any day at the peril of their health. But fortunate are the children who are always well and can come to school every day of the school year.

Basket Ball Team Put Up A Real Exhibition

Our basket ball team on last Wednesday night played as though they were inspired. We expected them to lose by a much larger score. They scored but five points less than Crystal Lake. They will continue to improve, we feel certain, and will eventually be giving a good account of themselves. They go to Corwith on Friday night of this week. They plan a return game with Hayfield on Friday night of next week on their own floor.

SOYBEAN FLOUR FOR INFANTS

Mixed With Water, It May Substitute For Milk In Some Cases

A soybean food preparation has been found to be satisfactory for feeding some infants who are sensitive to milk, according to nutrition workers in the Home Economics Division at Iowa State College. The preparation, soybean flour, contains all the needed proteins and thus solves the problem of feeding some milk sensitive infants.

Altho soybean flour may be used as a sole source of protein in the infants diet, cod liver oil and orange juice need to be given also. Soybean flour is light brown in color and of moderate consistency so that it mixes well with water and passes through a nipple easily. It contains plenty of vitamins and, minerals and has a fairly high fat content. Sugar should be supplied to meet the needs of the infant in accordance with the advice of the family physician.

EVER EAT SEA WEED CANDY?

It's Good Way To Get Your Iodine, Nutrition Specialists Say

Foods and nutrition specialists at Iowa State College advocate eating candies or cookies prepared partly from sea weed as a novel way to secure the daily requirement of iodine. Chemical analyses made in the laboratories of the Home Economics Division show that a given weight of the thick green kelp contains 1,000 times more iodine than an equal weight of butter. The iodine present in the dark brown sea weed is more than tne times that of the thin, green variety.

Japan's unusual candies are made from varieties of sea weed. Flat candies are made by coatng strips of the brown kelp with sugar These confections resemble candied orange peel in apperance. Caramel-like candies are prepared of this same thick variety by incorporating it in rice paste. Stick candies and compressed cakes are made from the thin green sea weeds.

One sixth teaspoonful of the powdered sea weed is sufficient to meet the iodine requirment of the average adult. Sea weed confec- may be purchased at various drug stores.

IOWA DAIRYMEN CLEAN HOUSE

They Are Buying Few Dairy Cows and Culling Rigidly in Response to Lower Dairy Prices

Dairymen in Iowa have been sending many of their cows to slaughter this year and they seem to be buying fewer cows than they did a year ago. These, are the observations of C. Y. Cannon, head of the Dairy Husbandry Department at Iowa State College,

A large surplus of dairy products reduced prices, but recently the surplus of grains has lowered feed prices so that now the price relationship between feeds and butterfat is really as favorable if not more favorable than a year ago, Dr. Cannon says.

The financial status of the dairyman has been somewhat improved by the drouth, which reduced production during the summer and early fall and helped get rid of the dairy products surplus. Further improvement has come thru the culling of low producing cows.

Improvement in the industrial situation undoubtedly would increase consumption of dairy products and thereby raise dairy prices still more, Cannon believes.

"The tendency when butterfat prices are low is to let up on feeding, which at the present time would be a mistake," Dr. Cannon asserts. He believes that with feed and butterfat prices as they now stand it will pay the dairyman to feed heavily on grain this fall and to use a well balanced ration even tho that may require some buying of high protein feed.

SKELETON OF BUFFALO FOUND NEAR CORWITH

Corwith Hustler: While Fred Trenary was plowing up a tract of virgin praire west of Corwith he unearthed the skeleton of a buffalo which was found a few inches below the surface of the ground. The plowshare broke up some bones but the bones of the head are in an excellent state of preservation. The animal must have been a big one as the horns measure 28 inches from tip to tip.

A Card Of Appreciation

I wish to express my deep appreciation for the work that has been done for me by my kind neighbors and friends while I have been in the hospital. I thank you one and all for husking my corn and for plowing and helping in any way.—A. E. Dutheridge.

Last week The Times made an error in a basket social notice in which it was signed E. J. Blumer, director, when it should have been E. G. Beier, director. We don't want to beat Mr. Beier out of his job of director, and at the same time, however, E. J. Blumer would not be out of place as a school officer. It was just a case of misreading by the linotype operator.

MAYBE THIS IS WHAT IS WRONG WITH KLEMME

Read the following and think it over. It applies to buyers of printing just as much as it does to buyers of merchandise in other towns. The merchant who refuses to buy from his fellow merchant and drives to neighboring towns is in the same boat as the farmer who buys from a mail order house, they're both rocking the boat.

Mr. Babson in the New York Economist has the following to say: "Take a town of from 500 to 1500 population and let one man spend $300 a year outside that could just as well have been spent at home and if this man is owning property valued at $5,000 in the town he has depreciated this property the amount he spent out of town. And in five years he has depreciated his property $1500. The home merchants have lost $600 in profits and a total of $5,100 has gone forever from the town.

BUDGET TIME-GET MORE DONE

So Advises Appanoose County Farm Woman Who's Tried It

A budget, or plan, of the time used in housework will enable the housewife to accomplish more work with less worry, says Mrs. Herbert Joiner, Appanoose County farm woman.

A lesson in the use of time in the home management project conducted by Miss Fannie Gannon, home management specialist in the Extension Service at Iowa State College, prompted Mrs. Joiner to make a written plan for the next week's work. This week happened to be the one she had scheduled for fall house cleaning.

Three days of rainy weather followed, which would ordinarily wreck the usual plan of a week's house work which included house cleaning. With a well thought out plan written down in black and white, however, Mrs. Joiner was able to shift tasks which could not be done in rainw weather to other parts of the week and substitute other work. The result was, according to Mrs. Joiner, that she was able to get all the work done which she had planned, while under previous conditions she would have accomplished only about half what she intended to do.

DESCRIBE POULTRY EQUIPMENT

Right Kind Essential in Laying House at This Season

At this time of year when the laying flock will soon be confined indoors much of the time, the kind of equipment in the poultry house is highly important, poultrymen at Iowa State College point out.

Laying house equipment falls into two general classes—that for the convenience of the birds which includes feed hoppers, roosts and waterers, and second, that which is for the convenience of the poultryman, which includes the dropping boards nests and the like.

Itis recommended that dropping boards be made in sections that are easily removable. The perches should be level. The Iowa State poultrymen recomend placing a wire netting between the perches and the dropping boards to keep the birds from stepping in the droppings.

A feed storage hopper, wider at the bottom than at the top so as to insure continuous feeding down of the mash, is suggested. Trough hoppers also may be used. Both the feed hoppers and waterers should be raised off the floor so that litter will not be scratched into them.

A social was held at No. 9 school Wed. evening when No. 5 and No. 9 schools gave a joint program. A community play was given and enjoyed by all. About $21 was received from the sale of baskets, pies, etc.

Clarence Tanner had quite a scare Saturday evening, while he was attending a show in Belomnd as some one drove off with his Ford. He reported the loss at once to the marshall and sheriff, but later found it standing on the street in Goodell.

The ladies of the community gave a farewell party in honor of Mrs. G. E. Snearly in the church parlors Saturday evening. A fine time was enjoyed by all present. Dainty refreshments were served and Mrs. Snearly was presented with a $20 gold piece and a motto. Hosts of friends regret very much to see Dr. and Mrs. Snearly leave, but the best wishes go with them to their new home in Huston, Texas. They expect to leave about December 2, and intend to have a moving van truck their furniture through. The new doctor who bought Dr. Snearly's practice, arrived from South Dakota Saturday evening.

Derivation of "Tariff"

According to Edwards' "Words, Facts and Phrases," the word "tariff" comes from the Moorish name "Tarifa," a fortress that stands on Cape Tarifa, a Spanish promontory commanding the entrance to the Mediterranean. When the Moors had possession they levied duties at certain fixed rates upon all merchandise passing in or out of the straits. The Century dictionary and other authorites on etymology, however, give the word a different origin. It comes from an Italian word, "tariffa," meaning "casting of accounts" or "list of prices," which was itself derived from the Arabian "arif," meaning "knowing."

Adjustable Owl

An "adjustable" owl is on view at the zoo, London. It is known as a European Scops owl, and, though insignificant in size, being normally less than six inches high, it is regarded as a great rarity. The color and markings of its plumage are like those of a tree trunk. When at rest the owl elongates its body and sits motionless in such a position that it resembles the stump of a branch. But a remarkable change comes over it when alarmed. It blows out its body, which visibly grows in size like a toy balloon being inflated. The bird is then almost globular in shape and quite unlike its elongated self.

Theory Made Real

A few years ago at a meeting a banker opined that the total amount of money in the world ought to be equivalent to the total wealth of the world; else, he suggested, people would never be able to pay their debts. He explained that in the United States there were $20 of wealth for every dollar of money, and therefore there was but one chance in twenty of a debtor's paying his debts.

"I will give $5," he said, "to anyone who can disprove that statement."

When no one accepted the challenge, a wag suggested it was because there was only one chance in twenty of getting the promised $5.

Beautiful Capetown

The sea voyage to South Africa is the fair weather voyage of the world. Capetown, once a remote outpost of civilization, is today one of the world's finest cities. It is not only beautiful and delightfully situated but the cape is historical as well, for it was here in 1487 that Dias saw the sea-route to India and this incited Columbus, who in his search for india found America instead. The discoveries between 1487 and 1497 mark this era as the dawn after the Dark ages and the first rays hit the cape when Dias discovered his way around.

Mythological Birds

Probably the best known of the fabulous birds of prey were the roc, which was a bird so enormous that it obscured the sun where it flew and carried away men in its talons; the phoenix, which was a bird with a beautiful voice and a long tail like a peacock's, which was supposed to rise from the ashes of fire; and the harpy, which was a terrible bird with a woman's face and breast and great claws like an eagle's, which pursued men who had sinned.

Magnification

The magnifying power of a telescope is proportional to its length as well as the shortness of focus of its eyepiece. Thus the use of different eyepieces yields different magnifying powers, but those exceeding 1,000 are seldom used because of the trembling of the earth's atmosphere. Compound microscopes may magnify as much as 2,000 times.

ROUND THE COUNTY WITH AGENT WEISS

VERY VETERINARIAN WORKS IN FLY BOT BATTLE

Work Well Under Way In Ten Of The Townships Of The County

Bot Fly work in the county has started in earnest with every veterinarian in the county treating cases. Treament has started in Boone, Magor, Britt, Orthel, Twin Lake, Avery, Amsterdam, Bingham, Concord and Liberty townships and with weather permitting it will be but a short time until each township will be reached.

Results Are Beneficial

"I am sure that those farmers that think they do not care to treat will reconsider as soon as they talk to men who have treated. This is the case where the results can be seen one cares to check up the bots and worms passed by their horses.

Greiman Won At International

With fourteenth place in a class of one hundred entries,, Ronald Greiman certainly can feel proud of his Aberdeen Angus Baby Beef calf shown at the International Livestock Exposition. With the best of the country shown at this Chicago Show, not only Ronald, but all of Hancock county should feel proud of the showing made by "Clyde" the Angus Baby Beef.

Night School Proves Popular

The night school on hog production being conducted by Jay Venteicboe, Smith-Hughes Agricultural instructor of the Garner High School certainly got off to a good start last Thursday evennig when 30 adult farmers reported for the first meeting of a series of ten to be held this winter. Each farmer that possibly can do so should attend this series of meetings as many points of practical interest to hog producoers are thoroughly discussed If you failed to attend the first meeting do not fail to attend the other nine which are held each Thursday evening at the High School building in Garner.

Plan Now For Next Year

Farmers, it is not too early to think about your pig crop for the coming year. The best place to start to assure good results next spring is with your brood sows and gilt right now. The litters they produce for you next spring will have a direct bearing upon the care feeding and management given your brood sows from now until farrowing. Remember that corn alone is not a good ration for your sows. They need well bedded and dry quarters free from draft along with a good ration.

Here's A Good Sow Ration

A satisfactory ration for your sows follows: Corn 10 parts, tankage 1 part. Buttermilk or skimmilk best to replace tankage. Feed 4 to 5 pounds per 100 pounds (weight of sow) daily. Alfalfa hay will replace some of the tankage and some oats can be fed to advantage. Along with this you should have a mineral mixture before the sows at all times. The following is a satisfactory mineral mixture which is not expensive.

Simple mixture is as follows: Limestone 40 lbs; spent bone black 40lbs.; common salt, 20 lbs.

About one pound of the above mineral per month per sow is all that is needed so do not think that the sows are not getting enough or do no like it when they don't eat more.

Gives Pigs Plenty Of Water

Along with the above, of course, the sows and gilts should have access to all the water they want when they want it.

Basket And Pie Social

Hancock County Boys Will Have A Part In College Short Course

Several new features have been added to the Boy's Short Course in which Hancock County boys will participate at Iowa State College, Dec. 29 to 31, according to word re-received by county agent Walt Weiss from state leaders in the Extension Service.

Each day programs will be broad cast by leaders and club members over WOI at 11 o'clock. Definite programs including special musical numbers are being aranged and will be announced later.

"Old Timers" To Have Job

For those who have attended previous shotr courses, special work is being arranged so that these boys will not have to take the same work as in the past and may continue a more advanced study.

For the first time in the history the short course the boys will have an opportunity to participate in music appreciation work under the drection of Miss Fannie R. Buchanan newly appointed community development specialist. The annual banquet, one of the traditional "high lights" of the program will be held in memorial union the evening of Dec. 30.

During the Short Course the state 4-H club convention will be held at which state officers will be elected for the coming year.

Will Compete At Ames

Kildee medal for the high scoring boy in livestock and the Bishop trophy offered to the high scoring boy in both livestock and crop judging. Members of the high scoring county teams of three boys in both livestock and grain judging will be awarded special trophies.

Little Dorthoy was asked to name the great characters born in February. She studied a moment and then said, "Washington, Lincoln and Ground Hogs."

HEATER EXPLODES; HOME IS DAMAGED

A heater in the living room exploded at the George Krambeer home near Kanawha about 7:30 Friday morning. The door and the whole front of the stove was blown off. For a second the room was full of fire but a lace curtain was all that ignited and somewhat damaged. Live coals touched the shirt of one of the boys, doing little damage. The pipes fell down and the room was blackened up in great shape. A large piece of the stove struck the wainscoating and took a large piece out of it.

Mr. Krambeer had put some wet cardboard in the stove on the hot coals shortly before the explosion occurred that may have been the cause. There had been a fire in the stove since early morning.

USE "THINKER" BUYING GIFTS

And Don't Give Gifts Not "Good Enough for You"

In the rush of Christmas shopping we often neglec tto study our gifts as carefully as we study the things we buy at other times during the year, says Miss Alice Helen Waugh, of the Applied Art Department at Iowa State College.

It is best to stick o he old adage hat we should never give anything as a gift that we would not be glad to keep for ourselves , she says. Miss Waugh advises Christmas shoppers to buy only those things for gifts which are useful or beautiful.

Simplicity in design or decoration should never be considered a fault, as it is better to have gifts too plain han to have them over decorated so that friends will not use them. Personal gifts should be purchased only when the buyer is well acquainted with the tastes of the recipent.

Things bought for a house should harmonize with the things that are already there. Spend thought as well as money on Christmas gifts and the festival will be a happier one for everybody, is Miss Waughs advice.

FIVE MISTAKES

A man struck a match to see if the gasoline tank in his automobile was empty. It wasn't.

A man patted a strange bulldog on the head to see if it was affectionate. It wasn't.

A man speeded up to see if he could beat the train to the crossing. He couldn't.

A man touched an electric wire to see if it was charged. It was.

A man cut out his advertising to see if he could save money. He didn't.

HANCOCK BOYS TRAP 765 POCKET GOPHERS

Hancock County has paid $76.85 in bounties this year, most of it being for pocket gophers at the rate of 10 cents per gopher. When filling their bills the claimants must produce the two front feet of each gopher they have killed. Seven crows went to the happy hunting ground and brought their slayers five cents each in bounty. No wolves or other wild animals on which bounty is paid were killed, at least no claims for them have been filed with County Auditor Chris Jacobs in 1930. According to the records 765 gophers were trapped and the bounty of ten cents each has been paid, there having been 77 separate warrants issued for that many claims filed during the year.— Britt News-Tribune.

JACK RABBIT JUMPS THROUGH CAR WINDOW

As D. E. Williams and family were returning from Emmetsburg after spending Thanksgiving Day, a jack rabbit was met traveling along the highway. The animal became confused by the lights and made a high jump going right thru the windshield and landing in Mr. Williams's lap. The rabbit was killed. Broken glass scratched Mr. Williams and his son who were in the front seat. Losing the windshield made travelling rather cold and it was necessary for the family to stop in Wesely and warm up before resumnig their journey homeward.— Britt News-Tribune.

THREE POUNDS CORN ON ONE STALK

"Believe it or not" but John L. Thorngren, county agent in Shelby County, reports that thre ears of corn, wo of them more than welve inches in lengh and the third more than 11 inches long and each weighing more than a pound were picked from one stalk on the Otto Thompson farm recently. Considering the poor corn year, Thorngren is considering putting in some kind of a claim for a championship for his county.

TRAPPED UNDER CAR FOR 4½ HOURS

Usng his teeth to tear the back curtain of his Ford car and digging in the mud, Everett Hollenbeck Grand Meadow youth, freed himself and his brother, Marvin, after they were imprisoned beneath the car several hours. The two boys were returning to their home from a dance at Pierson when the car plunged into a ditch and overturned imprisoning them so that they were unable to move.

The boys were uninjured but suffered colds from exposure in the night air from about 11 o'clock to 3:30 in the morning. After the two released themselves they walked a mile to a farm home to get aid.

DOINGS AT SCHOOL THE PAST WEEK

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS HEAR VIEWS OF TWO MEN

Rev. Mathis, Evangelist, And Mr. Hamilton Talked To Students

Rev. Mathis, the evangelist now working in our community, was a welcome guest at our High School last Friday and spoke to our students. It was a fine address which he gave and enlisted the closest attention of all there.

His theme was "David and Goliath", or "Fighting Giants in our Lives"

Mr. Hamilton of Hamilton Business college, Mason City, stopped here on Monday of this week and gave a brief but very interesting talk on the value of an education in comparison with money, fame, and pleasure. We feel we can afford to make a place for such men when ever they chance to drop in on us. Theirs are messages from real life and serve to help young people get the right attitudes oward life.

School Closes Next Week Friday

But three weeks of this semester yet remains after this one. School will close on Friday evening of next week for two weeks and will begin again on January 5.

Large Number In Declamatory Work This Year

Miss Trumbell reports 26 students of our high school now working on declamatory selections. We are glad at this number of students interested in such a worth while activity. As between this training and that given on th gym floor we feel, the advantages are much in favor of the training in public speaking. We are convinced those interested and working seriously in this contest wil come to realize its value to them in larger measure each year of their mature years. Parents do well to give their children lots of encouragement toward his form of school activity. Many children need it and a lot of them profit from it beyond measure.

Hayfield Plays Here Friday

Our boys will play a return game with Hayfield on our own court on Friday night of this week. In deference to the meetings on at the Methodist church the game will not begin before 8:30. Some may want to attend both and this will give them the opportuniy. We believe both preachers may want to attend as well as some of our prominent laymen.

Miss Goll of our primary room has invited our faculty to her home on Wednesday night of this week. The invitation has been accepted and a good time is anticipated.

New Students Are Enrolled

Three new students have this wek enrolled in our grades. They are children of Mrs. Paul of near St. Louis, Mo. We believe they will prove desirable students. Our grade enrollment is the largest ever now with an even 100.

Two more students have been to the dentist to have their teeth fixed. They are Ruth Wellemeyer and Leo Brinkman. We hope many others will attend to the matter.

A pair of wild mallard ducks came to H. J. Thieman's place last Friday evening, and flew down and joined his flock of tame ducks. The pair of mallards followed the tame ducks into the chicken house and spent the night there. Mr. Thieman says the wild ducks left early again the next morning. The wild ducks were evidently attracted by calling of the tame ducks. Mr. Thieman said the mallards were not a bit wild, and that he caught them in the chicken coop to see if they were banded or marked.

Mr. August Barz celebrated his 80th birthday last Friday, December 5th. He had somewhat planned to make an ordinary day of it, but did not reckon correctly, for his children and their families had made other plans to spend the day with him in feasting and merriment. All of Mr. Barz's children, with the exception of one, Mrs. Otto Baack of Tracy, Minn., were with him to help celebrate. Mrs. Baack was unable to come on account of the slippery roads. Accordingly at the appointed time Mr. Barz's children and families began to arrive, all with baskets heavily packed with good things to eat for the big dinner. Lena Schroeder and Mrs. Henry Barz had each baked a great big birthday cake for the occasion, and each cake was handsomely decorated in a fashion that pleased Mr. Barz. For dinner there were about fifty people who met at the home of Lena Schroeder, and in the evening a crowd of about ighty people helped Mr. Barz remember his birthday. Those present for dinner were: Mrs. Henry Lau of Tracy, Minn.; Will Barz and family of Garner; and the following from this vicinity: Herman Barz and family; Fred Barz and family; Lena Schroeder; Henry Barz and family; Albert Barz and family; Emil Barz and son Max; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wille; Mr. and Mrs. George Born; Mr. and Mrs Walter Rosendahl; Mr. and Ms. Martin Barz; Miss Adella Schroeder; Miss Vola Goll, the Kothenbeutal girls, and Rev. Grosshuesch and family. The evening was spent in playing games, singing songs and visiting, and all left at a late hour wishing Mr. Barz many more such happy birthdays.

Butter Is Rich In Vitamins

Says Dr. E. V. McCollum, nutrition authority:—"BUTTER should be used as a spread, in cooking, and in the preparation of various food dishes whenever possible, for a LIBERAL supply of the vitamin is better than the minimum on which growth is possible."

Sine BUTTER is one of the BEST food sources of VITAMIN "A" and since Vitamin "A" is such an important food accessory, it is wise to use enough BUTTER each day to be sure that you are giving your body a reserve of the important vitamin.

There is no subsitute for good BUTTER—and there is butter better han PURE, WHOLESOME KLEMME CREAMERY BUTTER.

Are YOU doing your part to make your family a strong, healthy family by using MORE BUTTER?

Figures That Talk

The difference between September 1st and Dec. 1st is 90 days or $3.25 per hundred in the price of hogs and $3.25 per hundred in weight on a 200 lb. hog is $6.50. When multiplied by fifty head you have the sum of $325.00 besides the feed saved.

The work saved— the chances of disase eliminated— does it pay? We know of MOR-GAIN fed pigs 6 months old weighing 227 pounds that were sold September 1st for $10.25 per cwt.

Perhaps this is above the average so we'll say October 1st. And say the difference is only $2.25 per cwt. It still pays to feed the MOR-GAIN way. The reason is in every sack— pure ingredints— proper variety— perfect balance. Test MOR-GAIN Pig Meal for yourself.

HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN!

We have just received word that Mor-Gain Feeds have again been reduced $2.00 per ton!

FARM BUILDINGS NEAR CORWITH SET ON FIRE

Fire that it is thought was set destroyed the barn on the Geo. Clark farm a mile east and two north of Corwith Friday night. A dance was in progress at the Clark home when the barn was found ablaze. It was about 10:20 P. M. when the light from the fire attracted attention. The men rushed out to release livestock and found the doors on the side next to the house fastened from the inside. Going to the offside of the building it was discovered the doors were open and when men enteded to release two mules and a horse they found them gone. This points to incendiarism.

The fire was kept confined to the barn and destroyed 30 tons of hay, 500 bushels of oats, seed corn hard coal and some other articles stored there. The men succeeded in getting the harness out.

Our team, will play at Kanawha next Friday night. They will be found in there fighting every minute and f they get any of the breaks at all will win. One of our forwards seems to be able to throw them in backwards and if left unguarded may do Kanawha a lot of damage.

Took In Byrd Picture

On Monday evening of this week between fifty and sixty of our high school and a few from our grammar room went to Belmond for the famous Byrd Picture of the South Pole. It was well worth seeing. What a wonderful age it is when there can be brought to view scenes of such remote and little known places on this globe of ours. What admiration it all serves to create in the mind of youth for such heroes of science and hazardous travel. How much more we can appreciate our own place of existence when we are permitted to compare it with the severely cold, icy regions which Dick Byrd introducedu s to in this great picture. Seeing this production should make geography more real to every boy or girl in our schools.

We understand Belmond school children were to be permitted to see the picture on Tuesday evening.

MORE FALSE ECONOMY

Is the United States so poor in resources and money that it should be feeding its disabled soldiers in asylums, homes and Veteran's hospitals on Oleomargarine?

Facts placed in the Congressional Record show that in the principal insane asylum maintained by the U. S. Gorvernment, not a pound of butterfat is bought for use, but 121,000 pounds of Oleomargarine was bought last year.

In eleven U. S. Homes for Disabled Soldiers over a half million pounds of Oleomargarine was bought, and two of these bought no butter at all.

In all but two of the 21 U. S. Veterans Hospitals (where are World War disabled are cared for) Oleomagarine was bought and fed to the patients. Every Federal prison served Oleomargarine in large quantity, all but one using more Oleomargarine than butter.

The record does not show purchases of Oleomargarine by the U. S. Army, but the Army ration calls for a quarter ounce of Oleomargarine pee day per man.

The clear spot on the ground is the U. S. Navy and Navy Hospital. In this branch of the service-thanks probably to the La Follette Seaman Bill, no Oleomargarine is bought or used.

The total purchases of Oleomargarine, bought by your money as a payer of Federal taxes, in the hoepitals, prisons and Soldiers Homes, amounted to almost a million pounds. Over half of this was fed to the disabled volunteer soldiers.

The National Grange at its annual convention in Rochester, New York, passed a resolution asking that the government stop its purchases of Oleomargarine. You can write to your own Congressman about it. Also to both Senators from your state. You tell these men how badly we need the market for this additional million pounds of butter.

EVERY TOWN ON PRIMARY ROAD

Proposed legislation which will come before the Iowa legislature this winter will prove of interest to every small town in the state. The law proposes to increase the primary road mileage of the state to 8,215 miles. It will place every town in Iowa of 150 or more population on a primary highway and most of these highways will be paved.

Had such a program been proposed in the beginning there would have been less opposition to the paved road program from the smaller communities. The huge increase in receipts from the gas tax and auto licence fees has made this program possible.

If this legislation is enacted Iowa will have the best highways in the nation and more of them according to its size than any other state.

Klemme is now on highway No. 179 connecting with No. 15 one-fourth mile west of town.

FARM BUREAU OFFICE MOVED TO GARNER TUESDAY

Annual Election Held At Britt Is Said To Have Been "Fast" One

The annual aFrm Bureau election was held at Britt Monday and after the smoke had cleared away and everybody had drawn a deep breath, behold! the Farm Bureau office had dissappeared from the village of Britt and was found to be comfortably housed in rooms above the Farmers National Bank at Garner.

From the side-lines it loks like an old "East-West" scrap, with the east side boys pulling a fast one before the boys around Britt knew what was coming off.

Anyway the Farm Bureau office, records, stenographer, agent, and the whole works was moved to Garner Tuesday.

Oh, well, as the saying goes, "if it's a good thing, pass it around."

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT TELLS HOW TO KEEP ICE OFF WINDSHIELDS

Fairmont Sentinel— Sleet freezing on windshields caused a large number of motor vehicle accidents in the first onslaught of winter, a state highway department bulletin states in offering some suggestions as to how this ill may be combatted.

If the rear hook of the engine is unfastened, the bulletin says, and the hood raised an inch or so, the heat from the engine can be used to keep the sleet from freezing on the glass. If the wind is blowing cross ways of te car use a pasteboard box to carry the heat closer to the glass.

For vehicles having heaters inside the suggestion is made that a piece of tire tubing be carried and made use of to carry the heat directly to the lower side of the windshield. The warmed glass serves to prevent the sleet from sticking. a small bag of salt fastened to the upper end of the windshield wiper is said to afford some relief, but the melted salt forms a smear that is somewhat troublesome and that reguires he use of alcohol for its removal.

The bulletin urges drivers to exercise exceptiona care when sleet conditions prevail because, while one's own windshield may be clear those of other drivers may not be on account of wind conditions.

THE ORIGIN OF CHRISTMAS AND SANTA CLAUS

Now that Christmas, with all its good things, bith material and sprtual, is upon us, it mght be well to delve back into history and learn how this great festival originated. Nearly everyone has a vague dea of the origin of Christmas, but very few have a definite knowledge of the beginning of this joyous festival and ts joyous Santa Claus and Christmas tree.

The following bit of history, taken from Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia, should prove intensely interesting to everyone, because Christmas is a subject all of us are interested in:

"From the early centuries of Christianity, the anniversary of the brth of Christ has been celebrated by a special church festival. In early England, this festival was called 'Christes Meshe', meaning Christ's Mass', whence we get our word 'Christmas'.

"At first the date of the celebration varied in different places, home churches observing it n December, others u January, April or May, because of the absence of historical record as to the exact date af Christ's birth. January 6th was the usual date observed in the Eastern church, and it still continues to be in the Armenian church. The celebration of December 25th spread to most parts of theChristian world in the fourth and fifth cenuries; but differences in the calendar still cause differences in the tme of celebration.

"One of the causes that worked to establish the new festival on December 25h was probably the fact that this day marked the beginning of the great winter solstice festival of the pagan Gauls, Germans and Britons. As in other instances where pagan festivals were replaced by Christian, many of the old pre-Christian customs and symbols were taken over. The Yule log, holly, mistletoe, and wassail bowl are all reics of pagan- observances.

"During the midde Ages Christmas became the greatest of popular fetes. Churches were adorned with rustic decorations and quaint little plays were given portraying events connected wth the birth of Christ his early years.

Dutch Gave Us Santa Claus

"The jovial old Dutch settlers of New York brought them across the ocean with the joyous observances of the fatherland.

We of the New World owe our Santa Claus to them, for this jolly old Santa is none other than St. Nicholas or San Nicolaas—the patron saint of children—as pronounced in Dutch.

"Today the observance of Christmas is well nigh universal through out the Christian world. Everywhere it is above all the children's holiday. In England and America the little folks hang up their stockings in a row before the fireplace and Santa Claus, we are told, rushing down from the north in a sled drawn by reindeer, scrambles down the chimneys and fills them from the great pack on his back. In some of the Baltic lands the gifts are supposed to be brought by the Christ Child (Kris Kringle) himself. In France the children place wooden shoes on the hearth to receeive the presents which 'Bonhomme Noel' (Father Christmas) brings. Norwegian children have a lot of fun hunting their new toys which have been tucked away in unexpected places. In Italy presents are drawn from the 'Urn of Fate'—a custom which originated in the urn of fate of the ancient Romans.

"Almost every land of Chrstendom has its own Christmas carols. In England 'waits' sing under windows on Chrristmas Eve as they have done for countless Christmases. In Russia the Ancient Kolyad a songs once sung to pagan gods, now dedicated to Christian Saints, are sung about the streets. The French Noel songs and the famous German 'Kristlieder' are heard wherever there is Christmas music.

"The Christmas tree, with its golden star and lights, and its imitation frost trimmed boughs, is as much a part of the celebration as is the Christmas carol. Some trace its origin back to Roman days, but its first appearance as a regular institution was along the Rhne sometime durng the 16th cenury. At the beginning of the 19th century the fashion spread all over Germany, and by 50 years later had conquered all Christendom."

WARN AGAINST DANGER OF EXHAUST GASES

"Personal comfort should not be sought at a sacrifice of human life," says the Iowa State Department of Health. 'And yet this is the price many people pay, especially at this time of year. When cold weather comes people are prone to run to cover behind closed doors—closed windows, and closed garages, merely in an efort to avoid exposure to cold. Cold weather adds much to the difficulty of starting the automobile engine. It takes more time to start a cold engine and hence more time is spent in the garage. It is but natural that the owner should desire to be as warm as possible during this time. The natural thing to do is to shut the garage doors while the engine is warming up. The operation of an ordinary six cylinder automobile engine in a garage 12x16 feet, with the doors and windows closed, will in five minutes generate sufficient carbon monoxide gas to kill a person. This gas is odorless and colorless and gives no warning until its victim falls unconclous. Moreover, the ags is heavier than air and is denser near the floor. Unless the victim is discovered soon after he falls he breathes the denser gas and death is almost inevitable. The body has no protection against such gas, nor is there any indication of its presence.

LIVER MAY HELP DIABETICS

Recent Experiments Hold Hope It May Replace Insulin

Liver, which has become such a popular food in treating anemia and, for its nutritive qualites, may become a valuable ad in lowering the blood sugar level in diabetic patients.

Results of experiments conducted in the Home Economics Division at Iowa State College concur wth those previously obtained by Dr. Harry Blotner and Dillian Murphy of Boston. These physicians preformed experiments using varing amounts of liver in the diet of an individual suffering wth dabetes.

It was found that the decrease in the blood sugar level was very marked. Regular substitution of liver for insulin is reported to be effective in relievng dabetic sufferers. Providing further experimental work makes liver a recognized treatment for diabetes, it would reduce the living cost and would make life a bit more pleasant for the diabetic.

TREATING SEED CORN HELPS

Increases Yield 3.3 Bushels an Acre in Tests Last Year

Treating seed corn with mercuric dusts resulted in an average increased yield of 3.3 bushels per acre the past year, in tests conducted on Iowa farms under the direction of R. H. Porter, extension plant pathologist at Iowa State College.

Ten demonstrations were conduced in as many counties, Three varieties being grown in each test. Each variety was treated with three different commercial dusts.

The average yeild of the untreated corn was 53.3 bushels per acre while the yield fro mthe treated seed was 56.9 bushels per acre according to Mr. Porter.

The average increase in yield from treated sed of early maturing varieties over untreated seed was 3.8 bushels, medium early maturing varieties 3.2 bushels and lat varieties 2.8 bushels, These results are the reverse of those ordinarily obtained, according to Porter.

Planting conditions were such that corn planted in the middle of May had poorer growing conditions than that planted May 1 to 5. The cold, wet period in the middle of May retarded germination and the greatest benefit of seed treatment was found in fields planted at this time, while ordinarily they gve best results on early planted seed. In line with results of the past year however corn planted after the middle of May during a warm period showed less benefit from seed treatment.

The corn in the test plot was handplanted to insure is having he same number of kernels per hill and each variey was repeated 10 times in the same field to avoid any variation n results due to differences in soil.

WEEDS YIELD TO CULTIVATION

Common Tillage Checks Most of These Pests, Pammel Finds

Much of the damage caused by weeds can be eliminated by the employment of common methods of clean cultivation, according to Dr. L. H. Pammel, Iowa State College botanist, who for the past 10 years has been conducting a survey of weeds in Iowa.

Over most of Iowa clean fields can be had within a few years by using common methods of tillage. Annual weeds are the ones responsible for the most damage. The most important weeds in this classification are green foxtail, yellow foxtal, barnyard grass, heart's ease and smartweed. In southern Iowa the shoefly and Indian mallow are becoming increasingly important. Bristly foxtail is found in abundance in western Iowa. Pigweed and lamb's quarter menace most parts of the state.

Seeds of the foxtail varieties and barnyard grass do not keep their vitality for a long time. Dr. Pammel points out. The greater percentage of seeds lose their vitality within three years. Seeds of heart ease, pigweed and lamb's quarter have a somewhat longer period of vitality.

Indian mallow and shoefly weed seeds keep their vitality for a long period and have been known to germinate after a lapse of 70 years.

The United States Chamber of Commerce has now interested itself in the problem of weed extermination. Dr. Pamel's survey is incomplete as yet, but the solution which he advances for the weed problem is clean cultivation.

GAINS AND LOSSES

While the approximate gains and losses of the various states in the number of their Representatives in Congress as a result of the new apportionment law have been known for some time, the official figures based on the 1930 census were made public only a few days ago.

The Constitution provides that an adjustment of representtation shall be made every 10 years, but Congress failed to preform that duty in 1920, as a result of the refusal of representatives of slower growing states to support a reaportionment bill.

But last year a law was passed providing that a reapportionment should be made, but that the preseen number of 435 Representatives should not be increased. The new census reveals that under this plan there must be only one Representative for each 280,000 of population, wheras the former basis war one for each 211,000. On the new basis those states affected by this change will gain or lose as follows:

Gains in Representatives: California 9, Michigan 4, Texas 3, New Jersey, New York and Ohio 2 each, Connecticut, Florida, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Washington 1 each.

Losses in Representatives: Missouri 3, Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky and Pennsylvania 2 each; Alabama, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Dakota, Rhode Island South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia, and Wisconsin 1 each.

Thus 32 states are affected by the new deal, 11 states gaining and 21 losing in th number of Congressmen. The legislatures concerned must now redistrict the affected sates to conform with the new arrangement.

And there will be plenty of legis lative wrangling before this adjustment if accomplished.

IOWA-BOUNTIFUL LAND

By George Gallarno

IOWA, according to the state census returns of last April, has 5,311 churches, with a membership of 1,126,466, which is practically 50 per cent of the total population of the state.

IOWA churches and church property have a valuation of $90,000,000 and expend $17,932,305 yearly in carrying forward their religious work.

IOWA has 800,000 automobiles of all kinds, valued at $649,600,000

IOWA owned automobiles, averaging only three to a car, could take the entire population of the state on a joy ride at one and the same ime. And by a little crowding to capacity we might have the population if Omaha go along as our guests.

IOWA devotes more than 48 per cent of the total annual expenditures of the state government to the maintenance of the state educational institutions. The total expenditures during the past biennium for the schools at Iowa City, the State University, at Ames, the State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, at Cedar Falls, the State Teachers College, amounted to $14,045,113.20

Figures That Talk

The difference between September 1st and Dec. 1st is 90 days or $3.25 per hundred in the price of hogs and $3.25 per hundred in weight on a 200 lb. hog is $6.50. When multiplied by fifty head you have the sum of $325.00 besides the feed saved.

The work saved— the chances of disase eliminated— does it pay? We know of MOR-GAIN fed pigs 6 months old weighing 227 pounds that were sold September 1st for $10.25 per cwt.

Perhaps this is above the average so we'll say October 1st. And say the difference is only $2.25 per cwt. It still pays to feed the MOR-GAIN way. The reason is in every sack— pure ingredints— proper variety— perfect balance. Test MOR-GAIN Pig Meal for yourself.

HAPPY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN!

We have just received word that Mor-Gain Feeds have again been reduced $2.00 per ton!

JULIUS PRIEBE HAD THRILLING RIDE MONDAY

Julius Priebe had a thrilling auto ride Monday that took in all the dips and jumps of a roller coaster.

Mr. Priebe had driven his car out to his farm and was returning to town. When at a point just south of Klemme he saw a scoop shovel on the pavement and stopped to pick it up as he presumed it belonged to the farmer whom he saw up the road further on his way to town. Mr. Priebe had crossed the river bridge and was slowing down as he approached the farmer and the wagon near the second bridge, which he just crossed when the shovel fell off the car. Mr. Priebe had slowed up considerably by this time and he put on his brakes to stop the car. In doing so the car started to slide and cut capers and had already headed straight down the steep embankment When the car finally stopped it had neatly clipped off a fence post and broke the wires, and Mr. Priebe continued on through the gate thus formed; drove across the river, up Herman Priebe's hill and back on the highway—and handed over the shovel.

All of this was accomplised with but a very small dent in the car.

LAY FARM, HOME WEEK PLANS

State College People Are Preparing for Thirtieth Annual Short Course to Be Held Feb. 2 to 7

The five divisions of Iowa State College which present programs during Farm and Home Week, are now busy completing plans for the thirtieth annual short course at Ames, Feb. 2 to 7. These programs include exhibits, demonstrations, discussion meetings, banquets, plays and mass meetings.

Swine Feeders' Day will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 3. Poultry Marketing Day is also scheduled at that time. Wednesday has been designated Corn Day, When the Iowa Corn and Small Grain Growers' Association meeting will be held. Horse and sheep men will also meet on Wednesday.

Thursday will be Fertilizer Day. All of the Iowa Dairy Cattle breed associations will meet on that day, also. The farm business conference will be held on Thurdays and Friday, with the agricultural outlook program occupying most of the second day. R. M. Vifquain chairman of the short course committee, believes the outlook program will attract special interest due to present economic conditions on the farm.

THE WATCHERS

By WILLIAM LEE BURTON

We also serve . . . on porches, cold and still;
Beneath the frosty stars our beds are white,
A long, dim line; there's snow upon the sill . . .
We think of home—of Christmas—here tonight.

We think of wives and sweethearts left behind:
For their dear sakes we must, we must, get well!
But these long months, this weary, hopeless grind . . .
And yet we must go on; must not rebel.

Some day, perhaps, our bodies will be strong;
The world outside will know us once again,
And these dim nights that sometimes stretch so long
Will be a memory of vanished pain.

And you who hurry by on Christmas Day,
With Christmas peace and gladness in your heart,
Think once of us, before you go your way—
We also serve. We also do our part!

(This poem was written expressly for the 1930 Christmas seal sale by William Lee Burton, who has spent the last five years of his life in an Iowa tuberculosis sanatorium.)

THE FIRST WEDDING IN NEW CHURCH

MISS FLORENCE SWALVE AND MR. JOHN ALBERS MARRIED

Three Course Dinner Served After The Church Ceremony

The first wedding ceremony to be performed in the new Reformed Church ocured last Thursday, December 18th at high noon, when Mr. John Albers and Miss Florence Swalve were. united in marriage Both of these young people are members of the congregation.

The service at the Church began with the wedding procession, played by Miss Edith Haupt, church pianist. Mr. Lubbe Albers, brother of Mr John Albers, and Miss Carrie Swalve, sister of Miss Florence, were the attendants. Bennie Schaeper acted as ring bearer. The impressive double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch, pastor. Two solos added to the charm of the ceremony, "Oh, Promise Me," and "Because," sung by Miss Lucile Kraus.

The Bride wore an eggshell satin dress and long bridal veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow and pink roses, trimmed with fern leaves. Miss Carrie Swalve, the bridesmaid, was dressed in winter green. Both the groom and best man wore suits of the conventional blue. At the close of the service Miss Haupt played Lohengrins Wedding march.

After the service the invited guests gathered at the home of Mrs. Dick Swalve, mother of the bride, and partook of a three course turkey dinner, which had been prepared by Mrs. David Schwichtenberg and Mrs. B. A. Reemtsma. The confirmation class-mates of the bride: the Misses Mabel Schuldt, Mabel Griffen and Lucile Kraus, served as table waitresses. About sixty guests were served. The dining room had been beautifully decorated in green and white colors. A beautiful heart shaped cake decorated in light tan and green, baked by Mrs. Gilbert Schaeper, aunt of the bride, was placed as a center-piece and attracted special attention.

Following the dinner a pleasant afternoon was spent at the home by the guests. Immediately after dinner the bridal party drove to Clear Lake to have their picture taken.

A reception was given in honor of the newly-weds in the evening at their new home east of Klemme. The usual charivari or "Katzen Music" was not missing. At a late hour the guests departed for their homes wishing the young couple many happy and prosperous years.

After the holidays Mr. and Mrs. John Albers expect to take their honeymoon trip to Sheboygan, Wis. Following their trip they will reside on the George Albers farm two mile(s east and one mile north of this city.

FARM BUREAUS PLAN FOR 1931

Interest in Soil Saving, Weed Eradication, and Home Improvement Is Increasing

Intrest among Iowa farmers in soil saving, weed eradicatiion and home ground improvement has been increasing rapidly during the past year or two, according to district agents in the Extension Service. These district agents have assisted county farm bureaus to adopt the 1931 program of work and have assisted the county agents in outlining their program of work calendars, a definite plan by which each project will be conduc'ed in 1931.

Greatly increased interest has been noted in southeastern Iowa in soil saving, including terracing, lime and legumes and other phases of soil building. A large increase in the demand for nose fly control work has been experienced, 20 or 25 counties requesting this work, which was conducted for the first time last year.

In all counties boys' and girls' club work, organizatioin, a home economics project and improved marketing have been included as major projects in the 1931 program Along with thesse are included one or two farm projects such as soil saving, swine sanitation, poultry management or dairy management, depending upon the interests of the county.

Practically all counties are includ ing some horticulture, weed eradication, corn improvement, insect control, farm building construction and other so-called minor projects.

Funeral services for the late Mr. Issac Sweigard, 82, were conducted at 2:30 o'clock this Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. Marion Sunderlin at the Methodist Church at Garner. The Masonic Lodge of Garner honored Mr. Sweigard by attneding in a body and conducting special rites.

Mr. Sweigard was born near the town of Harrisburg, Pa. At the age of 21 he went to Shannon, Ill. and a year later was united in marriage to Lucinda Layman.

In 1876 they moved to Iowa and Mr. Sweigaard conducted a lumber business at Wesley until 1885, and then came to Garner where they lived for 46 years. During this time Mr. Sweigaard served Hancock county as Clerk of Courts and also as Treasurer. He also served for a time as mayor at Garner. For several years he was in the abstract business with Mr. A. C. Ripley. Later he became cashier of the Farmers Savings Bank, and served as its president for 20 years, retiring seven years ago when Mr. Sprole took over the office. Since then he has been associated with his son, C. R. Sweigaard in the insurance business.

For many years Mr. Swedgaard had been a member of Blue Lodge A. F. & A. M., Bethel Chapter and Bethel Council, and the Odd Fellows lodge. He had held every office in each of these lodges and was the best versed Mason in Garner.

Thanksgiving evening Mr. Sweigaard was taken to the hospital at Mason City where he underwent a major operation. He was apparently getting along fine and preparations were being made to bring him home Saturday, when he suddenly passed away.

Mr. Sweigaard was well known all over this county.

TERRACES INCREASE YIELD

Is Additional Advantage to Prevention of Soil Washing

To terrace rolling or sloping farm land not only prevents the soil from washing but conserves moisture and increases crop yield, as indicated by the experience of Herluf Hansen, farmer living near Griswold.

Mr. Hansen terraced a slope of 12 to 15 per cent last year, according to V. S. Peterson, terracing specialist in the Extension Service at Iowa State College. These terraces were too steep to farm over because of the drop from the top of the terrace to the lower side of the steep slope. So Mr. Hansen farmed only between the terraces and declares that under the existing conditions he profited. The increased yield paid for the extra trouble and in addition the terraces conserved the surface soil, fertility and moisture.

The yield is a third to a half better than on the lower part of the field which was not terraced.

The corn yield on terraced land is better than on less sloping fields of higher fertility on neighboring farms.

STRANGE BIRDS SEEN IN IOWA

Seven white winged cross bills, rare northern birds, were seen this week on the Cornell college campus by Dr. Charles R. Keyes. He said the visit was the first by crosbills in twenty two years, adding that they are seldom seen this far south. At Waverly, a flock of black loons were noticed in the Cedar river recently. A few days later a large flock of ringneck snipes were sporting in the water below the dam, the first seen in many years.

HOG PROSPECTS NOT SO 'ROSY'

Cheap Feed Prices, Business Depression Now Indicate 1931 Prices Won't Soar

Last summer, when the drouth was wrecking prospects for a corn crop and fewer hogs than average were known to be on farms, it appeared that 1931 would be a great year for hog producers. It may be but the agricultural economists at Iowa State College see in the present situation less chance for the rise in prices during 1931 than was anticipated some months ago.

Two factors are at work which they believe will prevent prices from going unusually high. One is that feed supplies are not as scarce as they were expected to be a few months ago. The corn crop wasn't as small as expected and then cheap wheat "pieced out" the corn crop so that it is as if it were not below average size.

The second factor which promises to keep hog prices from going unusually high is the business depression. At first this appeared to be only a minor depression, but it has turned out to be a major depression of world wide proportions and immediate improvement is not geerally expected. Even if the bottom has been reached, recovery is likely to be slow so that its effect in increasing hog prices is not expected to be large for some time.

The way in which cheap feed prices have altered the hog outlook for 1931 is about as follows. Cheap wheat and other feed crops have made feeding ratios rather favorable so that it has become more profitable on many farms to feed the grain rather than sell it. Consequently, hog receipts have been about the same as the five year average during November and early December.

In some previous years when the corn crop was small and other feeds were not so cheap as this year, fall receipts were abnormally heavy and many unfinished, light hogs went to market. But this year—because receipts have not been large—a good many hogs are evidently still in farm feedlots. These are bound to come to market eventually and the economists recognize this as an important factor in governing future hog prices

PILES OF GOLD MISSING

Surplus piles of golden corn on the ground and in makeshift cribs, in excess of storing facilities, and bursting corn cribs do not smile at the travelers along Iowa roads this year as in former years, observes the Weather and Crop Bureau of the Iowa Department of Agriculture.

While there is enough corn to meet the needs for feed, except in limited localities, there will be much less for sale than usual outside the State, and farmers will be slow to part with their small surplus at prices to far below the cost of production as at present prevail.

It is a situation which might be touched off like dynamite. Corn prices might start up like a sky rocket most any day, when the public suddenly becomes corn hungry. The large surplus of wheat in other states is a depressing factor, but the country has become sa adjusted to eating and using corn products that there is a limit in the substitution of wheat for corn.

RATTLE SNAKES IN IOWA

If you think there are no rattle snakes in Iowa read this one from Elgin, Iowa.

The Elgin Echo reports that while out loking over his traps on the Schweitzer farm, Friday, Nov. 14, Fred Pinney ran onto a female rattlesnake with five young snakes with her each about a foot long. He succeeded in killing the mother snake and four of the young ones the fifth getting away.

It is rather unusual to find these snakes out at this time of the year as they den up for the winter quite early. But this is an unusual year, too and the warm weather no doubt drew them out of their den. Mr. Pinney received a bounty of $2.50 on the five snakes. The old snake had nine rattles and a button which would make her nearly ten years old.

TEAR GAS THWARTS ROBBERS

Iowa banks have received notice that all banks equipped with tear gas "shooters" will be given a reduction of 25 per cent in the cost of burglar insurance. The value of tear gas as a repellant for bank robbers and daylight stick-up men has been recognized ever since the end of the world war. However, until recently the gas was of huch a nature that its effect upon bank patrons who happened to be presduring a hould-up was likely to be detrimental, especially in case persons were not in robust health. Late improvements in the gas have removed the objectional features, and have made its safe use possible The plan is to locate tear gas guns in several places about the lobby where they can be discharged electrically, filling the bank with a cloud which is guaranteed to renderder the boldest bandit harmless

RENWICK: A West Bend man went fishing up at the lakes a week or so ago and forgot his bait. In turning over a log to look for bait he found a quart of "pre war" which he pocketed expecting to turn it over to officers. A little farther on he found a snake trying to swallow a frog. He took the frog away and gave the snake a drink of whiskey, then went fishing with the frog. A few moments later he felt something tap him on the shoulder, and looking around, saw the snake with another frog. He took the frog, gave the snake another drink, and it started off in search of more frogs, but went to sleep enroute.

An Oregon man is sore because somebody took twelve ov his chickens, leaving the heads. What is he kicking about? Some inconsiderate thief would have taken heads and all.

This has caused the family to break up house-keeping for the time being, and Mr. Prouty has removed his stock of goods to Garner to again join his father. Klemme friends of the Prouty family regret their leaving, and hope that Mrs. Prouty's health will return soon.

"DATA" FORMS TO BE USED BY TAX ASSESSORS

Will Secure Equality in Valuations-Filed With Auditor

When Iowa begins its annual tax assessments in January, assessors for the first time in the history of the state will be required to use data sheete, said Louis H. Cook, chairman of the state board of assessment and review in a statement issued recently.

For every piece of real estate that is assessed the assesor will be required to return a data sheet to the auditor for permanent file. These sheets are devised to completely describe the property and to indicate its actual appraisal.

According to Mr. Cook the sheet was adopted for use in an attempt to attain an equality of valuation and an equality in the divison of tax burdens. Two knds of data sheets are to be used, one for farm and rural property and the other for improved urban property.

Records show that the tax system that has been used in Iowa originated in 1853, Mr Cook points out. At that time, figures show, balues were low and so were taxes. Mr. Cook believes that the state has lagged behind the rest of the country, and that an equitable system was impossible under the old system of machinery.

"The adoption of data sheets," the state official said, "will maxe it possible to get a careful, exact, scientific appraisal of all the property in the state. The day is gone when the assesor knew all the property in his district and could appraise it with a glance.

For farms and rural property the data sheets will list a description including the following: distance to market; distance to school; value of land in the immediate vicinity; character of land; drainage; crops; fence; water supply; dwelling and recapitulation.

For urban properties the assessors will be required to get the following information: type of building; age; size; basement; improvements; roof; heat; condition; additions; porches; garage; barn and machinery.

The data sheets will also be used in case of exception to assessment.

Mrs. Harold Leitzinger and Mrs. Ralph Elder were hostesses to the Ladies Aid Society at the Methodist church parlors last Thursday. A new member was taken in at this meeting. Following the business session lunch was served.

Mr. Ted Dutheridge was brought home from the Mercy hospital Tuesday, where he had been several weeks on account of a broken leg. Mr. Dutheridge's friends are glad that his condition has so greatly improved.

Mrs. J. E. Stille entertained at a Christmas party Monday afternoon in honor of the members of the young ladies class of the Methodist Church Games were enjoyed after which ice cream and cake were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kluckhohn entertained the following to a pre-Christmas duck dinner Tuesday evening: Mr. Frank Kluckhohn and sons, Kenneth and Franklin. and daughter, Carmen; Mrs. Orr, and daughter, Julia; Mrs. George Kluckhohn; Mrs. Sadie Turgasen and son Vernon; Miss Julie Meirs of Mason City; and Miss Doris Carson.

COMMITTEE GIVES REPORT OF MEETING

TO MEMBERS OF HANCOCK COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Almost without exception, local members of the Hancock county Farm Bureau are greatly displeased with the manner in which the annual meeting, held last Monday at Britt, was conducted. The following report of a committee of the organization explains the reason for this feeling:

"At a public meeting held in the Odd Fellows' hall at Britt on December 15, 1930, pursuant to motion duly carried, Mr. Chambers, vice-president of the bureau and chairman of the meeting appoint a committee to hold a conference with the present board of directors and the directors-elect of the bureau for the purpose of discussing the vital question of location of the office of county agent. The chairman directed that that committeeproceed at once and report o he members he result of the conference. The members appointed on(such committee were: H. V. Caldwell, D. E. Keat, Chas Jensen, Elmer Engstrom and Frank W. Senneff. We beg to submit herewith such report:

I. The matters contained in this report are all statements of fac, all capable of proof. We have not attempted to impose our views or conclusions upon any other member. Each member may, from this report draw such conclusions as he or she may decide from the facts submited the committee has no desire to influence that conclusion , but a desire that the full facts be known to all, whether he or she be a resident of the east or west side of our county.

II. The by-laws provide that the regular annual meeting shall be held in December. It has been the practice to hold such meeting in October and then to hold an adjourned meeting in December for ratification of what took place at the October meeting. At the October meeting officers and directors were elected, certain other business was transacted and according to the minutes of that meeting the same was ajourned and the meeting held December 15 was a contiuation of the October meeting.

III. At the October meeting the matter of re-location of the county agent's office was not placed before the memberhisp and not voted upon.

IV. Following the October meeting the Board of Directors, recognizing that the location of the office was a controversial subject and being desirous of obtaining as full and free expression on the subject as might be obtainable, a meeting held by the directors on December 2, 1933, at which all townships except Madison were represented and at which meeeting W. L. Lawhorn, president of the organization, was present and presided, adopted a resolution to amend Article 20 of the by-laws as follows:

"These by-laws may be amended by Farm Bureau office re-located by a majority vote of members present at any regular or special meeting of the county Farm Bureau; notice of proposed amendment or re-location to be maied to all members of the association at least a week previous to such a meeting."

The resolution adopted by the board at its meeting of December2 should be held between the hours further provided that the election 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of December 15, 1930 at the Odd Fellows Hall in Britt to vote upon the above proposed amendment. The resolution of that meeting further provided for the appointment of judges of election and for printing of the ballots which judges of election were appointed by W. L. Lawhorn, president, and the ballots ordered printed by County Agent Walter Weiss V. F. C. Missal, secretary, was directed by the resolution above referred to, to mail notices to all members of the meeting and election.

VI. Evelyn Trulson, secretary of the county agent, prepared such notices pursuant to the resolution of the board of directors at their December 2 meeting. The notice as prepared by her stated that the election would be held from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. which was, in accordance with the resolution.

VII. This notice was taken by Mr. Weiss, county agent, to Garner and submitted to Mr. Lawhorn the president. Mr. Weiss subsequently returned the notice to Miss Trulson and that part of the notice prepared by her which sated that the election would be from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. was stricken and changed to read that the proposition would come on at 10 a. m., which notice was mailed to the voters on or about December 5, 1930.

VIII. We do not know who changed the wording of the notice. It was not done by Miss Trulson. Mr. Weiss has admitted to certain members of the committee that he took the notice to Mr. Lawhorn and that the change was made substantially as above set forth. He has not told your committee who made the change.

IX. After the mailing of this card Mr. Weiss, at a meeting of the Commercial club in Britt at which farmers and business men of Britt were assembled,- told these gentle men that the election would take place December 15 between the hours of 10 and 4 and by ballot.

X. When suggestion was made at the Commercial Club meeting that farmer members of the west side be urged to attend the meeting and to vote, Mr. Weiss stated that it wholly unnecessary; that the men who had been in favor of making the change had conceded that it would disrupt the organization and that, in his opinion, there would be no effort t o change the ocation and stated that W. L. Lawhorn, presiden, himself recognized that it was not for the welfare of the Bureau.

XI. Notwithstanding this, a committee of Farm Bureau members on December 11 mailed letters to their fellow members on the west side urging their attendance, and specifically setting forth in the letter that "the couny agent's office advises us that there will be printed ballots; each voter will have to register, and that a fair election will be onducted by fair judges. We do not know who the judges will bo We are advised that no members except those whose dues are paid up will be permitted to vote.'" One of the members of your present committee was a member of the committee who helped to write the letter contaming the above quotation and the nformaion herein set forth was furnished that committee by Mr. Weiss. Mr. Weiss also told the committee that the election would be by ballot and hat the voting would be between the hours of 10 and 4.

XII. This information was given by Mr. Weiss, after the notice fixing the time of the meeting at 10 a. m. had been changed by someone with the knowledge of Mr. Weiss.

XIII. Pursuant to the resolution ofthe board of directors adopted at their meeting of December 2, and between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. on the 15th day of December, 1930 there were about 350 to 400 members of the Farm Bureau who came from the west side of the county for the express purpose of casting their vote, only to find that about 50 or 75 gentlemen in the company of the president, W. L. Lawhorn, had arrived in Britt at about 10 o'clock in the morning, gone to the Odd Fellows hall where the meeting was opener by Mr. Lawhorn, and where the resolution was adopted directing the immediate change of the county agent's office from Britt to Garner.

XIV. We are unable to state whether all of those voting were members of the bureau or not. The work was hastily done; the proceedings do not state how many were present, nor whether they were requested to register nor whether they were members of the Farm Bureau. Your committee is unable to state the number present but from asking some who were present we are advised that the number of gentlemen present and participating in that brief meeting would be between 50 and 75 people or about one-twentieth of the membership, and that a considerable number of those gentlemen were business men of the town of Garner.

XV. This meeting was presided over by W. L. Lawhorn, president, who was the same person who presided over the directors' meeting of December 2, 1930 when the actions heretofore referred to for submitting the proposition to a vote of the members was taken. Mr. Weiss, the cunty agent, was present at the meeting but it appears only a short time. Your committee is unable to state whether he was present at the meeting when the resolution to change the office forhwith was acted upon.

XVI. Penn Eckels, a director, was present and raised the question of the propriety of the resolution in view of the previous action of the board at its December 2 meeting, and was ruled by the chair, Mr. Lawhorn to be out of order. The attendance by the gentlemen who adopted the foregoing resolu tio1 was undoubtdly in accordance with the notice which was mailed to the

GRANDMA BEIER WAS ONE OF THE ARLIEST SETTLERS

Aged Lady Passed Away At Home Of Daughter In Waterloo

The deatr of Grandma Beier, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Will Kulper at Waterloo, Iowa, on Christmas Day, marks the passing of another of Hancock County's earliest settlers, who blazed the trail to the middle west more than fifty years ago.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Liberty Township Methodist Church. Rev. Wessels, Grandma Beier's former pastor assisted in conducting the services.

Obituary Of Mother Beier

Louise Charlotte Fredericka Schlei was born at Barfusz Dorf Bei Gollnuf Statten, Germany, on August 14, 1842. She came to America in the year 1868 as a young woman, and settled at Colesburg, Clayton County, Iowa. During that same year she was united in marriage to Wliliam Beier of that place.

After eight years of married life the young couple came to this community to make their home, living on the same place 3½ miles west of Klemme for fifty-five years, being among the earliest settlers of this county Her husband preceded her in death, passing to the Great Beyond about nineteen years ago.

To Mr. and Mrs. Beier eight children were born of whom six are living. For the past year or more she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Will Kulper of Waterloo.

She has been in reasonably good health until very recently, when she was taken ill with the flu, from which developed other complications, which brought about the end of her earthly pilgrimage at noon on Christmas Day, December 25th, 1930.

She has long been a member of the Liberty Methodist Church and was faithful to her church in every way, attending regularly as long as her health permitted, and lived and died in the Faith.

Her age, at the time or her death, was 88 years, 4 months and 11 days. She' leaves to mourn her loss her three daughters: Mrs. A. Ridder, of Klemme; Mrs. Emma Kulper; and Miss Lydia Beier, of Waterloo. Three sons: Will Beier of Goodell; Henry Beier of Beltrami, Minn. and Emil Beier of Liberty township. Also 18 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren and a host of old friends and neighbors mourn her departure.

At the funeral services held Sunday at the Liberty township Methodist church, Rev. Wessel, a former pastor and friend for many years, preached the sermon on the Twenty-third Psalm at her request. All members of the family were present with the exception of a few grandchildren.

Darling Mother

Mother, Darling, how we'll miss thee.
How alone 'twill be without thee.
How thy chair will be so empty,
How thy presence will be missed.

Yet thy years have been long and dreary
Oft thy burdens have been heavy and long.
Now thy labor is all ended,
And thy trials have all ceased.

Gone to Jesus' Home so Golden,
There no sorrows, tears or cares,
Up there, all will be contentment
Yes, there's room for all up there.

How below, we'll sadly miss thee,
Now thy voice is hushed forever,
No more mother's advice given,
And thy hands will toil no more.

Yet, we would not call thee back now
To this earth of sin and woe.
Up there rest will be so sweetly,
For Mother deserves it so.

So we now must do without thee,
In His presence thou wilt live.
May we ne'er forget thee in Heaven Mother,
May we live to join thee in the Better Land—
Dear Mother, Good-Bye.

Card Of Thanks

The relatives would like to take this means of thanking the many friends and neighbors for their kind acts and thoughtfulness, and also for the beautiful flowers, in this time of our sorrow in the departure of our dear Mother.

Miss Lydia Beier.
Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Ridder and children.
Mr. and Mrs. Will Beier and son.
Mr. and Mrs. Will Kulper, and daughters.
Mr. Henry Beier and children,
Mr. and Mrs. Emil Beier.

MEANEST MAN IN WORLD KILLS KLEMME FARMER'S HOGS

Elmer Schlei Family At Christmas Program As Thieves Visit Farm

While Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schlei and son Dale, were attending the Christmas program in the Reformed Church Christmas Eve, the meanest man, or men, in the world took advantage of the situation to rob Mr. Schlei of some of his best hogs.

The thief, or thieves evidently knew they were safe, for they killed the hogs in the hog house and dragged the dead animals to a waiting truck, and then drove away.

Mr. Schlei discovered the work of the thieves when he went to do up his chores the next morning.

This is the second time Elmer Schlei's farm has been looted. Earlier in the summer a number of young ducks were stolen while the family was away.

The law should have no mercy on a thief who is so low as to steal and kill on Christmas Eve.

YOUNG KLEMME FOLKS TAKE MARRIAGE VOWS XMAS DAY

Tony Tebben And Doris Waddingham Married At Reformed Church

On Christmas Day at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon, Mr. Tony Tebbens and Miss Doris Waddingham were united in marriage at the Klemme Reformed Church. Mr. Ezra Tebben and Miss Belle Waddingham were witnesses of the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Calvin Grosshuesch, pastor of the Reformed Church.

The bride was attired in a dress of flat crepe of a deep orchid color and the bridesmaid wore a black crepe dress. Both the groom and the best man wore gray suits.

The wedding had been planned to be a quiet affair, but hardly had the newlyweds closed the church door, when they were showered with rice. A group of guests, celebrating at the Henry Wille home, had noticed the couple enter the church building with the minister, and at once made preparations for a reception.

On Friday evening the couple was again surprised by a large group of young people.

Both of these young people are well known in our community. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Tebbens, who reside on the Dr. Zinn farm north-east of Klemme. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Waddingham, who reside on their farm southeast of Klemme. The marriage of this young couple came as a complete surprise to their many friends.

We wish them success and hope they will decide to make their home in the neighborhood of Klemme.

FAMILY GATHERING HELD AT WILLE HOME CHRISTMAS DAY

Christmas Day was again observed as a Home Coming Day by the Henry Wille family.

Immediately after the church service the children, grand children, and great grand children, gathered at the Wille home. A duck dinner was served at noon.

In the afternoon the children sang some of their Christmas songs, and each received a gift from Mr. and Mrs. Wille. The afternoon was spent in pleasant conversation.

The following guests were present:

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schlawin; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greimann and children; Mr. and Mrs. John Bock and children; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barz and children; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wille and children; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barz and children; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wille and children; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hartbeck and children; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell and children; Mr. and Mrs. Werner Schlawin and daughter; Dr. George Zinn; Rev. and Mrs. Calvin Grosshuesch and children; and Miss Adella Kuhlman.

COMMITTEE GIVES REPORT OF MEETING

members but was not in accordance with the resolution adopted by the board o submit the same to election Your committee has made specific inquiry and is informed neither the county agent nor the president, Mr. Lawhorn explained the proceeding of the board of December 2.

XVII. At this same meeting it was suggested tha he board of direcors had no right to have changed the manner of voting and that it must be done by acclaimation. Without passing upon that question, which would be contrary to the purpose hereinbefore set forth of imposing the committee's views upon any other member, we suggest that if such was the case, what was the duty of W. L. Lawhorn who presoded at both meetings? Furthermore, we suggest in answer to ha proposition that the by-laws wested the control and management in the board of directors and the by-laws do not say that the voting shall not be by ballot.

XVIII. Following the adoption of the motions and resolutions made at about 10 a. m. December 15, the meeting was declared adjourned by the president.

XIX. Following the adjournment, a large number gathered in the Odd Fellows hall and John C. Chambers vice-president, was chosen as chairman of the meeting in the absence of Mr. Lawhorn, its president at which meeting there were present more than 200 members, and the committee making this report was appointed as above stated. After the adjournment of that meeting, your committee requesed Mr. Chambers to request of Mr. Lawhorn a conference and that he request the present directors and the directors elect to meet with this committee for he purpose of discussing he situation in an amiable way and see if some solution of the matter could not he reached which would be to the welfare of the entire bureau and of each individual member thereof. Your committee is advised by Mr. Chambers that Mr Lawhorn flatly refused to extend this courtesy and refused to meet with the committee, to call a meeting or to provide for such a meeting.

XX. Certain members of your committee and others then decided to call upon Mr. Lawhorn in person on the morning of December 16 and ask that he reconsider his refusal and grant such an interview. However, before we had the opportunity of going to see him and at about the time we were ready to start for Garner, we found a truck from Garner backed up to the Farm Bureau office busily engaged in moving the equipment out of the office to be taken to Garner and we therefore did not make the trip, which we considered under the circumstances would be fruitless.

XXI. It was the concensus of opinion by the members assembled who had made the motion by which your committee was appointed and it was the intention of the committee if permitted to meet with the directors o propose ha a referendum of all he members be had by mailing a ballot to each member together with return postage and that acommittee of members be appoined to mail out and receive such ballots and count the same and report the results to the directors with the understanding that the result should be final. It was the belief of this committe that this method would give a fair and full expression to all members of their desires and in that way a very small percentage would not decide the question. It appeared to the committee that it was more important to the welfare of the bureau and of the county that each member be given an opportunity of expressing his wish on this subject rather than to be decided by a very small minority.

Your committee has not had opportunity nor had it attempted to work out any details, but it was the desire to meet with the president and directors for the purpose of working out such details. Your committee intended to tender their time and services in the event a majority of the members should vote in favor of location at Garner to co-operating to the end tha all members on he west side be urged to renew and continue their membership, and in turn expected to ask the same co-operation from a committee to be selected by members of the east side in the event he majority should vote to continue the office at Britt. It was the thought of your committee that in doing his we could heal he breach that was caused by the minority action of December 15, and by so doing render a service to the organization. Unfortunately, our president would not agree to this conference.

We sincerly deplore wha has taken place. The matter of the location of the office passes into insignificance as compared wih a disrupting of the bureau.

The foregoing report has been undully long but your committee feels that you are entitled o a full statement of the facts. We have not willingly stated anything herein that is untrue and each of us believes the statements herein are substatially true. From these statements we leave i o each member o determine for himself or herself whether the individual members of the organization have been given the opportunity to express their desires.

Widely Used Quotations Too Frequently Garbled

Usually when we think we are quoting some thoughtful expression of the past, we are only misquoting. And the chances are we don't know whom we are misquoting!

The Golden Book Magazine supports the truth of this statement with a list of frequently misused quotations, all part of our everyday speech, some of which have been changed only by a word, but others of which have lost their original meanings entirely.

Today, for instance, we say: "All the world loves a lover." But Emerson said "All mankind loves a lover." We say: "Accidents happen in the best regulated families." What Dickens said was: "Accidents will occur in the best regulated families."

Cervantes in the Sixteenth century gave birth to the modern phrase, "Familiarity breeds contempt." But what he said was: "I find my familiarity with thee has bred contempt."

Adventurer's Heart Won by Beauty of Virginia

The swash buckling chevalier, Capt. John Smith, who landed with his three little ships, Sarah Constant, Discovery and Godspeed, on the shores of Virginia in April, 1607, had a few words of praise for the area when he reported his discovery to his king. Here is what he wrote more than 300 years ago:

"There is but one entrance to this country, and that is at the mouth of a goodly bay, the wideness whereof is near 18 or 20 miles.

"Heaven and earth never agreed better to frame a place for man's habitation. The mildness of the air, the fertility of the soil, and the situation of the rivers are so propitious to the use of man that no place is more convenient for pleasure, profit and man's sustenance under any latitude or climate.

"So then, here is a place, a nurse for soldiers, a practice for mariners, a trade for merchants, a reward for the good."

Original Speed Law?

The first speed law passed in America was drawn by the board of selectmen of Boston in 1757. The ordinance follows: "Owing to great danger arising oftentimes from coaches, sleighs, chairs and other carriages on the Lord's days, as people are going to or coming from the several churches in this town, being driven with great rapidity, and the public worship being oftentimes much disturbed by such carriages, it is therefore voted and ordered that no coach, sleigh, chair, chaise or other carriage at such times be driven at a greater rate than a foot pace, on penalty to the master of the slave or servant so driving of the sum of ten shillings."

Might Become a Habit

Billy was one of a large family, where the children were accustomed to wait on themselves. Usually he was dressed and was out of the house at an early hour. One morning he was found sitting disconsolately on the edge of his bed making no move to dress.

"Why, Billy,' said his mother, "why don't you get your clothes on? You are old enough to dress yourself now, you know."

"Yes, I can put my clothes on all right," replied Billy on the verge of tears, "but if I commence to dress myself, I'll just have to keep it up, and I ain't goin' to do it."

Salt Superstition

The story which gave rise to the belief that to spill salt is unlucky is this: For some reason salt is thought to be a mystic substance. To spill it places you in the power of evil spirits. Your good angel is posted at your right shoulder, while your bad angel holds forth on the left. When you spill the salt, if you fling a bit in the bad angel's eyes, it blinds him so that he cannot take advantage of your misadventure and saddle you with something unpleasant.

Whipping the Cat

Among the many customs which were observed until quite recent times in England, there was one particularly cruel one, that of whipping a cat to death at Shrovetide. It appears to have been popular in one Midland village especially, that of Albrighton, in Shropshire, for a former inn sign there read: "The finest pastime that is under the sun is whipping the cat at Albrighton!" This was finally taken down as late as in the Nineteenth century.

Exploring the Skies

A test rocket which Doctor Goddard shot into the air, a projectile 9 feet long and 2½ feet in diameter, sheathed in aluminum, flashed up the 60-foot shaft skyward with incredible speed. The performance convinced the scientists who witnessed it that a larger mechanism might successfully explore the unknown air regions above the earth. In this test a camera, a barometer and the mechanism came down to earth by parachute uninjured.

Importation of Slaves

After 1808 the importation of slaves into the United States was prohibited by the Constitution, but the smuggling in of Africans continued up to the time of the Civil war.

Why Mention of Thrift Grates on Auto Driver

Charlie when he had his other car developed a system that saved him a lot of pennies—perhaps as many as 100 in the months he labored with it. Charlie lives in a street off Main street, in Montello, where it is possible to coast the length of it because of the grade, and ride right into his garage. Faithfully he always turned off his ignition at the head of his street and saved gasoline the rest of the way.

Recently when fortune smiled on him, he traded for a new car. On his first trip home with it from the club at night he turned off the ignition and coasted down the hill. However, he forgot that the new motor was equipped with a gimmick which automatically locks the steering wheel when the ignition is shut off.

Just as Charlie was about to turn into his street the front wheels failed to answer his tug and he rammed a telephone pole with the right fender before he could bring the machine to a stop.

"It'll cost at least a sawbuck to straighten that out," he moaned, "and all to save a little gasoline."—Brockton Enterprise.

Significance in Name Clemens Made Immortal

Probably the best known nom de plume ever adopted by an American writer is that of Samuel Clemens, "Mark Twain." Usually it is regarded as just a proper name, chosen by the humorist from a book or some family record, as most such names are chosen. But the fact is that it wasn't a proper name at all until Clemens made it such, says the Golden Book Magazine, which tells the story:

"From the carefree days of his life on the Mississippi, Clemens passed to setting type on his brother's newspaper, to piloting a steamboat, and to wandering in the West. Shortly after, he began writing articles for a Nevada paper—clever, fun-poking skits. It was in 1863 that he first adopted the name of Mark Twain. 'I want to sign them Mark Twain,' he wrote. 'It is an old river term, a leadman's call, signifying two fathoms or 12 feet. It has a richness about it; it was always pleasant for a pilot to hear on a dark night; it meant safe water.'"

Women Geographers

The Society of Woman Geographers is a society, organized in 1925, by a group who felt that there should be some medium of contact between women distinguished in geographical work and its allied sciences—ethnology, archeology, botany, natural history, sociology, folklore, arts and crafts, etc. For active membership in this society only those women are eligible who have done distinctive work whereby they have added to the world's store of knowledge concerning the countries in which they have traveled. Corresponding members are those who fulfill the requirements for active membership, but who reside outside the United States of America and Canada. The associate membership admits widely traveled women who are interested in furthering all forms of geographical exploration and research.

Ancient Norwegian Town

Voss is situated about sixty miles from Bergen by rail and resembles very much the "Ostlandet," as the eastern part of Norway is called, being broader and having many pine woods. Voss is a very old village; how old is not quite certain. The inhabitants were christened in 1023, according to Snorre's Heimskringla, by Olav the Saint. The name occurs before that in the old sagas, and is once mentioned as a kingdom. There is a famous old stone church in the town proper and a Finne, a short distance from the railroad station, there stands the oldest wooden building in Norway, a so-called Finne-loft. The town itself is usually spoken of as Vangen, and the surrounding uplands as Voss, although the latter name is generally used for either.

Choosing His Own Name

At one time it was the custom in the Shetland islands for a man to select his own surname, and the last man to do this was Gideon Manson. The custom followed was for a son to twist his father's Christian name and make that his surname, a fact which explains why Gideon Manson's grandfather was called Magnus Robertson and his father James Manson (Magnus' son).

According to custom, Gideon should have called himself Gideon Jameson (i. e., the son of James), but he chose to be known by his father's surname. This ancient custom led to considerable confusion and was finally prohibited by parliamentary enactment.

Farthest From Land

The farthest distance a ship can sail from land is 1200 miles. This may seem strange, for the Atlantic ocean is more than 4000 miles wide, and the Pacific even wider than that. But there are islands in these oceans, and never can a ship be more than 1200 miles from some point of land. The spot of greatest distance from land, is in the Pacific ocean, half-way between New Zealand and South America.

New Orleans Conducts Business Over Coffee

Few affairs of importance have been discussed in New Orleans except over a cup of coffee, writes Ralph A. Graves in the National Geographic Magazine. Here, as in the Near East, business seems to function more easily to the accompaniment of sips of the bitter black French drip than in any other, and the most harassed executives will pause for ten minutes in mid-morning, leave their offices and go to the restaurant or the hotel for a cup of coffee—nothing more.

On the top floor of one of the most progressive banks in the state—and in countless other establishments, no doubt—there is a special kitchen and dining room to which the employees retire when the bank closes at three; after their cup of coffee they return to their desks.

In one big manufacturing plant every workman brings with him each morning a small coffee pot which he deposits under his pet steam-leaking valve, so that as the condensing hot water drips constantly, he provides himself with small quaffs of the beverage throughout the day.

Scientists Find Many Metals in Human Body

Such figurative expressions as "a heart of gold," "the iron fist," and "with leaden feet" are recalled by the recent investigation of two French chemists. Through spectroscopic examination of the ashes of human organs, says Popular Science Monthly, they found there are copper, aluminum and a little silver in the heart; copper, aluminum and traces of the rare metal, titanium, in the lungs; cobalt, nickel, lead and silver in the pancreas; copper, lead and silver in the liver; aluminum, silver and copper in the kidneys and the near-by adrenal glands, and silver, tin and copper in the spleen.

The brain appeared to be rich in tin, and this metal was also found in the thyroid gland, in the neck, which also contained silver, copper, lead and zinc.

Evil Omen of Friday

Friday the thirteenth has long been regarded as an evil omen. The idea is 2,000 years old. Jesus was crucified on Friday. At the "Last Supper" there were thirteen at the table. Therefore, Friday the thirteenth means double trouble, and probably will as long as the Christian religion endures. In connection with this, it is said to be unlucky for thirteen people to sit down to the table for dinner for one of them will die within a year and all will be unhappy. Doctor Kitchener once remarked that there was one case when it was really unlucky for thirteen people to sit down to dinner together, and that was when there was only food enough for twelve.

White Bread Wholesome

That white bread is a wholesome food is the opinion expressed by specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture and five nationally known authorities on nutritional problems. The views of this group, headed by Dr. A. F. Woods, director of scientific work of the department, are expressed in part in a statement based on the scientific facts regarding breads made of white flour and of whole wheat flour: White and whole wheat breads are both wholesome foods. They are among the most important and cheapest sources of energy and protein in the diet.

Color in the Sea

The most beautiful of tropical seafolk is the moonfish, often called the ghostfish because of its paper-thin form of a silvery color. The angelfish is as gaily colored as the rainbow with long trailing fins of contrasting tints. The squirrel fish flaunts a deep coral shade and great dark eyes. The parrot fish attracts attention as much by its gorgeous colorings of turquoise blue, plum purple, or bright green as by the peculiar bony beak.

The Philosopher

"Yes," he said, "I think the world is getting better."

"And may I ask why?" she answered.

For a moment he twisted the ring she had just handed back to him, held it in such a position as to make it flash brightly.

Then he replied:

"This is the first time I have ever had an engagement ring returned without a fight or protest."

Flowers in Japan

The arrangement of flowers is traditionally an art in Japan, and even developed into a philosophy in the Fifteenth century. The basic idea is to reproduce in the arrangement the effect of growing plants, and also to reflect the season or the occasion. Certain colors are considered especially suitable for certain occasions. An uneven number of flowers in a display is considered lucky and more true to nature than an even number.

Light Stops Trains

Demonstration of a method of halting trains by the action of a beam of light, was made with a small model recently. A small hand lamp casts a ray which strikes a light cell on the front of the engine. The cell then causes the brakes of the train to be applied through the action of relays set in operation by the effect of the light upon the cell.

Historic Old Pepys House Part of College System

Impington hall, historic home of the Pepys family, was presented to the Cambridgeshire education committee as a memorial to John Chivers, founder of the jam firm, says a London dispatch to the New York Times.

Impington hall forms the nucleus of a village college for the area of Histon and Cottenham, from which village the head of the Pepys family, Lord Cottenham, takes his title.

The house was begun about the middle of the Sixteenth century by John Pepys. It includes a central hall and gallery and is still substantially what it has been for the last 300 years, though there were additions in 1862 and 1909.

Allusions to Impington in Samuel Pepys' diary begin on July 15, 1661, with, "Rode to Impington, where I found my old uncle sitting all alone like a man out of the world."

The educational authorities have not altered the old buildings, which are in a good state of preservation and include many beautiful paneled rooms with Seventeenth century ceilings.

Famous Frenchwoman

Anne Louise Germaine Necker, Baronne de Stael-Holstein, was born at Paris, April 22, 1766. Her father was the famous financier, Necker. Her mother was Suzanne Curchod. She was a plain child, but a coquette and desirous of prominence and attention. Excessive study and intellectual excitement injured her health, which was improved by the family's removal to Coppet, her father's estate on the lake of Geneva. In 1786 Mlle. Necker published a novel, "Sophie," and in 1790, a tragedy, "Jeanne Gray." Her first marriage was to Eric Magnus, baron of Stael-Holstein, first an attache of the Swedish legation and later minister. She was twenty at the time and her husband thirty-seven.

Four Canals in Scotland

Scotland has four canals, with a combined length of about 185 miles. The Caledonian canal connects the nearby continuous line of locks in Glenmore, and is devoted principally to tourist travel. The same is true of the Crinan canal across the peninsula of Kintyre. The Forth and Clyde canal, between Bowling and Grangemouth dates from 1790. The Union canal, a branch of the Forth and Clyde extends from near Falkirk to Edinburgh.—Rocky Mountain News.

Marriage in Old Rome

There were three different modes by which marriage could be contracted among the ancient Romans. The marriages of the patricians were celebrated in the presence of ten witnesses, and with a variety of religious ceremonies peculiar to their order. The plebians married after two different forms: one was a species of sale, "emptio vendito;" and the other simply by the cohabitation of the parties for a year, which by law constituted a marriage.—Detroit News.

Bible in Hopi Language

The American Bible society recently completed the first publication of the four Gospels into the language of the Hopi Indians. For many months the proofs of the Gospels passed back and forth between the translator and the headquarters of the society in New York city in order to perfect the typesetting. The difficulty of the task may be gathered from the text of the first Beatitude, which follows: "Pas Hikwsit an ookiwyaquam hahlaypit epya, pi oveqatsit anqw monwatunatya hapi pumuy himuamniq'o."—Washington Star.

Luray Caverns

The caverns of Luray, at Luray, in the famous Shenandoah valley of Virginia, are perhaps the most wonderful in their beauty among the subterranean apartments of the world. Luray is a popular midway stopping point between North and South. The Smithsonian institution says of Luray: "Comparing this great natural curiosity with others of the same class, it is safe to say there is probably no other cave in the world completely and profusely decorated with stalactitic and stalagmitic ornamentation than that of Luray."
